

Playwrights inspect A Civil War Sword

Original One-Acts On Bill For Playmakers 2-Day Run

Manly Wade Wellman, widely known Tar Heel writer (above, center) will be one of three native playwrights represented on the Carolina Playmakers second bill of original one-act plays today and Sunday at 7:30 at the Playmakers Theatre.

Susan Meyer of Greensboro and William Corpening of Hendersonville, (also shown) both University of North Carolina students, have plays on the program with Wellman, who is a resident of Chapel Hill.

Avid Student

Wellman's play, "Wishing for the War to Cease," is set in an entrenchment during the Civil War. An avid student of Civil War history, Wellman is the author of over 30 books and over 500 other published works.

Miss Meyer, a graduate student in dramatic art at the University, is the author of "Flatbush Sonata."

Corpening wrote "Eric." This marks the third time plays by Corpening have been produced on original one-act bills at UNC.

Produced almost entirely by students, these plays are open to the public free of charge.

Avery Directs

Directing Wellman's Civil War drama is Byron Avery. Mary Ann Clegg is directing "Eric" and "Flatbush Sonata" is directed by Jack Hargett. All are graduate students in dramatic art at UNC.

Appearing in "Wishing for the War to Cease" are Dwayne Hiljaer, Sandy Moffitt, Larry Steele, Allen Josephs and Bob Bloodworth. The set was designed by Seth Eckard and the stage manager is Bill Hannah. Acting in "Eric" are Louenna Avery, Jeff Chandler, Dorothy Seaman, Cole Waddell and William McKenna. The set is by Suzanne Whitney and Allen Scroggs is stage managing.

"Flatbush Sonata" are Paul Gold, Vi Galvin, Allen Josephs, Neil Ruttenberg, William McKenna and Stuart Crowner. Crowner is also stage manager. The set was designed by Frank McDonald.

General stage manager for this bill of one-acts is Frank Beaver. Master electrician is Lloyd Infinger.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

'Big Four' Enter Official Reign

The "Big Four" student body officers and most of the 50 new Student Legislators were installed in office in Thursday night's meeting of the Legislature.

Following his installation, Bill Harriss, new student body president, addressed the solons on the aims of the new administration and some of the legislation which the body could expect to have presented to it in the coming months.

The following were elected at the meeting to fill Legislative posts:

Arthur Merrill (Student Party), chairman of Finance Committee; Dwight Wheelless (SP), chairman of Ways and Means Committee; Tam Lefler (University Party), chairman of Rules Committee.

Bill Whichard (SP-UP), Speaker Pro Tem; Judy Clark (UP), Clerk; Mary Henderson, (SP), File Clerk; and Harve Harris (SP-UP), Sergeant-at-Arms.

Tribute To Secretary

A tribute to Miss Julia Staples, secretary to Student Government was presented by Dennis Rash, UP floor leader, and Dwight Wheelless, SP floor leader, just before the new officers were installed.

The engraved plaque recognized Miss Staples for her outstanding work with student government during the past year.

Outgoing Speaker of the Legislature Bob Sevier was presented with the gavel of the concluding 30th Assembly.

Three Bills

Three bills, all dealing with proposed appropriations, were introduced as the first new business of the 31st Assembly.

An appropriation of $250 to establish a Carrier Current radio system was proposed in a bill

Yack Announces Major Positions

Yackety Yack co-editors Jerry Tognoli and Dick Reppucci recently announced three major appointments for the 1962 Yackety Yack staff: Ted Sturm, business manager; Julie Latane, managing editor; and Chips Weaver, head photographer.

Chief assistant photographer will be Warren Sims.

Beginning next week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, interviews will be held for the filling of all other positions. All persons interested in working on the Yack in any capacity should come to the Yack office in the basement of Graham Memorial and talk with the new editors on one of these days.

No previous yearbook experience is necessary, said the co-editors, and "There will be positions on the staff for all who are interested and are willing to work."

Satchmo's Here

America's vibrant, grinning ambassador of jazz, Louis Armstrong, will perform before the German's Club this afternoon at 3 in Memorial Hall.

Armstrong, called alternately "Satchmo" and "Ambassador Satch," will be on stage with his famous "golden" trumpet and traditional handkerchief to wipe the sweat from his face.

The jazz great will be backed up by a band in his instrumental and singing efforts. Satchmo's hoarse, creaking voice is as familiar to jazz lovers around the world as are the sounds of his swinging trumpet.

Armstrong's performance here is made as part of a swing into Dixie, which is carrying him to parts of Virginia, North Carolina and other Southern states.

