Kennedy Holds Conferences

NEW YORK—President Kennedy held private man-to-man conferences with former President Herbert Hoover and Gen. Douglas MacArthur Friday prompted by his mounting concern over the Laos crisis and what he regards as a worldwide Communist threat of unparalleled gravity.

Kennedy also met with Adlai E. Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, and U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Man-In-Space Attempt May Be Tues.

CAPE CANAVERAL—America's first attempt to rocket a man into space will be made next Tuesday if the many complex pieces continue falling in place.

The Federal Space Agency cleared what may be the last major hurdle for the shot Friday by successfully testing a "Project Mercury" space capsule and its life-protecting escape equipment at Wallops Island, Va.

At Cape Canaveral, scientists began the last four critical days of checking out a modified Redstone rocket designed to hurl a human astronaut 115 miles into space and 290 miles over the Atlantic.

French Purge Jails 3,000

PARIS—The government said Friday night a purge which has jailed as many as 3,000 persons in France and Algeria was aimed at smashing a nationwide conspiracy which still might try to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle.

De Gaulle scheduled a nationwide radio-TV address May 8 to report on the collapse of the four-day army revolt in Algeria. Sources said he probably would announce continuation of the dictatorial powers he assumed last Sunday when the life of his Fifth Republic was threatened by invasion of Foreign Legion paratroops from Algiers.

Cuba Cautions Kennedy

MIAMI—Cuba Friday followed its luke-warm offer to negotiate with Washington by cautioning President Kennedy "to listen for your own good" to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's hands-off Cuba warning to the United States. The official Cuban radio broadcast warm praise of "the dear and respected Soviet Leader" as the U. S. State Department reiterated to the Castro government that "Communism in this hemisphere is not negotiable."

Tshombe End Boycott Of Summit

ELIZABETHVILLE, The Congo—Katanga President Moïse Tshombe ended his boycott of the Congolese "summit" conference Friday after conferring with army commander Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu who arrived with troop reinforcements. Tshombe abandoned his 50-hour hunger strike in the lounge at the airport and agreed to talk with other Congolese leaders about the conference aimed at charting the country's future.

Arts Festival Set At Student Center

Artists, Sculptors, Professors
To Participate In 4-Day Event

Westminster Fellowship will present its annual Arts Festival Sunday through Wednesday at the Presbyterian Student Center.

The exhibit will consist of student work in the Painting, Sculpture, and Photography divisions. It will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. throughout the Festival.

A reception at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the lounge of the Student Center will open the exhibit.

On Monday night at 7:30 a panel of four North Carolina artists will speak on the topic "Looking at Modern Art."

Four Speakers

Speakers on the panel will be James Fitzgibbon, President of Synergetics, Inc., a registered architect who has exhibited paintings at the N. C. Art Museum Gallery in Raleigh and synergetic structures and visionary architecture at the Museum of Modern Art in New York;

Edward Wilson, teacher of sculpture at the North Carolina College in Durham; Roy Gussow, Professor of Design at North Carolina State College School of Design; and Duncan Stuart, an associate Professor of Design also at the State School of Design.

Award Winners

Award winners for each division will be announced at 6:30 Tuesday evening. This will take place during a buffet supper on the patio of the Student Center.

A slide discussion of "Theology in Art" will also be held Tuesday night. Bob Johnson, Minister to Students at the Methodist Church of Chapel Hill will conduct this discussion to be held at 7:30 in the Student Center.

"Le Mystere de Picasso" will be shown Wednesday night at 7:30 as a conclusion to the festival. The film shows Pablo Picasso at work on several of his paintings in his cottage.

Tanner Awards Go To Four Professors

Daniel, Cotten Winners

Cash prizes for "excellence in teaching" were awarded today to four faculty members, with checks for $1,000 each going to professors in history, English and zoology.

The annual Tanner Awards for extraordinary teaching, especially as related to instruction of undergraduate students, were granted to James R. Caldwell, associate professor of history; Lyman A. Cotten, associate professor of English; George B. Daniel Jr., assistant professor of French; and H. E. Lehman, professor of zoology.

It was the second time that historian Caldwell has won the Tanner Award. He was one of the first winners of the award in 1956.

