Search Continues For Killer

RALEIGH, March 29. (AP)-A prison official said Tuesday no new leads have turned up in the intensive search for a Negro convict sought in the butcher knife slaying of a Raleigh woman.

Asst, Prisons Director Robert Allen said, "We're running down leads as they come in, but we haven't had any new leads today. We're keeping bloodhounds and two trucks of a standby basis in case they are needed in the search.

A mass hunt for Robert Tyson, 41, was launched last Thursday shortly after the mutilated body of Mrs. Clyde Farnell, 45. was found in a storage shed at the back of her home near the Camp Polk Prison Farm. She was stabbed 17 times.

Tyson, who was serving time for attempted rape in Guilford County, walked off his job in the prison camp slaughter house. The search has been concentrated in the Millbrook area north of Raleigh where the stolen Farnell car, which bore bloodstains, was found abandoned Thursday night. Officers said Tyson's bloody shirt was found near the car.
