

Shotts Given Office

Claude C. Shotts, general secretary of the University YMCA, was elected chairman of the Southeastern Regional Executive Committee of the American Friends Service Committee at a meeting held in High Point last week. He has been a member of the executive committee since 1947. Previous to that year Mr. Shotts held various executive positions with the Friends, including direction of relief work in Germany for two years following World War II.

The AFSC Southeastern Regional Office, located in High Point, is one of eleven regional divisions of Friends in the United States. The thirty-man executive committee is a sub-committee of the Board of Directors of the national office in Philadelphia and responsible for activities in six southeastern states.

Work Directed

Its staff of seven people direct work in the fields of peace education, merit employment, college efforts, school integration, the interpretation of Friends' concern for human suffering and conflict in our present world. The office also maintains a clothing center and takes an active part in Friends' relief work wherever there is human need.

Shotts recently returned from Chicago where he attended the Conference on Education Abroad. He is director of the Seminars Abroad program of the campus YMCA.

The Chicago conference was called by the American Association of Colleges, the Institute of International Education and the Experiment in International Living. More than 300 colleges having programs of undergraduate education abroad sent representatives as well as a number of foreign universities and other educational agencies from the United States and abroad.

Programs Vary

"Foreign educational programs in the different colleges vary," Shotts said on his return to Chapel Hill, "from summer seminars and exchange programs to Junior Year Abroad—and from a small number of students in some colleges to a whole class in others. Foreign study is made attractive to students and to many of our overcrowded colleges because it costs no more for professors and students to go abroad for a year than it would remain on campus in American schools." Experiences at Carolina in education abroad include the Goettingen Exchange Program which was initiated in 1954 and Seminars Abroad which began in 1957. During the past year 54 students took part in the European phase of Seminars Abroad by spending two months in travel and seminars in seven countries of western Europe.

On The Campus

The YW-YMCA Committee for Foreign Student Work will hold a supper meeting at 5:30 p.m. tonight in the upstairs room of Lenoir Hall.

The 2nd Chancellor's Reception for new faculty members, scheduled for Thursday evening, has been cancelled due to the conflict with the Kennedy-Nixon debate.

The U.P. will meet at 7:30 tonight in Gerard Hall. The convention will be a membership kickoff drive, and an introduction to the party and its work.

The S.P. will meet at 7:30 tonight in Roland Parker I and II.

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society will meet at 7:30 tonight in 265 Phillips Hall. Members are asked to note the change of meeting room. 265 is in the west end of the new wing of Phillips.

Sea Animals Are Compared

A LOOK AT FISH TUMORS — Noted German animal physiologist, Dr. Carl Schlieper, inspects the results of the use of scientific apparatus on the physiology of fish tumors in the laboratory of Dr. Douglas Humm, associate

The first book in the Library of the first state university, the University of North Carolina, was "The Works of the Right Reverend Father in God Thomas Wilson, D.D., Lord Bishop of Sodor and Man."

Salt, Water Content Tests Being Run On Baltic, Atlantic Mollusks

By NANCY VON LAZAR

Scallops and mussels in the Baltic Sea and in the Atlantic Ocean are being compared to one another to note how they resist changes in the salt content of the water and water temperature.

The study is being conducted by Dr. Carl Schlieper, of the Institute fur Meereskunde, of the University of Kiel, Germany. This is the only institute of oceanography in Germany. Dr. Schlieper is visiting the zoology department here.

Three Seminars

Dr. Schlieper is giving three seminars on "Ecological Physiology of Brackish Water Animals." He is an outstanding researcher in the general field of animal physiology. His laboratory in Kiel is located on the Baltic Sea, and his particular study is devoted to the effects of changing temperatures and salinities on the animal population of the sea. His findings include data gathered from the Atlantic coast of the United States where the temperature range is much greater than that of the more constant temperature of the Baltic Sea.

