

Zetes, Manly Take Grid Crowns

Loughlin And Purrington Spark Frat Champs; Saintsing Leads Dorm Victors

By KEN FRIEDMAN

The Zetes and Manly. They were the winners of the campus finals in the fraternity and dormitory tag football leagues yesterday afternoon. Zeta Psi eased past Phi Delta Theta, 10-2, while Manly downed Cobb, 13-12.

Mac Patton threw twenty yards to Bill Merriman for the only touchdown in the frat finals. Sandy Allen's toe provided the rest of the margin with the extra point and a thirty-yard field goal.

Once again it was the Zetes' rock-ribbed defense which spelled the difference. Ward Purrington harried the Phi Delt backs all day, and when they managed to connect to the short man, Dave Loughlin was always there to put the stopper on. This pair turned in continuously brilliant performances during the playoffs. Jerry Smith and Jim Holland also shone for the winners and champions.

Phi Delt started out with a rush. Ferg Norton threw to Bill Hubbard who chucked to Tom Evans on the Zete three. But Purrington chased Norton back to the ten on the next play and then Loughlin forced a bad pass to halt the drive. Patton's educated foot got them out of the hole and when they got the pigskin again, the Zetes drove sixty yards for their TD, Patton to Merriman. It stood 7-0 at intermission time.

Dave Barringer broke through the Zete line twice in a row in the opening minutes of the second half to drive them deep in their own territory. Bill Hartung foiled an end run and then Joby Miller, Phi Delt's top player of the day, chased Patton out of the end zone for a safety and two points.

Bill Hubbard and Holland exchanged pass interceptions and the Zetes were on their way again. Holland threw to Loughlin on the Phi Delt 37. A reverse, Loughlin to Lloyd Horton worked to the 29. Patton threw to Bootie Cranz to the 14. Then Patton chucked to Holland, who threw it back to Mac on the five. They lost ground on the next play, but Allen stepped back and arched a thirty-yarder through the uprights to put the tilt on ice.

The Zetes were forced deep down in the shadows of the goal posts once more. But this time a tremendous eighty-yard punt by clutch star Patton pulled them out of the hole. The ever-present Allen intercepted a fe wplays later and it was all over.

The Phi Delt's were able to hit their short ones to the sure-fingered Miller but Loughlin was usually around to prevent matters from getting any more serious. Allen and Horton were superb in their deep secondary spots; Cranz and Holland backed up the line efficiently; and Purrington and Smith kept the pressure on up front. It was a tough combination to beat and the Phi Delt's couldn't do it.

Tommy Saintsing's Manlyites had a rougher time but they got the job done. Bart O'Neal was the hero of the day, intercepting a pass in the second half and toting it 45 yards for the tying score. Sam Inman's extra point provided the winning margin.

Manly scored first, with Gale Edison taking the honors. Cobb bounced back with two quickies by Bob Nooney and Rick Moser to take the half-time lead at 12-6. Then O'Neal picked off the errant toss and dashed those decisive 45 yards.

Cobb threatened twice more. George Swanson threw to Jim Poovey for the longest gain of the day, 70 yards to the Manly 20, but they couldn't push it across. Later, Bob Watkins connected with Nooney to the twenty, only to be foiled again. Paul Swing and Bob Deaton were outstanding for the losers, gathering in the short passes consistently. But they never could get the big one in the second half.

Saintsing should get a pat on the back for his job with the Dorm Champs. It was his hard work and organization which enabled these boys to get as far as they did in the first place. Once they got there, his passing and shifty running enabled them to take all the marbles.

HOW TO BEAT THE BEAT GENERATION

My cousin Herkie Nylet is a sturdy lad of nineteen summers who has, we all believed until recently, a lively intelligence and an assured future. Herkie's father, Walter O. Nylet, is as everyone knows, president of the First National Artificial Cherry Company, world's largest maker of artificial cherries for ladies' hats. Uncle Walter had great plans for Herkie. Last year he sent Herkie to the Maryland College of Humanities, Sciences, and Artificial Cherries, and he intended, upon Herkie's graduation, to find him a nice fat wife and take him into the firm as a full partner.

Could a young man have more pleasing prospects? Of course not. But a couple of months ago, to everyone's consternation, Herkie announced that he was not going into the artificial cherry business. Nor was he going to stay in college. "I am," said Herkie, "a member of the Beat Generation. I am going to San Francisco and grow a beard."

Well sir, you can imagine the commotion in the family when Herkie went traipsing off to San Francisco! Uncle Walter would have gone after him and dragged him home, but unfortunately he was right in the middle of the artificial cherry season. Aunt Thelma couldn't go either because of her old leg trouble. (One of her legs is older than the other.)

"Herkie, how are you?"

So I went. I searched San Francisco for weeks before I found Herkie living under the counter of a Pronto Pup stand. "Herkie, how are you?" I cried, looking distraughtly upon his tangled beard, his corduroy jacket, his stricken eyes.

