

WEATHER

Chance of rain by night, temperatures in upper forties

The Daily Tar Heel

57 years of dedicated service to a better University, a better state and a better nation by one of America's great college papers...

VOLUME LXVIII, NO. 130

Complete Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1960

APR 7 1960 Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

Symposium Money Goal Within View

George Grayson, treasurer of the Carolina Symposium, has announced that more than $5,000 of the $5,750 goal of the 1960 Symposium program has been received.

Duke Religious Council Passes Sitdown Bill

A committee of the University Religious Council at Duke University has passed a resolution, 90-3, to give financial aid to student-employees in connection with sit-down strikes in Raleigh's Cameron Village.

Students for Equality here on campus plan to take a similar action here. Plans will be announced later.

"We believe," reads the Duke resolution, "that when service is granted or denied in public places purely upon the basis of race...

Students Invade Woolen Gym To Hear Four Freshman Sing

By MARY STEWART BAKER Eager students literally covered every inch of the Woolen Gym floor Thursday night.

The occasion was the appearance of the four freshman compliments of the Senior class. The concert was received with enthusiastic cheers, laughter and a good degree of dreamy attentiveness.

The uniquely close, four-part harmony of the vocal group provided an entertaining and relaxing break for mid-term weary students.

"WE'LL REMEMBER ALWAYS - Graduation Day," sang the Four Freshmen to the Senior Class. The four gave a two-hour concert Thursday night in Woolen Gym. Photo by Ron Cunningham

SHIRLEY DIXON, a graduate student in the Department of Dramatic Art, will be seen in the lead role of Alma Winemiller in the Carolina Playmakers production of Tennessee Williams' "Summer and Smoke," which will run through Tuesday, March 29 in the Playmakers Theater.

Auditions For Outdoor Dramas Set For Today

Auditions for four outdoor dramas will be held for actors, dancers, singers and technicians in the Forest Theatre today, beginning at 1 p.m.

North Carolina productions which will participate in the auditions are "The Lost Colony" at Manteo; "Unto These Hills," Cherokee; "Horn in the West," Boone; and a new production planned for a limited season, "The Third Frontier," New Bern.

Actors will audition in the Forest Theatre and dancers will audition in Memorial Hall on the campus. Memorial Hall will be the site of auditions in case of rain.

Several principal roles are available for actors, and there are a number of assignments in combination jobs such as actor-technician, actor-dancer, customer-actor. There are several opportunities for women, especially in dancing combination jobs, but there are more openings for men.

Candidates should prepare a selection, preferably memorized, of not more than 1 1/2 minutes in length.

Woodrow Wilson Grants Go To 10 UNC Students

Ten students and two graduates of the University of North Carolina have been named recipients of Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships.

The Fellowships have a basic stipend of $1,500 plus full costs of a year's tuition at any university in the United States or Canada and are set up primarily for students interested in becoming college teachers.

The winners, fields of study and hometowns are: Peter Gumpert, psychology, Asheville; William Happer, physics, Lenoir; Frederick H. Harris, physics, Rocky Mount; Paul Donald Herring, English, Clinton; John Taylor McMillan, political science, Parkton; Jerry L. Mills, English, Burlington; Wilson B. Parll, Jr., political science, Scotland Neck; Julius R. Raper, English, Raleigh; Bryan W. Roberts, chemistry, Hillsboro; Robert F. Steelman, musicology, Kinston; Donald Wayne Wade, Latin and Greek, Raleigh; and Samuel F. Wells Jr., history, Reidsville.

All are seniors at the University except Paul Herring and Samuel Wells. Herring is currently studying at the University of Edinburgh, he graduated from UNC in 1959. Wells, who graduated from UNC in 1957, is in service.

Brain Team Leaves Today; Meets NYU On College Bowl

Write-Ins Give Humorous Air To Elections

By SUSAN LEWIS Amid the formality of balloting Wednesday night, humor kept creeping in to disturb the austere air in Roland Parker.

