'UP Doesn't Represent Dorm Men' Dorm Man Quits University Party

By Bob Lankford
Mike Putzel, who claims leadership of the Men's Dorm Delegation to the University Party convention, yesterday announced his resignation.

UP Chairman Bill Criswell said that Putzel's designation was self-styled and stated that Dick Brodeur was the head of the delegation. Brodeur was not immediately available for comment.

Putzel in his resignation statement said that he took such action because he could see "no desire on the part of the University Party to represent dormitory men in the Student Government."

Putzel further stated that the UP, while interested in gaining the dorm man's vote, demonstrated no real interest in supporting policies which would prove beneficial to the dormitories.

Criswell said that his party "has a sincere desire to gear itself toward a majority of the students." However, Criswell pointed out, only a small number of dorm delegates attended the UP convention.

He blamed the Student Party for the minority status of the men's dorms at the UP convention: "Last spring the SP labelled us the fraternity party—and perhaps it wasn't entirely false, either."

"But," said Criswell, "now that we have a new administration, we don't feel we should be stuck with last year's labels. We want the opportunity to involve ourselves in the dormitories." The small number of dorm delegates at the convention made a dorm candidate on the ticket difficult, he claimed.

In closing, Criswell said, "I sincerely want the dormitories to be represented in the University Party because I don't want the UP to represent only one-sixth of the campus."

Poet Makes Appearance Second Time

e. e. cummings, called by some one of the major poets of this century, will read from his works tonight at 8 in Memorial Hall.

This will be his second appearance here. His first was in 1955 when he read before a packed house.

The reading is sponsored by the English Club.

cummings launched his literary career 37 years ago with the publication of "The Enormous Room," a description of his experiences in a concentration camp in France. Considered by some one of the greatest novels to come out of World War I, his fame has grown rapidly since that time.

Famous For Lyricism

His poetry, famous for its extraordinary lyricism, playfulness, technical ingenuity, and compassion, first appeared in 1923 with the publication of "Tulips and Chimneys."

Other books of poetry include "Is 5," 1926; "Collected Poems," 1938; "50 Poems," 1940; "IXL," 1944; "Xaife," 1950; and in 1954 his greatest collection—"Poems 1923-1954."

He has been described as "the terror of typesetters, an enigma to book reviewers and the special target of all the world's literary philistines," because of his sometimes hieroglyphic form of verse.

Difficult To Read

A UNC English professor says his poetry, which lacks punctuation and is sometimes difficult to read, is more easily understood when he reads it.

He is very strict about publicity, shunning it whenever possible. He allows no photographs to be taken if he can help it and gives no autographs.

279 Coeds To Invade Cobb

By Linda Biser
Two hundred and seventy-nine coeds will invade Cobb Dormitory next fall to displace the present male occupants.

The mass movement depends on $50,000 earmarked by the pending University bond issue for conversion of Cobb to suitable women's quarters. More space for men will be available in the new Ehringhaus and Craige dormitories.

University administrators are providing additional coed housing now in anticipation of an increasing proportion of women students.

Charles Henderson, dean of student affairs, predicts growth will be primarily in the health affairs programs introducing more freshmen and sophomore women into the university.

Health affairs programs include pharmacy, medical technology, physical therapy and nursing.

Critical Shortage
Henderson noted the conversion will relieve a critical women's housing shortage. "Hundreds of qualified out-of-state women are turned down and this year about 40 late applying qualified in-state women had to be rejected because of lack of housing facilities," he said. (Undergraduate women are not permitted to live off campus at UNC.)

Acting Dean of Women Mrs. Arthur DeBerry hopes to operate Cobb as two separate dorms with a housemother for each of the two wings.

A committee made preliminary observations of needed changes noting parlor renovation, installation of housemother's housing, conversion of the billiard room to a laundry room and changed bathroom plumbing. Another male escorted committee tour is planned soon.

"Country Hotel"
Cobb, operated as a "country hotel" in past summers, housing short term institute groups and conventions will be vacant this summer for renovation.

