What They're Saying

United Press International
PITTSBURGH—Sen. John F. Kennedy, striking at his GOP opponent in North and South, called Monday night for a 10-year attack on the nation's urban problems to reverse what he called a "shameful record" of Republican neglect.

He urged that urban affairs be placed under a cabinet secretary.

The Democratic presidential candidate launched a blistering attack on Vice President Richard M. Nixon's civil rights stand in the South earlier Monday, and criticized him in industrial Pittsburgh, a modern example of urban rebirth.

Kennedy called Nixon's urban program an "empty shell."

It was a day that saw the Massachusetts senator accusing the vice president of talking about civil rights one way in the South and another way in the North. He said he did not think Nixon is "fooling anyone, North or South."

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon campaigned in the reclamation-conscious West Monday, accusing Sen. John F. Kennedy of being a "Johnny come lately" in supporting water and power projects.

Nixon flew here from Denver where he told a downtown street rally his Democratic opponent was guilty of a "glaring misrepresentation" in saying the Soviet Union would, by 1975, out-produce the United States in electric power.

The vice president said Kennedy might have been inadvertent when he forecast the Soviet Union would pass the United States in power production.

To even equal U.S. power production, Nixon said, the Soviet Union would "have to install the equivalent of eight Grand Coulee dams per year for 17 years."

The Nixon speech in Denver, and one earlier in Billings, Mont., reflected the vice president's strategy of intensifying his campaign against Kennedy.

World News in Brief

France, Germany May Plan Paris 'Little Summit' Conference

PARIS (UPI)—Reliable French sources said Monday that France and Germany plan to summon a European "little summit" conference in Paris in mid-December to try to heal the rift between President de Gaulle and his allies over the future of NATO.

Such a conference, these sources said, would bring together the heads of government of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands.

According to French sources, a decision to call the conference was reached by French Premier Michel Debre and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during a stormy meeting Friday and Saturday in the West German capital of Bonn.

Troops Thwart Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Heavily armed Congolese troops moved Monday to thwart a comeback bid by deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba and strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu's regime demanded that U.N. troops surrender Lumumba by mid-afternoon Tuesday.

Mobutu's troops sealed off Parliament to keep Lumumba supporters from staging a confidence vote. Other troops surrounded Lumumba's residence and staged a bayonet charge to disperse a crowd demanding the ousted premier's return to power.

'Y' Holds Interviews For New Publication

Interviews will begin today for staff positions on Parlance, a new publication sponsored by the YMCA.

Positions open include associate editor, business manager, advertising manager, circulation manager, art and writing staffs. Carroll Raver has been selected editor of the new magazine.

Interviews will also be held Wednesday and Thursday in the

YACK PICTURES

Juniors, 1, 2, 3, Dental Students, Dental Hygiene Students, Pharmacy Students, and Special Students are to have their pictures made for the 1961 Yackety Yack Monday through Friday between 1 and 6 p.m. in the basement of Graham Memorial.

Men are to wear dark coats and ties with white shirts, while women are to wear black sweaters.

Extension: Sophomores, Graduates, Public Health Students and 1, 2, 3, Medical Students may have their pictures taken Monday through Friday also. A late fee of $1.00 will be charged.

Y Building from 2-4 p.m. Parlance has been described as "a medium through which students can speak in the form of satire, lampoon or argument." Editor Raver has announced that "the theme of all articles must be constructive—in no way defeatist or negativistic—and that the magazine seeks quality above all."

Parlance will not include creative writing, although "good" poetry, art and humorous articles with a "serious intent" will be considered. The primary purpose of the new magazine is, in the words of the editor, "to build an image of Carolina in the minds of the public, and to stand as a reminder to students of their responsibilities as educated individuals in a democratic nation."

"It is also intended," according to Raver, "to make the publication a common ground for argument and discussion. It has been dedicated to that illusive thing called quality, while making its highest purpose the presentation of ideas that are significant expressions of the university's highest function, the stimulation of thought."

Big Group Expected UNC Celebrates

By PETE IVEY

The 167th birthday of the University will be celebrated here Wednesday at 11 a.m. in Memorial Hall, with one of the largest public gatherings expected ever to attend a "University Day" at Chapel Hill.

Two big events of the day will be a major address by the president of Harvard University, Nathan M. Pusey, and the presentation to the University Library of its "one millionth" book.

The Library and its role in the life of the University is the central theme of the University Day activities this year. The Hanes Foundation of Winston-Salem is giving the millionth volume, to be added to the famed Hanes Collection.

Aycock To Preside
Chancellor William B. Aycock will preside at the ceremonies. The faculty of the University will attend, and there will be an academic procession.

Festivities will begin tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Carolina Inn where the Friends of the Library will have a special dinner meeting as a tribute to the outstanding activities of some of their most active members and member families.

