

Film Group Opens With Surrealistic, Existentialist Bit

A surrealistic short and an existentialist feature will open the 1961-62 season of the UNC-Chapel Hill Film Society Monday night in Carroll Hall.

"The World of Paul Delvaux," directed by Henri Storck with music composed by Andre Souris, the celebrated Belgian composer, and written by the French surrealist poet Paul Eluard, has been described in Unesco's "Films on Art" as the most beautiful film on art yet produced. Storck, Eluard and Souris have brought to life the universe of Belgium's painter. In the space of eleven minutes, the film takes the spectator on a descent into hell and invites him to explore the symbolic mirrors in which a man's conscience is reflected.

everyday life against which no flight can be successful, and lays bare those moments which lead to explosion or discharge by murder.

Introducing the film will be the Rev. Robert Seymour, Methodist student chaplain. Both films have won prizes at international film festivals and critical acclaim from film reviews in many countries. Cinema 16, New York, the world's largest film society with a membership of well over 10,000, is distributing them in the U.S.

Following the showing, the Society's new Cine Club will meet in a local restaurant to discuss the films. Reservations must be made for membership, which is limited to 60 people.

"Don't Flee"

The feature, "No More Fleeing," directed in Spain by the 24-year-old Viennese avant-garde director Herbert Vesely with German government funds, deals with the symptoms of contemporary decline: the murder without cause and beyond moral assessment. It analyzes the states of a meaningless existence, a hopeless automatism of

Di-Phi Society Rejects Berlin Free City Bill

At its first meeting of the year Monday night, the UNC Di-Phi Society defeated a resolution advocating the creation of a united free city of Berlin.

The resolution, submitted by Rep. Richard Barton read as follows:

WHEREAS: The present status of a divided Berlin is unsatisfactory to both the Russians and the Western Allies and

WHEREAS: The present division of Berlin intensifies the dangers of the Cold War and endangers the citizens of Berlin Germany and the world and

WHEREAS: The division of Berlin as was the division of Germany was initially intended to be a temporary occupation arrangement.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE DIALECTIC-PHILANTHROPIC LITERARY SOCIETY THAT:

There be created a united, free city of Berlin to be protected by appropriate treaties and agreements between the four occupying powers and administered by the United Nations.

The Di-Phi Society, a student philanthropic debating society, was founded the same year as the university itself. Membership is open to all students at UNC who attend three Di-Phi meetings and make an acceptable qualifying speech at one of them.

Meetings of the Di-Phi are held bi-weekly at 7:30 on Monday on the third floor of New West. The major item on the agenda is usually a resolution on some important local, national or world problem submitted by one of the members of the society. Guests are welcome at the meetings and are free to join the debates.

President of the Di-Phi this year is Joseph Farrell.

Like to visit the United Nations at Thanksgiving? Would you enjoy spending one afternoon a week entertaining the children in a Raleigh orphanage? Does a seminar on the Southern Student and Integration interest you?

These and other activities are offered to the Carolina student through the campus YMCA.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Carroll Hall the YMCA Cabinet will hold an open meeting for men students to discuss the programs of the YMCA's various committees.

The YMCA has 11 committees, eight of which work with co-ordinate committees in the YWCA.

The U.N. Education Committee sponsors two trips to the U.N. headquarters a year. One is at Thanksgiving and the other in April. The groups spend three or four days in New York attending meetings at the U.N. and talking with delegations. This committee also takes part in the Model Assembly which was held at Duke University last year.

The Community Works Committee works through Chapel Hill and Raleigh community agencies. Members usually spend one day a week helping in hospitals or children's homes.

The Foreign Student Committee picks up where the orientation committee leaves off. This com-

UNC Peace Corps Has Fresh Outlook

The Campus Peace Corps will have a new outlook this year.

The Peace Corps group was formed last year in response to President Kennedy's appeal for college support of a youth service corps. Now that the Peace Corps bill has been signed into law by the President, the committee's emphasis will switch from supporting the idea to participating in the program.

The committee's tentative plans for the year include:

1. Talks and discussions by students who have recently participated in service projects in Africa, Mexico and other developing areas.
2. An "information bank" of literature and people who would be available to campus and community groups and individuals.
3. A program of area group studies for Peace Corps hopefuls.

The immediate interest of the committee is the next series of examinations for Peace Corps applicants to be given October 7.

These examinations, the program for the year and committee policies will be discussed at the organizational meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday upstairs in Lenoir Hall.

Students interested in the Peace Corps are asked to attend this meeting, said Steve Lindell.

Campus Committee

Last year the Campus Peace Corps Committee conducted a survey which contributed to legislation of the proposal, submitted resolutions to the national office and sponsored lectures by people close to the program. Also, several committee members attended an NSA-sponsored Peace Corps conference in Washington last spring.

