X-Ray Technicians Receive Certificates In Radiology

Four women technicians in X-ray technology received certificates Thursday night to mark the completion of a 15-month course in radiology sponsored by North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

The four are Nancy Lanier Green, Violet Sue Stancil, Joyce Gayle Strickland, and Alice Louise Teague.

It is the 12th class to be graduated in radiology. The chief instructor is Dr. Ernest Wood, radiologist at the hospital here.

Dr. Robert R. Cadmus, director of the N. C. Memorial Hospital, was speaker at the certifying occasion. The certificates were presented by Dr. Francis Pepper, resident in radiology, and Miss Phyllis Camp, supervisor in radiology. The ceremonies were in the Gravelly auditorium.

The graduates are ready now to enter into an additional nine months of actual radiology apprenticeship under direction of a radiologist, here or elsewhere, and at the completion of the nine months or a total of two years, all will be qualified for positions as radiology technicians.

Phone Book Delivery Set

There is relief coming for all those who have been plagued by wrong numbers, busy signals, and general confusion caused by recent telephone number changes.

Due to a delay in printing the new telephone book delivery on campus will not begin until next Monday.

Approximately 2,000 numbers have been changed since the 1958 edition, 900 of these for the purpose of better distribution and service.

Exchanges for direct distance dialing is still in the planning stages but the telephone company expects to complete its co-ordination with the national system in the near future.

Locally this will involve adding exchanges to all the numbers. Further number changes will be made at this time, but these will be kept to a minimum, and those recently changed will remain the same.

The new book will remain in the same distinctive cover, but will feature a better organized classified section which will actually be printed on yellow pages. The texture of the paper will be changed to that of the standard telephone books throughout the country.

Students are urged to refer to the improved book for the solution of telephone problems.

Economists To Speak On Campus

Two leading economists from Princeton and Duke Universities will address a Woodrow Wilson Foundation study group which will meet here this weekend.

Dr. Calvin B. Hoover, professor of economics at Duke University and past president of the American Economic Assn., will speak Friday night following a dinner at the Carolina Inn.

On Saturday morning the group will hear Dr. William J. Baumol of Princeton University, author of several well-known books on economics.

Forty students and professors of economics will participate in the three-day seminar, representing 12 colleges and universities in North and South Carolina and Virginia.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation is sponsoring the program, which will be repeated in the next two (See ECONOMISTS, page 3)

Grand Jury Indicts Sally Pullen In 'Murder' Of Editor Davis Young

The Grand Jury returned an indictment, Wednesday, accusing Sally Pullen of the "murder" of Davis B. Young on Dec. 4.

The case was remanded to Superior Court of Manning County, criminal term, for trial. Being first on the docket, Clerk of Court Tom Tull stated today that the case would come before the court Friday.

MISS PULLEN Trial Set Friday . . .

Solicitor Frank McKeown praised the Grand Jury for its decision and stated, "There is no doubt in my mind that Pullen did it. This is as clear a case of cold blooded, premeditated murder as I have ever seen."

"The jury will have to return a verdict of first degree murder or else complete acquittal. I have complete confidence that the jury will reach a verdict of guilty."

Miss Pullen is accused of the shooting of Davis Young, in the Graham Memorial Main Lounge last Friday night. Young was survived by his mother and father and one brother.

When reached for a comment Dwight Cranford, who has been retained as defense attorney for Miss Pullen, said, "The state's case is built on flimsy circumstantial evidence. Miss Pullen was in the library on Friday night and couldn't have committed the murder."

The "murder" of Davis Young has been staged for the Annual Mock Trial, sponsored by the PAD legal fraternity.

The trial will be 7:30 tonight in the law school courtroom. Counsels for the prosecution are Frank McKeown, Duane Johnson, Rober Lindsey and Robert Clay. Counsels for the defense are Dwight Cranford, Jack Mraz, George Doughton and Allan Markhan.

The Honorable Malcolm Seawell, former Superior Court judge and now attorney general of North Carolina, will preside.

The public has been invited to attend.

WUNC Chooses Arnold Leder For Staffer Of Week Title

A marketing major's ability to schedule music for over 70 hours of musical programming every month gave Arnold Leder this week's WUNC "Staff member of the Week" title.

Leder, a music consultant on WUNC Radio's staff, was selected from nominations submitted by station department heads, for exhibiting above average interest and participation in station activities.

As music consultant for WUNC, Leder plans all musical presentations on two WUNC programs, "Masterwork" and "Soliloquy." Together these two programs consume over 70 continuous hours of music every month.

Leder's job is to pick selections for these programs so as to give them musical continuity while fitting these selections into the allotted time for the program.

His task is complicated by the fact that close repetition of the same selections must be avoided. Also the two programs consume two different types of music—"Masterwork" being strictly classical while "Soliloquy" uses pops and light semi-classics.

In addition Leder must take into consideration music on other WUNC programs. All music is selected from the WUNC musical library of over 1000 long-play albums.

Leder, a member of Pi Lambda Phi social fraternity, joined the music staff of WUNC right after the creation of the department last year. The senior from Goldsboro will graduate in June with a B.S. in Business Administration. He is planning a career in business merchandising.