The official ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall with an address given by the President of Harvard University, Nathan M. Pusey.

The "one millionth" book in the Library here is being given in honor of the late Robert M. Hanes and his widow, Mrs. Mildred Borden Hanes. Their son, Frank Borden Hanes, of Winston-Salem, will present the book. The title of the book will be announced at the presentation.

Important Feature

An important feature of the celebration is the issuance of seven publications honoring the Library and its benefactors. They are as follows: "The Library of the First State University: A Review of Its Past and a Look at Its Future," by Louis Round Wilson, retired University Librarian; a pamphlet on the "one millionth" volume, by William S. Wells, Kenan professor in the department of English; "Incunabula in the Hanes Collection," second edition, compiled by Associate Librarian Olan V. Cook; "Scholarship and Legend: William Henry Hoyt's Research on the Noy Controversy," by George V. Taylor, associate professor in the department of history; "Graduate School Dissertations and Theses, 1945-59," by the Staff of the Humanities Division of the Library; "Annual Report, 1959-60," by Jerrold Orne, University Librarian, and "The Bookmark," issue No. 30, a special feature length edition.

Dealer To Speak

At 4 p.m. Wednesday, distinguished bookman Professor Helmut Lehmann-Haupt, who is associated with H. P. Kraus in New York City, one of the foremost rare book dealers in the country, will speak in the Wilson Library on the history of the book. Professor Lehmann-Haupt's speech will conclude the day's festivities, but the Wilson Library will hold open house throughout the afternoon, with many displays honoring notable gifts and acquisitions of the Library for all to see.

Coeds' Dorm Invaded By Drunk Male

By SUSAN LEWIS

Coed dorms are certainly attracting the males these days, even if the housemothers don't appreciate this sort of attention.

Alderman found itself the unwilling hostess for an inebriated late visitor last week.

This past weekend McIver had its turn with another intoxicated male in another restricted area.

Enters in Basement
It seems a local student found his way late Saturday night through an unlocked basement entrance and was wandering around the dorm's lower regions.

A pajama-clad coed on her way to the coke machine met him and calmly stated that he should leave immediately.

Not comprehending, he stared blankly at her and asked, "Why are you in your pajamas?" "This is a girls' dorm, it's getting late and we're ready to go to bed," she answered.

Horrorified Reply
Suddenly, realization dawned across his face. "Ohhh, ma'am, you mean I'm in a girls' dorm?" came the horrified reply.

Debators Assail House Group During Meeting

The Di-Phi will debate a resolution advocating "the abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee" at their weekly meeting tonight.

The debate will take place in the Di Hall, 3rd floor, New West, at 8 p.m. tonight. Yack pictures will be taken, and the public is invited to attend.

The full text of the resolution reads as follows: "Whereas the primary function of the House Committee on Un-American Activities Committee is investigation which has little or no relation to legislation;

"And whereas the activities of the committee have served to discredit the institution of congressional investigation;

"And whereas the committee has been to a great extent responsible for the demoralization of employees of the federal government;

"Be it resolved that the Congress of the United States should abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities."

CLOSING DATE ANNOUNCED

Any organization wanting to be included in the 1961 Yackety Yack must sign their contract no later than Oct. 20, Business Manager Jimmy Smalley announced yesterday.

The contracts are signed in the Yack office in the GM basement by the editor, managing editor and business manager.

Grail Presents 6 Scholarships

The Order of the Grail awarded six scholarships last week to students at the University.

These scholarships, valued at $100 each, are awarded each semester to students who have demonstrated their ability to perform outstanding college work.

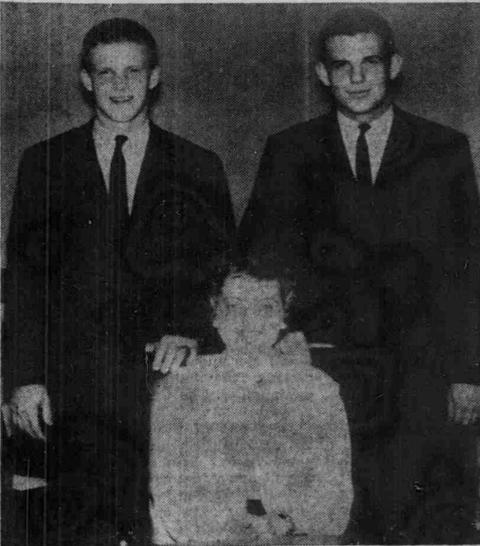

Students receiving the scholarships were: Kenneth Baucom, Monroe; William Ivey, Asheville; Rueben Moore, Atkinson; Currell Pretlow, Warrenton; and David Setzer, Old Fort.

The Order of the Grail is able to finance these awards and nine similar grants each year by sponsoring dances and by selling class rings.

