

Today Last Day To Give $$$ To Campus Chest

Why I'll Vote For Sanford

Jim Crowover.

TERRY SANFORD
... UMC graduate

JIM CROWOVER
... Supports Sanford

I will vote for Terry Sanford for Governor in the Democratic Primary on May 28 for the following three reasons: (1) he is a progressive and liberal thinker—a man with ideas; (2) he is a young man imbued with that vibrancy and action that only youthfulness gives; and (3) he is experienced in all phases of life in our state.

A man with ideas, a man moving forward, a man unafraid to make his ideas known clearly, a man who for years has been telling people of his state what he would like to see if ever allowed to serve as governor—this is Terry Sanford. A portrait of how Terry Sanford thinks in positive and progressive terms, allow me to quote him on a few issues. "I'm satisfied that there is no more urgent need in North Carolina than the improvement of public education. Education has always been my chief interest. I've felt we aren't doing all we can for our public schools." Terry Sanford's stand on education is clear, adamant, well-informed, and has been long in existence—it is not a stand merely spoken in this political campaign. On other issues Terry Sanford says, "We must find ways to place on our agricultural economy the same emphasis which has been placed so successfully upon the industrial economy. We must make certain that industrial complexes do not spoil the landscape with slums. The failure to reapportion legislative seats is indefensible. We must have improvement in our judicial system."

The quotes go on and on as do Mr. Sanford's progressive ideas and liberal stands. Terry Sanford prefers that the sit-down strikes and other race questions do not become campaign issues, but should they be made such he will without hesitation and in an unequivocal manner make his feelings of "equal rights for all men under the law" known to all. He will shirk no question and his stands will waver not.

The second reason I support Terry Sanford is one which will cause many to condemn him but is nonetheless important and beneficial in the Governor's Mansion. He is young. At 42, Terry Sanford is prepared to bring to the office of Governor that vibrancy, that energy, that energy that only a young man can bring. A period in North Carolina similar to Oklahoma under Gov. Edmondson and Tennessee under Gov. Clements is just around the corner. Mr. Sanford is not immature and impetuous but he is a "driver." He speaks wisely of a ten year proposal for improvement of education built on the base of better agricultural techniques and industrial expansion. This is his "Triangle for a Better North Carolina." It is well-planned but it needs a young, dynamic man the likes of Terry Sanford to make it a reality.

Thirdly, Mr. Sanford is experienced. He is not the oldest in terms of House or Senate terms, but he has "spread himself out" to serve in ALL phases of North Carolina life. He is a Carolina graduate, class of 1939, and U.N.C. law school graduate of 1946. He is chairman of the Board of Trustees at the new Methodist College just north of Fayetteville and now under construction. He was an F.B.I. agent from 1939 to 1942. During World War II, he was an officer of a parachute combat team that participated in campaigns in Italy, France, Belgium, and Germany. Terry Sanford was a member of the North Carolina Ports Authority at the time the ports were built. He is a former State Senator (1953 session) and was Chairman of the Commission on Juvenile Courts. He was President of N. C. Young Democrats in 1949, and a Democratic National Convention Delegate in 1956. His position as Campaign Manager for the late W. Kerr Scott's successful quest for the U. S. Senate brought Mr. Sanford much practical political experience. He was a District Lay Leader of the Methodist Church. He has also been active in Chamber of Commerce, Red Cross, Industrial Development Corporation, United Service Fund, and others. Undoubtedly, Terry Sanford has the ideas, the youthfulness, and the experience that can make him the "Education Governor of the Mid-Century."

WHY I WILL VOTE FOR —
(Mr. Crowover is chairman of the University of North Carolina Terry Sanford Young Voter's Program. This was the first in a series on the four major candidates for Governor. Tomorrow's article will be written by John Alley in support of John D. Larkins, Jr.)

Sit-In Action

(UPS) — Two negro and one white students were convicted today in the Nashville trials of students arrested during non-violent sit-ins Saturday.

According to USNSA Southern staff member, Connie Curry, the trial in Nashville was a "farce". She reported that official court sentiment seemed to run against the students on trial from the beginning.

Said Miss Curry, the first student, who was convicted of disorderly conduct and fined $10, had been arrested after the sit-ins, when he tried to visit friends already in jail. He was told the only way he could visit friends would be to be arrested himself. "So arrest me", he said. He was arrested in the police station and yesterday convicted in court on charges of disorderly conduct.

