"Wait For Your Leaders, Dammit"

The Daily Tar Heel

The official student publication of the Publication Board of the University of North Carolina, where it is published daily except Monday, examination periods and summer terms. Entered as second class matter in the post office in Chapel Hill, N.C., under the act of March 8, 1870, Subscription rates; $4.00 per semester, $7.00 per year.

The Daily Tar Heel is printed by the News, Inc., Carrboro, N.C. Jonathan Yardley Anthony Wolff ASSOCIATE EDITOR ASSISTANT EDITOR Ron Shumate Larry Smith, Loyd Little MANAGING EDITORS Dee Daniels, Henry Mayer NEWS EDITORS BUSINESS MANAGER Barry Zaslav ADVERTISING MANAGER Ken Friedman SPORTS EDITOR Frank Crowther, Davis Young CONTRIBUTING EDITORS Norman E. Smith. John Justice Tommy White NIGHT EDITOR

Humphrey Plays A Losing Hand

Uncle Syngman's Cabin

We have always considered Hubert Humphrey a man of g eat integrity. His fights within the confines of the United States Senare for the liberal cause have been conducted with considerable dignity and aplomb.

His last minute rejection of the Mock Democratic Convention's speaking engagement we not carried through with such finesse. Fortunately, Oklahoma's Represenrative Edmundson has been able to till his shoes, but these shoes are hard to fill in such an event.

It was quite a coup for the Convention to have been able to secure the services of a bonalide candidate for the Presidency as keynote speaker. This was to have been for many the highmore of the entire sessions, for it is through personal exposure that one can make his best judgement of a per-

We gram readily that the trying West Virginia primary is of constdetable importance to the Minnesota Senator, as a result of the fact that the national press has decided to blow these mish-mashy events all out of proportion until they assume the stature of the actual November vote. Humphrey is correct in realizing the necessity of his being in West Virginia to get out and shake a few of those Things are settling back to normal in South Korea again. Grand

Old Man Syngman Rhee, 85-year

old four term potentate of the people, has re-established his final and ultimate supremacy. The rebellion

A few days ago 100,000 South

Korean students saw fit to protest

the re-election of Herr Rhee in the only way that students ever see fit

to protest anything; they banded

together, swarmed through Seoul,

The Rhee government, acting as

all good governments do, saw fit to react to this demonstration in the most violent means possible.

Approximately 150 people are now

dead because they dared to rise up and protest what they considered injustice. The New York Times reported a pair of revealing inci-

the unfortunate jeep driver for Chosun Ilbo, a prominent independent newspaper. He was taking a photographer to an assignment.

When the cameraman identified himself at a readblock in central

Seoul a policeman fired at him

point-blank. The bullet passed

"Many Koreans knew the story of

and made a great deal of noise.

has been quashed.

tolksy mountain hands.

He is quite incorrect, however, in underestimating the importance of a major college mock convenyouth, naturally reflect the opinions and prejudices of their elders: at the same time, they have to ched college age and their parents will listen to what they have to say.

The convention would have been of considerable use to the candidate for two primary reasons: he could have tested the wind in this part of the country, and he could have tried to make a good impression on the youth of North Carolina. The wind will not blow too well these days, because people do not like to be turned down at the last minute and left in a

It would have been all hight if he had turned us down in January or February. We might have been able to find Symington, Johnvita ion (in plenty of time for us to find another man).

This was an inconsiderate and probably unnecessary action. It took some of the glamour from our little convention, and it took a lot of hie shine off Mr. Hum-

The battle goes on. This is the same battle fought by the Jews

against Hitler, by the Hungarians

by the Chinese people against Chang-Kai-Chek. It is the battle of the underdog against the king-

pin, and it is invariably a losing battle. These people are fighting for more than their right to cast

a fair ballot: they are fighting for

This unwillingness of the Rhee

government to allow its people

freedom was eloquently pointed up in a post-rioting statement from the President. After a few words of soulful, heartfelt sorrow, he concludes by saving that the Korean

people must "display their patriotism and follow the instructions of the responsible authorities . . . we can go forward together as a united people faithful to the principles

Never is freedom mentioned.

The only freedom implied is that of obediance or disobediance. The latter is suicide, and all South Kor-

Syngman Rhee has fashioned for

of law, of order and of justice."

their freedom.

eans know it.