Funny and far-fetched write-ins accounted for the chuckles echoing through the room.

Pogo, the favorite son of the Daily Tar Heel editorial page, received one vote for Student Body Secretary, as did retiring editor Davis Young. Neither, however, offered Judy Albergotti stiff competition.

Curtis Gans 1959 UNC graduate and former editor of the Daily Tar Heel received one write-in credit for his former position. This just goes to prove that old editors never die. Or to use an old saying gone but not forgotten.

Adding a ghostly note to the affairs Henry S. (Hank) Snow the ever-present spirit of the Journalism School who rose to fame opposing Young in the editor's race last year, was not forgotten as a write-in for him appeared on the Men's Honor Council slate.

Interesting remarks, such as courses to the UP or SP and "Ugh!" beside some candidate's names, gave life to the formal ballot sheets.

G. M. SLATE

The only scheduled activity in Graham Memorial today is the regular free juke box dance in the Rendezvous Room, 9-12 p.m.

Woodrow Wilson Grants Go To 10 UNC Students

Ten students and two graduates of the University of North Carolina have been named recipients of Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships.

The Fellowships have a basic stipend of $1,500 plus full costs of a year's tuition at any university in the United States or Canada and are set up primarily for students interested in becoming college teachers.

The winners, fields of study and hometowns are: Peter Gumpert, psychology, Asheville; William Happer, physics, Lenoir; Frederick H. Harris, physics, Rocky Mount; Paul Donald Herring, English, Clinton; John Taylor McMillan, political science, Parkton; Jerry L. Mills, English, Burlington; Wilson B. Parll, Jr., political science, Scotland Neck; Julius R. Raper, English, Raleigh; Bryan W. Roberts, chemistry, Hillsboro; Robert F. Steelman, musicology, Kinston; Donald Wayne Wade, Latin and Greek, Raleigh; and Samuel F. Wells Jr., history, Reidsville.

All are seniors at the University except Paul Herring and Samuel Wells. Herring is currently studying at the University of Edinburgh, he graduated from UNC in 1959. Wells, who graduated from UNC in 1957, is in service.

Two of the Woodrow Wilson Fellows, William Happer and Julius (Jack) Raper, are members of a UNC team participating on the GE College Bowl Sunday, March 27. Happer, 20, is president of Phi Beta Kappa and a holder of a National Science Foundation Fellowship and a National Merit Scholarship.

Campus Group Release Names Of New Heads

Newly elected officers for various organizations on campus, are as follows:

Phi Gamma Delta—Roger Edwards, president; Jim Sloan, treasurer; Marshall Simpson, recording secretary; George Boss, corresponding secretary and Lem Marks, historian.

Chi Omega Sorority—Andrea Provost, president; Susie Cordon, vice president; Georgia Cobb, secretary; Gertie Barnes, assistant secretary; Sarah Himes, treasurer, and Ann Landauer, assistant treasurer.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority Sally Womack, president; Katy Condon, vice president; Sharon Sullivan, recording secretary; Nancy Patten, corresponding secretary and Anne Hawkins, treasurer.

Lutheran Student Association—Marvin Eargle, president; George Kinney, vice president; Kathy Johnson, secretary, Tim McKenzie, treasurer and Eleanor Sifford, LS Action chairman.

Salem Trio To Give Tuesday Series Show

A program by the Salem College Trio will be the next offering of the Tuesday Evening Series sponsored by the Music Department.

The recital to be given on Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall, will consist of works by Beethoven and Brahms.

The Salem College Trio includes Eugene Jacobowsky, violin, Charles Medlin, violoncello, and Hans Heidemann, piano.

Jacobowsky, who is concert master of the Winston-Salem Orchestra, holds degrees from Juilliard and Columbia University. He was a member of the Four Strings Quartet in New York and was formerly on the faculty at Elon College.

