Dr. Martin Luther King To Speak Here On Monday

By WAYNE KING

Dr. Martin Luther King will speak to students, faculty and townspeople in Hill Hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

The subject of King's talk will be "The Struggle For Racial Justice."

The minister is the subject of heated controversy due to his views on integration and his policy of "passive resistance" which was instrumental in implementing bus boycotts in Alabama during the early stages of integration activities in the South.

King is an outspoken advocate of "all peaceful means" in furthering the status of the Negro in the South, and his policies have been the watchword of participants in "sit-down" activities and other peaceful manifestations of the Negro's attempts to obtain "equality of service."

His visit here is being co-sponsored by the Carolina Forum and combined religious organizations.

In addition to his Forum talk, King will address the various combined religious bodies and will participate in several discussions in campus classrooms.

The Hill Hall speech and discussion will be broadcast by WUNC-FM.

Forum chairman Frank Crowther stated that King's appearance here was not precipitated by local "sit-down" strikes last February and that his appearance has been slated for over six months.

King is one of the heads of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE), and acts as spokesman for that body.

Tatum Award To Recognize UNC Athlete

The Jim Tatum Memorial Award will be presented at the last session of Legislature, May 12.

The award, set up by Student Government this year, recognizes a Carolina athlete on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship and ability.

The winner will receive a plaque, and his name will be engraved on a trophy which will remain at Carolina.

Members of the selection committee are Dean Fred H. Weaver, Chuck Erickson, director of athletics; Swag Grimsley, president of Carolina Athletic Association; and David Grigg, student body president.

PICNIC SET SATURDAY

Members of the Cosmopolitan Club and their American friends will hold a picnic at "Bobby Crawford's Cabin" Saturday from 4-12 p.m. The group will leave from the Y-Court at 3 p.m. Tickets are $1 and may be obtained from Pierre Brison or Hans Frankfort during the lunch and dinner hours in Lenoir Hall.

IDC Votes To Raise Dormitory Social Fee

By WAYNE KING

The IDC last night passed by unanimous vote a resolution to raise the existing $7.75 dormitory social fee to $12.50.

The resolution has yet to be passed on by the administration, but president Swag Grimsley felt that they would favor the move.

The Council deemed the hike necessary due to the inadequacies of the student union in providing necessary opportunities for social activities for the dormitory man.

It was decided that more social functions are desired by the majority of dorm men and that the present social fee is too low to allow for this.

The added revenue from the hike is to be placed in a joint dormitory social fund and is to be used to finance a concert and dance featuring a well-known band or entertainer.

All revenue not used in this manner is to be turned over to the individual dorms on a pro-rata basis. Some discussion was held in regard to dormitory bills made with local merchants. It was pointed out that all charges made by dormitory representatives should be made in such a way that they can be validated and paid by the financial committee.

Other business included the appointment of next year's committee chairmen. They are as follows: Bill Williams, outstanding dorm contest; Reg Brooker, elections; DeLeon Fields, publicity; Charles Burgin, coed visitation.

A chairman for the social committee is to be appointed at the body's next meeting.

Grimsley then announced that the annual Spring Frolic is to be held May 13, with the IDC and Graham Memorial to share expenses due to a lack of funds on hand to allow the IDC to defray total costs.

Grimsley reported that the activity will begin with a dance in Smith Dorm's parking lot at 8 p.m. and will move to the area near the statue of Silent Sam for a blanket party at 10.

UNC Student To Play In Brass Section

Annual Concert Set Tuesday

Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m. the North Carolina Symphony will give its annual concert in Memorial Hall. Directed by Benjamin Swalin, former member of the U.N.C. music faculty, the 60-member orchestra is now on its fifteenth annual tour of the state.

Soloist for the evening will be Sophia Steffan, mezzo-soprano. The orchestra will also be joined by a number of extra players in Chapel Hill including John Adams, a student here. Adams, a horn player, will be one of five local musicians filling out the brass section of the orchestra.

Featured on the program will be works by Bach, Dvorak, Gluck, Gounod, Rossini, Swalin, and Respighi. Student memberships are available at the Symphony Society office in Bingham-X for one dollar. Membership entitles the subscriber to attend all subscription concerts given by the orchestra during the current season.

The Symphony will be in Raleigh for an 8:30 p.m. concert May 13 at Josephus Daniels Junior High School and in Durham May 17 for a concert at the Duke East Campus Auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Contrasting programs will be presented and guest artists will be tenor Walter Carrying in Raleigh and Kenji Kobayashi, violinist, in Durham.