Letters to the Editor

Various & Sundry Subjects

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on Mr. Jack Grigg's statement in his inaugural about new academic regulations for Carolina's tion of these rules . . .

Wagoner made: "I don't know." Obviously, he doesn't. Surely it is a privilege to be in a social fraternity, and the fraternity is obligated to contribute to the "promotion of an intellectual atmosphere on campus." However, I go along with Mr. Grigg that these rules should be relaxed or that similar high standards should be set for the non-fraternity community. To me it does not follow that in order to stimulate a more far-reaching intellectual community one group in that community should be required to adhere to a more stringent set of academic regulations.

To require more of one group than others tends to alienate that segment from the larger community. It is my opinion that such a situation, therefore subtracts tion. Students, by nature of their much more than it adds to the ". . . promotion of an intellectual almosphere.

Bob Foxworth

(The following letter was received by a Chapel Hillian whose name has been withheld by request):

Cheers, greetings, and salutations. Thank you for your good letter and the important ammunition that you inclosed in the form of the astoundingly courageous "open letter" from the TAR HEEL'S Crowther to Governor Hodges. I'm proud to still be able to count you among my listeners.

> Edward P. Morgan American Broadcasting Company Washington, D. C.

All good wishes.

I am interested in reporting to the student body the results of a survey I have recently made concerning the new "portmanteau" hats, so popular on campuses son. Meyner or some of the other around the country this spring. To the best potentials willing to come - Ken- of my knowledge the "portmanteau" hats nedy had already rejected an in- originated in India around the turn of the century, but statistics show that none were imported into the U.S. at that early date. Only this spring has the new "straight" straw with the "Bambi" feather become

On Sunday when my date and I were strolling along the plazza, we decided to count the number of young men wearing "portmanteaus." Out of one hundred men we passed, no less than seventeen were wearing the Victorian stepchild. I have said all this in order to say the following: I hate portmanteaus! Perhaps I am prejudiced. The brims are too narrow, and my fiance says that no Carolina Gentleman would be caught drunk in one. Portmanteaus are for the Easter Bunny! Fortmanteaus will not attract any of the many campus beauty queens. Beware, fellow against Soviet oppression, and even Carolina Gentlemen, Beware!

Lannee Han Erliteune

To the Editor:

That was a very good decision of the Legislature to let the student body vote on the NSA question. Now we have finally got a chance to rid ourselves of this awkward relation. Don't worry, these people in Philadelphia are "Communists" anyway. I am sure we can make some other universities join us. And then, for the money there is always much better use. Maybe it can be given to the Yackety Yack, which already gets $42,000, or the student government could buy panties for those $1025, so that the panty raids will finally be a success. (Motto: Make campus life more do you finally recognize that the problems beautifying the campus?)

Those who have some concern about what is going on nowadays outside that state of North Carolina and even outside the U.S. must be shocked at so much shortsightedness of the Legislature. At a time when the world is shaken by a revolution of so far unknown extent, the students everywhere abroad stand and fight in the Arst row. They have their most active and energetic representatives in the national unions, those leaders who already nowadays create a considerable factor of power in their nation and in a few years Wagoner's letter concerning President will press the buttons themselves. As a matter of fact, the students are willing to give six or eight times as much as this fraternities in which Mr. Grigg expressed university was willing to give to make their the hope that "... we will obtain a relaxa- voice more effective and lounder. They even decide to aid those unions which are I can believe one statement that Mr. not able to maintain themselves through their own finances.

> At this point the most ilberal and progressive university of the South decides to leave its national student representation because of $1009, probably with the secret hope that a couple of other institutions might follow. It is thereby jeopardizing its national student voice. It would be a tragic joke, if under the present constellations in the student's world one of the most powerful nations could consequently no more exert its influence which thus was considerable.

The student government will organize another referendum. It will cost a couple of hundred collars. The Carolina student will vote for it, since a North Carolina society-gazette simply does not tell him what is going on in the world today. And if he is reluctant, there will be enough "responsible and farsighted leaders" who will tell him that those $1025 are a mere

I say, give NSA more money so that it will become more powerful. If you think it cannot help you internally, because you consider your student government so advanced that NSA experience is without benefit, then never underestimate its importance abroad. The world has become too small.

Volker Berghahn

An Open Letter to Anthony Wolff:

I have just finished reading the first of the form of regurgitated fact.)

your defeat. We looked up to you, Mr. Wolff, as a member of the intellectual The Editor: elite. Now that image has been destroyed. Where are we to turn?

tension of the now defunct quiz programs gram. the American public.

at your own game.

