Your Symposium

Oppenheimer Assists Symposium Chairman

Recent addition to the Symposium hierarchy is Joe Oppenheimer-general overseer and cracker of the whip over committee work. Joe, appointed before Christmas by Ed Levy, chairman, has assumed some of the responsibilities to which Levy felt he was unable to give proper attention.

For the sake of convenience alone, Oppenheimer stated, he has been given the title of "vice-chairman of the Carolina Symposium."

His task, that of lightening Levy's burden, has so far been directed toward tying up loose ends in the committee work.

"Many of the committees," he said, "have down on paper what they have yet to accomplish. I guess I give the push toward activity wherever it is needed." A general "check-up," Oppenheimer does most of his work by phone, but occasionally slips in on a committee meeting to see the manner in which duties are being handled. He knows then, pretty well what is going on behind the scenes in Symposium (and also what should be going on.)

In the past Oppenheimer has been a member of the Student Legislature and the University Dance Committee. He is now a member of the Graham Memorial Activities Board and Zeta Beta Tau social fraternity. He works with the U.N. constitution revision committee, the U. N. Mock Assembly and the Orientation Council.

A sophomore, Oppenheimer is majoring in mathematics and is from Birmingham, Ala.

Air Force Honorary Inducts 13

Fifteen Air Force ROTC cadets were initiated into the local squadron of Arnold Air Society, Monday evening.

The ceremonies inducting the 15 select cadets were under the direction of the squadron commander, AAS Major Lewis D. Sanders.

Col. Gordon Kage, professor of Air Science, spoke briefly to the initiates. "I am glad that you all are now part of the elite organization," spoke he said. "You have been selected for your outstanding characteristics—characteristics of which you may justly be proud."

Initiation was for Phillip D. Yoder, Howard A. Vann, John H. Summey, Robert R. Scott, Edwin G. Sapp, Rudolph O. Oates, Donald McPadden, Ronald D. Harmon, W. Mason Hollifield, Arthur L. Dozier, III, Jerry D. Cawley, James C. Burrus, Gordon L. Busnight, Joseph E. Davies and Robert K. Phillips.

Early Election Proves Administrative Worry

By HENRY MAYER

"In selecting March 22 as the date for spring elections, the Student Legislature has placed an extremely heavy burden upon the Elections Board," co-chairman Don Black said Tuesday.

Black explained that he and Ben Lenhardt, co-chairman, have requested President Charlie Gray to appoint seven additional members to the elections board to aid in preparation. However, these new members have not been appointed yet.

The Elections Board had originally selected April 5 as the date for the election because, as Black pointed out, it provided the board the maximum amount of time before spring holidays. (The elections law requires the spring election be held not earlier than the last Tuesday in March and not later than the last Tuesday in April.)

Student Government officials voiced objections to the April 5 date

because it did not give the outgoing officers enough time to orientate the new officials.

As President Gray pointed out: "One of the trouble spots in Student Government is inadequate orientation of the new officers, committee heads and especially summer school leaders."

After considering the objections which had been raised, the board then decided to change the date to March 29. However, this date also proved to be unacceptable because it came in the middle of Carolina Symposium Week.

Since the Elections Board was not empowered to set another date, the matter was referred to the Student Legislature, which passed a bill by Rep. Jim Crowner (SP) to hold spring elections March 22.

Crowner also pointed out that the principal reason for holding the election early was to allow the incoming officers the maximum amount of time for orientation.

Student Body Secretary Sue Wood also expressed her satisfaction with the new date. "Since I will be leaving on April 1 to practice teach, the change in dates will provide 10 days for me to train my successor. This training period is definitely necessary."

Black and Lenhardt pointed out that with the elections scheduled for March 22, it is impossible to reappoint the legislative districts and report the results to the legislature before the required 40-day deadline. (Article 11, section four of the Election Law states that the board shall report the results of the reappointment to the Legislature "at least 40 days prior to the election.")

UNC Professor Edits Handbook

Dr. William A. Terrill, professor of accounting in the School of Business, is one of the contributing editors for the second edition of the Accountants' Cost Handbook, just published by the Ronald Press Company.

This handbook is a single, compact volume providing authoritative guidance across the whole complex field of providing appropriate cost information for management. Terrill's writing was done in the section on "Cost Control, Budgets and Reports."

