Riner Lists Ideas To Make DTH Better

In a prepared statement released Tuesday, Daily Tar Heel editorship candidate Ed Riner listed several specific ideas for making the DTH a "first-rate campus newspaper."

In addition to stressing campus news, Riner is in favor of a great deal of emphasis upon informative news features and human interest articles.

"The sidelight articles about the many facets of campus life are what gives life and readability to the newspaper," Riner pointed out.

In addition to these human interest articles, a weekly feature, replacing the Tar Heel Beauty, will be used to spotlight newsworthy and interesting campus personalities.

Riner also said that more series-type articles would also be used to explain pertinent issues and events. "These two and three part installment stories are extremely valuable because they provide thorough coverage of important

Training School Set Today

The annual YWCA Leadership Training School will be today at 4:30 p.m. in the Library assembly room, according to Sophie Martin, YWCA president.

The first meeting was Monday. This school is designed particularly for girls who would like to work with the YWCA next year and will enable them to have a period of education dealing with the responsibilities of each particular position. It is not necessary for a girl to have worked with the Y this past year to apply for a cabinet position.

The school in addition to showing girls the responsibilities of each position, also will help them determine in which area they would like to work.

Harriette Dwell, program co-ordinator for the school, said that all of the present YWCA executive and cabinet members will be present at the meeting to answer questions concerning their particular areas.

Areas included in the Y program are community work, Y-nite, finance drive, human relations, public affairs, vespers and worship, publicity, international relations, U.N. education and foreign student work.

Poets Get Opportunity

UNC students interested in having their poems published now have such an opportunity.

The third anthology of college poetry is being compiled by the American College Poetry Society.

Material submitted to the society may deal with any subject, must not exceed 48 lines, nor may any student submit more than five poems.

There will be no compensation for poetry published but the students will retain literary rights. Contributions are to be submitted to the society, with the entrant's name, address and school on each page.

The address is Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, Calif. All entries must not be postmarked later than midnight, March 30, 1960. Entries not accepted for publication will be returned to the entrant if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Crimean Summer School Set

The Student Council of the USSR and the Sputnik Bureau on International Youth Travel are arranging an International Summer School in the Crimea, on the Black Sea, in July.

"Students, International Cooperation and world Culture" will be the subject of the school, which will be organized at the International Youth and Student Camp at Gurguz. Meetings will be translated into Russian, English, French and Spanish.

The Crimea program begins July 1 and ends July 12. The scene then shifts to Moscow for a continuation of the program from July 14 to 17. Students will stay a total of 20 days in the Soviet Union.

The cost of the 20 days' stay, including the train journey from Moscow to the Crimea and the return to Moscow, will amount to $100. This does not include meals and the fare from the border to Moscow and back, which each participant will pay for additionally.

Any interested students should contact Charlie Gray at the Student Government office for further information.

Campus Chest Gets Underway; Auction Brings In Initial Dollars

Funds Go To Three Projects

Today the cry goes out across the campus: "Support the Campus Chest Drive"

During the next week students will be met with the query "Will you contribute to the Campus Chest and help us meet or pass our goal of $3,000?"

Last night at the auction held in Gerrard Hall the initial dollars fell into the chest which it is hoped will be overflowing by the end of the week's campaign. This new feature of this annual drive not only supplied a part of the necessary funds but also an evening of gay entertainment as food, girls and many unusual items were auctioned off to the highest bidders.

Sponsored by Student Government and the YM-YWCA, the Campus Chest gives the campus an opportunity to unite in one common effort in the interest of charity.

This year, three projects have been chosen by the Campus Chest Board to benefit from the funds collected in the drive, according to Nancy Abney and Jim Crawford, co-chairmen of the Board.

The total amount of contributions will be given according to percentages. Half of the funds will aid the Korean refugee students through the World University Service.

The Carolina student selected to spend a year at Goettingen University in Germany under the student exchange program will receive 30 per cent.

The final 20 percent will be given for the "adoption" of four European orphans by the student body through the national Foster Parent Plan.

These particular projects have been selected in accordance with the Board's plan to concentrate on international assistance to the needy during the World Refugee Year of 1960.

President Friday, in his support of the Campus Chest Drive, stated "This is our united effort for worthy causes and I should like to urge everyone to participate in the 1960 campaign."

