At First Meet Of Semester

Campaign Policies Debated By Di-Phi

The campaign policies of Sen. John Kennedy and Vice-President Richard Nixon will be debated tonight at the season's first meeting of the UNC Di-Phi Assembly.

The debating society will discuss this proposed resolution: "... resolved by the Dialectic and Philanthropic Society that: We hereby go on record as favoring Kennedy's concept of a 'New Frontier' as opposed to the limited government policy advocated by Nixon."

All interested students are invited to attend and to speak at the meeting to be held at 8 p.m. on the third floor of New West. An informal reception will follow the debate.

Mary Jean Reid, chairman of the Ways and Means committee will introduce the bill tonight. The complete resolution is as follows:

"WHEREAS: The United States has lost much prestige and influence in the world of international affairs in post-war years, and

"WHEREAS: Kennedy's 'New Frontier' advocates a revitalized approach to foreign policy, and

"WHEREAS: Unemployment is high and the economy is operating far below capacity, and

"WHEREAS: Under the Kennedy program, increased government spending will generate increased growth in the economy, and

"WHEREAS: The attitude and role of our government toward the farm problem, defense, the labor problem, civil rights, education, and medical aid to the aged have been vacillating, and

"WHEREAS: Kennedy's policy offers a new, imaginative, and constructive approach to these and other grave national issues,

Today Deadline For Entering Beauty Contest

The year's round of beauty contests begin Saturday with the selection of the Consolidated University queen.

This afternoon is the deadline for entering UNC contestants for the title. Any resident unit on campus may enter a candidate in the contest. Three judges—Earl Wynn of RTVMP and Mrs. Douglas Fambrough of Graham Memorial and one to be announced—will select the three UNC representatives at 4-5:45 p.m. Wednesday in the parlor of Melver Dorm.

Dorms, fraternities and sororities should notify Diane Gates at 8-9160 or Wade Hargrave at 8-9117 of their entrants. Contestants should wear dark cotton dresses and heels to the judging.

The queen will be selected from the nine contestants—three girls from each of the schools of the University—in the judging Saturday morning in Morehead Planetarium faculty lounge.

"Now, We hereby go on record as favoring Kennedy's concept of a 'New Frontier' as opposed to the Limited Government Policy advocated by Nixon."

No previous experience is necessary for a student to participate in the debate.

Any student may join the Assembly by attending two meetings and presenting one qualifying speech on any subject. The speech is subject to approval by the Society.

Meeting every Tuesday night at 8 throughout the semester, the Di-Phi Assembly is the result of the merging of the two oldest debating societies on the campus.

TV Covers UN

"U.N. Review", a series of twenty quarter-hour TV programs, will be shown on WUNC-TV every Tuesday at noon and again at 7:45 p.m. beginning today.

The National Educational Television Network will present this weekly program of up-to-the-minute reports from the General Assembly and/or the Security Council.

Ready To Escape? Tickets To Africa Now Available

By LINDA BISER

Only a few days back at the Hill and some are ready to get away from it all! They're in luck, thanks to a new series being offered by Graham Memorial this semester. Tickets for transport to Africa, the Far North and across Europe are on sale at the GM Information Desk for only $1.75.

The Travel Series program, featuring films narrated by renowned travelers, will provide this armchair entertainment in Memorial Hall.

Embarkation date will be Oct. 6 when a young explorer-anthropologist from Columbia, Hector Acebes, will show and narrate his adventures encountered during explorations and studies of primitive peoples in a program titled "Africa Astir."

The Far North will be presented by Rear Admiral Don B. MacMillan on Nov. 30. "The Tiger Man," Sasha Siemel, world famous hunter and adventurer will be here Jan. 10. A nautical explorer and world-around voyager, Capt. Irving Johnson will tell about "mountain climbing in a boat" as part of his Feb. 22 program entitled, "The Yankee Sails Across Europe."

Registration ticket sales brought comments from some who had seen similar programs. They told ticket sellers they were "really looking forward to it". Other comments came from students concerned with studies who were wary of buying season tickets for fear the programs would interfere with studying for quizzes scheduled for the next day. Howard Henry, bar director, pointed out that the programs wouldn't last all evening, and that if one or even two programs were missed, money is still saved by buying the season ticket at $1.75 rather than individual ones at $9.00.

