Delta Upsilon Cops Scholastic Trophy From IFC

JIM NOYES

IFC President Pete Austin presented Edwin Taff, President of Delta Upsilon, with the IFC scholarship improvement trophy at the council meeting Monday night.

This trophy, which was won by Sigma Phi Epsilon in the fall of 1959 is awarded each semester by the IFC to the fraternity showing the greatest scholastic improvement.

President Austin then announced to the council that to further encourage fraternity scholarship Phi Delta Theta will present a trophy each semester to the fraternity with the highest academic average.

"As fraternity men," he said, "we are obligated to ourselves, our university, and our fraternity to promote and encourage scholarship above all other things."

Charlie Clement and his Rush Committee were applauded by IFC members for their effort in making this year's Rush Week run "as smoothly and efficiently as it did."

Austin announced to the Council that in order to better evaluate each fraternity this year for the R. B. House trophy, presented each year to the outstanding fraternity, a committee will be formed from the IFC.

To Supplement Evaluation
"This committee's findings," he said, "will supplement the point total evaluation based on scholastics, intramurals, etc., and the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and Sororities' evaluation."

After reading parts of a letter from William Long, Asst. to the Dean of Student Affairs, stating his recognition of the importance of fraternity fellowship and activities on the UNC campus and the necessity of close fraternity-administrative relations, President Austin passed out the names and phone numbers of all members of the Faculty Committee on Fraternities and sororities to each fraternity president.

Press Club Hears Chief Of AP Buenos Aires Bureau

Carolina journalist in 1948, Korean correspondent in 1952, and today, Chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Buenos Aires.

Briefly, this is Sam Summerlin, one of the University's noted journalism graduates, who returned to Chapel Hill Tuesday evening for an informal talk before the UNC Press Club in Howell Hall.

Summerlin covered topics ranging from his experiences in the Argentine revolution to the first interview with Hemingway after the Pulitzer Prize announcement.

Of Communist advances in South America, he said:

"Political domination is not the specific design now; rather, they want to gain trade and cultural recognition. And, by subtle but effective propaganda, they are eager to pull these nations if not to Communism, then at least to neutrality in the United Nations."

Dean of Journalism Norval Neil Luxon welcomed the group to the new quarters of the School of Journalism, Howell Hall.

Argentina Loyal Concerning anti-American feeling, however, Summerlin feels that Argentina is probably more on the United States' side than any other South American nation. But, if events such as the Chessman incident continue to occur, the U.S. may find itself "voting alone in the United Nations."

The majority of South Americans are Catholic, he pointed out, so Kennedy is a big favorite with the people. But, with Stevenson, Summerlin said, "his popularity is amazing and unexplainable."

Introducing Summerlin at the Press Club's initial 1960 meeting was Prof. Walter Spearman of the School of Journalism.

The speaker began his career in Chapel Hill 12 years ago, covered the State Legislature in Raleigh for Associated Press two years, and then began his foreign correspondence which took him to Korea, Manila, Havana, Japan, and finally, Argentina.

Dean of Journalism Norval Neil Luxon welcomed the group to the new quarters of the School of Journalism, Howell Hall.

The weekly reading room and news editing room on the ground floor will remain open all night.

"However, the use of the building will determine the continuation of the schedule," he said.

Howell Hall Open Late

Evening hours for Howell Hall, home of the School of Journalism, were outlined by Dean Norval Neil Luxon at the Tuesday evening Press Club meeting.

Five nights a week the daily reading room on the main floor and the Student Lounge will be open until 10:45 p.m.

The weekly reading room and news editing room on the ground floor will remain open all night.

"However, the use of the building will determine the continuation of the schedule," he said.

World News in Brief

U.S. Orbits 500-Pound Military Communications Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The United States hurled a 500-pound military communications satellite into orbit Tuesday, marking the nation's 28th and most complex space success since Russia launched its first sputnik exactly three years ago.

It marked the first step in providing the nation's military with a communications system which scientists said would be "practically unjammable."

An 80-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket carrying the ball-shaped 51-inch orb rose from its launching pad in a burst of orange flame at 1:49 p.m. EDT. Two hours later jubilant officials announced an orbit had been obtained.

Khrushchev Continues Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, foiled again in the United Nations, fought back today with attacks on the United States and new demands that President Eisenhower "find the courage" to apologize for the U2 and RB47 plane incidents.

Defeated for the second time in his attempts to force U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to resign, Khrushchev turned to the offensive on three fronts at the United Nations.

Archbishop Charges Reds

HAVANA (UPI)—Archbishop Enrique Perez Serrantes of Santiago, who saved Fidel Castro from execution in 1953, charged today that "devotees of Marx and Lenin" are trying to reap the fruits of Castro's revolution.

A circular written by the prelate, which is being distributed to Roman Catholic churches throughout the country, denied Castroite charges that the church is influenced by the U.S. Embassy or supporters of Spanish chief of state Francisco Franco.

The circular added, however, that if the church had to choose between the United States and Communism it would not hesitate to do so.

Lumumba Losing Hold

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Patrice Lumumba, the fast-talking beer salesman who became the first premier of the Congo, appeared today to have lost his magic hold over Parliament.

A wholesale defection by 29 of the 44 senators and deputies from Lumumba's own Eastern Province left the deposed premier with far less than the slim majority that put him into power.

Diplomat Held For Narcotics

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Gaudemalan diplomat and three other men were held in a record million dollars bail today in the smash-up of an international narcotics smuggling ring that "defies the imagination in its magnitude."

Federal narcotics agents arrested the four men at gunpoint on a crowded Manhattan street Monday and confiscated pure heroin worth $20 million on the illicit market.

