Heels Host Students From Toronto U.

Canadians Arrive Today For Weekend; Carolina Will Return Visit In 1961

Carolina will play host to 24 University of Toronto students this weekend.

Now in its second year, the Toronto Exchange Program includes a weekend visit of 24 Canadians (equally divided between the sexes) to the UNC campus and a return visit to Toronto by Carolina students between semesters.

The Canadian students will arrive by bus today at 1 p.m. in the Planetarium parking lot and will be greeted by Student Government officials and 24 student hosts chosen by a Student Government selections committee.

After a light lunch in the Rendezvous Room, the group will be welcomed by President William Friday and later by Chancellor Emeritus Robert B. House.

Supper at the Zoom Zoom will be followed by the Fall Germans concert and a party at Lakesides Estates in Durham.

Saturday's agenda includes a sightseeing tour of Durham and Chapel Hill, a look at the stars on the Planetarium dome, lunch at various sorority houses, the Carolina-Maryland football game, after-the-game fraternity parties, dinner at the University Methodist Church, (with Ray Dawson, political science instructor, as speaker) and a party at the Beta Bar.

Sunday the group will eat breakfast in the Monogram Club, attend University Methodist Church morning worship, and eat dinner in Lenoir Hall.

The Canadian guests will leave for Toronto sometime Sunday afternoon.

Each Canadian is assigned to one of the Carolina students who will make the return trip to Toronto in January.

Free Flick's Oscar Winner, 'Karamazov'

Two film masterpieces are slated for this week-end's special Free Flick program.

Tonight's "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," Frank Capra's Oscar winning production of the adventures of a small town poet who goes to New York after inheriting a fortune and the problems he encounters in trying to give away a million dollars.

Starring Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur in the title role, this film was one of Capra's greatest triumphs as a producer-director and is said to be one of the greatest comedies to ever come out of Hollywood.

Adapted From Novel
Tomorrow night's movie is "The Brothers Karamazov," adapted from Fedor Dostoevski's great novel of the same name.

Concerned with sin and salvation, greed and depravity, this film examines the relationships among a profligate father and his three legitimate and one illegitimate sons.

At the center of the conflict is the love of both the father and the eldest son for the voluptuous and passionate blond mistress whom each tries to keep for himself. When the father is killed, the blame falls upon the eldest son.

Budget Request Slashed

State Board Recommends Cut Of 67.5%

Reductions Will 'Jeopardize' UNC Facilities—Friday

By JIM CLODFELTER

North Carolina's State Board of Higher Education yesterday radically slashed into Consolidated University requests for 1961-63 appropriations.

The Board released its recommendation that the university's request for funds for improvement be cut by 67.5 per cent for the first year of the biennium and 76.6 per cent for the second year.

This recommendation, to go into effect, must be accepted by the Advisory Budget Commission and the 1961 State Legislature.

Friday Protests

President William Friday of the Consolidated University protested that "these several reductions . . . will seriously jeopardize our facilities." Friday also said that the cuts would "do severe damage to the quality of the university."

Dr. J. Harris Purks, director of the Board, said the recommendations were to be considered the minimum the colleges needed.

The Consolidated University budget included hoped-for appropriations for the University at Chapel Hill, Woman's College, and North Carolina State University.

Grigg Urging Group Bring 'Big Names'

David Grigg, student body president, announced yesterday that he would like to see an organization formed to sponsor "big-name" entertainment on campus.

"One of the biggest problems on this campus," he said, "is the lack of social facilities and functions, particularly in dormitories."

"I think the time has now come to do something about the situation. If enough students are interested in working in this organization, we will begin work right away. With the financial backing of Student Government it can be done."

The formation and work of such an organization would be difficult, says Grigg, "but we will never know what can be done until we try. If the Student Body wants this and is willing to work for it, then I believe it can be done."

Favoring the idea is not enough, says Grigg. Students must be willing to work. Students interested in working on this project should call 2-1463 or come by the Student Government office and leave his name and address.

"This is a project for students," said Grigg, "so, if students are interested, I am sure they will respond."

Infirmary

Those Signing Chain Letters Listed By Long

Asst. Dean of Student Affairs William G. Long said Wednesday he has a "list" of persons who have signed illegal chain letters circulating on the UNC campus.

Long commented that no action would be taken against these persons unless they persisted in the chain letter violations.

He announced yesterday that a Board of Trustees rule prohibits merchandising on the campus except in the student stores.

Long Adds

The statement by Long added that, "After today all UNC students will be held responsible for any chain letter violations."

Explaining why no action would be taken against those named on the "list," Long said there was no specific stipulation in the IDC regulations concerning the chain letters.

"Besides, I don't believe in being retroactive," Long said. The chain letters are signed by persons who hope to receive the "payoff" granted for not breaking the chain. The reward varies from large sums of money to liquor.

Sanford Says He Advocates Bond Issue

By WAYNE KING and ED RINER

A bond issue might be the answer to the state and the University's capital improvement requests.

Governor-elect Terry Sanford has told the DTH he would advocate a bond issue to take care of both state and UNC capital improvements.

However, the Democratic winner would not say if an undergraduate-student union should be included in the bond issue.

He was noncommittal on the whole issue of the University's budget requests except to say "there is a definite need for a student union at the University (at Chapel Hill), but Western Carolina needs one also."

He further stated he "was not fully aware of all the other considerations that must be met along with those of the University," but he would like "to see the schools, both secondary and college level, get as much help as the people of North Carolina can give them."

Sanford spoke of UNC as the "intellectual leader of the South . . . (and) do everything possible to keep it so."

