

Unknowns Create Stir In Practice

Kinney Throws Well Against Starters Ray Leads Team In Pass Receptions;

By PAUL HOUSTON

Names you don't hear much about are making news behind closed gates at North Carolina football practice.

They are not first stringers and most are below the second team. But Lacey, Ray, Boutselis, Kinney, Saffelle, McLamb, Henry, Marslander, Wellman, Serenko and Shumate have been unending stand-outs lately.

Take sophomore right ends Jim Ray and Bob Lacey, who rank third and fourth. In last Saturday's full-scale scrimmage, Ray gathered passes of 18, 9, 5, and 11 yards to lead everybody there. His blocking and tackling also drew applause. Lacey, a true natural at the pass receiving art, caught two for 20 yards. And all week he was nabbing them like All-America Al Goldstein—circus.

Also, at fifth team left end, Dana Wellman was a happy surprise Saturday. The converted fullback received three aericluding one from quarterback Sandy Kinney for a touchdown against the second unit.

Speaking of Kinney, he and George Boutselis, who's a notch ahead, both are doing very well. The former, a chunky lad who excels at chunking, Saturday threw eight times, hit three, and had three dropped. Boutselis went five for eight (47 yards). Kinney led the fifth team to the only score made against the first or second clubs.

Two tackles rated just below front runners Tony Hennessey and John Hegarty have been turning in fine performances day after day. They are football sophomore Steve Serenko and senior Jim Shumate. "Serenko is not real big (200 lbs.)," says Coach Jim Hickey, "but he really gets the job done. And Shumate reported back 12 pounds heavier, all muscle. He's looking the best he's ever looked."

Milt Saffelle, another newcomer, are jockeying for third position. Shifter but not as fast as McLamb are two other halfbacks—Ward Marslander and Dave Henry. Though he was much heralded last year, not as much has been reported about Marslander this season. Reason is he has been switched from quarterback to right half, where he has now worked up from third to second ranking.

Saturday he opened eyes with runs of 23, 11, and 14 yards, along with the reception of a touchdown pass from Ray Farris covering 37 yards. He also caught three others for 29 yards.

Pony-type back Henry, a Morehead scholar from Chapel Hill, ran only twice in the scrimmage, gaining eight and next time fumbling. But the Saturday previous and during succeeding days, the quick cutting speedster made several lengthy runs.

Playmakers Will Present Five Plays

Five plays will be produced by the Carolina Playmakers this year. The first play of the group's 44th season will open at the Playmakers Theatre on October 11th for a five-night run. This season's opener is "The Matchmaker" by Thornton Wilder. The rollicking farce will be directed by Foster Fitz-Simons, associate professor of dramatic art.

"The Beggar's Opera" is the next production scheduled to open November 15 for five nights. This 18th century musical was written by John Gay. Its modern day counterpart is "The Three Penny Opera" which has been running "off-Broadway" for the past seven years—longer than any other "off-Broadway" show. Russell B. Graves, associate professor of dramatic art, will be director of this production, which will be performed at the Playmakers Theatre.

A Civil War setting is featured in a new play by Carl Hinrich entitled "Renegade." This play will open at the Playmakers Theatre beginning on January 10, and will run through January 14. Thomas M. Patterson, associate professor in dramatic art, will direct this production.

Harry Golden's famed book "Only In America" was on Broadway too. The Broadway version was done by Lawrence and Lee. This play will open at the Playmakers Theatre on March 14 to run through the 18th. Harry Davis, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art, is director of this production.

The University's Forest Theatre will be the locale for a Playmaker production of "Doctor Faustus," Christopher Marlowe's famous drama of man and the devil or Me-phistophiles. Tommy Rezutto, assistant professor of dramatic art, is director of this production which will run two nights, May 18 and 19.

RTVMP Prof Has Article

An article on television by Dr. Robert L. Hilliard, assistant professor of Radio, Television, and Motion Pictures, appears in the current issue of the NAEB Journal, the official publication of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

In the article, entitled "Panacea for Television," Dr. Hilliard analyzes the potentials and contributions of the entertainment, advertising, and public service aspects of commercial television. Through criticism, Dr. Hilliard suggests ways in which these areas of broadcasting can be improved.

Swimmers Meet Thursday At 7:30

Boasting Again!

The Intimate has the best bargains for miles around

Our bargain corner is jam-packed with books you've yearned for in other shops but couldn't afford. Now you can buy 'em because the Intimate has nicked half their original prices.

Novels, cartoon books, biographies, histories—you'll find them all in shiny new copies at tiny new prices in the bargain corner of the Intimate.

And our Used Book Corner is Red Hot, Chum, it really is sizzling!

The Old Book Department at the Intimate is full of dusty temptation for the hungry reader. Our old books don't wait for a rich customer, they meet a poor man half way.

For example, there's a whole section of old novels priced at 38c each or three for $1.00. There are sections of non-fiction at 72c and at 97c. Lots of books are priced at more than 97c, of course, but every one of them is a good buy at its price, and some are positively treasures.

Our Old Book Department changes constantly, and if the rare item you want isn't there today, it may turn up tomorrow. Looking's an adventure, anyway.

119 E. Franklin St. Open Till 10 P.M. Paper-backs? Pal, We're loaded with them!

Some folks say our Paper-Back section is the largest anywhere. We doubt if that's true but we are pretty sure we offer one of the best collections you're likely to find. Come in when you've lots of time, and browse through the titles. You'll be astonished at the breadth and quality available at low prices these days.

It's more fun Browsing in the Intimate

For years and years and years the top folk on the U. N. C. campus have rubbed elbows in the famous old Intimate. Nobody is in a hurry—nobody is going to high-pressure you into buying something you don't want. But have a care! Many a man has stopped in for a gossip, and gone out with a bit of bookish treasure.

Ward Marslander, a quarterback last year, is getting used to his halfback position, as illustrated by his performances of late in practice. Switched to half because of his broken-field running ability, the Washington unior is expected to be a big help now that he can carry the ball more. Marslander will also be able to pass from his halfback post.

An Inspiring Screen Story... All the more wonderful because all of it is True! THE TRAPP FAMILY

Many years ago we found that the so-called traditional suit was tailored for a paunchy successful executive but left the campus gentleman completely in the cold. If you wanted one bad enough & the store had a superb tailor you could get one butchered to fit. This didn't appeal to our better judgment and we set out to style a suit that would be flattering, comfortable and require the minimum of alterations. To this we have added our own exclusive designed patterns—a good investment that remains in style for the life of the garment. This feat is accomplished from $59.95.
