Interviews Slated Next Week For State Student Legislature

By CHARLES HEATHERLY

Interviews will be held next week to select UNC delegates for the State Student Legislature of North Carolina (SSL) which convenes March 8, 9, and 10, 1962 in the legislative chambers of the state capitol.

SSL is an annual function and one in which all North Carolina institutions of higher learning participate. The purpose of this legislative body is to voice student opinion on state, national and international levels. Each school presents one or more bills during the course of events. After presentation of a bill, the floor is opened to debate and then a vote is taken.

In the past many controversial topics have been discussed. For example, last year on the state level, consideration was given to grant veto power to the governor. Abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee and a proposed method of birth control were issues pertaining to the national scene. And on the international picture, controversies surrounding the World Court and a proposal to repeal the Connelly Amendment were discussed among others.

14 From UNC

UNC will send approximately 14 official delegates to this legislature, twelve of whom will sit in the House of Representatives and two in the Senate. An undetermined number of alternates will attend.

The committee selecting delegates for SSL will consist of two members of Student Legislature and the two UNC members of the SSL Interim Committee. Lila Smith and Dwight Wheelless represent UNC on the Interim Committee. This committee is composed of two representatives from each member school and is responsible for publicizing, planning and organizing the annual legislature.

Selection Committee

The Selection Committee will begin interviewing persons interested in going with the UNC delegation at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6. Each applicant will be given a short quiz on current events as well as one on parliamentary procedure.

Dwight Wheelless, spokesman for the Interim Committee said, "I want to urge all persons who are at all interested in this function to make application for SSL because it offers an opportunity to meet students from all over the state and is an ideal outlet for student expression." He added, "Each applicant will be given the utmost consideration."

UNC Orchestra Gives Program Tuesday At 8

The University Symphony Orchestra, Earl Slocum conducting, will give its first program of the season in Hill Hall next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The program will feature Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Other works to be performed are Der Freischutz Overture by Carl Maria von Weber, Adagio for String Orchestra by Samuel Barber, Accelerations Waltz by Johann Strauss (the younger), and Franz Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody.

69 Performers

The 69 instrumentalists are music majors, members of the music department faculty, students and teachers from other University departments, and musicians residing in the tri-city area.

Professor Slocum, has been conductor of the symphony for the past 16 years. In addition to his duties with the orchestra he teaches composition, orchestration, and conducting.

The public is invited. Admission is free.

Faculty News

Tom Patterson, associate professor of dramatic art has been elected to the Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park and Badlands Association Board of Advisors for 1962.

Patterson is the author of "Old Four Eyes," produced in Medora, North Dakota since 1958 by the Roosevelt Association, and described by "Time" Magazine as one of the five best outdoor dramas in the nation.

Other members of the Board of Advisors include two daughters of Theodore Roosevelt, Herman Hagedorn who is his official biographer, and other prominent people associated with Theodore Roosevelt and the Roosevelt Park.

Patterson's play recounts the story of Roosevelt's ranching days in the Dakota Badlands.

Dr. Erie Peacock Jr. of the School of Medicine is now en route to the Christian Medical College at Valore, India where he will spend two months working in a leper colony located there.

Dr. Peacock is assistant professor of surgery (plastic surgery) and is a graduate of the Harvard School of Medicine. He has been on the UNC faculty since 1956.

Dr. Peacock was invited to India by Dr. Paul Brand, deputy director of the school. His trip is sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service and by the personal support of Dr. Verne Blackwelder of Lenoir.

Joseph C. Sloane, chairman of the University's Department of Art and director of the Ackland Art Museum, was elected president of the North Carolina State Art Society yesterday.

Mr. Sloane, who was elected by acclamation by the Society's board of directors, takes over from Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, who announced some weeks ago he would not seek reelection after ten years as the Society's president.

Mr. Humber is now chairman of the board of trustees of the North Carolina Museum of Art.

In accepting the presidency, Mr. Sloane said he stood in awe of Mr. Humber's achievement and in awe of following him as president.

He said that despite the fact that the Society had covered itself with glory and done a remarkable job, "it should spend no time whatever in lamenting the fact that it is no longer actively participating in museum affairs."

Last June the Society membership approved the action of its board in turning over to the State its museum assets.

Dr. Clemmons Sommer of Chapel Hill was among four Society directors whose previous elections were confirmed by the Society.

Integration Meeting Calls Off Picketing At Varsity Theater

PICKETING SUSPENDED—Martie Primack, vice-chairman of the Citizens Committee for Open Movies, explains the recommendation of the Committee to indefinitely suspend picketing at both downtown Chapel Hill theaters. The group of almost 100 townspeople and students, mostly whites, voted to support the recommendation last night at a meeting of the group in the St. Paul A.M.E. Church. —Photo by Little

Violence Rages In Dominican Republic

SANTO DOMINGO, D. R. (UPI)—A howling mob tried to storm the iron-grated gates of the national palace Thursday but was repelled by tank-supported combat troops who fired over the heads of the demonstrators and hurled tear gas and noise bombs.

In another incident a demonstrator was shot to death. The embattled palace guard had to call for reinforcements to hold back more than a thousand screaming demonstrators. Two truckloads of combat-equipped navy units roared through the crowd to take up positions inside the palace grounds at the bottom of a hill about 200 yards from the domed palace.

Troops ranged behind the fence encircling the palace hurled scores of tear gas grenades and noise bombs to scatter the surging mob which broke and ran but reformed and charged anew.

