

CHAPEL HILL'S GIRLS

This week the "UNC News" is proud to present a selection of some of Chapel Hill's prettiest girls.

* * *

In the upper left-hand corner is Mary Ann Henderson, Miss Chapel Hill for 1961. Mary Ann, a rising senior from Savannah, Ga., is shown signing up for competition in the recent Miss North Carolina Pageant.

* * *

Cleda Pollard is the Carolina miss peeking out from behind her parasol, in the next picture. Cleda is a junior English major.

* * *

Three recent Chapel Hill visitors are shown in the next picture, in a scene from "Double Demon," a play put on by the Junior Playmakers last month. From left to right, the girls are: Diane Maurer of Fort Dix, N. J., Gale Signon of Taylorsville, N. C., and Patsy Drohomer of Daytona Beach, Fla.

* * *

The Coker Arboreteum is the background for the picture in the lower right-hand corner, featuring Susan Woodall, runner-up for Miss Chapel Hill. Sue is from Hamlin, W. Va.; she graduated in June with an A.B. in education.

* * *

19-year-old Paula Parker, in the next picture, will be a sophomore next year at Women's College. She was in school here this summer.

* * *

Sally Pullen, author of "People Are Partial to Peaches", a recent Carolina Playmakers production, is shown in the upper right-hand corner. Sally is a graduate student from Parkton.

* * *

Misses Pollard, Parker, Pullen and the three Junior Playmakers girls have been featured in previous issues of the "News." Those pictures were taken by John Clifford.

