Cuban Group Arrives For Month Stay Here

By JINNY von SCHILLING
Charlie Gray and Professor A. C. Howell, advisor to foreign students, welcomed 15 Cuban students who arrived last night at Raleigh-Durham airport for a month's stay at Carolina.

The Cubans will participate in a special sociology seminar program which will begin Feb. 8 with a lesson in English instruction by Prof. Howell. In addition they will be entertained by organizations and groups in and around Chapel Hill.

After an official welcome extended by Chancellor William B. Aycock to the 10 women and five men Friday morning Professor Federico G. Gil, in charge of the program, will orientate them in the "Carolina Way of Life." That afternoon the students will hear an address by Spanish Professor Frank Dufey entitled "High Education in the United States."

metropolitan Club, composed of students who come primarily from foreign countries, will sponsor a special program for the Cuban students.

After Howell's lecture in English instruction Monday morning, Daniel Price, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science, will speak on "Current Population Trends."

Student Government is planning various events during the month for the visitors' educational and social enjoyment.

Monday night they will be the guests of Student Government at the Last Lecture, Wednesday afternoon it will give a complete orientation to the various governmental branches and committees and the work of each. Following this there will be a discussion between Student Government leaders and the visiting students on Cuban-American relations.

A special event on their social agenda will be the Germans Dance Feb. 19 with entertainment provided by Duke Ellington.

During their stay the Cuban student will live in the Joseph Palmer Knapp building, headquarters for the Institute of Government.

10th Annual World Affairs Conference To Begin Thursday

Connecticut Congressman Chester Bowles will open the tenth annual conference on World Affairs, speaking on "The World We Have," at 10 a.m. Thursday, in Carroll Hall.

Other featured speakers are Wyoming Senator Gale W. McGee and Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen of New York City, who has been a

JIM CROWOVER
Committee Head

Crowover UNC Head For Sanford

Jim Crowover, student body presidential assistant, has been appointed to head the undergraduate campaign for gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford.

Jim Hunt, assistant state manager for Sanford, yesterday picked Crowover to head the Carolina committee that will spearhead the Sanford movement on the UNC Campus.

This committee is part of a state organization being set up in colleges over the state. Head of the state committee and state manager is Wilson Woodhouse.

Crowover has served as dorm president, dorm manager, legislator, and presidential assistant during his stay at the University.

Clean, High-Level Campaign Promised

FAYETTEVILLE — Terry Sanford formally announced his entry into the governor's race Friday at a day-long celebration which fellow residents here named "Terry Sanford Day."

TERRY SANFORD

Pledging a "clean, high-level campaign in keeping with the dignity of the state," the former state senator said, "the people deserve to know the candidates and what they stand for."

However, Sanford declined to elaborate on a detailed platform at the ceremony. He said, instead, "I promise to state clearly and in detail my position on all matters which are of concern to you and to our State as this campaign develops."

Sanford spoke to an estimated crowd of 3,000 on a platform erected in front of the old Market House. Sitting among the candidate's supporters was Mrs. W. Kerr Scott, wife of the late senator.

Sanford declared that North Carolina represents a "New Day," because "we are in the midst of a mid-century industrial revolution; the old order of agriculture no longer holds."

The people have made education the dominant issue of the day, Sanford continued. "There is a quickening of interest in public schools, with parents and other citizens not content with mediocrity, and determined at last that North Carolina must offer educational opportunities second to none."

Sanford returned to the town which houses his law offices after completing a tour of the state. About a dozen speakers preceded the candidate, representing city and county organizations.

A 30-50 car motorcade from Mecklenburg County was on hand to greet Sanford. The Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, second oldest military unit in the country, acted as the candidate's honor guard.

He concluded his address by naming North Carolina as "the state where the weak grow strong and the strong grow great."

Equal Privileges Resolution Passed; Gray's Veto Upheld

By EDESEL ODOM
The majority of attention at last night's meeting of the legislature centered around the controversial resolution to obtain equal privileges in the Chapel Hill theaters and restaurants for all students at UNC.

Leading opposition to the resolution was Bill Miller, SP. He said that he did not think it fair for the legislature to concern itself, because the measure would place the legislature in the position of scapegoat for merchants. "The problem is one which the merchants will have to decide for themselves," Supporters of the bill asserted that the bill was for all students, not just for the nine Negro students at the university.

The measure, which was introduced by Jim Crowover, was passed by a vote of 23-10.

Whether or not to override Student Body President Charlie Gray's veto of the bill which would establish a legislative committee for the revision of the student constitution was also discussed.

Gary Greer, SP, stated that the legislature had voiced its opinion that such a committee should be legislative rather than executive, as there is already an executive committee on the subject.

He stressed that students must not misinterpret Gray's veto as a reprimand for the legislature, as could easily be done.

Representative Overstreet, UP, said that he interpreted Gray's feelings that the legislature had passed a bill for which previous provision had been made and that it was an unnecessary piece of legislation.

The assembly voted 21-14 to let Gray's veto stand.

A bill to appropriate $200 to the Foreign Student's Relations Board was sent back to committee as was a bill to appropriate $350 to the UN model assembly.

Jim Crowover introduced a bill to set the date for spring elections on March 22. Special privileges were also requested, but denied.

Dr. Shepard Jones To Speak Monday On Foreign Affairs

Dr. Shepard Jones, acting chairman of the Department of Political Science, will speak on Foreign Affairs Monday night at 8:15 in Gerrard Hall.

This will be one of the pre-UNC Mock Democratic Convention speeches that will be held between now and Spring Vacation, according to Margaret Oast, co-chairman of the Convention's "National" Committee. The Convention will be April 29-30.