Guest musicians who will play with the symphony here include trombonists Paul R. Bryan, director of the Duke University Band, and Earle R. Braunhardt, director of bands in the Sanford school system; and trumpeters William Campbell, a student at Duke, and Jan Southwick, a junior at Broughton High School in Raleigh.

Four string players will join the orchestra for the performance here and for a concert in Durham on May 17. They are Melvin Butler, 15-year old violinist from Burlington; Mrs. Robert White, Burlington cellist; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hansen, Greensboro violinists. Mr. Hansen is on the music faculty at Greensboro College.

Also appearing here with the state symphony will be percussionist, Frank Bennett, a Duke student; and Winifred Andrews, flute instructor at Salem College.

American Rights And Freedoms Are Violated, Prof. Keeney Declares Here

2nd Lecture Set Tonight, Hill Hall

DR. KEENEY
Weil Lecturer

Rights and freedoms guaranteed to American citizens by the U. S. Constitution are being violated by Congressional committees and by administrative agencies of the federal government, it was declared here Wednesday night by President Barnaby C. Keeney of Brown University, delivering the first of the 1960 Weil Lectures.

President Keeney delivers the second Weil Lecture tonight in Hill Hall at 8 p.m. on the topic: "Education as a Basis For Moral Judgment."

"Bills of Attainder" are being applied by committees of Congress in their efforts to extract information from reluctant witnesses. Freedom of speech and of the press are abridged by censorship and security regulations and denial of the "right to know," said Dr. Keeney.

College students, required to sign affidavits about their beliefs before they can get small loans, have had their rights abridged, he declared.

"We do not seem to have any bills of attainder in the Congress today, but, in fact, I think we do," said President Keeney. "While the Congress as a whole does not legislate guilt or punishment, its committees which are in no sense courts but which are parts of Congress carrying out the proper investigative power of the whole Congress, have published and still do publish findings concerning the activities and even beliefs of individuals."

President Keeney added that the Congressional committees "are constructively bills of attainder and they do have the effect of bringing infamy to the victims."

The Weil lecturer cited two examples: Alger Hiss and Sherman Adams. Hiss was "attainted before a committee of the Congress before he was properly tried and convicted in a court of justice," said Dr. Keeney. "Sherman Adams, who is clearly no Communist," said the speaker, "was nevertheless as effectively attainted as any alleged Communist has been and, like most Communists, he has never been tried."

Addressing his audience in Hill Hall on "A Literal Interpretation of the Constitution," President Keeney reviewed historical concepts and the actual meaning of the words used in the document. Citing the first article of the Constitution, Dr. Keeney quoted: "No Bill of Attainder or ex post facto Law shall be passed."

The Weil lecturer commented, "We have forgotten what a bill of attainder is, but men in 1787 and 1789 had not forgotten."

The objective of the Great Charter in England was to prevent the King of Parliament from passing laws convicting a man of a crime. Such convictions must be obtained in courts, and after a trial by a jury of one's peers. In Colonial America bills of attainder were frequent; that is the reason for the ban against them in the first article of the Constitution.

Referring to the late Senator McCarthy, Dr. Keeney related that the Wisconsin Senator once obtained the suspension of a government bookbinder for pleading the Fifth Amendment.

"Here a Senator was sitting as a committee, acting as a court, and serving as judge and prosecutor," said President Keeney. "One of the oldest maxims of our common law is that no man should be judge and party in the same case."

President Keeney presented two opposing sides of the argument over (See AMERICAN, Page 3)

Japanese Secretary To Speak Here Friday

Nobuyuki Nakashima, the first secretary of the Japanese embassy in the U. S., will speak Friday in Gerrard Hall at 3 p.m. on the general picture of Japan in terms of the American relationship and Western Culture.

Nakashima, sponsored by the International Students Board of the Student Government, will also speak on the Japanese people's attitude toward democracy, China and World War II.

Nakashima's lecture will be followed by a discussion with UNC faculty staff members who formerly worked in Japan. They will present their views of Japan and their ideas of what the basic attitude should be to understand Japan.

Two movies will be shown after the lecture. They are "Japan" featuring Japanese classical culture and "Yamada Family at Work," which presents a mirror of modern Japan.

The Japanese visitor from Washington will also observe several classes in social science during his stay in Chapel Hill.

The lecture in Gerrard Hall on Friday is free to the public. This will be the first program of this type to be presented by Student Government.

Memberships Available For Concert Series

Student memberships in the Friends of the College concert series are currently available for $4. Anne Queen announced yesterday. The series, which is connected with State College, will present Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra as its opening concert on September 22.

