Dutch Journalist Compares US, European Mass Media

Dr. Maarten Roaij, one of Holland's foremost journalists, spoke to students of the journalism school and faculty in the first of a series of lectures sponsored by the journalism school.

Dr. Roaij spoke on "Recent Developments in European Mass Communication."

Centering his talk around developments concerning Western European countries, the veteran Dutch newspaperman emphasized three factors in his explanation of the evolution of the mass media during the past quarter century.

1. Freedom of the Press. Generally, Dr. Roaij feels, Western European papers are unable to exercise the basic freedom of

- the press as fully as is done here in the U. S. This is due to governmental controls for protection of the military as well as for diplomatic reasons.
2. Financial Difficulty. This must be remedied by cheaper methods of production, rather than government subsidy, he said.
3. Problem of Integration. European countries, the journalist stated, suffer from a lack of social, political and financial integration. This problem is responsible for a difficulty in obtaining free access to news and is best solved by closer cooperation between newspapers of all European countries, regardless of their country's political view.

Nominee Spells Plan To Lessen Farm Surpluses

GUTHRIE CENTER, Iowa (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Friday spelled out a four-year "pay more now" program to cut America's farm surplus at a cost of up to a billion dollars a year.

Nixon offered his "Operation Consume" plan in an all-out bid for the farm vote in a prepared speech at the Iowa plowing contests here. The speech was the high point of a 185-mile corn belt motorcade swing from Omaha, Neb., to Des Moines, Iowa.

The GOP presidential nominee's "Operation Consume" plan called for:

- Sharp intensification of the food for peace program.
- Creation of a strategic food storage reserve, storing food for long periods—with fresh replacements as needed—for use in great emergencies such as "an enemy attack."
- Payment in kind—barter—from present surpluses as part of a temporary land conservation and retirement program.

INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary Friday were John W. Carr, Ronald Dale Hooper, Peter Van Riper and Donald Hearn.

World News In Brief

Red Leader May Plead Case Of China Before UN Group

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev may seize the chance to beat President Eisenhower to the United Nations rostrum with a demand for the admission of Red China, observers at the world headquarters said Friday.

The Soviet premier's liner Baltika was scheduled to dock about 10 a.m. Monday—with Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro coming in by plane a day earlier and Yugoslavia's President Tito arriving Tuesday on the Queen Elizabeth.

'Mr. K,' Ike May Meet

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet diplomats hinted Friday Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev might seek a private meeting with President Eisenhower at the United Nations session in New York next week.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said in Washington there had been no Soviet overtures and called the Russian diplomatic hints "speculative and somewhat propaganda-like stories that do not even originate from Khrushchev."

The Soviet diplomats said Khrushchev may not only try to effect a reconciliation with Eisenhower but also may seek personal meetings with presidential nominees John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

AFL-CIO Joins Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America Friday endorsed the Kennedy-Johnson ticket by unanimous vote of the union's executive board.

Union President Joseph A. Beirne said the action was taken at the direction of the communications workers convention in June.

In announcing the endorsement, Beirne said, "The Democratic ticket represents America's best hope of regaining economic strength at home and prestige abroad."

UNC Motorcades Leave To Greet Kennedy Today

Two different motorcades are scheduled to leave Chapel Hill today to greet Democratic presidential hopeful John F. Kennedy as he winds up his one day "dawn to midnight" campaign in North Carolina.

Both units are being sponsored by members of the Orange County Democratic Club and the Young Democrats of UNC and Orange County. All other Democrats and interested people have been invited to join the procession.

The first group will leave from Democratic headquarters on Franklin Street at 9 a.m. in time to join the Hillsboro cavalcade at the junction of Highways 70 and 54 near Graham at 9:30 a.m. Those unable to start with the motorcade can join it at this point. From this meeting point the cars will journey to the Greensboro-High Point Airport in time to meet Sen. Kennedy's plane at 11 a.m.

The second cavalcade will assemble at the Morehead Bell Tower at 5 p.m. After meeting the Senator's plane at the Raleigh-Durham Airport, the group will go to Raleigh for his address at 8:30 p.m. in the Reynolds Coliseum. Those in this motorcade should bring picnic suppers, cavalcade leaders advised.

Governor Hodges will introduce Kennedy at the evening address. Included on the main program will be a question-answer period, with Democratic gubernatorial candidate Terry Sanford as moderator.

Kennedy's campaign swing begins this morning in Greenville where he will give a brief address and attend a tobacco auction in his honor. Trips to Asheville and Charlotte will be sandwiched in between the Greensboro and Raleigh campaigns.

Larger Program Outlined During YMCA Meeting

"Expanding Horizons," this year's enlarged YMCA program was launched in a mass-meeting Thursday night in Carroll Hall.

Representatives from the various areas of community work were called upon by Lynn Sowder, vice-president, to explain briefly the opportunities open to volunteer workers in their particular fields.

Following these introductory talks the meeting was broken up into smaller groups for specific discussion of the individual committee projects. The community work committees and their chairmen are as follows: Dix Hill, Leafy Pollock; Memorial Hospital, Nancy Kimball; Blind School, Gertie Barnes; Girl Scouts, Kay Kirkpatrick; Welfare Work, Ginny Simms; and Orphanages, no appointed chairman.

President Sharon Sullivan has asked women students who did not attend Thursday's meeting to fill out a card indicating their interests and return it to the YMCA office.

Miss Sullivan added that all who turned in interest cards and attended the mass meeting will be contacted in the near future by the various committee chairmen.

Drink Machine Prices Go Up

Several minor economic changes have combined to send soft drink prices on most parts of the campus to ten cents.

According to H. R. Ritchie, manager of the Book Exchange, the major factor in the price increase was the installation of the more expensive, but much more modern cup vending machines. Accompanying the new machines came price hikes for the syrup used in making the drinks, and the need for hiring more qualified men to maintain them.

GM Combo Party Scheduled Tonight

"The Scepters" will be featured at tonight's GM Combo Party, slated to begin at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn in front of the student union.

An Open House will be held in the building, with free dancing in the Rendezvous Room highlighting the festivities.

Adventurers To Bring Films, Stories To GM

Four men who have traveled the world from the Congo to the North Pole will present films and lectures on their experiences during the GM Travel-Adventure series this year.

Embarkation date for this complete armchair entertainment is October 6 when a young explorer anthropologist from Colombia, Hector Acebes, will show and narrate adventures encountered in his lone explorations and studies of primitive peoples in a program titled "Africa Astrir."

The Far North will be presented by Rear Admiral Don B. MacMillan on November 30. According to a Boston Herald editorial, the Arctic will "almost certainly be a major battleground in another war."

The "Tiger Man," Sasha Siemel, world famous hunter and explorer, will be here January 10 presenting "Adventures with Camera and Spear."

A nautical explorer and world-around voyager, Capt. Irving Johnson, will tell about "mountain climbing in a boat."

"Next year selling the series will be 'duck soup,'" says GM Director Howard Henry, who feels the audience reports will attract many. The travel series has been popular with audiences in other sections of the country, reports Henry, pointing out that the program is not to be confused with travelogues.

Because of the expense of the series, individual tickets will be sold for $90 apiece while season tickets for all four shows are available to students and faculty for $1.75.

Through September 22 tickets will be on sale at the Graham Memorial Information Desk to students and members of the University community only.

Tickets for the series to be held in Memorial Hall will go on general public sale September 23 for $2.50.
