Carolina Faces The Irish Of Notre Dame; 40,000 Expected To Fill Kenan Stadium For Dramatic Homecoming Grid Battle

Queens, Dances, Parties Are Weekend Highlights; Alumni-Alumnae Welcomed

By HENRY MAYER

Carolina and Chapel Hill roll out the red carpet today for returning grads, parents, dates and friends in the umpteenth annual observance of Homecoming.

Festivities, under the direction of Mike Deutsch and the Carolina Athletic Council, get underway at 8 a.m. this morning with the judging of homecoming displays.

Fraternities and dorms will compete for honors in their respective divisions, with a trophy being presented to the campus-wide winner.

Only the sororities will not take part in the decorating activities this year. "Too close to rush," was the explanation offered for their lack of participation according to Swag Grimsley, CAA president.

In addition to the living unit displays, downtown merchants are exhibiting "Tame Notre Dame" admonitions (courtesy of the UNC Cardboard) and signs welcoming grads of both sexes.

Both theatres have "Beat the Irish" messages adorning their marquees.

The day's highlight will be, of course, the 2 p.m. game between the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the UNC Tar Heels.

Athletic officials expect upwards of 40,000 spectators for the clash, and fair weather may push the total attendance to an all-time high.

The 1960 Homecoming Queen will be crowned during the traditional halftime festivities. Student Body President David Grigg will do the honors.

The seven finalists, who were selected from a list of 25 on Wednesday, are as follows:

Jane Allen, Lambert, Miss., junior, sponsored by Sigma Nu; Jayne Brown, Troutman, senior, sponsored by Ruffin Dorm; Jann Gannaway, Charlotte, junior, sponsored by TEP; Janice Haley, Lookout Mtn., Tenn., junior, sponsored by SAE; Gail Karnet, Avondale Estates, Ga., junior, sponsored by Tri-Delt; Jane Page, Richmond, Va., junior, sponsored by KA; and Connie Pinyoun, Raleigh, junior, sponsored by Alderman Dorm.

Rhodes Grant Requests Due By Tuesday

Applicants for the annual Rhodes Scholarships are reminded that blanks must be returned to Dean J. Carlyle Sitterton in 203 South Building by Tuesday.

The scholarships, with an annual stipend of $2100, are awarded for two years at Oxford University in England and are subject to renewal pending the judgment of the Rhodes trustees.

The conditions of eligibility for these grants include that the candidate be a single male citizen of the United States with at least five years' residence.

The applicant must, by October 1 of the year in which he applies, be at least 18 and not over 24 years old. In addition, he must have at least a junior standing at the university.

Thirty-two scholarships are awarded annually, four to each of eight geographical districts in the United States.

The Queen and her court will also appear at the Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Order of the Grail, in Woollen Gym from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Admission will be $1 per couple or stags. Coeds will be admitted free.

In addition to the halftime beauty pageant, the UNC Marching Tar Heels will salute the returning grads with their rendition of "Auld Lang Syne."

The band will also honor the ROTC units on campus by playing "Anchors Aweigh" and "Wild Blue Yonder."

The Department of Radio, Television and Motion Pictures will receive special attention as the band forms a camera and offers the "World Events March."

The UNC Cardboard Club will also be active during the intermission. Ten stunts have been planned for today, according to President Tom Lawrence.

The first stunt will be "Welcome—Grads (with pictures of the Bell Tower and the Old Well) and N.D. (in green and white)."

Then the section will spell out the initials "UNC." Next will be a series of stunts showing the Carolina ram eyeing a Notre Dame clover before turning around and kicking it. The Confederate flag will be the sixth stunt followed by an orange flag to irritate the green-loving Irish.

Your GMAB Group Keeps UNC Filled In On Issues

In addition to providing all manner of entertainment for Carolina students GMAB also attempts to keep the campus abreast of current issues—political and otherwise—through its Current Affairs committee.

Dormant last year, the committee has been revitalized this year under the guidance of Leafy Pollock, and is expected to become a forceful and important part of the GM program.

The basic function of the committee is to keep students well informed on issues of current consequence. Through the media of outdoor debates, films and lectures the committee will attempt to spotlight controversial issues in their complete perspective.

Already scheduled for this year (dates to be announced) are a series of "Soapbox Debates" in Y Court, a documentary film program based on the network television production, "Open Mind," and a year-long procession of speakers.

Teams Trying To Recover From Poor Starts; Irish Slightly Favored Today

By Rip Slusser

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame invade Kenan Stadium this afternoon to battle the Tar Heels for the 11th time. As an added feature Homecoming is being celebrated with Homecoming Queen candidates to be presented at halftime.

The series with the Irish has been a very discouraging one for the Blue and White. Ten times these teams have met and ten times Notre Dame has come out on top. Last year they beat Carolina convincingly, 28-8.

Notre Dame and Carolina met in 1949 when the Irish, after a close first half, came on to trounce the Tar Heels, 41-6. Many of the games have been close, with a couple of routs. The closest the Tar Heels came to topping the boys from South Bend was in 1951 with the 12-7 verdict maintained by Notre Dame.

Irish Are 1-1 Coach Joe Kuharich brings his squad into this game with a 1-1 seasonal record. They have a win over California and a staggering 51-19 defeat at the hands of Purdue. The Tar Heels have lost their first two encounters, bowing to North Carolina State and Miami.

Carolina seems to have recuperated from the physical beating they took in Miami last weekend, with only Fred Mueller on the doubtful list. Coach Jim Hickey promoted junior Ray Farris to the number one quarterback spot, replacing Ward Marslander. In another move this past week, he put end John Runco on the second unit, switching him from the third. Runco scored a touchdown and caught a 55-yard pass last week to earn the promotion.