Temperatures Studied

The three temperature ranges studied were at Woods Hole, Cape Cod; Beaufort, N. C.; and in the Florida Keys. The subject of investigation was mollusks. It was found that the scallop is not as resistant to changes in salinity and temperature as, for example, the common American oyster which is extremely resistant and which can exist in low salinity with high or low temperature. In the cool Baltic Sea, the oyster can resist dilution of the sea water, but not if the temperature is raised.

In addition to Dr. Schlieper's investigations in change of temperature and salinity, Professor C. E. Jenner, chairman of the department of zoology here, is investigating the effects of light on aquatic life.

and Grigg. "It was impossible to choose everyone who was qualified to go. I would highly recommend that all those who applied and are interested in the program to help entertain the Toronto visitors on the campus," Grigg said.

"I would encourage those eliminated this year to apply for the delegation again next year," Grigg said.

"The main purpose of the program I think is the exchange of ideas through social, sports and special speakers contacts. While it is a cultural exchange, it is not necessarily an altogether intellectual one," Grigg said.

"Each delegate will have one person assigned to him to 'look after him' during the visit, but all activities will be conducted on the group idea," Grigg said.

"HOME SWEET HOMECOMING"

A great number of people have been asking me lately, "What is Homecoming?" but I have been so busy trying to find out why my new sports car leaks that I haven't had time to answer. I am now pleased to report that I finally discovered why my sports car leaks—I have been driving it upside down—and so I am ready today to turn my attention to Homecoming.

Let's begin with definitions. Homecoming is a weekend when old grads return to their alma maters to watch a football game, visit old classrooms and dormitories and inspect each other's bald spots.

The weekend is marked by the singing of old songs, the slapping of old backs and the frequent exchange of such greetings as "Harry, you old polecat!" or "Harry, you old porcupine!" or "Harry, you old rooster!" or "Harry, you old wombat!" As you can see, all old grads are named Harry.

It is not just old grads who behave with such liveliness during Homecoming; the faculty also comports itself with unaccustomed animation. Teachers laugh and smile and pound backs and keep shouting "Harry, you old Airedale!" This scholarly behavior is carried on in the hope that old grads, in a transport of bonhomie will endow a new geology building.

The old grads, however, are seldom seduced. By game time on Saturday their backs are so sore, their eyeballs so eroded, their extremities so frayed, that it is impossible to get a kind word out of them, much less a new geology building.

Even the football game does not improve their tempers. "Humph!" they snort as the home team completes a 101-yard march to a touchdown. "Do you call that football? Why, back in my day, they'd have been over on the first down!" By George, football was football in those days—not this namby-pamby girls' game that passes for football today! Take a look at that bench—50 substitutes sitting there. Why, in my day, there were 11 men on a team and that was it. When you broke a leg, they slapped a piece of tape on it and you went right back in. Why, I remember the big game against State. Harry Sigafos, our star quarterback, was killed in the third quarter. I mean, he was pronounced dead. But did that stop old Harry? Not on your tinfoil! Back in he went and kicked the winning drop kick in the last four seconds of play, dead as he was. Back in my day, they played football, by George!

Everything, say the old grads, was better back in their day—everything except one. Even the most unreconstructed of the old grads has to admit that back in his day they never had a smoke like Marlboro—never a cigarette with such a lot to like—never a filter so easy drawing, a flavor so mild yet hearty, so abundant, so bountiful—never a choice of flip-top box or soft pack.

So old grads, young grads, and undergrads, why don't you settle back and have a full-flavored smoke? Try Marlboro, the filtered cigarette with the unfiltered taste, and Homecoming will be a happy occasion and the sun will shine and the air will be filled with the murmur of wings and no man's hand will be raised against you.

At Homecoming time—or any time—try Marlboro's unfiltered companion cigarette—mild, flavorful Philip Morris... Regular size or king size Commander—a brand new and happy experience in smoking! Have a Commander—welcome aboard!