To be certain that the University campus has "first crack at it", $2.50 tickets for townspeople won't go on sale until September 23. The tickets will then also be made available to Duke students.

YACK PICTURES
The following students will have their pictures taken for the 1961 Yackety Yack any afternoon Tuesday through Friday from 1 to 6 p.m. in the basement of Graham Memorial:
Seniors
Fourth year medical students
Fourth year dental students
Wearing apparel will be dark coats, white shirts and ties for men, and dark sweaters for women students.

Invitations will again be issued Monday morning for the Monday evening parties. The final round of sorority parties will be Tuesday night after another Pan-Hell Post Office session Tuesday morning.

Rushees who desire to pledge a sorority will sign bids in the office of the Dean of Women, and the sorority bids will be delivered by Stray Greeks to the chosen girls Wednesday evening, Sept. 28.

Cold Reception Greets Leaders From Cuba, Russia In New York

Castro Offers Salute To American People

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cuba's premier Fidel Castro, leading a parade of anti-American leaders to the United Nations "summit meeting," flew to New York Sunday and into the tightest peace time police security alert in the city history.

Thousands of policemen were on emergency duty at Idlewild International Airport, along Castro's route to the city and around the mid-town Manhattan hotel where he was staying. Other policemen patrolled the streets in the area, dealing with agitators opposing the presence of Castro and the impending arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. A flying squad of police sharpshooters stood ready to rush to any emergency area.

Pro-Castro Cuban residents of New York and nearby states streamed by the thousands in the rain to the airport in buses and jam-packed automobiles to greet their revolutionary hero, but to prevent any possible incident, Castro's plane was halted at a maintenance hangar about two miles from the passenger terminal.

About 500 of the Castro rooters flocked to an area behind a cyclone fence near the hangar and yelled and screamed "welcome Castro" as the Cuban Bristol Britannia turbo-jet touched the ground.

Castro, wearing his usual military field uniform with shirt open at the neck, waved a cap as he stepped from the plane, and then stepped before microphones to say a few words.

"My English is the same as last time—not too good," he said. "I want to salute the United States people. The other things I have to say I will say to the General Assembly of the United Nations."

An almost solid line of police stood guard on the two exposed sides of the hotel, where Castro and his party were housed in

'Mr. K' Hints Peace Will Be Speech Topic

By CHARLES OHL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, ringed by Red Satellite leaders, arrived in the United States at a dingy, rain-soaked pier yesterday and said he had come to convince even the "thick-skulled" that the world should disarm.

Within minutes after he left the Soviet ship Baltika at mid-morning, Khrushchev tossed his first barb at President Eisenhower in a statement read before microphones set upon the pier that was splattered with rain falling through broken skylights.

Khrushchev's welcome was as cold as the drenching rain. American Longshoremen refused to touch the Baltika, and Russian crewmen were forced to do the debarking chores themselves. There was no American of prominence present except Cleveland Industrialist Cyrus Eaton, who won the Lenin peace prize last year.

In a statement he read in Russian, Khrushchev said he was confident of a warmup in United States-Russian relations. Then he said he hoped, in the interests of peace, that Eisenhower would make more than a "fancy speech" when he addresses the United Nations General Assembly on Thursday.

Khrushchev will walk to the U.N. rostrum on Friday, possibly to unfurl some new propaganda-loaded disarmament proposal that would portray Russia as a champion of peace. On Sept. 18, 1959, Khrushchev won the "general and complete" disarmament to the assembly, without being explicit about controls.

Khrushchev admitted to a shade of apprehension in saying he was not quite certain of the purpose of Eisenhower's decision to address the General Assembly the day before he does.

"The United States have perhaps reappraised their attitude toward the Assembly meetings and have also come to the conclusion that serious negotiations can be undertaken in the United Nations to reach a disarmament agreement," he said.

Khrushchev arrived on the scene at a time his forces in the United Nations were under attack at a special assembly session for meddling in the chaotic Congo. The regular U.N. assembly session will begin Tuesday.