"Beat," said Herkie.

I offered him a Marlboro and felt instantly better when he took it because when one smokes Marlboros, one cannot be too far removed from the world. One still has, so to speak, a hold on the finer things of life—like good tobacco, like easy-drawing filtration, like settling back and getting comfortable and enjoying a full-flavored smoke. One is, despite all appearances, basically happiness-oriented, fulfillment-directed, pleasure-prone.

"Herkie, what are you doing with yourself?" I asked.

"I am finding myself," he replied. "I am writing a novel in the sand with a pointed stick. I am composing a fugue for clavier and police whistle. I am sculpting in experimental materials—like English muffins."

"And what do you do for fun?" I asked.

"Come," he said and took me to a dank little night club where men in beards and women in basic burlap sat on orange crates and drank espresso. On a tiny stage stood a poet reciting a free-form work of his own composition entitled Exema: The Story of a Boy while behind him a jazz trio played 200 choruses of Tyn Roof Blues.

"Herkie," said I, "come home with me to the artificial cherries."

"No," said Herkie, so sadly I went home to tell Uncle Walter the bad news. He was less distressed than I had feared. It seems Uncle Walter has another son, a quiet boy named Edvorts, about whom he had completely forgotten, and today Edvorts is in business with Uncle Walter and Herkie is beat in San Francisco, and everyone is happy.

The Guessers Lose Their Hats

In Saturday's game, the Tar Heels will be hoping to continue a pattern that has been set in the last three Carolina-Duke contests. That is, they hope to pull an upset.

Believe it or not, the prognosticators picked the Devils to win last year, and were much set back when Hickey's charges smeared the Dukesters by 50-0. But if you will remember, Duke was also favored in 1957, when Carolina triumphed by 21-19. Murray's boys upset the seers with a 7-6 squeak in '58.

The UNC-Duke series is one in which anything can happen, but hardly anything can be predicted.

Duke Has Won Five In Kenan

Jim Hickey has been quoted as saying that his Heels won't be enjoying any advantage of playing at home this week. Since the two schools are so near, and because the Blue Devils are sporting such a fine record, there will be as many Duke fans in Kenan Stadium as there are Tar Heel faithful.

Carolina has experienced some tough luck in their home pasture in recent years, losing five straight to Duke. Not since Charlie Justice led the 1948 team to a 20-0 romp has the home blue beaten the visiting blue. Some of the scores against the Heels in that period have been real disasters, with such finals as 34-0 in '52, 47-12 in '54, and 21-6 in '56 going for the Dukes.

Pro Cagers Eye Year Of Scoring

The worshippers of the spectacular should find a lot to keep them occupied this winter. Pro basketball has dived into its most promising season in years.

The scorers will be taking the spotlight away from the players this year. Guys like Wilt Chamberlain, Elgin Baylor, and Oscar Robertson have an appeal that draws the eye of the sports world to the NBA, making many forget the abilities of playmakers such as Bob Cousy and . . . well, who else is like Bob Cousy?

Baylor, now a second-year man with the Lakers, late of Minneapolis and now of Los Angeles, set the tone of the season with a record-breaking performance Tuesday night. The 6-5 jumper rolled up an amazing total of 71 points in his team's win over the New York Knicks. The remainder of the team added 62 markers.

In racking up the score, Baylor broke by 13 points the old Madison Square Garden record set by Wilt the Stilt, who is his closest competitor for the individual title.

The Man Is Hard To Stop

Busting Bob Elliott, Carolina's leading ground gainer, has yet to be thrown for a loss. The Tar Heel fullback has rushed for 260 yards so far, averaging 3.8 a carry, but no one has been able to stop him until he got back to the line of scrimmage.

Lenny Beck has not lost a yard in 27 carries, while gaining 82.

Snider Says Mo

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—All signs point to top-ranked Missouri over Kansas Saturday to wind up a perfect season for "mighty Mo."

Missouri is favored by a touchdown, plays on its home grounds and looks loaded with talent. If you're looking for a hunch, four others Syracuse, Mississippi, Iowa and Minnesota were tumbled out of that No. 1 spot before Missouri climbed up there but hunches can be expensive.

In other big ones, the picks are Pittsburgh over Penn State, Rice over Texas Christian, and Minnesota over Wisconsin.

Enjoy a Second Childhood in the Intimate!

Now-a-days children's books are so colorful, so delightful and gay, that one tends to pity those of you who haven't a youngster to bring into the shop this week.

Not so your old bookseller. He knows that each of us, behind our dignified facade, carries the child he used to be. Pity, if you will, the man who is too pompous to delight in a children's book or a Christmas tree. He has closed his own door to wonderland. The rest of us can still be delighted by Pooh and Peter Rabbit!

This is an elaborate way of saying that we hope you'll drop in during Children's Book Week. Nobody will high-pressure you into a purchase, and nobody will mind if you delight your soul with every colorful book in the shop.