During the trial, she said, Nashville police testifying for the prosecution were forced to admit that the negro and white students on trial were not actually involved in any disorderly conduct. This evidence, however, was not considered in any of the verdicts.

Seventy-eight more students, according to latest AP news, are still to be tried. The students are being tried individually.

The second student tried was fined $100, maximum under Nashville law, for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. According to Miss Curry, his resistance of arrest consisted on hanging onto the counter in a downtown store as a member of a white gang was attacking him. He was still hanging on to the counter when a policeman arrested him. This was his "resistance of arrest" said Miss Curry.

In latest developments on the nationwide student protest, Lehigh University staged a 300 student demonstration on campus and collected sufficient funds to send telegrams to six Southern governors and two Tennessee congressmen.

Telegrams to Nashville officials and arrested students have also been sent by students from Harvard University, Radcliffe College, Swarthmore College, Pembroke, American International College, Bridgewater State Teachers College and Springfield College.

Also Nebraska Wesleyan University and Westmar College in Iowa.

At Wayne State University in Detroit, a petition has been circulated condemning trespassing signs in department stores. Students were held at Ithaca and Cortland Colleges in New York State.

Protest action will continue throughout the week, with demonstrations planned for downtown New York on Saturday.

At the University of California at Berkeley students are demonstrating and passing out mimeographed pamphlets called "U. C. Students for Racial Equality". Signatures are being collected on a petition.

Telegrams have also been sent from Platt Institute, Columbia College, B'nai B'rith and both campuses of the City College of New York to the U.S. Dept. of Justice in New York area. The New York Region has sent a telegram.

At the University of Wisconsin a student government meeting Wednesday will consider demonstrating on Thursday afternoon.

"It's Time We Ended The Vestiges Of World War II"

HER BLOCK
©1960 THE WASHINGTON POST CO.

Ed Riner Reporting

Edward Neal Riner

The procurement of a new student union seems to be a political issue for this spring's campus-wide election. Candidates say a new student union is needed to replace Graham Memorial which is too small in relation to the University's enrollment.

This is true because a student union should be a campus social center as well as an office building for student government and its various organizations and functions. Out-dated Graham Memorial no longer has proper facilities or office space to handle the job required of it.

Any student who has ever been to the present student union realizes its limitations. But what of the plans for the proposed new building? What will it include and how?

Several news releases have already stated that the new building will be a combination student union-undergraduate library. This plan was formulated to make the building more appealing in the eyes of the legislators of the state General Assembly. They are the ones who will decide whether Carolina gets a new student union.

However, the tentative layout for the student union proper is still vague. It will be about four times the size of Graham Memorial, not counting the space for the library (which would be taken over by the student union when a separate undergraduate library is built facing Polk Place to balance with Bingham Hall).

The student union will have a main lounge, craft shops, a music room, a patio, a ballroom and a snack bar, to name a few. There will be plenty of offices and meeting rooms also. However, of the types of rooms planned, the snack bar probably would be the most important. More than twice the size of the present Rendezvous room, this room would be the same type room with the addition of lunch counter. The snack bar would serve many functions.

Being on the ground floor, it would have large glass sliding doors opening onto the patio. The present idea of this room makes it a combined snack bar with an eating area which can be easily converted into a dancing area, a theater or an auditorium. In other words this one room could handle snacking, dancing, Petite Musicales, and lectures or large meetings.

The snack bar would run diagonally across the room, but a little off-center. Although the preparation area would be behind the counter, the main kitchen would be in the basement directly under the counter area. A partition, running parallel to the counter, would separate the snack bar from the rest of the room.

Doors at the center of the partition would open into the rest of the room. This would permit the lunch line from having to be extra long during slack periods. The doors could also be used as backstage entrances to any portable stage placed against the partition.

On the other side of the partition would be the large dining area with tables and chairs. This area also could be arranged as an auditorium with chairs facing the stage against the partition or facing a stage on the opposite side of the room.

Lighting in the room would be indirect for eating and dining purposes. However, special lighting or special lighting facilities would be built into the room to allow for spotlights and flood lights.

The room would be used for activity of general interest to the campus. Specialized programming would be limited to other rooms in the building.