Blondes Subject For Tonight's Musical Flick

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the film version of the Broadway musical by Joseph Fields and Anita Loos, will be tonight's Free Flick.

The story concerns two showgirls, a blonde and a brunette, who embark for France on the luxurious He de France seeking rich husbands. The pursuit of millionaires takes them into a Parisian police station, but the two sirens' resources are ample for any occasion.

Marilyn Monroe, Jane Russell, and Charles Coburn star in the title roles.

Showings are in Carroll Hall at 6:30, 8:30, and 10:30 p.m.

This week's Sunday Cinema presentation is "The Golden Age of Comedy," the hilarious film which won two Oscars and broke a 26-year record in its Broadway opening.

Such comedy stars as Laurel and Hardy, Will Rogers, Jean Harlow, Carole Lombard, Ben Turpin, and the Keystone Cops are seen in a compilation of scenes and sequences from the best of the Mack Sennett and Hal Roach comedies made between 1923 and 1928.

Showings are at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

On The Campus

Monday night at 6 the Tri-Delts are sponsoring a spaghetti supper at their house to raise money for their scholarship, given annually to a co-ed. Tickets may be purchased from any Tri-Delt for a dollar.

"The Cosmo," organ of the Cosmopolitan Club, is available today at Y-Court, the Library, and GM. All students are invited to express themselves on subjects of international interest in "The Cosmo."

The Tri-Delt Local Scholarship, available to Greek and independent co-eds, will be awarded next fall. Applications, available in the Dean of Women's office, must be returned by April 20th. Selection is based on merit and need.

Thursday, 23 cadets from the AFROTC visited Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base in the final base tour of the year. They flew from Raleigh-Durham Airport in a C-123 troop carrier.

The ever-present question of how big an inventory should be will be considered in a talk by Dr. R. C. Elston at the Statistics Colloquium Monday in Room 265 of Phillips Hall at 4:00 in the afternoon.

There will be an organizational meeting of a local chapter of the Antique Automobile Club of America tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in room 301 at the Carolina Hotel in Raleigh.

The Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society will meet Tuesday in 265 Phillips Hall at 7:30 p.m. Dr. R. Darrell Bock of the department of psychology will discuss "Research Projects of the Psychometric Laboratories."

The Erasmus Club of Duke and the UNC Philological Club will meet jointly Monday evening at 8:00 in the Green Room 107 of the East Duke Building. Sturgis E. Leavitt will discuss "The Prince of Wales and the Spanish Infanta." All faculty members and graduate students are invited.

The Chapel Hill Astronomy Club will meet Sunday evening at 8:00 in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Planetarium. The program will be a talk on "Flying Saucers," followed by discussion, and, weather permitting, observations with the 15-inch telescope. The meeting is open to the public.

re-introduced by Dwight Wheelless (SP), which was killed at the last meeting of the previous assembly.

A bill providing $67.50 to pay expenses for six delegates and three alternates to the National Student Association Spring Regional Assembly to be at Duke April 14-16 was introduced by Wheelless.

Purchase Camera

A bill asking $189.45 to purchase a Polaroid Land Camera to be used by The Daily Tar Heel was introduced by Harve Harris (SP-UP).

Speaker Patterson said after the meeting that final committee appointments would be announced in next week's session.

In his address to the body, Harriss outlined several programs through which Student Government will try to reach new goals as well as to carry on old objectives such as the work for a new student union-undergraduate library building.

U. S. Pledges Strong Support To S. Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States pledged strong support Friday to the pro-Western government of South Viet Nam in its struggle against a mounting campaign of murder and sabotage by Communist guerrillas.

The pledge came as Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated that this country also would stand firm on its demand for a verified cease fire in Laos before the start of an international conference on that war-torn country.

Rusk Says

"It will be awfully hard to hold a conference while people are still shooting," he said.

The Viet Nam pledge was made in a State Department statement. It followed agreement by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on the urgent need for action to meet increased Red guerrilla activity in the country, a neighbor of Laos.

Parisian Movie Tuesday Noted Frenchman Directs Musical

"Sous les Toits de Paris" ("Under the Roofs of Paris"), written and directed by Rene Clair, will be shown to members of the UNC-Chapel Hill Film Society on Tuesday night, April 11, at 8 o'clock in Carroll Hall.

The first French sound film, "Sous les Toits de Paris" has been described as "the quintessence of Paris." Filmed in 1929, the picture was the first of a series of musical comedies which quickly made Clair the most admired and imitated director in the world.

