A CAROLINA DEEP THINKER esoterically ponders a book of specialized knowledge. He complains that his professors insist upon conducting classes when Everybody

CONFERENCE THIS SUMMER

6 Students To Attend NSA

By Steve Vaughn

Bill Harriss, student body president, will lead Carolina's delegation of six students to the Fourteenth National Student Congress this summer at the University of Wisconsin.

Hank Patterson, student body vice-president, will head a pre-congress National Student Association Coordinators' conference for all NSA coordinators attend the gathering.

Pete Thompson, Mary Townsend, Al Cronenburg, and Bill Straughn fill out the UNC list of delegates, with Jim Clotfelter serving as alternate to the group.

Establish Policies

The purpose of the national conference is twofold: To provide facilities for the student leaders of this country to meet programs, and plans in work-and to discuss mutual problems, shop settings, and 2. To establish, by Democratic processes, the policies and programs of the U.S. National Student Association.

The Congress itself takes place in 11 days, from August 20-30. The activities are divided up into three major parts: the first three days being devoted to orientation sessions, workshops, and sub-workshops; the next four days to legislative committees and sub-committees; and the final four days to plenary sessions and election of officers.

Nature Of Student

The workshops are designed to be stimulative and informative. Their purpose is to raise the more important questions about the nature of the student in his expanded world and to provide concrete programs to be implemented on campus. Carolina's delegation will seek ideas that may be initiated in student government here next year.

Committees set the Congress legislation rolling. From them come the resolutions, and basic policy declarations, and mandates which are passed by the plenary and become official USNSA policy and are the nucleus of USNSA programs for the coming year.

21 Districts

Delegates come to the national convention from all over the U.S. from 21 geographical districts.

In addition to the Congress, there will be held several pre-congress conferences which some Carolina students will attend.

President Bill Harriss is scheduled to go to the eleventh national Student Body Presidents' Conference. The theme of the meet will be "The Role of the Student Body President."

Editorial Affairs

Jim Clotfelter, also serving as Daily Tar Heel representative, will take in the Editorial Affairs Conference. Discussed there will be "The educational role of the college newspaper, freedom and responsibility of the student press, relations with student government and the administration, and the status of the college editor."

Attending the NSA Coordinators Conference, UNC coordinator Bill Straughn will receive and contribute ideas and programs to be used on the local campus. National coordinator of this conference will be Patterson, Carolina vice-president and former NSA coordinator.

Pathet Lao Thinks Differently

Rusk Walks Out Of Geneva Meet As Pathet Representative Speaks

PICKED BY PUBLICATIONS BOARD

Sterns New Quarterly Head

Jerry Stern, a doctoral candidate in American Literature, has been selected by the Student Publications Board as the editor of next year's Carolina Quarterly.

"Next fall," Stern said, "the Carolina Quarterly will use $20 bills to uncover promising short story writers and poets in our campus-wide search for literary talent."

In an interview Stern advised students to not "let summer vacation experiences fade into the past. Convert them into immortal prose and possible cash by submitting them to the Quarterly's Fall Writing Contest."

Writer's Workshop

"Next year we're also setting up a writers' workshop to aid and abet any writer who would like his work to be read and criticized."

"This year the Quarterly has made progress toward more and better student writing. Next year, we are going to improve campus writing by continuing to publish top quality national writing and thereby requiring the best student efforts in writing.

"We have begun a vigorous campaign to get new and known national writers into the Quarterly and are going to give the same effort to student writers."

Respected Standards

"We are convinced that students will create quality writing only when they have a campus magazine whose standards they can respect, and which keeps them up with the best writing on the national scene."

Stern, who is the present fiction editor, was born and raised in New York City.

Students interested in working with the Carolina Quarterly staff this summer to gain experience for next fall should contact Stern or this year's editor Richard Rickert at the Graham Memorial office Monday afternoons, 3 to 5. Work for researchers, readers, design and typists is available.

Communist Thinks Move Had Motive

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk walked out of the Geneva Conference on Laos Thursday shortly before a representative of the Communist Pathet Lao began speaking and remained away until the speaker had finished.

A U.S. delegation spokesman said that was simply a "coincidence" that Rusk left the session only because he had an appointment with Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia. He said it was "not a protest walkout."

Thao Phum Vong Vichi, head of the Pathet Lao delegation, who made the address, apparently thought different.

"I do not understand what he thinks," Thao said, "but I think he has a motive for leaving."

Rusk's walkout came after he heard Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon line up with the West in rejecting Soviet demands for veto power over operations to police the peace in Laos.

Krishna Menon turned down Rusk's suggestion that the control commission, made up of Canada and Poland with India as chairman, be enlarged and given greatly increased power to keep the peace in Laos.

The Pathet Lao followed Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi's line in accusing the United States of "interfering internally" in Laos—a line taken by the entire Communist delegation.

Leave For Geneva

A dispatch from Vientiane said former Laotian Premier Phoui Sananikone and Tiao Somsanith left Thursday for Geneva to demand seats at the conference. They were part of a five-man group which included leaders of five pro-government political parties, all demanding equal representation with the Pathet Lao and neutralist groups.

