

UNC Delegates Vote Against House 'Un-American' Group At National Student Meeting

By JIM CLOTFELTER
UNC's seven-person delegation to the National Student Congress in Madison, Wis., last month voted with the Congress majority for the abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee and supported other liberal measures.

Resolutions endorsing student non-violent action in the field of civil rights and condemning United States intervention and Russian arms shipments in Cuba were also passed.

The National Student Association sponsored Congress was held August 20-30 on the University of Wisconsin campus.

UNC's six voting delegates, approved last spring by Student Legislature, were: Bill Harriss, president of the student body; Hank Patterson, vice-president; Mary Townsend, secretary; Pete Thompson, treasurer; Bill Straughn, NSA co-ordinator; and Al Cronenberg, attorney-general. Jim Clotfelter of the Daily Tar Heel staff was an alternate, non-voting delegate.

Votes HUAC Abolition

The Congress, by a vote of 269-156 with 18 abstentions, called for the abolition of HUAC because "no 'propaganda' should be restricted in a democratic society" and because congressional investigation of 'propaganda' can serve no legislative purpose which is consistent with the Constitutional guarantee that 'Congress shall make no law... abridging the freedom of speech...'

"HUAC has directly and indirectly encroached upon university autonomy," the resolution claimed, "and on the legitimate freedom of students and faculties." UNC voted 3-2 in favor of HUAC abolition, with one voting delegate absent. The Carolinas-Virginia region voted 9-14 against abolition, with two abstentions.

Reform Urged
A resolution urging reform, not abolition, of the House Committee was introduced and voted down.

In a general statement on non-violent action, the Congress majority said: "... with full knowledge that a commitment to mass civil disobedience is a personal decision, (NSA) does support the right of students to protest in justice through dignified non-violent action."

UNC delegate Hank Patterson and former DTH editor and NSA officer Curtis Gans led resistance to a proposed NSA affiliation with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, a group of Southern students working against alleged racial discrimination in the South.

Gans Speaks
Gans spoke against affiliation because "the Southern press would like nothing better than to attach the non-violent movement with 'Northern agitation.'" One national group—the Student Christian Federation—has voting status in SNCC.

Patterson said he believed "the leadership of the non-violent movement, primarily directed by SNCC, should remain indigenous to the South for the good of the movement."

The Cuban resolution, which condemned suppression of student civil liberties by Fidel Castro and disapproved of outside intervention by both the U. S. and Russia, was approved in place of a more militantly anti-Castro statement. UNC voted with the Congress majority. UNC supported by a 4-0 vote, with two absent, a resolution on (Continued on Page 3)

UNC Radio Club To Aid State In Hurricane Esther Crisis

Assisting In Hurricane Watch
Campus Station W4WE is part of state net

Storm Moves Inland To Cape Hatteras

By NEWT SMITH

The University Radio Club in cooperation with the State Civil Defense will operate continuously throughout the Hurricane Esther emergency. The club will handle incoming and outgoing emergency calls twenty-four hours a day until the caution period is over. The station, W4WE, assisting in the net control duties for the entire state will have message blanks distributed in Graham Memorial Y court and Lenoir Hall for students with friends or relatives in the stricken area.

Hurricane Esther, located off Cape Hatteras, is moving steadily at the rate of 13 miles per hour toward the vicinity of Hatteras with winds at a sustained 150 miles per hour. Toward the center the gusts are considerably higher.

75-Mile Winds

Winds of a full 75-mile-an-hour hurricane force will strike the outer banks Tuesday night. The hurricane was expected to hit with full force at 5 a.m. with the center a little east of Hatteras. The general direction of the storm is northwest to north-northwest the Weather Bureau said. This would mean the storm would deal the North Carolina-Virginia coast a bruising blow but could still retain its strength for another possible swipe at the mainland further north.

The Radio Club said that there would be thirty operators working in four hour shifts for Operation Esther. They will be handling all emergency calls from the area to the students and any urgent calls from the students to the area.

North Carolina's Governor Terry Sanford urged evacuation, if possible and established emergency stations in Morehead City and Beaufort. The hurricane warning is effective from Cherry Point, N. C., to the Virginia Capes.

The Operations Esther headquarters requested that only emergency messages be sent until the crisis is over. After the crisis there will be time for personal messages which will be sent.