Taylor MacMillan

fy the loss of the Carolina team on the many of the students here at Carolina. This has problem, death, As for Poteat, we heard about as "College Bowl." Again, you have ingen- caused me to wonder just why so many southerners much theological bombast as public decency can iously succeeded in obfuscating the real are advocating integration, while I am from the stand; there is a word in the dictionary which issue by resorting to a stream of polemical north and will not take a stand for this integration. characterizes such "ministers of the evil passions Before I came to the south, I wondered why inte- of others." You avoid the question of your own gration had not taken place down here as it had guilt by attacking Coach Tatum (the tradi- up north, But at that time, I did not know the whole tional whipping boy for the campus in story. Integration is a good thing - in the north. tellectual elite), the "fans" (us non-intel- But the situation is entirely different down here. lectuals) and the University News Bureau. In the first place, the ratio of Negroes to whites Your ritualistic condemnation of Tatum is greatly increased in the south. Also, the standard is to be expected, but really now, is win- of living for the Negro in the north is a good bit ning as evil as you make it out to be? You higher than it is in the south. I think that everyoffer as the sole reason for your partici- one realizes that integration will take place in pation: "We enjoy games." Come now, Mr. time, but that is the key word, time, Without a Wolff, assuming that you had won (grant- doubt, a very serious problem will arise if inteed, this is a radical assumption) you would gration is forced upon the people of the south. have probably been castigating us "fans" The school that I attended began to integrate Nefor not showing proper appreciation for gro students into our classes, as opposed to a intellect by greeting you at the airport - separate class containing only Negroes, when I as were your "rivals," "Professor" Mc- was in the sixth grade. No: much trouble arose, but I had only 5 Negro students in my class. How You imagine yourself as exposing the many would be in the classes here if integration University News Bureau. A public rela- were to take place at the present time? As for tions outfit? What else? Pete Ivey is doing these sit down strikes and other demonstrations. precisely the job he is paid to do. He was I feel that more sensible individuals, both Negro propagandizing your participation in the and white, have and will continue to avoid them. "College Bowl" in an appropriately digesti- This is an almost senseless ordeal that only makes ble form for mass consumption (the Ameri- for more trouble and tension. In the future, intecan public can only appreciate intellect in gration will have its way and the majority will favor it. This will be necessary if we plan to im-We "fans" at Carolina cannot be differ- prove, as well as maintain, our democracy. The entiated from the American public. This only thing that must be realized is that such matis why we "fans" are so disheartened by ters do take time, and cannot be forced on people.

There was so little challenge which came out of the Carolina Symposium that to continue com-I think we can reject your glorifica- ment on its real failures may only be a further tion of defeat as a poor attempt to ration- bore. The more intimate dialogues the various alize yourself into martyrdom, e.g. "We speakers held in seminars and private conversations went down to defeat in order that the su- were probably more beneficial than the majority perficiality of the "fans" and the News of those dull harangues on the same theme with the Bureau might be exposed." Your candor is same labyrinthine befuddlement about what to do.

Larry G. Steele

admirable, but your attempt to absolve The high spots admittedly were there. But there pleasant and beautiful. My question: When yourself by placing responsibility on the will be real disagreement about the less sparking "fans" and the News Bureau does not suc- performances. Surely someone has to differ in part of this university lie elsewhere than in ceed. You should have known that the with the Tar Heel columnists, Lewis and Mayer, who "College Bowl" is merely a cleaned up ex- rightly bludgeoned much of the Symposium pro-

that fraudulently peddled "intellect" to It may be only a minor cavil to point out that while John Wild had a good metaphor going, he Like the defenders of Mr. Van Doren, brought confusion but no brilliance to expounding you consider yourself victimized by cir- it in terms of concepts of man. In addition he made cumstances. Yet you are guilty on two no mention of any of the contemporary visions of counts. First, you willingly submitted to human existence in modern arts which are not a hoax - a misrepresentation of intellect, properly classified as "Existential." On Existential Second, and this is unforgivable, you lost ism itself Wild is hardly an auditer, let alone a catachumen.