Charlie Gray has named it the "worthiest project" of the YM-YWCA's year's work.

"Your drive, your goal, your responsibility" is the slogan for the drive this year.

Campus Chest Auction Nets $724 From Spending Display

By SUSAN LEWIS

Money, money, money.

And all for the Campus Chest.

It happened at the Campus Chest auction last night, with an overflow Gerrard Hall crowd bidding on bargains and steals.

Two goats, billed as the KD Surprise, tricked one guy out of $9.

Bob Gibson bought Frank Crowther (personally recommended by Davis Young) for a cere $4. Guess antiques have depreciated in value.

Dixie Classics Queen Susan Woodall went to John Pettibone for $10. And he still has to pay for the date.

One Delta Sig, determined not to miss the next Germans, spent $27 for two bids given by the Kappa Sigs.

Friends (or fiends) of Davis Young's bought two of his editor-

Yardley Plugs Changes For Sports Coverage

Jonathan Yardley, candidate for editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Tuesday enlarged upon his plans for changing the sports page.

"The sports page may well be the most widely read section of the paper," the candidate said, "and as such it should maintain the quality and interest of the rest of the paper."

Yardley said that occasionally advertising forces a smaller sports page than is desirable, but that generally the page has the potential to be a complete and comprehensive review of the U.N.C. sports scene.

"There are two major obligations which the sports page must fulfill," he stated. "One of these is to bring the student closer to the sports program here through interesting, personal features, and the other is to keep the student informed about sports progress on the campus, in the state, and in the nation."

Yardley cited the intramural program as being the area of UNC athletics most needing further attention. He intends to cover all major games with both a reporter and a photographer, to print regularly intramural standings, and to run features on leading intramural teams and events.

The rising senior from Chatham, Virginia, said that he feels the present coverage of major sports is "quite good but lacking in sufficient feature articles on individual players."

He stressed his desire to increase Daily Tar Heel attention to minor sports such as wrestling, soccer, lacrosse and track. This would be done through articles explaining the basic principles of the sports and through more detailed coverage of outside meets as well as features.

Yardley said that national sports happenings of interest to students would appear in capsule form "almost daily." These include major league standings, weekly listings of the top 10 hitters, wire service lists of major college football and basketball scores, coaches' and writers' weekly top 20 rankings and listings of leading scorers throughout the nation. In the football season leading scores would be run in a box headline across the sports page in the manner employed by the Char-

IFC Elects Officers, Votes Money To Drive

Pete Austin of Phi Delta Theta was elected Inter-Fraternity Council president at the meeting Monday night.

George Campbell of DKE won the vice-presidency, Jim Noyes of Sig Ep was elected secretary, and Jim Galloway of SAE will be the new treasurer.

Newly-elected members of the IFC Court include: Bill Lancaster, Bill Ferrell, Robin Fawcett, Kent Walker and Jim Rouse.

Three hundred dollars of IFC money will be given to the Campus Chest, this sum represents ten per cent of Chest's goal. The action came after a plea from NaNcy Abney, co-chairman of the Campus Chest Drive.

Due to conflicts with other events, the IFC will not present a concert this spring.

At Steak Banquet

Chancellor To Speak, Give Jamboree Awards

Chancellor William B. Aycock will be featured speaker and will present awards at a steak banquet for winners of the Grail Jamboree at the American Legion Hut March 28.

Wade Smith, chairman of the Jamboree committee, said the banquet will be for all individual winners, relay team winners and the captains of the overall winners.

Entries for the Jamboree, to be held March 16 and 17 in Woollen Gym, are due no later than Friday. The intramurals department is expecting nearly 50 teams for the third annual Jamboree.

Both nights of the Jamboree, action will be between 7 and 9 p.m. The relays are first on the schedule with competition in the four active relays beginning at 7 o'clock the first night. Teams should assemble under the sign bearing their name and be ready to begin at 7:10 p.m. Beginning at 8 p.m. a four team round robin doubles tournament will be conducted in handball, table tennis, badminton and half-court basketball. In addition, one half the archery and foul shooting teams will complete the competition. Swimming preliminaries will be held in the 200-free style and the 150-medy relay.

During the second night of the Jamboree, winners of the round robin tournaments will play single elimination tournaments to determine a champion in each event. At the same time the remaining archery and foul shooting teams will compete and the finals will be held in swimming.