The public is invited to the lecture. State delegation chairmen have been requested to attend an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall before Dr. Jones' speech.

Clary, Fiscal and Monetary Policy, Business and Commerce, Public Works and National Domain.

Miss Oast said that the "most outstanding speakers available" would be brought to UNC to speak to anyone interested in the Mock Democratic Convention.

Educators To Gather Wednesday For Parley

The annual conference to the N. C. Adult Education Association will feature panel discussions by prominent educators and laymen in Chapel Hill at the one-day meeting, Wednesday.

Dr. Gordon Blackwell of Greensboro, Chancellor of Woman's College of UNC and president of the association, will open the meeting at 10 a.m. in Carroll Hall.

The theme of the conference is "Community Adult Education" and the morning panel will emphasize "Adult Education in Our World Community." Chancellor William B. Aycock will welcome the group to the University.

Introducing the theme, "Adult Education in Our World Community," Dr. Rupert Vance of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology here will give an analysis of some of the basic sociological factors involved in underdeveloped countries. He will also discuss population problems and matters relating to social stratification and merging democratic concepts in the underdeveloped areas of the world.

Dr. S. Shepard Jones of the Department of Political Science will discuss the rising tide of nationalism and the attendant political problems. Dr. E. G. McGavran, dean of the School of Public Health, will discuss health problems and the approach of health education in the broadest sense.

Dr. John Caldwell, Chancellor of N. C. State College, will focus his discussion on the educational problems in the underdeveloped areas of the world, giving attention to all levels of education. Dr.

Caldwell will indicate the primary role which education must play in these underdeveloped areas.

The afternoon programs beginning at 2 p.m. will present the theme, "Adult Education in Our Local Communities."

Kenneth McIntyre, director of the Bureau of Audio-Visual Education and president-elect of the N. C. Adult Education Assn., will preside at the session. Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism will moderate the panel.

WUNC To Air Radio Moscow Series Soon

Radio Moscow will soon come to the UNC student through the courtesy of WUNC, the campus-operated broadcasting station and WBT of Charlotte, who will supply the taped recordings to the college station.

The Radio Moscow series, a regular feature of WBT for the past year, is expected to appear on the WUNC-FM schedule approximately two weeks from now, as soon as the negotiations with WBT have been completed.

The series will consist of 15 minute programs, which should be on the air twice a week. The programs are taped excerpts taken from Radio Moscow's English language broadcasts and will have the additional feature of critical analysis by WBT announcer Alan Newcomb and foreign affairs editor Rupert Gillett.

UNC Students In Spain For Semester's Study

Two UNC students are studying in Spain this semester.

They are grad student Mike Pinchus and William Woodhouse, a junior Spanish major.

Pinchus received a Spanish government scholarship, and he will return to Chapel Hill next fall.

Woodhouse is one of 64 American students now studying at the University of Madrid in connection with New York University's second "Junior Year in Spain" program.

Woodhouse will study Spanish language, literature, history and civilization, fine arts and music, and geography.

"NYU is now accepting applications for 1960-61 program which will begin in September. Requests for information and application forms should be directed to Dr. J. Richard Toven, "Junior Year in Spain," 15 Washington Mews, New York University, New York, 3, N. Y."

1st Research Seminar Slated Here Saturday

The first of the weekly research seminars for the spring semester will be held at the School of Public Health at 10 a.m. Saturday.

These seminars are sponsored by the Department of Sanitary Engineering of the School of Public Health.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Dayton E. Carritt of the Chesapeake Bay Institute of Johns Hopkins University. His subject will be "Disposal of Low-Level Radioactive Waste."

Dr. Carritt served as chairman of a committee which prepared the National Academy of Science-National Research Council report on "Radioactive Waste Disposal into Atlantic and Gulf Coastal Waters."

This committee considered, from the standpoint of safety, the feasibility of disposing of low-level radioactive waste closer to shore than is now the practice.

Feb. 16 Last Day To Submit Application For Scholarship

Feb. 16 is the deadline for submitting applications for the exchange scholarship to the University of Goettingen, Germany. The scholarship includes tuition, room, board, transportation and pocket money for a year's study at the German institution.

Any student who will return to Chapel Hill for a year of active participation in student life is eligible to apply. Application blanks may be obtained at the Y or at the student government office. Additional information may be obtained from Frances Reynolds at 2-2361.

Announcement of the two fellowship recipients will be made in March. This exchange fellowship, which is in its sixth year, is sponsored by student government and is the only overseas study program which is restricted to UNC students only.

Professional Fraternities Slate Formal Rush Next Week

Professional fraternities will hold formal rush next week, Professional Interfraternity Chairman Erwin Fuller, announced yesterday.

Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi, professional BA fraternities, will rush Monday through Wednesday night. On Monday and Tuesday, rush will be from 7:30 to 9:30.

Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Chi, professional pharmaceutical fraternities, will conduct their first active freshman rushing from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Membership in the two pharmaceutical fraternities is open to students enrolled in the Pharmacy School. Freshmen are required to have completed ten hours as a prerequisite for pledging.

Either regular enrollment in the BA School or at least sophomore standing in pre-business administration programs is necessary for initiation into business fraternities.

All four groups require a C average for formal initiation, but pledging requirements vary with the individual fraternities.

"Rush chairmen at all the fraternities have emphasized that although rush invitations will be delivered to some persons, bids are most definitely not necessary in order to visit a house during the rush period," Fuller said. "The pharmacy groups will issue invitations to freshmen only, but upperclassmen are definitely eligible and welcome."

It is not necessary for a student to visit all professional houses from which he receives an invitation. Holders of university self-help scholarships may also pledge.