The United States, Britain and France met Thursday morning and decided to reject the veto provisions of a Soviet peace plan for Laos on grounds it made impossible the effective policing of the Southeast Asian kingdom. At the same time high Western sources expressed hope the Russians would modify their proposals and that a compromise agreement could be reached.

Krishna Menon said the present three-nation commission is big enough and has plenty of power as it is constituted now. Much of his hour-long speech was concentrated on the veto question.

Segregation Is Topic Of Study For INS Group

Segregation in southern education will be the subject of inquiry of a team of three foreign students on campus Wednesday.

The team, a part of the Research and Information Commission from the International Student Conference, is composed of Nkape from Uganda, S. Paramsothy from Singapore and Ole Lagasen from Norway. They plan to stay in the United States for about three weeks interviewing and collecting materials for their study.

International Meeting

The International Student Conference, which was founded in 1950, is an international student meeting designed to promote programs of mutual cooperation between representative national student unions from all over the world. It is reputedly the largest and most representative international student organization existing today.

As an agent of the ISC, the Research and Information Commission was established to prepare studies of situations where there is reason to believe that academic freedom or university autonomy has been violated.

The reports from the RIC are published and made available to students from all over the world.

Interview Students

While the team is on campus, they will want to interview as many people as possible according to U.S. National Student Association information. The interviews will be made in an effort to better understand the educational system in the South and the action that has been taken to end racial segregation.

Jim Scott, vice-president of the UNC International Affairs Committee, urged students to cooperate fully with the team in an effort to promote further understanding of the problem of racial segregation.

Jane Folger of High Point and Robert Glenn Robertson of Charlotte are the recipients of $100 French government scholarships each, offered by the Cultural Services of the French Embassy.

Both students plan to apply their scholarships toward graduate studies in France.

Miss Folger, a junior, attended High Point junior and senior high schools and completed two years at Woman's College in Greensboro.

Robertson attended the Harry P. Harding High School and Charlotte College in Charlotte, and transferred to UNC following his sophomore year.

Gamblers Called 'Primary Target' In Bribe Action

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lester V. Chalmers, district solicitor from Raleigh, N. C., agreed with New York City investigators today that the "primary target" in basketball scandals would be the gamblers rather than the college players involved.

Chalmers was uncertain whether the indictments against the three North Carolina State basketball players would be dropped.

The three players now under indictment are Stan Niewierowski and Anton Muchbauer, both of Brooklyn, and Terry Litchfield of Louisville, Ky.

"We feel the gamblers are the ones we want more than the players," Chalmers said.

Chalmers met for 24 hours with Alfred Scotti, the chief investigator for District Atty. Frank S. Hogan.

When Chalmers was asked by reporters if he intended to prosecute the players in North Carolina, he replied, "I can't see it at this time."

But when he was asked if the indictments would be dismissed, he said, "I don't know at this time."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

By United Press International

Nikita Khrushchev

Kennedy Pleased With Canada Visit

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy returned to Washington Thursday "very, very pleased" with his maiden good-will visit outside the country to Canada. He immediately began preparing for his second—a trip to France late this month.

The Paris talks could be a prelude to a meeting between Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, which now is in the rough planning stage.

Korean Coup Sets Up Committee

SEOUL, Korea—The five generals who seized power in South Korea set up a 32-member military revolutionary committee Thursday to tighten their hold on the nation. There were reports of serious Army-Marine differences on how long it should rule.

The five-man Junta formally assumed control of the country when deposed Premier John M. Chang emerged from hiding and submitted his cabinet's resignation. President Posun Yun quickly endorsed the revolution and called for the people's support.

Soviets Killed In Accident

MOSCOW — The Soviet Defense Ministry announced Thursday that four Soviet generals and a colonel had been killed in an aircraft accident while carrying out their duties. The announcement gave no details on when and where the accident occurred or whether other persons were killed.

Red China Depending On Russia

WASHINGTON—Red China is being forced into greater dependence on Russia as a result of repeated crop failures and other economic troubles, American officials said Thursday. They said information reaching this country indicates that Communist China's "great leap forward" industrialization drive will stall unless Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev comes to the rescue. The drive already had been slowed by earlier difficulties.

OAS To Hold Conference

WASHINGTON (OAS) — The council of the Organization of American States (OAS) agreed on Thursday to hold a conference in Uruguay July 15 to press forward with President Kennedy's "alliance-for-progress" program for Latin America. All 21 OAS members except Cuba, which may boycott the meeting, favored the action. Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has denounced the Kennedy plan as a bribe to pressure Latin American nations into collective action against his regime.

'Big 2 Conference Could Be Helpful'

LONDON (UPI) — A British government spokesman said Thursday a "big two" meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev could help in "clearing the air" in East-West disagreements.

The comment came from Joseph Gober, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, during a foreign policy affairs address in the House of Commons.

Earlier in the day Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and his cabinet were reported to have agreed that a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting would be "very useful" in reducing international tensions. Authoritative sources said the reaction was expected to be transmitted to Washington. It was understood in diplomatic circles that Kennedy has asked the member nations of the Western alliance for their opinions before making a decision on a meeting with Khrushchev.

In Moscow the Russian people got their first indirect hint Thursday that a Kennedy-Khrushchev conference may be in the offing.