"The facilities for higher education in North Carolina exceed those of high schools in quality. . . . These must be taken care of first—then all education in North Carolina will benefit."

UNC Grads Star In 'Mattress' Show

When "Once Upon A Mattress" is presented in Chapel Hill Wednesday, musical comedy fans in Chapel Hill will not only see a show which created a sensation in New York, but also the talents of a young Tar Heel dancer, Chee Davis of Nashville.

Chee, a blue-eyed five foot four blonde, dances, sings, and has the bit part of Lady Mabelle in the show.

Students at the University of North Carolina will recall many performances on the campus by Chee and her brother Tom (class of 1958) who danced as a team and made several appearances with Jimmy Capps of Raleigh on his "Our Best to You" shows.

Following Chee's and Tom's graduations from St. Mary's and Carolina, the activities of the team had to be interrupted: Tom was sent to the Middle East after being commissioned in the Navy and Chee moved to New York City to continue study in dancing and voice.

Tour of Europe
In between stenographic jobs, she made a USO tour of Germany and France, another of Greenland, taught at the June Taylor School of Dance, and last summer did stock in Chicago with a newly formed company "The Melody Top" which featured such stars as Shelley Berman, Genevieve, John Raitt, Jaye P. Morgan, and Dennis Day.

It was following her return this fall that she successfully auditioned for the "Mattress" company.

In the meantime Tom has moved to New York where he is employed in Guest Relations at the American Broadcasting Company and studies during time off.

President-Elect Proceeds With 4-Year Plans

Kennedy Popular Vote Margin Slim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly complete returns indicated late Thursday night that President-elect John F. Kennedy may become the fourth "minority" Democratic president since the Civil War.

A tabulation by United Press International, based on all but a fraction of the ballots counted, showed Nixon falling slightly short of getting half the total popular votes cast in his battle against Kennedy.

The statistical review turned up these percentages:
Kennedy 49.98
Nixon 49.46
Other06

The "other" consisted of votes siphoned off by minor party presidential candidates and ballots which went to Mississippi's winning slate of unpledged presidential electors.

Excluding the other candidates and Mississippi, the percentage tabulation read this way:
Kennedy 50.26
Nixon 49.74

There have been 11 "minority" presidents in American election history, but only three Democrats in that category in modern times.

Bowles Or Fulbright Choice For Cabinet?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Chester Bowles, Sen. J. William Fulbright and ex-ambassador David Bruce were reported today to be leading possibilities for secretary of state in the Kennedy administration.

Although President-elect John F. Kennedy doesn't plan to announce his cabinet selections until after Thanksgiving or later, speculation was widespread on his probable choices for top government posts.

Bowles, who is retiring from Congress, was a foreign policy adviser to Kennedy in the presidential campaign.

Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Bruce is a former ambassador to Germany.

Adlai Mentioned

Adlai E. Stevenson, often mentioned as a possible secretary of state, is believed to be out of the running now.

But he is reported to be under consideration as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Here is the speculation of other cabinet posts:

DEFENSE—Speculation centers around Thomas K. Finletter, former Air Force secretary; Dan Kimball, former Navy secretary; Frank Pace, former Army secretary, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., another former Air Force secretary.

1960 Election At A Glance

PRESIDENCY: John F. Kennedy elected in closest race since 1872.

With more than 66 million votes counted, Kennedy had a popular vote lead of slightly more than 300,000.

But he had won 23 states, including California and Illinois, with 337 electoral votes, 68 more than the number required for election.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon won 25 states with 188 electoral votes.

Kennedy was leading in two still-undecided states with 7 electoral votes.

SENATE: Democrats lost two seats to the Republicans, in Delaware and Wyoming, but will retain control by a wide margin, 64 seats to 36 for the Republicans.

HOUSE: Democrats won 257 seats and were leading for two others in still-undecided contests, for indicated total of 259. Republicans won 175 seats, leading for three others, indicated total 178. Democrats thus will retain control by comfortable margin, but GOP scored a net gain of 24 seats over last Congress.

GOVERNORS: Democrats won 15 contests, Republicans 12. Democrats will now control 34 state houses, Republicans 16, a gain of one for the Democrats.

Kennedy Youngest President Elected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John F. Kennedy, aged 43 years and nine months, is the youngest man ever elected president but he is not the youngest to ever hold that office.

Theodore Roosevelt was the youngest chief executive. He moved up to the White House from vice-president 43 days short of his 43rd birthday on Sept. 14, 1901, after President William McKinley was assassinated.

Roosevelt was elected to a four-year term in 1904, 12 days after his 46th birthday. Up until Kennedy's victory, Roosevelt was the youngest man elected to the White House.

LABOR — Some speculation says a major political figure may get the job, such as New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Another possibility is Archibald Cox, a Harvard law professor and Kennedy's "braintrust" adviser on labor matters. A labor name being mentioned is Arthur J. Goldberg, special AFL-CIO counsel.

HEALTH, EDUCATION AND WELFARE — G. Mennen Williams, outgoing governor of Michigan, apparently is a leading candidate.

ATTORNEY GENERAL — Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, an early Kennedy supporter, is the center of speculation. Another name being mentioned is former football star Byron "Whizzer" White, a Denver attorney and prominent in Kennedy's campaign.

AGRICULTURE — Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa, Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, Gov. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin. Loveless lost in his attempt to become senator from Iowa, and Freeman was defeated for re-election as Minnesota governor. Nelson was re-elected in Wisconsin.

INTERIOR — Gov. Stephen L. McNichols of Colorado. Other possibilities are Rep. Stewart L.
