Tar Heels Ready For Maryland Game

Hickey Found Two Halfbacks In Win Over South Carolina

With another fine victory under three yards in the second half, their belts and two new halfbacks firmly established. Carolina's Tar

The new halfbacks, who are sure to figure big in game plans for Maryland are Skip Clement, converted from quarterback, and Don Klochak, former fullback, both of whom were impressive in their new roles against South Carolina

Clement Scores

Clement ran three times for a 4.7 average without a loss. He caught three passes for 83 yards one of them a remarkable reception and ran for a touchdown. Klochak ran six times for a 3.3 average and showed he can play the position.

Left halfback Wade Smith, who had to sit out the South Carolina game with a rib injury, is expected to be ready to go against the Terps.

On the other hand, right halfback Gib Carson, who starred against N. C. State and was the Associated Press ACC "sophomore of the week," will be lost not only for the Maryland game but for some time to come, Gib has a broken hand, an injury sustained against the Gamecocks.