Di-Phi Passes Sitdown Strike Resolution

A resolution commending the efforts of Negroes in North Carolina to obtain indiscriminate service at lunch counters was passed by the Di-Phi Society Tuesday evening after a long and controversial debate.

Rep. David Price, in introducing the resolution, noted the public service nature of lunch counters, which indicates that they should serve impartially all those persons who conduct themselves in an orderly manner.

However, he did recognize the legal right of the owners to refuse service to anyone they wished. He called for an implementation of words about equality with actions.

Rep. Robert Sherer pointed out the apparent duplicity that has characterized the entire "sit-down strike" campaign in North Carolina. Although the strike participants have claimed that their movement is spontaneous and unorganized, it is remarkable that everyone should suddenly appear at a certain store at a particular time to picket it without organization.

It is more remarkable still, he stated, that they should relieve each other in shifts at numerous stores. Courts throughout the land have upheld time and again the right of private establishments to refuse service on any grounds.

Rep. Gary Greer praised the N. C. Negroes who have taken the initiative in the lunch counter controversy. He did not, however, consider lunch counters to be "public services" in the usual sense of the term. The resolution should be made more all-encompassing and should advocate an end to discrimination in all institutions that benefit from public patronage.

Grail-Mural Jamboree Set For March Date

The third annual Grail-Mural Sports Jamboree, announced Wednesday by the Jamboree committee, is slated for a two-night stand in Woolen Gym March 16-17 and is expected to attract upwards of 500 participants.

Chairman Wade Smith stated that the purpose of the event is "to bring about a closer and more productive relationship between the dormitory and fraternity organizations."

The gala affair will include seven sports tournaments and numerous relays. Entries are due not later than March 4. Teams will be entered from the dormitories and fraternities, then paired in a drawing.

All the sports tournaments will be on a doubles basis with a dormitory and fraternity man playing together. A team is composed of a minimum of nine men, which makes for a total team of 18 men. Organizations may enter as many teams as they wish.

The program of events is the same as last year. There are two sections: relays and sports tournaments. The only major change in the schedule is that this year the relays will be on the first night. Preliminaries of the sports tournaments will be held the first night with the semifinals and finals on the last night.

The sports tournaments for this year are table-tennis, badminton, handball, half-court basketball, swimming, archery and free-throw shooting. The first night the teams will be divided into leagues of four which will play a round-robin. Winners of the round-robin advance to the semifinals which will be single elimination. The relays will be run with three preliminary relays and three teams advancing to the finals from each section.

Individual trophies will be presented to sports tournament winners and members of the winning relay team. A large team trophy will go to the overall winners. Last year SAE and Avery copped the big tournament.

Cording Addresses YDC Tonite

Melvin G. Cording, mayor of Wallace and a prominent eastern North Carolina political figure, will address the UNC Young Democratic Club tonight at 7 in the law school court room.

Bob Futrelle, president of the UNC YDC, stated that all students and other interested persons are cordially invited to hear Mayor Cording speak.

Mayor Cording was born in Nebraska and received his education at the University of Nebraska. He came to North Carolina in 1930. Cording is well known in farm circles. He has been an officer of the N. C. Jersey Cattle Breeder's Association for several years. He is equally familiar among city folks. For he has also served as an officer of the N. C. League of Municipalities.

Mayor Cording formally entered the race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator on January 20th. He announced early that he would oppose the present incumbent, B. Everett Jordan, who was appointed by Governor Luther Hodges.

Morehead Scholars To Be Selected Soon

Nominees for Morehead Scholarships from 38 North Carolina high schools, 14 preparatory schools and eight North Carolina junior colleges have been announced by Morehead Foundation executive secretary Roy Armstrong.

Fifteen junior college students will come to Chapel Hill on Saturday, Feb. 20, to be interviewed by the Morehead Scholarship Central Committee.

The Central Committee will interview the 42 high school finalists and the 27 prep school nominees on Feb. 26, 27 and 29.

Final selection of Morehead Scholars will be made by the trustees of the Morehead Foundation on March 1 and they will be announced on a statewide television hook-up at 5:30 p.m. that day. Recipients will enter the University in September 1960.

