

ZBT's Plan Move To New Fraternity Court Off Campus

By Jean Yoder

Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity has announced plans to build a $225,000 house in new Fraternity Court, making it the first of UNC's social fraternities planning to move out of the general campus area.

New Fraternity Court is a 1 1/2-acre plot on the Finley Golf Course Road, designated last spring by university officials as the site of six new fraternity houses.

According to Steve Grafman, ZBT president, construction of the two-story brick and California redwood building will begin in February and should be completed by September.

Contemporary Design

The house, of contemporary design, will feature on the first floor a formal sunken living room, a combination recreation-dining area to accommodate 200 persons for dancing and 100 for dinners and a music room opening onto a combination library-lounge. Also on the first floor will be a suite for the resident housemother, a restaurant-style kitchen, a butler's pantry and a utility room and storage area.

Sleeping and studying space for the house's maximum of 44 men will be on the second floor.

10,000 Square Feet

Additional features of the 10,000 square-foot house include a patio surrounding the building, a balcony for each bedroom, air conditioning and courtyards enclosing each end of the house.

The ZBT chapter plans to buy a small bus to provide transportation to and from the campus.

Active since 1927, the chapter has been located since 1947 on West Rosemary Street.

William B. Long, assistant dean of student affairs, in a letter to Alan B. Heiling, principal chapter trustee, has commended the fraternity "for creating a model for succeeding fraternity houses which may be built at this University."

Architects are Cooper and Salzmann of Atlanta.

The Four Aces Appear Here

"LOVE IS A MANY SPLENDOR THING" declared the Four Aces, who will appear in Memorial Hall at 4 and 8 p.m. today. The famed singers of "Three Coins in a Fountain," "Written on the Wind" and "It's No Sin" are appearing here on their Southern tour. Richard, an illusionist who has performed throughout Europe, will follow the Four Aces with his magic tricks. Master of ceremonies Alan Black, Columbia and Epic recording star, will double as an entertainer. The program will be introduced by Doug Burkhardt, chairman of the University Entertainment Committee. Tickets, which are on sale at Lenoir Hall, Y-Court, and Kemp's, will also be available at the door before each performance.

Harriss Urges Attend Shows

Bill Harriss, student body president, yesterday urged all students to attend the University Entertainment Committee's program today, which features the Four Aces.

Harriss said, "A lot of time, effort and hard work has gone into the program. The Entertainment Committee is the first group of its type to provide good entertainment at a minimum rate to the campus as a whole and the program today is a sincere effort to provide the best in entertainment for each student on the campus."

Doug Burkhardt, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, added that "attendance today will determine whether or not the students will continue to receive good entertainment at low rates."

Germans O.K.

The Entertainment Committee also got a nod of approval from George Cox, president of the Germans Club. "On behalf of the Germans Club, I would like to pledge our full support to the University Entertainment Committee's Four Aces concert today. We of the German Club, feel that this type of program is a definite asset to the campus and will not only improve campus social relations, but will be a big factor in improving the morale of the students. We do not consider this concert to be in any way an encroachment upon the Germans Club's programs."

Addressing the American Council on Education, Murrow said Russian books, distributed to non-Communist countries rose by 30 per cent last year to a high of 40 million volumes.

Dean Heard Named By JFK To Election Finance Committee

Alexander Heard, dean of the University Graduate School, has been named by President Kennedy to head a nine-member bi-partisan commission.

The newly formed commission will study the financing of presidential elections and propose ways of meeting campaign expenses.

Kennedy's interest in this field is evidenced in the fact that this was the first commission he appointed.

Heard, a Democrat, is a leading authority on the problems of campaign advertising. His 1960 book, "The Costs of Democracy," contains a great amount of information on this subject.

Harvard Grad
A native of Savannah, Ga., he is a 1938 graduate of UNC. At Columbia University he received his master's and doctorate and held a postgrad fellowship at Harvard in 1957-58.

In addition to "The Costs of Democracy," he has published "A Two Party South" in 1952, "Southern Primaries and Elections" (with Donald S. Strong, 1950) and "Southern Politics and the Nation" (with Professor V. O. Key, Jr., 1949).

The dean is president of the Southern Political Science Association, a member of the International Political Science Association, the American Science Association and the American Association of University Professors.

Speaker Sam Rayburn Dying Of Cancer—Hope Given Up

By Preston McGraw

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, is dying of cancer. Hospital tests Thursday showed there was no hope. Rayburn was not told.

A surgeon took a sample of tissue from "Mr. Sam's" groin at Baylor University Medical Center Thursday and found in it a "metastatic malignancy."

This meant that the cancer developed somewhere else—probably in Rayburn's pancreas—and that the cells have broken loose and spread the malignancy to other parts of his body.

A spokesman for the hospital said the cancer probably has spread to most of the lower half of his body.

"No further surgery is anticipated," a bulletin announcing his condition said. A spokesman for the hospital said the only surgery performed was what was necessary to get the tissue sample.

Asked how long Rayburn will live, Dr. Robert F. Short Jr., in charge of his case, said: "There is no way of telling."

Rayburn was under sedation from the operation necessary to get the tissue sample when Dr. Short announced that he had cancer.

Johnson Refuses Comment

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, a protégé of Rayburn, declined to comment at once when he heard that Rayburn has cancer. Johnson is at his ranch near Johnson City.

Dr. Short said he telephoned Dr. Janet Travell, President Kennedy's physician, in Washington an hour before he publicly announced that Rayburn had cancer.

When severe back pains forced the speaker to leave Washington Aug. 31, a month before Congress adjourned, he knew only that he had "lumbago." Rayburn said that had been the diagnosis of physicians in the capital.

Rayburn went to his home in Bonham, Tex., where he hoped rest would end the pains. They persisted and his Bonham physician urged him to go to Dallas for observation at Baylor University Medical Center.

Less than a month ago, Rayburn said persons predicting he

if he demands to be told what is wrong with him, the spokesman said, it is the hospital's policy to tell him. If he doesn't ask, the information won't be volunteered.

Roosevelt, Harry Truman and now, President Kennedy.

A spokesman for Baylor University Medical Center said that whether Rayburn ever learns he has cancer depends upon whether he demands to be told what is wrong with him.

If he demands to be told what is wrong with him, the spokesman said, it is the hospital's policy to tell him. If he doesn't ask, the information won't be volunteered.

At the CAA meeting Tuesday night, regret was expressed concerning the criticism raised recently about the feeding of athletic teams. Since the Monogram Club has been turned into a Faculty Club and dining room, the football team has been eating in a roped-off area of Lenoir Hall.

It is hoped that the stress in Lenoir will be considerably relieved by the re-opening of the Pine Room, now undergoing remodeling and by fraternity rush after which more students will be dining in the chapter houses, Bilbro said.

The Council went on to commend the general student conduct at the State-Carolina game, but requested that students note that no coolers or portable ice boxes are allowed in Kenan Stadium and that the ruling will be enforced by ushers and security officers.

Eight presidents came and went while he served in the House. He made his position so powerful that it was exceeded only by the powers of the president. "Mr. Sam," acknowledging his own power, liked to say that he served "with" presidents, not "under" them. He was adviser to Presidents Franklin D.