Fred Harris plans to enter Rice Institute in Houston, Texas, for advanced study in physics next year. The 21-year-old senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Harris of Rocky Mount. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa and holder of a National Science Foundation research stipend. He has also participated in sports activities and served as a representative in Student Legislature.

Yale or Princeton will be headquarters next year for Taylor McMillan, 22, son of Mrs. Rhoda H. McMillan of Parkton. An honors student in political science, he is president of the UNC Debate Squad, vice-chairman of the Carolina Forum and vice-president of the Forensic Council. Last summer he served a politics internship in the U. S. Congress in the office of Rep. Ken Hechler of West Virginia. He is a member of Pi Sigma Alpha and the Amphiprotrothen Society.

Jerry Mills, 21-year-old English major from Burlington, has decided to pursue his studies at Harvard. He is now reading for honors in English and plans to do college teaching. While at UNC he has served on the editorial staff of Spectrum. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McDaniel.

Foursome 'Not Gloomy' Over Televised Battle

Carolina's brain team embarks today from the Raleigh-Durham airport at 7:55 a.m. to tangle with New York University on the "GE College Bowl," a nationally televised CBS program, this Sunday, 5:30 p.m.

"Our students will give a good account of themselves," said Dr. J. Carlyle Sitterson, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He refused to predict whether UNC would beat N.Y.U. and go on for subsequent matches.

"We take them one at a time," said Dean Sitterson.

The University of North Carolina team has a healthy respect for the New York University foursome that defeated Dartmouth last Sunday.

"The N.Y.U. team is no pushover," said Prof. John Clayton, faculty guide for the Tar Heels. "Yet our boys are not gloomy about our prospects."

"We will be as well prepared as possible," said Dean Sitterson, "and we realize that there is a lot in the way the ball bounces—and who gets what questions at what time."

The Tar Heel team now is tapering off after several weeks of screening. The Carolina team has watched the GE College Bowl program each week, has studied questions similar to those asked, and has tried to simulate in the WUNC-TV studios here the actual give and take of the contest.

Frequent skull practice was held with John Clayton and others firing questions.

Help also has come from Davidson College, a previous North Carolina team on the GE College Bowl. Robert Salsaid, assistant to the President of Davidson, has furnished tape of the actual contest in which Davidson participated.

"I have enjoyed my association with these five," said Prof. Clayton. "They have brains, but that is not all. They are a fine bunch of boys."

Here is how the Tar Heel team will appear, from the scholastic specialty point of view, when they line up against New York University on Sunday:

Sciences—William Happer of Lenoir, N. C. is a major in physics. He will be ready for toss-up and other questions relating to sciences. Mr. Happer's abilities are not limited general.

History, current events, Jonathan Yardley of Chatham, Va., editor-in-chief of the Daily Tar Heel. His major is English and his minor is political science and history. Yardley is a collector of jazz records. He is also president of the German Club, a social organization. Reading books is likewise a hobby, and he hopes to be a writer of non-fiction. He is a graduate of Groton School in Massachusetts.

Write-Ins Give Humorous Air To Elections

Amid the formality of balloting Wednesday night, humor kept creeping in to disturb the austere air in Roland Parker.

Funny and far-fetched write-ins accounted for the chuckles echoing through the room.

Pogo, the favorite son of the Daily Tar Heel editorial page, received one vote for Student Body Secretary, as did retiring editor Davis Young. Neither, however, offered Judy Albergotti stiff competition.

Curtis Gans 1959 UNC graduate and former editor of the Daily Tar Heel received one write-in credit for his former position. This just goes to prove that old editors never die. Or to use an old saying gone but not forgotten.

Adding a ghostly note to the affairs Henry S. (Hank) Snow the ever-present spirit of the Journalism School who rose to fame opposing Young in the editor's race last year, was not forgotten as a write-in for him appeared on the Men's Honor Council slate.

Interesting remarks, such as courses to the UP or SP and "Ugh!" beside some candidate's names, gave life to the formal ballot sheets.