As Khrushchev stepped on an oriental rug spread out on the

'Ugly American' Topic For Foreign Service Lecture

"The Ugly American" will be discussed by Dr. Harold B. Hoskins, director of the U.S. State Department's Foreign Service Institute, at 3 p.m. Thursday in 106 Hanes Hall.

Sponsored by the Chancellor's Committee on International Students, Dr. Hoskins' lecture will also deal with the foreign service as a career.

The speaker, who is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Princeton, will discuss the reactions and implications aroused by the book, "The Ugly American." He will also point out the requirements and training necessary for work in the field of foreign service.

Born of missionary parents in Beirut, Lebanon, Dr. Hoskins has been associated with the State Department since 1941. He has been a staff member of several diplomatic legations in the Middle East, and was a business executive in the textile industry before entering the foreign service.

World News In Brief

Russia Promises To Continue Support In Congo Despite UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Russia served notice Sunday night that it will continue to supply "every kind of support and assistance" to the Congo regardless of any action taken by the United Nations.

A statement issued by the Soviet delegation pointed up a showdown between the United States and the Soviet Union over control of the chaotic Congo, now subject of an emergency session of the General Assembly.

The assembly was called into session as the result of a Soviet veto of a small-power resolution declaring that all military aid supplied to the Congo must go through the United Nations.

Peale Offers Resignation

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale said Sunday that he had offered to resign his pulpit at Marble Collegiate Church as a result of his "unwise" involvement in the debate on religion in presidential politics. The offer was refused.

Peale received a standing tribute when he appeared in his pulpit for the first time since he and 150 other clergymen issued a statement after a meeting in Washington questioning whether Sen. John F. Kennedy could serve as president without being influenced by the Vatican in the conduct of foreign policy.

Tax Surplus Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A budget study Sunday predicted that increased spending ordered by Congress and decline in corporation tax receipts will whittle a hoped for $4.2 billion federal surplus to less than $500 million.

The forecast was made in a budget analysis prepared by the council of state chambers of commerce, representing 29 state chambers.

President Eisenhower's budget originally called for spending of $79.8 billion against anticipated receipts of $84 billion—leaving a surplus of $4.2 billion by the end of fiscal year 1961 next June 30.

WC Coeds Also Arrive Saturday

UNC-State Game To Open CU Day

Following several years of tradition, this Saturday will be Consolidated University Day.

It is the only time during each school year that an attempt is made to get the students of the Consolidated University—Woman's College, N. C. State and UNC—together for a day of fun and excitement.

The State College Wolfpack will face the Carolina Tar Heels in Kenan Stadium for the highlight of the day. However, the spotlight will focus on WC girls who will come to Chapel Hill in 19 buses.

The buses will leave Greensboro in two groups—11 a.m. and noon. The buses will unload in the Bell Tower parking lot. Departing time for the girls will be 11:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Consolidated University Student Council—representatives from each school—and directed by the UNC members of the council, CU Day is heartily endorsed by each school.

The council will have a business meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in Graham Memorial followed by a luncheon in Lenoir Hall. The council also will be in charge of the halftime presentation of the candidates for CU Queen. Each school will be represented by three girls.

Last year's queen was Clare Hanner of UNC. Following the game will be a reception for all students at Graham Memorial until 5:30 p.m. Bill Shipp, UNC council chairman, said the reception would be a mixer for students to meet students from other schools.

Saturday night the Order of the Grail will sponsor a dance in Woolen Gym from 8 to 11 o'clock. Admission will be $1 for men; girls will be admitted free. The Grail will use the money for its scholarship fund.

During the dance the CU Queen will be crowned. Swag Grimsley, Grail dance chairman, said presentation of the queen will be at 9:30 p.m.

The complete timetable for Saturday is as follows:
10 a.m.—CUSC business meeting, Graham Memorial.

11:30 a.m.—CUSC luncheon, Lenoir Hall.

9:30 a.m.—noon—Judging of contestants for CU Queen, Morehead Planetarium faculty lounge.

2 p.m.—UNC vs. State College, Kenan Stadium. End of game until 5:30 p.m.—Reception, Graham Memorial.

8-11 p.m.—Grail Dance, Woolen Gym.
9:30 p.m.—Crowning of CU Queen, Woolen Gym.
11:30 p.m.—Departure of WC girls.