Notre Dame has made some switches also, the most notable placing of Daryle Lamonica in the first team quarterback position. The injury list claimed two Irish starters — halfback Red Mack and end John Powers—both of whom received torn knee ligaments and are finished for the season. George Sefcik will replace Mack, while Dennis Murphy or Max Burnell will sub for Powers.

Game time is 2 p.m. in Kenan Stadium. A sellout crowd of over 43,000 is expected to witness the battle.

Irish sparkplug so far this season has been Bob Scarpitto, who has been the standout halfback. He leads the team in scoring with three touchdowns, and in rushing with 160 gained in 15 carries for a 10.7 average.

Tar Heel standouts so far have included center and co-captain Rip Hawkins, guard and the other co-captain Frank Riggs, end John Schroeder and quarterback Ray Farris.

Sit-In Bill Is Tabled By Legislature

A resolution calling for the endorsement of sit-in strikes at lunch counters was tabled by the Student Legislature Thursday night.

The action was taken despite considerable support from the floor.

Jim Scott, last year's sponsor of the carry-over bill, was its principal defender.

He did not consider the sit-in issue dead "especially in the minds of minority groups here in Chapel Hill or elsewhere. Students need to acquaint themselves with the world beyond the campus."

The Loyalty Oath resolution, urging the Federal Government to repeal the Loyalty Oath provision of the 1958 National Defense Act, passed 19 to 8.

"Loyalty is not a thing to be signed away on the dotted line," asserted Jim Scott, sponsor of the bill last year.

To former representative Davis Young it was "An insult to my integrity to take this oath."

Others argued that the oath is a mere formality and perhaps a form of insurance "in that the government has a financial stake involved."

A $600 appropriation to produce a movie on the Carolina Honor Code was sent back to the Financial Committee. Three dollars was appropriated for a new legislative gavel. Early in the session there was a call for a quorum, since approximately one-third of the legislators were absent.

World News in Brief

Soviets May Uphold Interests 'By Force,' Says Khrushchev

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Friday the Soviet Union will uphold its interests outside the United Nations "by force" unless Communist and neutral states are given equality in the world organization.

The Soviet leader told the U.N. Correspondents Association Russia would not accept Dag Hammarskjold as secretary-general, even if 99 per cent of the U.N. members voted for him.

In his demand for Hammarskjold's replacement by a three-man presidium—one each from the Communist, neutralist and Western countries—he said, he was asking only for "just rights."

Khrushchev May Go Home Next Week

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Russians indicated Friday that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will go home to the Kremlin early next week.

The Soviet government received permission to bring two planes into Idlewild International Airport Monday or Tuesday, police reported.

Russian officials also have called what appears to be Khrushchev's farewell news conference for Monday or Tuesday.

Cuba Accuses U. S. Of Plot

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Foreign Minister Raul Rao charged Friday American-made bombers were in Guatemala as part of a plot either to attack Cuba or to stage a faked Cuban attack on Guatemala.

Rao also told the United Nations General Assembly that the United States was planning an act of aggression from the American naval base at Guantanamo so as to provoke a conflict which would lead to a break of diplomatic relations.

Lumumba Accused Of Mass Massacre

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Joseph Lelunga, president of the Baluba tribal association in the "mining state" which seceded from the Congo in Kasai Province, Thursday accused ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba's troops of massacring more than 1,500 men, women and children in the area.

Lelunga said the slayings took place in the Bakwanga and Shilenge areas since last August when Lumumba's soldiers invaded the mining state to put down the independence movement.

Nationalist China Fight Red Admission

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Nationalist China fought the admission of Communist China to the United Nations Friday with the charge that the Peiping regime is the world's greatest menace to peace.

Ambassador Tingfu F. Tsiang of Nationalist China made the charge as the assembly prepared to vote on the perennial problem of whether to admit the Red Chinese.

What They're Saying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican Richard M. Nixon and Democrat John F. Kennedy traded sharp charges of "distortion" and "distortion" and "defeatism" Friday night in a televised battle for uncommitted voters in the Nov. 8 election.

In contrast, the candidates virtually agreed on their approach to any summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

But they clashed on the civil rights issue, with Kennedy accusing Nixon of failing to discuss the heart of the problem. He referred to enforcement of the Supreme Court's school integration order and a fair employment practices commission.

Nixon said he thought emphasis should be placed on removing discrimination in hiring by government contractors and providing federal aid to schools trying to integrate. Turning to Negro sit-ins, he said such discrimination was "wrong."

Kennedy replied that Nixon has failed to call for an FEPC that would insure job equality. And he said it is up to the President to set a "moral tone" for the nation in the rights field. Nixon also said presidential leadership was necessary.

The first question tossed at the candidates dealt with the Cuban situation and was directed at Nixon.

He was asked about Kennedy's charge that the Eisenhower administration must take responsibility for Cuba's swing toward the Communist camp. He was asked to compare this with statements Nixon made against the Democrats in past political campaigns accusing the Truman administration of losing China to the Reds.

Declaring it was time to "nail a few distortions," Nixon declared that Communist prestige now was at an all-time low, and U.S. prestige at an all-time high. He cited recent United Nations votes to support his position.

Kennedy said in the 1½-minute rebuttal period allotted both Candidates that the United States had been slipping in the United Nations in-fighting. For example, he said, more nations than ever are prepared to vote Red China into the U.N. against this country's wishes.