Message blanks will be placed in GM, Y-court, and Lenoir Hall and the Radio Club participants will be wearing Operations Esther cards on their shirts for those interested in sending a message.

The weather for Chapel Hill vicinity calls for increasing winds up to 40 miles per hour Wednesday with heavy rain early. The Radio Club said, however, that they have access to emergency generators and electric current.

In Constant Touch

The station said that they will be operating on the State Civil Defense frequency, 3.865 megacycles. They will maintain constant touch with the coastal region of the entire eastern coast. The station has the maximum legal power in accordance with FCC.

According to latest reports Esther is possibly one of the mightiest storms in recent history—on a par with 1954's Hazel. The tides kicked up by Esther so far range from four to eight feet above normal. For this reason alerts are stationed all along the eastern seaboard, especially from Myrtle Beach to Cape Mary, N. J.

North Carolina's Governor Terry Sanford urged evacuation, if possible and established emergency stations in Morehead City and Beaufort. The hurricane warning is effective from Cherry Point, N. C., to the Virginia Capes.

Continue Through Crisis

Operations Esther will continue until the crisis and the aftermath is over in full cooperation with the hurricane alert system. The Radio Club is sponsored by the Student Government and will be operating from Caldwell Y. The Radio Club began one year ago and has had an active career including emergency practices during Parents Day last year.

NC Folksinger Hall Wins Goya Festival

By LINDA BISER
Carolina's folk singing Mike Hall won the Goya Guitar Folksinging Festival at Grossinger's Hotel in New York state in competition lasting from September 4-10.

Entered by the DTH, Hall topped 12 other college entrants to be acclaimed winner by several well-known folk singers.

The Rendezvous Room, frat house performer originally from Los Angels, Calif. is a senior majoring in sculpting here. He performs nightly at the Ranch House.

"You gotta sing like you feel," says the festival champ who especially respects the "durable" artistry of Burl Ives.

New York offers after his win tempted Hall but he declined so he could finish his education and get material here in the Carolinas, the "richest folk area in the country." He says he's had offers before but feels he's not ready yet. He's sung at Gertie's Folk City in Greenwich

Village, in New Orleans and coffeehouses across the country, "wherever his thumb would take him."

The Hall performance is marked by variety. He specializes in no particular area but attempts to know some of all "so he can live with himself," and be as versatile as possible. Currently he's working on the blues.

"I mess with every instrument," says Hall, best known as a guitarist but also proficient on the dulcimer, mandolin, auto harp and most recently the steel guitar. He had to fiberglass the fingernails on his left hand to keep them from breaking when strumming the steel strings.

A compromise between communication and entertainment is Hall's aim. "The way things went in New York, it's pretty likely I'll be a folk singer," he says. Besides the offers Hall was awarded a $400 Goya classical guitar and made a soon-to-be-released album with several notable folk-singers. He'd like to make an album on his own.

Hall's biggest "beef with the world" is against people who try to pick things out of folk music rather than seeing it as a whole.

Film Body Presents Program

"The best ever!" said Maggie Dent as she described the film selections of the UNC - Chapel Hill Film Society for the coming year.

Such classics as "The Phantom of Opera" with Lon Chaney, "Man of a Thousand Faces," and that classic swashbuckler "The Mark of Zorro" with Douglas Fairbanks Sr. are scheduled to appear on the fall-winter series.

Also included on the program are "art films" seldom seen in this area because of commercial reasons. "No More Fleeing", widely praised as a cinematic statement of Camusian existentialism, is an example of the type shown.

Several "Name" Stars
Among "name" stars appearing throughout the year are Garbo, Chaplin, Barrymore (test shots of his famous Hamlet), Mae West, Laurel and Hardy and Buster Keaton.

The society is extending its program this year to include a club-within-a-club of approximately 50 members who will discuss the films shown, listen to special tapes by film makers, actors, directors, etc. and to see some films not included on the program.

Grant Established
All profits this year will go to the establishment of a grant to be awarded to a UNC major in production for creative experimentation in film making.

Society memberships will go on sale at "Y" court September 21, or they may be ordered by writing the society at 508 North Columbia St. (942-1033), or obtained from committee members.

For adults, the full series is priced at $6.00, for couples at $14.00, and high school children, $5.00. Membership cards are also available for the fall-winter series now, or the spring series in January, at $4.00 for adults, couples $7.00 and high school children, $3. The price includes three guest tickets.