Recently, two UNC students have been selected for training in the Peace Corps.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Joseph Gibbons, 34, convicted of robbing the same savings and loan association twice on March 9 and April 13, pleaded Monday he was too drunk both times to know what he was doing. Federal Judge Julius M. Minor nevertheless sentenced him to 10 years in prison.

Harriss To Hold Interviews For Posts On 14 Committees

President Bill Harriss of the student body has announced that interviews for positions on several student government committees will be held from 1:30-6 Wed.-Fri. for the next two weeks.

The interviews, to be held in Harriss' office on the second floor of Graham Memorial, will last ten minutes. A list of available times will be posted in the Student Government office in Graham Memorial.

No chairmanships of committees are open, but Harriss encourages all students interested in serving as committee members to apply. Membership is open to any student on campus, including coeds, regardless of his class or previous experience.

Positions on the following committees are open:

Positions Open

The new Communications Committee has been established to publicize Student Government and to explain its programs to the campus and the state.

The Academic Affairs Committee studies courses and class procedures on campus in order to make appropriate recommendations to appropriate offices on the improvement of academics.

The Elections Board administers the fall and spring elections and any special elections on campus. The board also conducts referendums.

The Campus Affairs Committee works for solutions of local problems brought to its attention by Legislature, the president, and any other students or student activities.

The Library Committee works with the Library administration on student grievances in order to seek a fair solution to problems.

The Last Lecture Committee sponsors the annual Last Lecture Series in which members of the faculty and administration take part.

The National Student Association, of which UNC is a member, is the channel for the exchange of ideas and programs among 40 member schools in the United States. The NSA is also the voice of college students in national affairs.

Students Board

The International Students Board concerns itself with the furthering of better relationships between students and the international community. It promotes the exchange of ideas among native and foreign students on campus. Finally, it administers Goettingen and NSA scholarships.

The Secretariat, a committee of coeds chaired by the secretary of the student body, does the secretarial work in all phases of student government.

The Attorney General's staff is responsible for the investigation and supervision of violations of the Honor Code and for the supervision of justice to accused students.

The Honor System Commission studies the honor system, makes recommendations and presents the system to new Carolina students and to high school students in the state.

Dance Committee

The Dance Committee makes and enforces rules governing dances at Carolina both on and off campus. The Carolina Forum presents outstanding speakers each year to discuss problems of current interest.

The State Affairs Committee serves as an information group for the University's budget when the latter comes before the General Assembly of the state. Hundreds of students are on this committee in addition to the executive committee of nine. This committee, the State Affairs Committee, is especially concerned with the student union project and increased faculty salaries.

Europe Studies At Hand

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 25 — Scholarships for undergraduate study in Europe during the academic year 1962-1963 were announced by the Institute of European Studies, a Chicago-headquartered, non-profit educational organization specializing in overseas study for American college students.

The scholarships are valued from $1,950 to $2,350, and provide a full year of study at one of the Institute's three study centers, Vienna, Freiburg (West Germany), and Paris. Roundtrip ocean transportation from New York, tuition, room, meals, language instruction, special courses and field study are included.

The scholarship application period begins October and closes February 1, 1962. Students who will be sophomores or juniors and who surpass the minimum qualifications required by each program may apply.

Offers Education

Robert T. Boschart, president of the Institute of European Studies, said the scholarship program is aimed at placing the best in American and European education within the reach of all qualified U.S. college students.

Students in each center may choose from a wide range of liberal arts courses. Sophomore and junior courses are conducted in the English language at the Vienna and Paris centers or in the language of the host country. Freiburg classes are taught in German and open only to juniors.

Intensive language instruction is provided to all students, Boschart said. Other special courses are also available.

Infirmary

The UNC Angel Flight begins its fall selections for new Angels this week.

Purposes of Angel Flight are: (1) To help maintain high morale in the AFROTC unit by serving as official hostesses; (2) to aid the progress of Arnold Air Society, of which Angel Flight is the coed auxiliary and sponsor, and (3) to acquaint members with the AFROTC, the Air Age and Air Education.

The UNC coed is chosen to fulfill these purposes on the basis of interest, time, appearance, personality and poise, with the qualifications that she must be an undergraduate in good standing and be enrolled for at least twelve hours in the University.

Selection Procedure

The procedure for selection is nomination by a cadet or Angel Flight member, informal interview with an Angel and appearance before a selections board composed of the Arnold Air-Angel Flight advisor, two flight officers, cadet corps commander and Arnold Air Society commander.

After an initiation period, new Angels receive silver wings, the honorary rank of second lieutenant and the full responsibilities and privileges of membership.

Interested coeds are urged by First Lt. Linda May to inform Angel Flight members or AFROTC cadets of their desire to become a part of Angel Flight, before nominations end, Thursday, Oct. 5.
