

CITIZENS COMMITTEE CEASES THEATRE PICKETING

Public Meeting Endorses Decision

BY JIM CLOTFELTER

"We are ceasing picketing at the Chapel Hill theaters—with no intention of resuming."

The Rev. Charles Jones of the Citizens Committee for "Open" Movies told a public meeting last week the picketing group had decided to let the theater managers work out an integration solution "without pressure from us."

The meeting was Tuesday, March 28, at St. Joseph's AME Church on W. Rosemary Street.

The decision to stop picketing, said Executive Committee Chairman Mary Mason of North Carolina College in Durham came out of an interview with the district manager for the Carolina Theater in Chapel Hill.

District manager is W. J. Enloe, also mayor of Raleigh.

"He told us that he did not want to integrate under threat," said Miss Mason.

The Rev. Jones said that the citizens committee was "leaving the district manager free to work the problem out as he thinks right."

President Mark W. Cresap, Jr., of Westinghouse Wednesday proposed a code of ethics for large electrical equipment companies to prevent anti-trust law violations.

'Pass The Word'

"When he wants to integrate, he'll pass the word along to individual Negroes. There will be no public announcement."

There was no assurance that the other Chapel Hill theater, the Varsity, would follow suit, if the Carolina integrated.

But local observers feel that the Varsity will integrate if the older, larger Carolina does.

Jones was asked if persons favoring his cause should continue to boycott the two local theaters.

"Let each person act according to his own conscience."

No Statement

Jones said the group would not make a statement for or against a continued boycott, because that would be "a form of pressure."

The decisions were made by an assembly of the pickets. The assembly was previous to the mass meeting, which was open to the public.

There was outspoken opposition from several pickets, who favored continuing the boycotts and picketing.

Miss Mason stated that the citizens committee might take up picketing elsewhere "if the occasion arose."