Use Sound

In using sound against rather than with the visual images, Clair discovered a new freedom and fluidity for sound films.

Clair specialized in comedies and satires which took delight in the foibles of the middle class and the absurdities of human behavior.

There are no famous actors in "Sous les Toits de Paris." Clair found his cast in the Parisian streets and among young or unknown actors.

On Monday, April 17, James Card, Curator of Motion Pictures at George Eastman House, Rochester, will speak to the film society and show Charlie Chaplin's "The Pilgrim" and "The Idle Class."

Card, a former film director (in Europe) and stage actor, will speak on "Are the Movies an Art Form?"

Subscriptions to the Film Society's spring series are available at the YMCA office, or from committee members Walter Spearman, Bill Morrison, John Schorrenberg, Ed Riner, Tom Patterson, Margaret Hunt, Betsy Davis, and Maggie Dent.

MacMillan Urges Shared Control

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Friday night the United States and Britain must find a way to share their control of nuclear weapons with their NATO allies if the alliance is to remain effective.

"The health of our whole NATO alliance depends on finding a way of building a partnership in the nuclear as well as conventional field and to make it live," Macmillan said.

Terrorist Guns Algerian Police

PARIS—An Algerian terrorist machinegunned a taxi driver and a policeman to death Friday in a Paris suburb despite massive police raids against French and Moslem extremists in France and Algiers.

The new outbursts of violence and the stern police action came on the day in which government and Algerian rebels were to have started peace talks in Evian, a resort town on Lake Geneva.

'Tighten Your Belts'—Castro

HAVANA—Premier Fidel Castro appealed again to grumbling workers Friday to tighten their belts in the face of growing shortages and mounting unemployment because "today's sacrifice is tomorrow's happiness."

The premier told a rally of public works employees that the laboring class will reap the ultimate benefits of the revolution because they are the only ones prepared to suffer privations.

Russia Calls For Congo Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Soviet Union demanded Friday the Congolese parliament meet within three weeks under United Nations protection to work out the future of the Congo.

The resolution introduced by Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin obviously was aimed at making Antoine Gizenga, leftist political heir to the slain Patrice Lumumba, premier of the Congo.

Six Men Believed Aboard Jet On Official Training Flight

GRANTS, N.M., (UPI)—An Air National Guard F100 jet interceptor aircraft accidentally shot down a giant U.S. B52 bomber with a Sidewinder missile Friday on a training mission over West central New Mexico.

Helicopter and ground rescue units were rushed to the scene of the crash, believed to be in the vicinity of 11,389-foot high Mt. Taylor.

It was not announced by the Air Force immediately how many men were aboard the bomber. A B52 normally carries a crew of six.

The Air Force said there was one man aboard the F100, which landed at its home base of Kirtland Air Force Base near Albuquerque, N. M., shortly after the incident. He was not permitted to comment publicly.

Missile Released Accidentally

But Kirtland officials said the Sidewinder, which was released accidentally during a simulated attack, made five passes at the B52 before hitting it on the sixth.

The eight-engine B52 was assigned to Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, Texas.

There were no nuclear weapons aboard. The Sidewinder does not carry a nuclear warhead.

It is attracted by heat, and its purpose is to seek out the terrific heat produced by the jet engines of an enemy aircraft.

On Training Flight

Kirtland officials said the F100 was on an authorized training flight, and that it and the B52 had been "working together" on the exercise.

The F100 pilot is assigned to the 188th Interceptor Wing of the New Mexico National Guard. Kirtland officials said they did not know whether the pilot of the interceptor accidentally released the missile or whether it was released by malfunction.

New Structure To House Foreign Language Dept.

Contrary to some student opinion, the trailers sitting beside the library are not new housing facilities for married students.

They belong to the Rea Construction Company of Charlotte, low bidder on the William M. Dey Foreign Languages building presently under construction.

Begins Thursday

Work on the $750,000 structure began Thursday and, according to the contract, is expected to be completed sometime next summer in time for the 1962 fall semester.

Matching other campus buildings in Georgian architecture, the three-story building will be L-shaped with the front facing Bingham Hall. The leg of the L will be toward Gardner Hall.

In addition to a "complete and up-to-date" electronic language laboratory, elevators and air conditioning have been planned.

First Chairman

Dr. Dey was with the University staff from 1908 to 1950 and was the first chairman of the Department of Romance Languages. He held that post for a number of years.

Dr. "Billy" Dey, as he was known to students and faculty members, died several years ago.

The $750,000 grant for the building came from the state "to build and equip the building."