G. M. SLATE

The only scheduled activity in Graham Memorial today is the regular free juke box dance in the Rendezvous Room, 9-12 p.m.

Woodrow Wilson Grants Go To 10 UNC Students

Ten students and two graduates of the University of North Carolina have been named recipients of Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships.

The Fellowships have a basic stipend of $1,500 plus full costs of a year's tuition at any university in the United States or Canada and are set up primarily for students interested in becoming college teachers.

The winners, fields of study and hometowns are: Peter Gumpert, psychology, Asheville; William Happer, physics, Lenoir; Frederick H. Harris, physics, Rocky Mount; Paul Donald Herring, English, Clinton; John Taylor McMillan, political science, Parkton; Jerry L. Mills, English, Burlington; Wilson B. Parll, Jr., political science, Scotland Neck; Julius R. Raper, English, Raleigh; Bryan W. Roberts, chemistry, Hillsboro; Robert F. Steelman, musicology, Kinston; Donald Wayne Wade, Latin and Greek, Raleigh; and Samuel F. Wells Jr., history, Reidsville.

All are seniors at the University except Paul Herring and Samuel Wells. Herring is currently studying at the University of Edinburgh, he graduated from UNC in 1959. Wells, who graduated from UNC in 1957, is in service.

Two of the Woodrow Wilson Fellows, William Happer and Julius (Jack) Raper, are members of a UNC team participating on the GE College Bowl Sunday, March 27. Happer, 20, is president of Phi Beta Kappa and a holder of a National Science Foundation Fellowship and a National Merit Scholarship.

Petite Dramatique Embarks On 'Misunderstanding' Rehearsals

By BLAKE GREEN Petite Dramatique, the real core of drama minus the so-called "glamour," brings its actors together from all parts of the campus, and embarks on rehearsals for its spring production The Misunderstanding, by the French playwright, Albert Camus.

To be produced in late April this Graham Memorial sponsored activity, directed by Tony Wolfe, will present to the Carolina audience an outstanding work by the famed Nobel Prize winning author, director and playwright.

Characterized by his language of tragedy, Camus weaves the moral problems of human fate in all its simplicity and grandeur into the minds of his contemporary characters giving an aloofness to the characters and ambiguity to the dialogue.

"The Misunderstanding," Le Malentendu is the story of a son who returns to his homeland after many years only to be murdered for his money by his mother and sister who do not recognize him.

The son, Jan, killed as a result of the misunderstanding, will be portrayed by Bill Smith. The mother and daughter, Martha, will fail to recognize their kinsman, will be played by Mrs. Foster Fitz-Simons and Betty Greene. Maria, wife of the unfortunate Jan, is played by Bobbi Hicks. John Harris will be the old manservant.

"glamour," brings its actors together from all parts of the campus, and embarks on rehearsals for its spring production The Misunderstanding, by the French playwright, Albert Camus.

To be produced in late April this Graham Memorial sponsored activity, directed by Tony Wolfe, will present to the Carolina audience an outstanding work by the famed Nobel Prize winning author, director and playwright.

Characterized by his language of tragedy, Camus weaves the moral problems of human fate in all its simplicity and grandeur into the minds of his contemporary characters giving an aloofness to the characters and ambiguity to the dialogue.

"The Misunderstanding," Le Malentendu is the story of a son who returns to his homeland after many years only to be murdered for his money by his mother and sister who do not recognize him.

The son, Jan, killed as a result of the misunderstanding, will be portrayed by Bill Smith. The mother and daughter, Martha, will fail to recognize their kinsman, will be played by Mrs. Foster Fitz-Simons and Betty Greene. Maria, wife of the unfortunate Jan, is played by Bobbi Hicks. John Harris will be the old manservant.

PETITE DRAMATIQUE . . . Bobbi Hicks and Bill Smith rehearse a scene from "The Misunderstanding" by Albert Camus. Photo by Ron Cunningham

Daily Tar Heel Invites Your Attention To Symposium