John Motley Morehead, philanthropist and retired industrialist of Rye, N. Y., will award the scholarships which he has made possible by establishment of the Morehead Foundation.

Last year Morehead awarded a record number of 47 scholarships: 24 to graduating seniors of N. C. public high schools, 20 to preparatory school seniors, and three to graduating students of junior colleges in the state.

Each scholarship provides $1,250 yearly, to cover all expenses of four years' study at UNC. Non-residents of North Carolina also receive a differential to cover extra tuition charged them.

The junior college nominees, chosen by their respective schools, are Richard M. Blankenship of Charlotte and Harlee Alston Russ Jr. of Baltimore, Md., Presbyterian Junior College; Yates Walter Campbell of Knightdale and Floyd Ray Suttles of Old Fort, Gardner-Webb; Archie Harold Edwards Jr. and Edward Joseph Silber, both of Charlotte.

Presbyterians Will Discuss Delinquency

Neal Forney, assistant director of the Institute of Government, will lead a discussion on juvenile delinquency tonight in the Presbyterian Student Center.

The discussion will follow a showing of the film "Knock on Any Door," starring Humphrey Bogart, beginning 7:30 p.m.

Forney has worked with juvenile courts in Charlotte and has done extensive research in this field. He worked with William Motley in compiling research for the best-selling novel "Knock On Any Door" on which this film is based.

The new Republic said of the motion picture: "It comes near to being one of the most intelligent films that has so far tackled this much publicized but as yet inadequately understood theme."

This is the first in a series of film forums to be sponsored this semester by Westminster Fellowship and Wesley Foundation. Future presentations will include: "Crime and Punishment," "Order" and "Lust for Life."

JOHN MOTLEY MOREHEAD

lote and Charlotte College; Joseph Spurgeon Harris of Asheville and Wesley Max Walser of Lexington, Brevard College.

Thomas Jeffery Koontz of Lexington and Donald Cleveland Perry of Wingate, Wingate Junior College; Howard Monroe Lee Jr. of Dunn and Roland Cleveland Norris of Whiteville, Campbell College; Otto Schwartz of Castle Hayne, Wilmington College; John Nelson Tunstall of Raleigh and Cheung Cheun Wong of Hong Kong, Mars Hill College.

The 14 prep schools sending nominees include Christ School at Arden and the Asheville Schools for Boys, the McCallie School and Baylor School in Chattanooga, Tenn., and the Westminster Schools in Atlanta, Ga. Others are St. Albans School in Washington, D. C. and three Virginia schools: Virginia Episcopal, Woodberry Forest and Episcopal High School.

Choate School at Wallingford, Conn. is a new addition to the preparatory list this year. It joins four other New England schools participating in the Morehead program: Deerfield Academy, Phillips Exeter Academy, Phillips Academy and Groton School.

North Carolina prep nominees are William Hackett Blanton of Lincolnton and John Lauchlin Currie of Carthage, Christ School; James Eugene Guder of Asheville and Robert Bruyere Haserot of Shaker Heights, Ohio, Asheville School; Russell Hardin Jr., Monroe, Baylor School; and Charles Milton Shaffer Jr. of Chapel Hill, Woodberry Forest, Gray Temple Jr. of Columbia, S. C. is Groton School's nominee.

Selection of N. C. high school nominees was made during the past month by district committees, which interviewed 185 students chosen by county committees. More than 700 boys were originally nominated by their high schools to participate in county selections.

GMAB Offers Varel And Bailly In Concert Of French Songs Tonight In Memorial Hall

By HENRY MAYER

VAREL AND BAILEY

"Chantez-vous en Français?" Varel and Bailly do—and will do so tonight at 8 in Memorial Hall with the assistance of Les Chanteurs de Paris, a male vocal group known for its easy-going and highly imaginative style.

Students will be admitted free to the performance tonight, which is being sponsored by the Graham Memorial Concert Series. Student spouses will be admitted for 50 cents and townspeople for $1.

FAMED FOR DELIVERY

Now on their fourth North American tour with Les Chanteurs, the six-man chorus, Varel, Bailly have become famous for their inimitable Gallic delivery, complete with hat, gloves, and a colorful handkerchief which give each song a particular surprise. Critics and audiences alike have praised their boundless enthusiasm, which quickly envelops the audience in the performance.