Tanner Awards

The Tanner Awards were established by the children of the late Lola Spencer Tanner and Simpson Bobo Tanner of Rutherford.

It goes to teachers who devote a portion of their time to classroom teaching of undergraduates and is "in recognition of excellence and inspirational teaching." Preference is given to those members of the faculty who teach freshman and sophomore.

The award was announced Friday at the general meeting of the faculty presided over by Chancellor William B. Aycock.

The amount of money in the Tanner fund has increased each year so that more money is available for the cash prizes. Both the number of faculty members chosen and the amount in the awards has gradually increased. This is the first time that $1,000 Tanner Awards have gone to four faculty members.

Students In 'Y' Attending Meet

Claude C. Shotts, general secretary of the YM-YWCA, and three students active in YMCA activities here on campus, left today to attend an annual weekend conference at Bricks, N. C., of representatives of 27 student YMCA's in North Carolina and Virginia. Students attending are the YMCA's new president, Tam Lefler, Jerry Green and Charles S. Trull.

During the conference Mr. Shotts will give a talk on "How to Finance a Student YMCA," and Tam Lefler will speak on "Membership Related to the Total Program of the YMCA." Officials of the regional student YMCA organization, located in Atlanta, will participate in the Bricks conference.

TONIGHT'S FREE FLICK

Topic: Broadway Columnist

Admission Price: Student I.D. Card

The curious jungle world of Broadway columnists, press agents, and entertainers forms the background for tonight's Free Flick, "The Sweet Smell of Success."

The story concerns a Broadway columnist whose evil lust for power leads him ultimately to destruction. Burt Lancaster as the world famous columnist who can make a star, break a senator, or "fix" a politician and Tony Curtis as the corrupt, fawning press agent and man-of-all dirty work head a cast of outstanding performers.

Location shooting along Broadway and its side-street tributaries gives a note of authenticity to this adult tale of the knife-wielding, power-mad denizens of Broadway's entertainment belt.

Showings will be in Carroll Hall at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Only UNC students with identification cards will be admitted.

Ugly Man

Today's totals in the Ugly Man voting are as follows: Whit, 229; Yogi Bear, 824; George, 63; Pretty Boy, 81; Jeff, 1772; Lob, 2051; Smokey, 110; Rodan, 743; Mike, 3379.

Former Sec'y Of State

Christian Herter To Speak Tuesday

Former Secretary of State Christian Herter will deliver a public address at the University next Tuesday.

Herter, delivering the 1961 Weil Lecture on American Citizenship, will speak on "A New Dimension in American Citizenship."

Herter's lecture is one of a series of lectures initiated in 1914 by former President William Howard Taft. An annual presentation, the Weil Lectures normally feature three lectures. Herter will deliver only one.

Herter, a native of Massachusetts, was a veteran diplomat in the U. S. State Department and assistant secretary of state when appointed secretary of state after the forced retirement of John Foster Dulles.

YRC Picks Baker To Head Group

Earl Baker, a senior from Elkins Park, Pa., has been elected president of the UNC Young Republicans Club for the coming year.

Baker, in his acceptance speech, said, "The fact that the Republican Party is still vigorous even after defeat in 1960, and also the fact that North Carolina citizens cast more Republican votes than ever before, indicates to me that concerted action on our part will lead to even more glorious victory in the future."

Baker will succeed Neal Matheson as head of the group. Also elected at the Wednesday night meeting were Bub Broome, first vice-president; Clement Lucas, second vice-president; Evelyn Underwood, secretary-treasurer; and Marsha O'Donnell, corresponding secretary.

The executive board officers were also elected: Charlie R. Jonas and Bill Patterson, N. C. State College Federation Chairman.

Appointed in 1959 just prior to Dulles' death, Herter was the second man to serve Dwight Eisenhower as secretary of state.

As secretary, Herter was called upon to deal with situations of international tension including the U-2 incident, the subsequent summit collapse, and the Cuban crisis.

The Weil Lectures were originally founded by the family of Sol and Henry Weil of Goldsboro. During the 47 years since the initiation of the series, a number of distinguished figures have spoken. The 1960 Weil lecturer was Dr. Barnaby Kenney, president of Brown University. Following his UNC appearance, Herter is slated to lecture at Queens College in Charlotte.

