NSA Congress Begins Next Week

UNC Has 8 Delegates

Eight students will represent UNC at the National Student Congress in Madison, Wisconsin, beginning Sunday August 20. Several pre-congresses begin next Wednesday and Thursday.

Last spring Student Legislature appropriated the basic expenses for the representatives during their approximately two-week stay at the Congress.

Regular session president of the student body, Bill Harriss, will attend the Student Body President's Conference, which begins August 16. New National Student Association coordinator for UNC, Bill Straughn, will participate in the NSA Coordinators Conference, beginning August 17.

Hank Patterson, summer session acting president and regular session vice-president, is Conference Coordinator for the Coordinators Conference. Patterson has also been asked to lead discussion and legislative committees on educational desegregation and related topics.

Student government's secretary and treasurer, Mary Townsend and Pete Thompson, are delegates to the Congress itself.

Jim Clotfelter, editor of the "News" and staff member of the regular session "Daily Tar Heel," will represent the "Tar Heel" at the Student Editorial Affairs Conference, which begins August 16.

Student government attorney general, Al Cronenberg, was also named to go to the Congress. Clyde Benton was named this summer.

Women's Office Undergoing Change

The Office of the Dean of Women is undergoing a considerable turnover. Next year there will be an Acting Dean of Women and two new Assistants to the Dean.

Dr. Katherine Carmichael, Dean of Women, is to spend the coming year teaching in South Viet-Nam. Under the Smith-Mundt Act, she has accepted a State Department appointment as visiting professor in the Universities of Saigon and Hue.

In her absence, Dr. Carmichael's post will be filled by Mrs. Arthur DeBerry, Jr.

Since 1946, Dr. Carmichael has been a leading figure in UNC affairs. A native of Birmingham, Alabama, she received her A.B. at Birmingham Southern and M.A. and Ph.D. at Vanderbilt University. She taught English at Hockaday Junior College and summer school at the University of Wisconsin before coming to UNC. This will not be her first teaching assignment abroad. Dr. Carmichael taught previously for a year in Manila.

State Department

As part of an international exchange of educators program, Dr. Carmichael's grant is one of a limited number given by the State Department. She will spend a year as visiting professor of English at the University of Saigon. During this time, she will also give frequent lectures at the University of Hue.

In the meantime, Mrs. Arthur DeBerry Jr. is to be acting Dean of Women at UNC. At present, she is Assistant to the Dean of Women and Associate Head of the Bureau of Correspondence Instruction.

A native of Miami, Florida, Mrs. DeBerry attended the University of Florida where she headed the Women's Government Association. She graduated in 1953, the recipient of numerous honors. Coming to Chapel Hill, she entered the School of Law and took up graduate counseling at Smith Dorm. In 1954, she became field secretary for Phi Mu fraternity, a post that took her to colleges and universities through (Continued on Page 8)

Reign Of Coach Ended ... After 103 UNC Wins

By BRIAN MARSHALL

The reign of Frank McGuire ended last week.

Chancellor William Aycock's Thursday announcement brought official confirmation to the finish of an illustrious chapter in the story of Tar Heel basketball.

Assistant coach Dean Smith was named to succeed McGuire who will become vice president and head coach of the professional Philadelphia Warriors.

Coach McGuire came to the University in 1952 after having won 103 and lost 35 with his alma mater, St. John's. He posted notice of things to come by snapping State's 15 game winning string over Carolina. McGuire, with his friendships and contacts, went on to import many stars from the New York area. In nine seasons, his teams won 103 and lost 35. The highlight came in 1957 when his undefeated "miracle team" took the national championship in a triple overtime win over Wilt Chamberlain's Kansas Jayhawks.

"Irregularities"

Trouble hounded Frank McGuire after that. Last spring, the University withdrew from the ACC tournament after being placed on a one-year probation by the NCAA for alleged "irregularities." Then Carolina players were named in the game-fixing scandals and Consolidated University President William C. Friday initiated a general de-emphasis in the sports program. The basketball schedule was cut, recruiting practices clamped down upon and the Dixie Classic cancelled.

Since that time, rumors were numerous that Frank McGuire would soon be leaving. Chancellor Aycock's Thursday morning announcement was confirmed later at McGuire's Philadelphia press conference.

Dean Smith, Frank McGuire's assistant for the past three years, will take over as head coach September 9 without a contract. "We may be getting away from a contract," said Chancellor Aycock. "We want to study it very carefully."

A native of Topeka, Kansas, Smith was a member of the Kansas 1952 national champions. Before coming to Chapel Hill, Smith served as assistant coach with Kansas and the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Jomo Kenyatta To Be Freed

Kenya African leader Jomo Kenyatta will be released "without restrictions" about the middle of the month, announced the British Government recently.

(There was some discussion in the editorial columns of the "News" this summer concerning the release of Kenyatta.—Ed.)

The Governor of the colony, Sir Patrick Renison, requested the Colonial Secretary Macleod to release the convicted Mau Mau leader. Kenyatta has been in prison, then detention, since his arrest in late 1952 at the beginning of the Mau Mau Emergency.

The Government announced that Sir Patrick's decision "is supported by all the members . . . of his Council of Ministers, as well as the senior members of the police, and the Administration, and the Kikuyu who stood by the Government during the emergency."

Macleod said that the decision "is in the best interests of all the peoples of Kenya," and that "it should be taken now."

"Most Welcome"

The "Manchester Guardian", the leading liberal newspaper in Britain, stated editorially:

"The Governor's decision that Kenyatta should shortly be released from restriction is in itself most welcome . . . It has been accepted by a wide . . . range of opinion in Kenya, including—and this was always the crux of the problem—many responsible spokesmen for the loyalist Kikuyu, who gave the Government such effective aid against the Mau Mau rebellion . . ."

"But all may yet be marred if Kenyatta is still kept out of the one place where his presence is most desired by his countrymen—the Legislative Assembly and, through it, the Kenya Government . . . Both the Legislature in Kenya and the Opposition here should continue to press the Government here for this final act of derestriction."

Kenyatta is presently prevented from holding office because of having served more than two years in prison.

29 Prince Edward Negroes Visit UNC

By NANCY BARR

Sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), 29 Prince Edward County, Va., Negro students visited the UNC campus last week.

The students, ranging in age from 13-18 years old, toured the campus, saw a show at the planetarium, visited Ackland Art Museum and the Roberson Street Community Center and topped off the Chapel Hill visit with dinner at the Rathskeller.

The visit to a large Southern university was a special event for the students because most of them have attended Northern schools since Prince Edward County closed all public schools two years ago.

At the time AFSC undertook an "emergency placement program" for the Negro students. According to Mrs. Helen Baker, an AFSC staff member, 50 Negro students from the county were placed in the "50 most hand-picked families in the U.S."

Five Of 45

All of the families were personally interviewed and selected. In Baltimore, Md., for example, Mrs. Baker interviewed 45 families and finally selected five of them to receive the Negro students. The hand-picked families were either Friends or associates of Friends and included both Negro and white couples.

Of the 29 students visiting UNC, 13 attended schools in Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio and Illinois; seven attended schools in other parts of Virginia; two attended schools in Maryland; four graduated from adjacent counties but were unsuccessful and have not attended any students tried to attend schools in school in two years.

Mrs. Baker said the 29 students who visited UNC were among the few who had the opportunity to receive a formal education since the schools were closed.

Before the county action there were approximately 1700 Negro students in the county schools. Now about 400 of the students are attending schools out of the county and another 400-500 students meet in community centers in sessions held by groups of housewives. The rest of the students are not re- (Continued on Page 8)
