

New CU Flag Goes To Victor Of State Game

A new Consolidated University flag, the first for Carolina, State and WC, will be presented to the winner of the Tar Heel-Wolfpack game Saturday.

Designed by Junior Bill Criswell, a member of the CU student council legislature, the flag was described as "the most elaborate and beautiful flag we've ever worked on" by the Art Flag & Banner Co., Miami, Fla.

In case of a tie the flag will go to WC. Criswell said the flag was designed to (1) create an awareness among the students that they are part of a consolidated University (2) create a competition between State and UNC for the betterment of both schools and (3) to make a bigger event of CU day.

"It is hoped that this will become a tradition within the greater University, such as the Victory Bell," said Criswell.

Main Points Of Kennedy's UN Address Include Disarmament, Troika, Space And Colonialism

From DTH Wire Reports
The principal points of President Kennedy's address Monday to the United Nations General Assembly

Disarmament
The United States will present a sweeping plan for "general and complete disarmament" designed to "bridge the gap" between the Western and Russian positions. The plan calls for creation of "machinery to keep the peace as it destroys the machines of war." Included is a sixpoint nuclear disarmament program beginning with an immediate test ban treaty and proceeding by stages through complete destruction of existing stocks of nuclear weapons and the strategic "vehicles" necessary to deliver them.

Berlin
The United States and its Allies

are determined to use nuclear weapons if necessary to defend the freedom of West Berlin and Allied access rights to the Communist-encircled city. Negotiations on the crisis would be welcome if Russia agrees to negotiate on terms of "mutual respect and concern for the rights of others." The United States and its partners are "committed to no rigid formula." But Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposed peace treaty with Communist East Germany, giving them control over access rights, "would be merely a 'paper arrangement' of no concern to the Allies."

Troika
Russia's demand for replacement of the U.N. secretary general by a three-nation committee subject to Communist veto would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis and confidence with gross confusion." Dag Hammarskjold must be replaced as quickly as possible by an "outstanding civil servant" to keep the world organization on the track.

U.N. Peace Force
The United States wants all U.N. member nations to earmark "specially trained and quickly available" military units to be called on when needed by the world organization to enforce international law and order. It also will propose a "series of steps" to strengthen the ability of the U.N. to settle disputes peacefully.

Colonialism
This subject should be debated "in full" and not limited to talking about exploitation of "dark skins by light." It should spotlight the "communist empire" where a huge population "lives under governments installed by foreign troops instead of free institutions."

The principle of "free choice and the practice of free plebiscites" should apply in all parts of the world.

Southeast Asia:
"The smouldering coals of war" threaten to burst into flame in this area, where the Laos situation has reached the "crucial stage." Laos is being used as a base for Communist infiltration of neighboring South Viet Nam and the danger mours to other countries in the area. Ways must be found to "protect the small and weak."

U.S. Will Fight:
Every nation "friend or foe" should understand that the United States "has both the will and the weapons to join free men in standing up to their responsibilities." But it looks beyond immediate threats to the prospect of a peaceful world "in which the strong are just and the weak secure and the peace preserved forever."

Outer Space
The U.N. Charter should be amended and extended to "the limits of man's explorations in the universe, reserving outer space or on celestial bodies and opening the mysteries and benefits of space to every nation."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is scheduled to address the General Assembly shortly after 3 p.m. Tuesday.

He had been scheduled to speak Tuesday morning but his address was rescheduled as the first one at the afternoon meeting.

Speeches of Yugoslavia and Ghana will be made Tuesday morning. The Netherlands and Ecuador will speak Tuesday afternoon.

NEWS CROSS SECTION. In this recently installed rack in GM, newspapers from all over North Carolina and the nation may be found. There will be 32 of them for student use. The two latest copies of each paper will be kept. Some of the papers included are the New York Times, Charlotte Observer, Durham Sun, Christian Science Monitor, and others.—Photo by Jim Wallace.

Weekends May Start

"Another 'Carolina Weekend' could be established if the Oct. 6 show at Memorial Hall is successfully received," said John Barrow, publicity chairman of the University Entertainment Committee, yesterday.

The show, which will be given at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., will feature Decca's recording stars, the Four Aces; Richiardi, an illusionist with his company of five; Alan Black, a harmonica virtuoso with Columbia and Epic record companies; and the Fred Perry orchestra.

First Offering

This show is the first offering of the committee which was organized last spring to provide some sort of entertainment open to all students. Doug Burchardt is the present chairman. The committee plans to have three or four more shows this year.

"If the weekend is a success," said Barrow, "the committee plans to elect sponsors for next year's concert, ask for a bigger budget and give the committee a livelier name."

Unifying Step

"It's a first step towards unifying the campus socially and the continuation of the committee definitely depends on the student response to the concerts," said Barrow.

Tickets are on sale for $2 a ticket at Kemp's, at Y-Court from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and at Lenoir Hall from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. There will also be door sales at the concerts.
