

Judge Orders Two To Return To Georgia U. Monday

HAMILTON HOLMES, one of two Negroes who registered at the University of Georgia earlier this week, talks with newsmen as legal controversy over his admission to the previously all-white school mounted.

WILD-EYED flag-waving University of Georgia students display bedsheets with lettering "Nigger Go Home" as they demonstrate outside Myers Hall where U. Ga. Negro coed Charlayne Hunter had been assigned a room. Police had to use tear gas and fire hoses to disperse the unruly mob. Miss Hunter was suspended "for her own safety" following the outburst and sent home.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — Uruguay has ordered the Cuban ambassador and the Soviet embassy's first secretary to get out of the country in an action which may presage an open break with Castroite Cuba.

The nine-member Presidential Council voted 6-2 Thursday night, with one member absent, to expel Ambassador Mario Garcia Inchaustegui and embassy Secretary Mijail K. Sanmollov.

Lecture On Politics Hits Misconceptions

By DAVE RANEY

"I am concerned with the uncritical acceptance of certain misconceptions of American politics on the part of students and others," Dr. Earle Wallace, Assistant Professor of Political Science, said Thursday night at Carroll Hall.

Delivering his "Last Lecture" on the topic "The Misconceptions of Politics," Wallace explained that all citizens need to have a sharp awareness of the nature of politics.

"Whether you play an active part or inactive role in politics, you are going to help shape public policy," he said.

Wallace Cites

Wallace cited the first misconception as the idea that "Democracy was made in America." "The association of democracy with laissez-faire, the capitalistic economic system and with federalism is historically and factually not accurate," Wallace said.

The second misconception brought out by the speaker was the idea that "government is at best a necessary evil and its continued growth should be opposed at every step."

Wallace pointed out that many people find it difficult to view government with the same impartiality and detachment that they use in less critical areas.

Wallace Reveals

The third misconception revealed by Wallace was that "most of the ills of democracy come from the greed and bungling of politicians." The speaker repudiated this by saying, "Government today is a vast no man's land and only the politician can make it work."

COMEDY TRYOUTS ON FEBRUARY 6

GM Picks 'Celestina' Show

"Celestina," an original musical comedy based upon a medieval Spanish play, will be this year's GM Sound and Fury production, Director Lloyd Infinger announced yesterday.

Tryouts for the presentation will be held Sunday, Feb. 5 at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. and Monday, Feb. 6 at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall, scene of the March 24-25 production.

All-Campus Show

The Sound and Fury is Graham Memorial's annual all-campus musical production, written, staged and directed entirely by members of the student body.

Written by Bruce Mooney and Lloyd Infinger, "Celestina" is the story of a woman of questionable virtue who acts as a go-between for young lovers. Her activities are based at a colorful tavern, where she trains young girls in her age-old profession.

Published In 1499

The original "Celestina" was published in 1499, and has been attributed to the pen of Fernando de Rojas. A stranger to the American stage, the play has rarely been produced, even in Spain.

Director-author Infinger is a Dramatics major from Charlotte. He has worked in several Playmakers productions and appeared in "The Lost Colony" last summer.

Persons interested in working on choreography, settings, cos-umes and other aspects of the production have been asked to call Infinger at 942-1244 as soon as possible.

17 Paris

Seventeen speaking parts are available for the play, some requiring singing ability. Auditions for members of the chorus will also be held Feb. 5-6.

Persons interested in performing in the Sound and Fury Orchestra have been asked to contact Director Bill Bennett for audition information.

Copies of the script will be available in about ten days, according to Infinger, and will be obtainable at the GM Information Desk and the Reserve Reading Room.

Curtain Rises On N. Y. Opera Tonight At 8 In Memorial Hall

The UNC production of Verdi's "La Traviata," starring New York City Opera prima donna Phyllis Curtin, opens tonight at 8:30 in Memorial Hall. A second performance is scheduled for Sunday night.

Good seats are still available for both productions and tickets may be purchased in Hill Hall or at the door in Memorial Hall the nights of the performances.

The opera is under the direction of Professor of Music, Dr. Wilton Mason, and is being sponsored by the UNC Department of Music and Graham Memorial.

Miss Curtin will star as Violetta Valery, the tragic heroine, in Verdi's romantic opera of thwarted love.

Leading soprano at the New York City Opera for the past four years, Miss Curtin has blazed her way into headlines and praises from New York critics.

The New York Times reported: "She is superb . . . she does what is so rarely done in any theatre, combine singing and acting indivisibly," and the New York World-Telegram & Sun said she sings with "one of the finest American voices now adorning the concert and operatic scene."

Other Parts

Other principal parts in the production will be sung by Gene Strassler, singing the tenor role of Alfredo Germont. Violetta's lover; Bert Adams, portraying Giorgio Germont, Alfredo's father;

Rebecca Carnes as Flora Bervoix, Violetta's close friend; Doss Phillips, who portrays the Marquis D'Obigny, the nobleman who introduces Alfredo to Violetta;

University Officials Revoke Suspensions Of 2 Negro Students

Judge Bootle Delivers Ultimatum, Says Law And Order Not Broken

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Two Negro students suspended from the newly integrated University of Georgia because of mob violence were ordered readmitted Friday by a federal judge.

The ruling was handed down by Judge W. A. Bootle in Macon, Ga. It was Bootle who originally ordered the university integrated just a week ago Friday.

Bootle directed that the students be readmitted when classes resume at 8 a.m. Monday at the 175-year-old institution. Bootle said the court "does not find or conclude that law and order in this state has broken down or that officials . . . are unwilling to enforce order."

Dean of Students Joseph Williams suspended the students for "their own protection" early Thursday morning after an evening of rioting on the campus.

Judge Bootle's order made Williams and University President O. C. Aderhold parties to the case.

Orders Suspension Lifted

His ruling was in the form of a temporary injunction. It directs university officials to lift the suspension and enjoins them from excluding the students further on grounds that law and order had broken down or that their safety was endangered.

The two Negro students, Charlayne Hunter, 18, and Hamilton Holmes, 19, both of Atlanta, were expected to remain at their homes until Monday morning.

Judge Bootle issued his ruling after a two-hour conference with state attorneys and counsel for the students.

Performances by Ethel Waters and Brandon de Wilde contribute to the impact of the drama.

Sunday the GM Film Committee presents a French film, "The Storm Within," a realistic drama about a neurotic and disordered middle class family.

Member of the Wedding," with the original stars of the prize-winning Broadway play, is tonight's featured Free Flick presentation.

Julie Harris stars with "rare brilliance and great depth" in the role of a young girl who teeters on the thin edge of heartbreak and minor tragedy because of her enormous loneliness. When she learns that her brother is to be married she fastens onto the wedding as something that will permit her to break out of her loneliness.
