Kennedy whether he endorses the Eisenhower administration's offer of Polaris missiles for Europe, reliable diplomatic sources said Monday. STEVENSON DENOUNCES BARBARISM

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, denouncing "barbarism" in the Congo, suggested Monday that the U. S. Air Force fly the Security Council for an on-the-spot investigation of the executions of six followers of slain Patrice Lumumba.

The United States backed a Liberian proposal for a meeting of the 11-nation council in the Congo following a report from Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld that the pro-Western Congolese regime of President Joseph Kasavubu had turned over the six Lumumbists to their bitterest enemies. They were swiftly executed in the self-proclaimed.

POSSIBLE MILITARY INCREASE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy may follow up his campaign criticism of U. S. defenses by asking Congress to increase the final Eisenhower military budget, Assistant Defense Secretary Thomas D. Morris said Monday.

He said Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries and the joint chiefs of staff were reviewing former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's defense budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

MACMILLAN TO DISCUSS RHODESIA

Colonial Secretary Ian Macleod cancelled a scheduled appearance before the House of Commons to make a statement on the deadlocked Rhodesian-British conference on a constitution to give the African Territory a parliament.

NEGRO TO SUE POLICE

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that a Chicago Negro claims he was a victim of police brutality can sue local police for damages in federal court under an 1871 civil rights law.

The 8-1 decision, which could lead to similar suits elsewhere, means he can bring suit directly in Federal Court even though state courts may provide him legal recourse. Justice Felix Frankfurter dissented.

Famous Johnson To Take Audience To Unknown Europe

Imagine seeing Switzerland from the deck of a boat, crossing Europe and climbing the Alps in a sailing vessel!

This is only a part of the program planned for Wednesday night when Capt. Irving Johnson shows his film, "Unknown Europe" in Memorial Hall, as part of the GMAB Travel Adventure Series.

Skipper and Mrs. Johnson, the world's most famous man-and-wife team of mariners, have already distinguished themselves by their round-the-world cruises on the Brigantine "Yankee." Now they have a new vessel, a ketch especially designed by the Johnsons for this type of trip.

The new "Yankee" has a shallow draft to enable it to pass through many of the inland waterways of Europe, a special steel bottom to prevent damage in case it should run aground in unfamiliar waters.

Folding masts have been added to the new vessel so that the "Yankee" may pass through tunnels. It also has retractable centerboards for open waters.

To extend their reach, the Johnsons put two motor scooters on board for sightseeing, and shopping trips. The scooters are put ashore by means of a special aluminum gangplank. In the color film, the "Yan-kee's" wanderings will take the viewer to such European showplaces as Paris, Greece, the Alps, Belgium and Holland.

The Johnsons, in their floating home, realized one of their long-time dreams, that of seeing the Alps from their own vessel.

During their voyage, the Johnsons passed through varied waterways. From the network of inland waterways in France, where they passed through 513 locks, to long miles of tunnels; they crossed mountains high above rivers in an aqueduct canal and finally traversed the Alps in a stairway of ancient locks, some of which had been built at Napoleon's orders.

Provides Viewers

In short, this presentation of the Graham Memorial Adventure Series provides the viewer with a glimpse of sites off the tourist path.

It reveals the variety of European life from shipbuilders of Amsterdam to the Greeks at Rhodes. All these adventures will be narrated in person by Capt. Johnson.

"Unknown Europe" will be shown at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Memorial Hall. Tickets are on sale for 90 cents at the main desk in GM.

In addition to solicitations in living units, projects include the annual auction and an innovation this year, a carnival scheduled for March 11.

Trophies will be awarded in sorority, fraternity and dorm divisions this year for the most money contributed, divided by the total number of members. This will include carnival participation also.

Four Candidates Receive Double Endorsement

By Lloyd Little

The Student Party doled out endorsements for the Senior Class officers, WAA, CAA, and Yackety Yack in an abbreviated session last night, postponing other nominations until a later date.

Nominees for Senior Class posts are Ray Farris, president (doubly endorsed); Eddie Manning, vice-president; Kathy Fullenwider, secretary; Wade Hargrove, treasurer (doubly endorsed); and Caroline Hughes, social chairman.

Millie Blanton was endorsed as candidate for president of the Women's Athletic Association.

Bob Bilbro was endorsed as Carolina Athletic Association president (doubly endorsed).

For Yackety Yack, SP endorsed Jerry Tognoli and

Dick Reppucci as co-editors (doubly endorsed).

Shortly after the meeting opened Bill Whichard moved that the Student Party not nominate a candidate for editor of the Daily Tar Heel. The motion was passed.

The meeting was adjourned shortly after these nominations. Chairman Bill Harris stated that further nominations were postponed because of the "importance of the big 4" (student body officers) and because of the "sparse attendance." There were approximately 35 people present.

In his acceptance speech Ray Farris pointed out that the most important responsibility as senior class president would be representing the whole university as far as possible. He stated that he felt the double endorsement would help the entire campus and promote unification within the senior class.

Bob Bilbro in his acceptance speech thanked the party for their endorsement and stated that his interests "are in no way political." "I am interested in the betterment of the complete program of athletics."

In interparty action David Williams was elected as treasurer of the Student Party for the coming year. Last week the party elected officers for next year.

Bill Harris was re-elected as chairman, Dwight Wheelas as vice-chairman, Ginny Von Shilling as secretary, and Rick Powell as sergeant-at-arms.

No Deep Budget Concern

By Larry Smith

The state of the Consolidated University's budget is of paramount interest now, President William Friday believes.

"We have been working on our requests for over a year and now are at a point where they require consideration. By and large it's a good budget," he said.

President Friday made the statement Wednesday night when he and UNC Chancellor William Aycock and UNC Housing Officer James Wadsworth discussed "Immediate Problems of the University" on WUNC's Carolina Roundtable.

Chancellor Aycock agreed that, "We don't have the same deep concern we had two years ago." The Advisory Budget Commission recommended close to what was requested by the University, he pointed out, and further, if state resources increase in the near future, the chancellor said he felt sure the University will get the rest of its requests.