Present occupants returning next fall will fill out dorm preference cards this spring as customary. Only Cobb will be deleted from the male housing facility list.

The H-shaped dorm was built approximately a decade ago in modified colonial architectural style. It features a large basement recreation study room and four upper floors.

Republican Congressmen

Paul Revere Panel Attacks JFK Plan

A "Paul Revere" panel of three Republican congressmen yesterday attacked the Kennedy administration for centralization of power in the executive branch, excessive spending and a weak foreign policy.

The members of the panel who spoke in the Law School court room were Representatives William C. Cramer, Fla., Samuel L. Devine, Ohio, and James E. Bromwell, Iowa. This panel is one of five sponsored by the Republican National Committee which are touring the country in preparation for the 1962 congressional campaigns.

Speaking of what he called "the greatest shift of power in the history of the United States" Bromwell charged that in the past nine months the cabinet and the National Security Council have been replaced by a group of presidential advisors.

Advisors
Bromwell, a first-terminer, in the House, objected that "These advisors don't have to be confirmed as do members of the cabinet." He added that they are not subject to approval by the American public.

Devine opposed further increasing the national debt by giving foreign aid to uncommitted nations. "They are either with us or against us. And if they are against us we ought to cut off aid," said Devine.

Cramer cited federal aid to education and teachers' salaries as two instances where he feels the federal government is taking away local initiative.

The panel adopted the name of Paul Revere "because these Republican congressmen will carry warning to the American people that our system of government is imperiled by the present administration." Tomorrow the group will go to West Virginia.

Morehead Earned B.S. Here In 1891

(Editor's Note: This article is the fourth in a series of background information on John Motley Morehead, UNC's second annual Morehead Day will be held next Friday.)

By Martin Krumping
Born on November 3, 1870 in Spray, Rockingham County, North Carolina, John Motley Morehead is the only son of James Turner and Mary Elizabeth Morehead. After receiving his elementary education primarily in Rockingham County, he went on to earn a Bachelor of Science degree from UNC in 1891.

Upon graduation, Morehead went to work for his father at the Wilson Aluminum Company. Since the company had to curtail its operations in 1892, "Uncle Mot" headed north and went to work for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. In 1897 his energetic young man found a job with the American Calcium Carbide Interest as a construction engineer and it was through them that he journeyed to England, Scotland, and Germany supervising the erection of calcium carbide plants.

Light and Coke
When the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company of Chicago acquired a major interest in the Carbide business in 1902, "Uncle Mot" took on the position as Chief Chemist and Engineer of Tests for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company and moved to Chicago.

War broke out in 1917 and Morehead offered his services to the United States Army as a Major on the General Staff. Although "Uncle Mot" was not discharged from the army, he was retired to the Officers Reserve Corps with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

In 1919 Morehead moved his residence to Rye, New York since the Carbide Corporation had set up its offices in New York City and needed him to be near their laboratories at Niagara Falls and Long Island.

Envoy, Minister
Retiring from the post of mayor of Rye in 1930, Morehead accepted an appointment as Envoy-Extraordinary and Minister-Plenipotentiary to Sweden from President Herbert Hoover in 1931. Upon return from Sweden in April, 1933, Morehead again resumed his position as engineer for the Union Carbide Corporation. Incidentally, "Uncle Mot" is the only foreigner to receive the gold medal Kungl from Sweden.

Morehead's first marriage to Genevieve M. Birkhoof in 1915 terminated with her death on April 16, 1945. On May 11, 1948 he married Mrs. Leila Duckworth Houghton and many expressed sorrow when she passed away on October 21, 1961.

Honorary Degrees
In recognition of "Uncle Mot's" numerous achievements he has received honorary degrees from UNC in 1926, from Upsala University in New Jersey in 1944, and from Wake Forest College in 1944. Morehead is a member of the Republican Party, the American Legion, the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and the Order of the Golden Fleece.