The other three presentations in the series include a performance by the Krsmanovich Chorus of Yugoslavia, a concert by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Paul Pray conducting, and "J.B.," the Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Archibald MacLeish.

All performances will be at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh. In addition to the $4 season memberships for students, faculty members and other University employees may form "company groups" of six or more and obtain the same rate.

Memberships may be obtained from Miss Queen at the Y, and from Leonard Capetanos, Mrs. John Sanders, Alexandra Ehret, Ann Peters, Pam Paterson, Nancy Shields, Dean William B. Long and John B. Adams.

All sales for the 1960-61 series will end on Tuesday. No tickets will be available for individual concerts.

BOOKLET AVAILABLE

Approximately 75 copies of the 1960 Carolina Symposium booklets are still available. The volume contains the complete speeches and panelists' commentary, and sells for $1.50. They may be purchased at the Symposium office in the Y.

Foreign Counselors' Meeting Set Thursday

A meeting of all foreign student counselors will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in Roland Parker III.

Tina Baensch, foreign student orientation co-ordinator, has stressed the importance of this meeting.

All counselors unable to attend have been asked to submit a written excuse to her.

Counselors selected for the orientation program include: Fred Anderson, Riley Brown, Mi-ma Bruce, Sally Bushong, Robert Cannon, Allen Cronenberg, Anthony Dees, Mel Dickinson, Kathy duQuesnay, John Clinard, Tommy Kehayes, Jim Lim, John Paschal, Sandra Pluta, Leafy Pollock, Carroll Raver, Rebekay Royster, Tim Tetlow, Carol Tieslau, Mike Walker, Sally Ann Webb, Dick Verrone, Nancy Vidal and Chet Wilkinson.

Two training sessions have been held. One consisted of a panel dis-ussion by foreign students who presented some significant differences between their native universities and UNC.

The foreign students discussed how the counselors might be more effective in helping the new foreign students understand and adjust to the campus.

Pre-Register For Summer, Fall Classes

The time has come to pre-register for summer school and fall classes.

Students in General College, Arts and Sciences, Graduate School, Education and Journalism may pre-register from May 11-18. General College students must sign up for appointments between May 2 and 10. Appointment sheets will be in 209 South Building.

The BA School will hold pre-registration on May 17. Students must sign appointment books by May 13. Second and third year pharmacy students will pre-register on May 11 and 12; rising seniors on May 13.

World News In Brief

Indiana Primary Results: Nixon Outpolls Kennedy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Leaders of both parties found cheer Wednesday in returns from Indiana's Presidential primary, which showed Vice President Richard M. Nixon outpolling Sen. John F. Kennedy while Democrats piled up a bigger total vote than Republicans.

Nixon's plurality over the Massachusetts Democrat was more than 50,000 on nearly complete returns, 400,291 to 350,190 in 4,284 of 4,299 precincts. The Republican total, however, was 34 precincts short in heavily Democratic Lake County because of a tallying mixup.

The presidential vote for all candidates was 433,957 for Democrats to 418,039 for Republicans.

Kennedy had two minor opponents who ran much stronger than expected apparently reflecting votes of Democrats who favor other candidates for the presidential nomination.

Nixon's lone opponent drew less than half the votes of the weaker of Kennedy's challengers.

Step Forward In Birth Control

LONDON (AP)—A new birth control pill taken orally probably will be tried out on human beings soon, the makers of the pill announced today.

A spokesman for British Drug Houses Ltd. said: "Our discovery is exciting, yet the uncertainties that lie ahead are many."

He said experiments on animals showed "outstanding promise as oral contraceptives."

U.S. Embassy Gets Bomb Threat

PARIS (AP)—An unidentified man who was apparently angry over the execution of Caryl Chessman told police by telephone Wednesday that a bomb was about to explode in the U.S. embassy.

Embassy officials at police request evacuated the 30 persons or so working after the closing hour. Then a police bomb squad and embassy Marine guards searched all the offices and found no bomb.

Police ringed the embassy, and traffic was diverted, creating a rush-hour traffic jam on the spacious Place De La Concorde.

Most of the 350 embassy staff members had quit for the day when the warning came.

INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary Wednesday were Sandra Wood, Martha Pierce, Mary Parks, Rebecca Holland, Agnes Robinson, Francis Scott, Martin Kazmier, Roy Land, William Paomer, Arthur Miller, Robert Morrison, Robert Burgess, John Barefoot, Ernest Hylton, Joseph Warner, Charles Vaughn and Cecil Farrell.