U.S. Attorney S. Hazard Gillespie said the heroin seizure was the largest single narcotics haul ever made in this country.

State Professor To Address UNC English Club

Richard Walser, anthologist and authority on North Carolina literature, will address the UNC English Club at 8 p.m. Friday in the assembly room of the Louis R. Wilson Library.

He will speak about his most recent collection, Nematodes in My Garden of Verse.

Professor Walser is a member of the English Department at State College. A native of Lexington, he was a student at Davidson and at the University in Chapel Hill.

Full Calendar Faces Session On Thursday

By STEVE LINDELL

A controversial sit-in resolution will be the first bill taken up by the opening session of the Student Legislature Thursday night.

This bill was moved to the top of the calendar by special action in the closing minutes of last year's last session.

The resolution calls for "improving the aims and methods of students seeking service at lunch counters throughout North Carolina." A floor fight is expected on this bill.

Repeal Oath
Another attention getter is seen in the resolution to encourage the repeal of the much debated loyalty oath provision of the National Defense Act of 1958.

The calendar facing this session is a full one. The greatest task of this session is the revision of the General Election Laws, the revision of the Student Constitution, and the revision of the By-Laws of the Student Legislature.

Also up for consideration is a bill to "establish standard procedures in all courts under the authority of the Student Government."

Homecoming Queen, Court Chosen Today

Selection of the UNC homecoming queen and her court will be made this afternoon at the annual homecoming tea.

Twenty-five finalists chosen from 58 entrants will be judged today, 3 p.m., at the home of Chancellor William B. Aycock, 306 Country Club Rd.

Contestants are Andrea Avery, Tina Baensch, Jayne Brown, Beverly Bunn, Isabell Collier, Joan Delves, Barbara Faulkner, Kathy Fulenwider, Jan Gannaway, Janice Haley, Judy Jackson and Jane Jordan;

Judges will be Mrs. Mayhew Fambrough, office manager of Graham Memorial; Dr. Peter G. Philips, associate professor in the Department of English; and Mike Deutsch, chairman of the homecoming committee.

Sponsors of the finalists will be responsible for getting the girls to the tea. The attire will be cocktail dresses.

To Be Announced
The queen and her six attendants will be announced during the half time of the UNC-Notre Dame game Saturday.

After the game they will be presented at the reception in the Monogram Club (time will be announced later) and at 9:30 during the Grail Dance in Woolen Gym.

The Student Carolina Athletic Council is in charge of homecoming.

Another New Professor
Another new addition to the faculty is Associate Professor Boren whose research area is the social and economic problems of the Roman Republic, the first and second centuries B.C.

Before joining the staff, Professor Boren taught at Southern Illinois University.

Professor Pegg, chairman of the department, is a specialist in 20th century European history.

He has been on the staff of UNC since 1930, the year in which he received the Ph.D. from here.

A well known publication of his is "Contemporary Europe in World Focus," published in 1956.

Student Theatre Workshop Meets 1st Time Today

Student Theatre Workshop members will hold their first meeting of the year today at 4:30 p.m. to lay plans for the organization's 1960-61 production schedule.

The Workshop, created last year by students interested in theatre work as an experimental drama group, has eight production dates on its schedule.

Any student interested in participating in Workshop productions is invited to join.

Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright, was scheduled to speak to the Workshop's opening meeting on "The Responsibility of the Playwright," but because of illness, Green's address will be rescheduled for a later date.

The meeting will be held in the Carolina Playmakers Theatre.

Needed In Life—House Faith, Work, Play All

By Lloyd Little

"Peekaboo You Rascal You, Come Out From Behind That Chair," "Susanna," and "Casey Jones" musically spiced the "Last Lecture" of Chancellor Emeritus Robert B. House last night.

More than 200 students, faculty members and visitors and the listening audience of radio station WUNC heard House present "Words and Music," the first in the annual Last Lecture series.

After an introduction by David Grigg, Student Body President, the professor pointed out that "faith, work and play" summed up his philosophy of life.

The professor then pulled out a mouth-harp or harmonica and began to play the toe-tapping melody of "O Susanna." House said that tune symbolized the pioneer spirit of young America.

"Our ancestors loved that song which represented one of the great epics of faith and courage in the world," said House. He defined faith as the willingness to try life without demanding a blueprint for everything.

His next tune, "Casey Jones" symbolized work, said House, adding that the hard work of Americans everywhere has saved the free world time and time again.

"Play is the compliment of work," said House, in that it is like a coin—play on one side and work on the other.

The waltz "Peekaboo You Rascal You, Come Out From Behind That Chair," is a musical symbol of play, said the professor.

Returning to the UNC history department after absences in the pursuit of research are Professors E. P. Douglass, S. B. Baxter, and G. B. Tindall.

Professor Douglass has been away from the department for the past three years.

In 1957 and 1958, he was a Fulbright professor of American History, teaching at the University of Erlangen, Germany.

From 1958 to the present he has been working on a history of American free enterprise under a grant of the Richardson Foundation of Greensboro, N. C., and New York.

Professor Douglass's research areas are early American history and business history.

Studied in Hague
For the past year, Professor Baxter has been studying in the Hague and in London doing research for a biography he is writing on King William III of England. Professor Baxter had a Guggenheim Fellowship for this area of research.

His biography will be the only biography in the English language using Hague materials.

Professor Baxter's research area is 17th century English history.

Professor Tindall, under a grant from the Social Science

Research Council, has been obtaining material for the past year and a half for the tenth volume in a 10 volume series entitled "A History of the South."