Andre Varel and Charly Bailly began their partnership by literally singing for their lives. Both were stationed in Algiers during the Second World War and began setting words by Varel to music by Bailly, while taking refuge in underground shelters.

Both men were anxious to let their families in Paris know that they were safe in Algiers, and repented themselves as a singing duo so that they could broadcast over Radio France.

DECEPTION WORKS

The deception worked and the duo sang "Si Tu Vas A Paris," which had been a mutually agreed upon signal for their parents. Much to their surprise, requests poured into Radio France for more Varel and Bailly programs. The pair began a weekly feature program and later entertained soldiers in the field.

After the liberation, the two men went their separate ways: Varel returned to his dental practice and Bailly to his career as a pianist. However, public demand reunited them, and a parade of song hits and highly acclaimed performances followed.

Dance Committee

Three appointments have been made to fill vacancies on the University Dance Committee. The new members are Ron Milligan, Imman Allen and Frank McSwain.

The committee has supervision at all dances at the University, and it will be present at the Germans dance and concert.

Harry Finally Will Make His Awaited Move

"I was cramped for space. Needed more elbow room. I got tired of being asked, 'Harry, when are you going to move?'"

Harry Macklin, the short, balding, grinning proprietor of Harry's, explained the reason for his change of location. Feb. 24 will be the grand opening of Harry's Grill at 175 E. Franklin St., the site of the old Chuck Wagon.

Harry vowed that the move would not bring any change in his restaurant, other than a 1 a.m. closing hour instead of 12 p.m.

"The same modern paintings, the same menu with the addition of light dinners. Harry's will not be a pizza palace," Harry said. "I've got enough to worry about now."

Harry, who has been in business in Chapel Hill off and on since 1934 and in his present location on Franklin Street for a little over five years, likes people. He chose this as his reason for his career in restaurant work.

"Parents come in here sometimes when their boys are in school or sometimes when they graduated some time before. They thank me for taking care of their boys. Boy, that's more than just a business."

Two couples with only one bid for Germans fighting about which couple would go to the dance and which to the concert.

'Dr. Frank' Is Featured Speaker For U.N. Assembly

By KAY SLAUGHTER

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles pertaining to the background of Dr. Frank Porter Graham who will deliver the opening address of the United Nations Model Assembly. His topic will be "The United Nations in the Atomic Age."

Dr. Frank P. Graham, the principal speaker at the United Nations Model Assembly is indeed a man familiar with his subject, the United Nations, and his audience, the citizens of North Carolina and the students at UNC.

A native North Carolinian, Dr. Graham was born in Fayetteville in 1896. He received his B. A. degree from UNC in 1919. Later, he matriculated at such North Carolina schools as Catawba College, Davidson and Duke University.

A Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Graham also attended Columbia University, Harvard University, Temple University, Princeton University, Birmingham Southern College, the University of Chicago, Brookings Institution and the University of London. From his intense education Dr. Graham has received the Doctor of Literature, the Doctor of Laws and the Doctor of Canon Law degrees.

DR. FRANK GRAHAM

He was an instructor of English in Raleigh High School for several years, and served the University from 1915 to 1949 as a professor of history and as president of the Consolidated University from 1930 to 1949.

In 1949, upon the death of Senator J. M. Broughton, Dr. Graham was appointed as a U. S. Senator from North Carolina. He served in this capacity through 1950 and bowed out of the senatorial race when he was defeated in the 1950 primary.

Among his federal government positions, Dr. Graham has served on the Public Hearings Committee of the Presidential Labor Management Conference and the National Emergency Council, has acted as chairman of the National Advisory Council on Social Security, and as vice chairman of the National Consumers Advisory Board.

In the realm of education, aside from his service to UNC, he has served on the Presidential Committee on Education, the U. S. commission to study Puerto Rico as a possible Inter-American University, and was the founder of the Citizen Library Movement.

In the U. N., Dr. Graham has served as the U. S. representative on the Good Offices Committee on Indonesia for the Security Council, a U. N. mediator for Pakistan and India over the possession of Kashmir. From 1947 to 1948 he was a special adviser to the U. S. Secretary of State on Indonesian Affairs.

In the area of atomic energy, Dr. Graham has made another contribution. He was the organizer and the first president of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.