What Is America That It Must Die?

By RICHARD BURROWS
What is America that it must die? America now knows that at some distinct time in the future it will pass into the background as did the Roman Empire.

"We should face the fact that America, as it now stands, will one day be just as dead as the Roman Empire," said Peter B. Young in an address to the Freshman Forum.

"When we dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima, we started running from reality, and we have been running ever since. Our dropping of that bomb cost us a lot. It gave the American people a terrible guilt complex that we have never gotten over," Young said.

This flight beyond reality placed America in the "Realm Beyond Strategy." "We must face facts because right here and now a lot of work is to be done," he said. The bombing was not done maliciously by us, and we should show Japan that we are truly sorry for it."

Smith Leads Senior Drive
The Campus Empty Stocking Fund is under way, sparked by Wade Smith, president of the senior class.

The campus effort coordinates with a community-wide campaign to aid the needy in a Christmas-time project.

The senior class in the University is conducting a life-saver and cookie sale on Franklin Street. Mark Wilson is chairman of that sale.

Seniors will be selling the cookies at a Franklin Street booth and packages of lifesavers in fraternity and sorority houses this afternoon.

Legislators In Hurry For Adjournment

By EDEL ODOM

A brief meeting of the Student Legislature tonight cut short action on numerous bills.

Action was taken on three bills, however. A resolution by Jim Scott (SP) to support the installation of adequate fire protection and alarm systems in all dormitories was passed unanimously.

The controversial bill to form a campus Orientation Committee, introduced by David Parker, was passed. Also a bill to appropriate $200 to the Academic Affairs Committee, introduced by Scott, was passed.

In discussion of the latter, representative Miller said that since the Academic Affairs Committee was an executive committee, it should be financed by the executive department, not by the Legislature.

The controversial bill to form a Freshman Legislature, which was introduced by Jim Crowner (SP), was tabled till the next meeting.

Several new bills were introduced to the body tonight. They were as follows: A bill introduced by Bill Norton to appropriate $1250 for the 1960 Carolina Symposium; a bill introduced for the Ways and Means Committee by Bob Nobles to set the date for a campus-wide referendum on several amendments to the constitution, dealing with the Judicial branch of Student Government.

Also introduced by Nobles (SP) were a bill to establish a commission for the codification of Student Government Statutes; a resolution that a paved sidewalk be constructed between Teague dormitory and Raleigh Road; a bill concerning traffic safety in the area around Avery, Parker and Teague dormitories; a bill to state specific areas of interest to the Campus Affairs Board; a bill to amend BR-26-18, a bill to provide for a more clear cut separation of powers in the legislative, judicial and executive branches of Student Government; and a bill to establish a committee to revise the Student Constitution of UNC.

One other bill, introduced by Jim Crowner, to amend B-27-56, a bill to submit to the electorate for ratification amendments to the constitution dealing with the judicial branch of Student Government, is scheduled for discussion at the next meeting as are all others introduced tonight.

Library Puts Jewish Books On Display

The Library, in commemoration of Jewish Book Month, Nov. 20-Dec. 20, is exhibiting two display cases of Jewish book materials of both current and historical value.

The N. C. Association of Jewish Men has taken an active part in developing the collection of Judaica and Hebraica.

Objectives of the collection are to make available to students and patrons of the library (1) works useful in acquainting a student of Judaism with its character, teachings and background, (2) the Classics of Judaism in English translation, (3) reference work of interest to scholars, rabbinic, philosophic and contemporary issues.

In the first display case is a selection of recent books on the Hebrew religion and Judaism. The North Carolina Association of Jewish Men provided the funds for making the selection available.

The historical materials in the second case are drawn from the Library's collection for the Study of The Origin and Development of the Book. Included in the collection are the Passover Haggadah designed by Arthur Szyk and printed on vellum by a London firm in 1939. Hand-sewn and hand bound in blue morocco, this volume has been described as "The most beautiful book in the world."

Also in the collection are two Hebrew incunabula, both printed in 1486 and 1487, respectively, by Joseph Ben Jacob de Gunzenhausen of Naples.

One of the three megillahs on display dates from the 15th century and is written on very brown calf skin. Another of the megillahs, written on parchment, is contained in a decorated silver tube on which hand-carved ivory and semi-precious stones have been mounted.

ANOTHER SWINGING PARTY—Tonight's Christmas decorating party and dance in Graham Memorial will be as swinging as this picture depicts. Decorating starts 7:30 p.m. and the party at 9:30 p.m.

GM Decorating Party Set Tonight

Even Ebenezer Scrooge would smile if he could participate in tonight's Christmas decorating party in the GM Main Lounge.

Sponsored by the GMAH House and Social Committee, the party will get underway at 7:30 p.m. with the trimming of the main lounge Christmas tree. Other decorating surprises are in store, also.

Later in the evening, free refreshments will be served, and there will be dancing in the Rendezvous Room, according to Hal Miller and Ann Lucas, co-chairmen of the event. Miller has said: "We are planning to make this an annual GMAH activity and hope that everyone will turn out to make tonight's party a huge success."

Members of the party committee are Butch Fowler, Bobbie Dono, Jim Hynes, Betty Sovington and Lou Johnson.