Paris Professor

To Visit Monday

Danile Dugué, Professor of Probability at the University of Paris, will visit the Department of Statistics here Monday, and will speak publicly both morning and afternoon.

Addressing students primarily in the morning, he will speak at ten o'clock in the statistical laboratory, Room 231 Phillips Hall, on the question "What's on in Paris," describing the various statistical groups and enterprises there.

At four o'clock he will address the Statistics Colloquium in Room 265 Phillips Hall on "Decomposition of Probability Laws."

Cage Star Fails To Report Alleged Gift From Gambler

By Bill Hobbs

Doug Moe's involvement in the college basketball scandal has been turned over to the Men's Honor Council by Chancellor William B. Aycock.

Student Body President Bill Harris released this information last night and stated:

"The strict rule that the Honor Council does not release the names of persons involved in its trials has been waived only due to the fact that the case has been put in the public domain by the New York District Attorney and through the newspapers."

Moe Not Located

UNC Attorney General Allen Cronenberg stated that his staff is presently in the process of locating Moe in order to give him the 72 hours prior notice that is given each defendant.

A report in The Raleigh Times yesterday afternoon said Moe was believed to be in Chicago conferring with professional basketball men.

New York District Attorney Frank Hogan brought Moe's name into the basketball case.

"Wagman gave Moe $75.00 as a softening-up gift and he (Moe) never reported this," said Hogan according to the Charlotte Observer yesterday.

News Of The Professors

U.N.C. Professor Kenneth J. Reckford has been awarded a fellowship at the newly founded Center for Hellenic Studies in Washington, D. C. Reckford, Assistant Professor of Classics, former Fulbright Scholar and Harvard graduate, is also one of six young scholars in this country and abroad chosen to study at the center.

Charles H. Erasmus, Associate Professor of Sociology and Anthropology at the University has published a new book: "Man Takes Control: Cultural Development and American Aid."

Drawing from his experience as an applied anthropologist for the Point Four Program in Latin America from 1951 to 1954, he relates the meaning of such American aid to a general concept of cultural change and offers some new theories.

Dr. Federico G. Gil, and Dr. Frank M. Duffey, professors at UNC, are attending the annual meeting of the Southeastern Conference on Latin American Studies in Miami. Dr. Gil, director of UNC's Institute of Latin American Studies and professor of political science will be president of the conference. Dr. Duffey is a professor of Spanish in the University's Department of Romance Languages.

UNC Professor Samandra Nath Roy is among the distinguished scholars serving on the Rabindranath Tagore Centenary Committee on America. By serving on the committee the professor of Statistics is participating in the world-wide celebration of Tagore's birthday, May 6, 1861.

The renewed strength of small newspapers in America and the influence and prestige of their editors, are portrayed by Professor Kenneth R. Byerly of the UNC School of Journalism in his new textbook, "Community Journalism," published this week by the Chilton Company of Philadelphia.

Legislature Votes Down Camera Bill

Treasurer Thompson, DTH Editor Speak On Opposite Sides Of Issue

Student Legislature voted down a $144 bill to buy the Daily Tar Heel a Polaroid Camera in Thursday night action.

Student Body Treasurer Pete Thompson and DTH Editor Wayne King were given privileges of the floor to present their arguments against and in favor of the bill, which was introduced two weeks ago by Harve Harris.

Rep. Bill Whichard, former presidential assistant, spoke against the "unnecessary rush" in passing the bill.

Thompson, who had been requested last week by the Legislature to appear, explained what the $20,000 general surplus fund was. He said that he thought it would be "very unwise to appropriate anything from the general surplus."

The Finance Committee made its report recommending that the DTH bill be passed.

The camera bill was then brought up, Whichard again requested privileges of the floor for Thompson.

The treasurer quoted a student, whom he identified as a former DTH co-photographer, as saying that the Polaroid camera of the proposed size would not make pictures large enough to be used.

Then Thompson discussed a camera which was supposedly bought for the DTH two and a half years ago and which Thompson said the newspaper lost.

I don't think we should replace every object which a campus organization loses," said Thompson.

Editor King defended the bill and said that he "will not accept the responsibility for actions of the staff of two years ago."

After several other legislators had spoken on the bill, several of whom were ruled out of order for involving personalities with issues, there was a motion passed to bring it to a vote.