INFIRMARY

Students in the Infirmary Monday included the following: Sally Webb, Ann Dorch, Mary Morris, Robert Williams, Charlie Shaffer, James Israel, Peter Krone, Thomas Hayes, Richard Bramely, James Browder and Carl Boswell. Infirmary hours are 9-11:30 a.m. and 2-5 p.m. daily.

GMAB Committees Begin Interview Of Volunteers

GMAB EXECUTIVE officers (l-r) Inman Allen, vice-president; Anne Towers, secretary; R. V. Fulk, president, will be in charge of "Committee Sign Up Days," scheduled for the Roland Parker Lounges, 4-6 p.m. today and Wednesday. Committee chairmen will also be present at the informal gathering, which is designed to recruit new members for the nine GMAB committees.

Questions Answered By Group Chairmen

GMAB Committee Sign Up Days will be held today and Wednesday from 4-6 p.m. in GM's Roland Parker Lounges.

Committee chairmen will be present at the informal gathering to interview volunteers and to answer questions about the functions of each group.

Canadian Delegates Revealed

Names of delegates and alternates picked to make the mid-semester UNC delegation trip to Toronto University have been released by Student Body President David Grigg.

Women delegates selected include Tina Baensch, Mary Stewart Baker, Barbara Faulkner, Camilla Joseph, Carolyn Kelly, Susan Lewis, Elaine Livas and Linda Rehm. Alternates are Sandy Rogers and Sharon Sullivan.

Men delegates are Bill Baity, Bob Bingham, Mike Childs, Angus Duff, Ray Michaux, Jack Mitchell, Dennis Rash, Bill Sayers, Bob Sevier, Moyer Smith and Bill Whichard. Alternates are Ed Riner and Bob Gibson.

None of the students selected made the trip to Canada last year.

To Attend Meeting
Delegates and alternates are asked to attend a meeting Thursday at 5 p.m. in upstairs Graham Memorial.

A group of Toronto University students will visit the campus Nov. 11-13. The UNC delegation will return the visit between fall and spring semesters. The trip to Canada will last about five days, allowing three days for transportation to and from Toronto.

Means of transportation and final costs for each delegate have not yet been determined, although Grigg said Monday that he doubted the costs would not run over $50 per student.

"The selection committee would like to emphasize the extreme difficulty in choosing the students," Grigg said. The 22 delegates and four alternates were finally chosen from over 100 applicants.

Selectors

Georgia Visitor Bares Joy Over Ball Game

By SUSAN LEWIS

Tar Heels were not the only ones delighted with Saturday's victory.

A Georgia visitor was equally delighted and bared his joy—among other things.

The Chi Phis were glad to have such a happy chap at their party. But they wish he had dressed for it.

Apparently he was upstairs showering when the first notes of the combo rang through the house.

Not wishing to miss anything, he grabbed a towel (a small one) and joined the festivities downstairs.

Everything was fine so long as he kept his back to the wall. Later, as his glee increased, he borrowed a pair of skivvies and a sports coat and trekked up the street to the DEKE house, where he was presented with a pair of pants.

Clothed, he wasn't quite the party sensation he had been earlier that evening.

Career Meet Set Tonight

C. F. Fleming, Jr., assistant manager at Armstrong Cork Company, will speak tonight at the annual career meeting sponsored by the Placement Service at 7:30 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

The subject of his talk is "What Employers Seek in Graduating Seniors."

Director of the Placement Service, Joe M. Galloway, will explain how his office helps students find jobs in business, industry and government and also teaching positions at colleges and universities.

All senior men and women and graduate students who will seek employment after graduation or military service are invited to attend this meeting.

Carolina (Durham) — Peter Sellers in "I'm All Right, Jack." Times not available.

Center (Durham) — "It Started in Naples" with Sophia Loren and Clark Gable. Times not available.

CARDBOARD CUTUPS — Fans in the Cardboard section of Saturday's game seem to be more interested in keeping dry than in performing card stunts. Minutes later the cards were thrown across the stands as Carolina scored.

CAA President Issues Reprimand

The throwing of Cardboard Club cards intended for halftime stunts at Saturday's Carolina-Notre Dame football game has drawn a reprimand from Carolina Athletic Association President Swag Grimsley.

"We can not condone such spirited but immature action," Grimsley said after the game. "Besides the disruption of the stunts for which Cardboard Club President Tom Lawrence worked so hard, the throwing might have resulted in injuries to fans."

The card throwing resulted in the cancellation of the scheduled stunts, including a homecoming welcome to UNC alumni.

Lawrence announced during the game that the card section would be discontinued. Monday, an announcement appeared on the Emerson Stadium headquarters of the Cardboard Club stating that only the stunts for Saturday's game with Wake Forest had been cancelled, but the future of the entire club is still in doubt.