The merit of the snack bar itself would be worth every effort made toward trying to obtain a new student union for Carolina.

Reader's Repository

Dear Editor:

THERE IS STILL TIME... BROTHER, for you to read the book and discover that Nevil Shute never used that clause.

THERE IS STILL TIME... BROTHER, for you to realize why the late Mr. Shute himself refused to see this movie.

THERE IS STILL TIME... BROTHER, for you to urge your readers to purchase the book and not be satisfied with the distorted Hollywood version of it.

Lynn Steele
Margey Oast

Dear Editor:

A spectre is haunting the campus. It is the spectre of Marx's "surplus value."

The laundry department awards the laundry agent contract to needy students. These needy students are paid $25 per week for delivering laundry. The laundry agent, delivers the laundry himself for two weeks. The third week, he hires an assistant for $10 per week. He then donates the other $15 per week to the "March of Dollars."

However, the assistant has another job on delivery day, and he delivers the following day. A marxist, who has his felt shoes washed every week, is disturbed when his shoes do not return promptly. The marxist investigates and finds the laundry agent, owner of the means of production, extracting "surplus value" from his assistant, another needy student.

Of course no one will believe this story, because no one believes in Marx. It is so much nicer to believe in Santa Claus.

Sincerely,
T. B. Veblen

Dear Mr. Veblen:

The editorial department of the paper is pleased to notify you that your letter has been judged suitable for publication. It appears above.

The Editor

Gems of Thought

Teach the children early self-government, and teach them nothing that is wrong.

—Mary Baker Eddy

Parents wonder why the streams are bitter when they themselves have poisoned the fountain.

—John Locke

Children stand more in need of example than criticism.

—Joseph Joubert

Never fear spoiling children by making them too happy. Happiness is the atmosphere in which all good affections grow.

—Thomas Bray

Children need love, especially when they do not deserve it.

—Harold S. Hulbert

Children think not of what is past, nor what is to come, but enjoy the present time, which few of us do.

—Jean de La Bruyere/Nigot Editor

Honor And Profs

Monday morning in a 10 a.m. political science class we went through the rigors of regurgitating enough information to pass a quiz. To tell the truth, the quiz wasn't very difficult, any reasonably intelligent individual could make a good grade on it with any kind of effort at all. So, you see, it isn't the academic aspect that bothers us.

Rather it was a disturbing little note written to the class on the blackboard in front of the room. The note read as follows: ALL BOOKS AND NOTES MUST BE ON THE TABLE IN FRONT OF THE ROOM. This was just another example of the inconsistent manner with which the faculty treats the Honor System. Some leave the room with no mention, others put notes on the boards, and still others remain in the room as monitors.

We seriously doubt if any student would have opened his notes if he had been allowed to have them next to him. We could care less. The issue isn't here. The issue is one of trusting a student's honesty until he proves otherwise. If we are going to have an Honor System, one which is respected by all, faculty cooperation is a must.

When faculty members obviously don't trust students, or at least it would appear so, they contribute to the downfall of the Honor System and honor itself.

What About This?

1. The nation is at war.
2. The nation is losing the war, badly.
3. Why Sweat it?

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina where it is published daily except Monday and examination periods and summer terms.

Entered as second class matter in the post office in Chapel Hill, N. C., under the act of March 2, 1879. Subscription rates: $4.00 per semester, $7.00 per year. The Daily Tar Heel is printed by the News Inc., Carrboro, N. C.

Editor	DAVIS YOUNG
Assistant Editor	RON SHUMATE
Associate Editor	FRANK CROWTHER
Managing Editors	LARRY SMITH HARVE HARRIS
Editorial Asst.	M'LOU REDDEN
Managing Editors	LARRY SMITH
Feature Editor	MARY ALICE ROWLETT
Photo Editors	BILL BRINKHOUS PETER NESS
Business Staff	SUSIE HATCHER TIM BURNETT
Social Chairman	SUSAN LEWIS
News Editors	DEE DANIELS HENRY MAYER
Sports Editor	ELLIOTT COOPER
Advertising Manager	BARRY ZASLAV
Subscription Manager	ED SCHENCK
Nigot Editor	Bill Porter

Support Carolina Campus Chest

March 2-9... Goal $3,000

by SCHULZ

by KELLY