Of his successors on the panel only Desan chose to show that Wild was conceptually wild. Natanson In the last few weeks we have seen an increas- spoke forcefully, if in some respects wrongly, on your series of articles attempting to justi- ing number of integration pins being worn by a significant phenomenological - or human -

WHAT'S HE SORE

> The mid-phase of the Symposium needs no discussion from me. But the Tar Heel columnists in their "Symposium Wrap-up" distorted Rexroth's performance with the very stupefaction which he himself has attacked elsewhere in quite useful and coherent addresses on contemporary education.

Two things were ignored in toto by these writers (and probably by other detractors). If they heard him at all, they ignored the man himself for the terms of his popularized publicity. Further, if they had listened to Rexroth, they would have heard him deny that he was a cloak-and-dagger jazzbo, and affirm, not something about himself. but about the exhausted state of contemporary literature. Those who need reminding about the social rebel Rexroth was discussing ("reverence for the pornography of the past" they call it) should consult the brief note in Approach, Fall, 1958. Seems

Camus was talking about the same rebels. There are a small number of persons on this campus who know the bare necessites about Rexroth. Surely there are none among the Tar Heel censors. It would be shocking to admit that Rexroth's reading of his own poetry was the most competent and engaged performance from any poet who has read here this year. Briefly again, there is not a word about Rexroth in the summary of the Symposium which is true. Further, the columnists made themselves good exemplars of our present instinct for making facts out of rumors and "doctrinal" presuppositions, and for maintaining the lowest possible level of sensory and intellective discrimination. Rexroth declared that the sick, sick, sick days are over, while our local journalists are dedicated to the smug conditions out of which the Beats generated. Why send us off on a jag again?

Vindictively, Richard Rickert (Poetry Editor, The Carolina Quarterly)

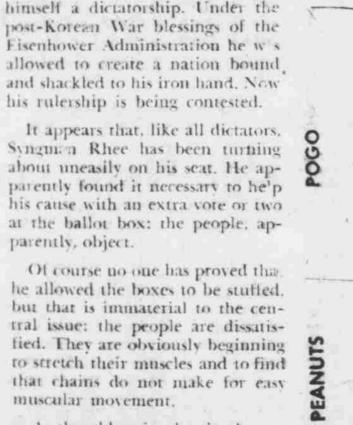

I wholeheartedly agree with you that the educated person should be "aware of his heritage." However, my contention is that this awareness is not enough. One can study philosophy, read great classics, evaluate profound historical events endlessly. This may improve one's mind, further one's intellectual curiosity and make one more fully aware of his heritage. But what good will this knowledge do for him or his fellow man if it cannot be applied to the existing environment?

My main grievance lies in your apparent misconception of the professional education. A professional education strives to make the individual aware of his heritage, but it also gives him an opportunity to apply this awareness to life. Who can be more emotionally prepared to meet the problems of both life and death than the student who studies the theories of philosophy, the classics of literature, and the events of history one day and the next day is given an opportunity to apply this knowledge in dealing with the needs and feelings of suffering people?

I personally feel that "both contemporary education and contemporary America" need to find a compromise between the production of "mechanized creatures" and the production of idealized thinkers. Granted, this is not an easily solved problem nor one that can be solved overnight.

However, whether we like it or not, our world is becoming more specialized. What the advocators of an academic education must fight against is the production of mechanical robots, mechanical in either thoughts or action. They must strive to produce individuals who can perform specialized skills with an understanding of the implication which these skills will have on the heritage which they are helping to form in the world today.

> Jane Huber Sophomore Student Nurse

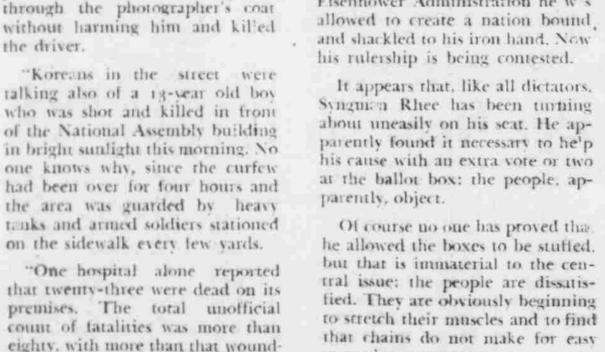

OL RT. BRIDGEPORT!

muscular movement. ed or hurt. Authorities are apprehensive of the effects if the cit-As the old saying has it, the natives are getting restless. Syngman izenry demands a mass funeral service." Rhee is in the cathird seat.