Fire Over Demonstrators

For the first time in 11 days of disorders, since the end of the so-called Trujillo era in the Dominican Republic palace tanks rumbled through the gates and took up positions in the street outside. They trained their machineguns on the crowd but did not fire. Troops inside the gates fired short tommygun bursts over the heads of the demonstrators.

The mob had marched on the palace from downtown Santo Domingo after false rumors of President Joaquin Balaguer's resignation touched off wild celebrations. The holiday mood turned to wrath as the official Dominican radio denied the rumors.

Wrath mounted as a demonstrator was shot to death in a public square by an unidentified gunman riding on a speeding bus. He was the first fatality since the start of the general strike three days ago, called by the opposition to force Balaguer's resignation.

It was reported but could not be immediately confirmed that the government and opposition had reached an agreement on a provisional government which would consist of Balaguer, four opposition leaders and armed forces Chief Gen. Pedro Rodriguez.

Rev. Watson Talks To Beta Sigma Phi

The Rev. O. W. Watson spoke on "The Interpretation of Love" Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Chapel Hill chapter of the Sigma Phi sorority in the conference room of the Home Savings and Loan Association. The program also included a business session conducted by Miss Mary Dryden, chapter president.

Other members present were Virginia Hodson, Madge Oakley, Henrietta Shannon, Jackie Fields, Ione Williams, Trillis Sparrow, and Jean Sparrow.

Committee To Wait For Further Action

By BILL HOBBS

The Citizens' Committee for Open Movies decided last night to indefinitely suspend picketing at the Varsity Theater.

The group, meeting in St. Paul's A.M.E. Church, decided to await further negotiations with both the Carolina and Varsity managers before making a final decision on resumption of picketing.

The integrationist group will meet next Tuesday with E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theater. Smith has said his theater would announce a step towards further integration at that time. The nature of this step has not been specified, but several members of the citizens' committee have speculated that it would be to admit the family and dates of the UNC Negro students.

TV Showing For 'An Age Of Kings' Scheduled Today

Today WUNC-TV will begin a series of eight Shakespearean plays, entitled "An Age of Kings." The plays, to be presented at 9 p.m. on Fridays and 8 p.m. on Sundays, are "Richard II"; "Henry IV, Parts I and II"; "Henry V"; "Henry VI, Parts I, II and III" and "Richard III."

A preview broadcast for schools will be presented each Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Each of the plays is divided into two programs, except the three parts of "Henry VI," which are edited and rearranged to yield five episodes.

The National Educational Television and Radio Center, headquarters and programming agency for a network of 51 non-commercial stations, last year obtained all U.S. rights to the series, a British Broadcasting Corporation production.

No ETV Outlets

The NET then waived those rights in New York City and Washington, D. C., where there are as yet no ETV outlets, so that a commercial station in each city could present the series.

The series has already had unusually large audiences in England, New York City and Washington, D. C.

A permanent company of about 20 players who occupied feature parts in one episode and minor ones in the next was used. The leading roles were contracted for separately with young actors of some reputation in the British theater.

The producer of "An Age of Kings," Peter Dews, received the top award for dramatic production from the British Guild of Television Producers for his work on the series.

STAFF MEMBERS

Any student interested in becoming a staff member of the Daily Tar Heel is invited to come by the DTH office, 2nd floor GM, any afternoon except Sunday.

There are presently openings in all departments, especially news. Students need not be journalism majors or necessarily experienced in newspaper work.

Integration Violence Halted

McCOMB, Miss.—The mayor of McComb vowed Thursday the city's bus station would be desegregated without further violence. Five Negro "freedom riders" were mobbed at the terminal Wednesday when they sought service at the lunch counter.

Mayor C. H. Douglas told a news conference policemen have been put on overtime and the force was "now prepared to meet the emergencies." He also said four young white men had been arrested for Wednesday's violence.

Reds Charge Provocation

BERLIN—The Soviet Union charged Thursday that U. S. Troop movements along the super-highway to Berlin are "provocations... fraught with dangerous consequences." U. S. officials dismissed the charges and ordered another U. S. infantry company to roll through the Soviet Zone to Berlin Friday.

Communists Defy Arrest

NEW YORK—The leadership of the U. S. Communist party went underground Thursday to avoid the arrest of its American commissars for refusing to register as Russian agents.

The national party dismantled its leadership hierarchy in an apparent attempt to leave only three officers to face the promised federal prosecution for failing to register under the Internal Security Act.

Geneva Negotiations Stalled

GENEVA—The United States and Britain Thursday withdrew their chief negotiators from the Geneva nuclear talks.

Soviet demands for an uncontrolled, indefinite test ban created a stalemate and hopes for any East-West agreement in the near future vanished.

The talks will continue without the delegation chiefs.

U. S. chief delegate Arthur H. Dean and Britain's delegation leader Joseph Godber announced they were returning home Friday. Neither would say when he would return to Geneva.

Churchill Celebrates

LONDON—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 87th birthday Thursday with a breakfast of oysters and wine, a luncheon of roast sucking pig, and his first parliamentary speech in two years—and a seven-word thank you for a rousing ovation.

For the man who rallied the British nation in wartime with his "blood, toil, tears and sweat" oratory, it was not a stirring speech. "I am very grateful to the House," Churchill said.

But it set off a renewed storm of applause and acclamation almost without precedent in Parliament.

AFTER BOND DEFEAT

UNC Moves To Fulfill Needs In Capital Improvement

Despite the failure of the entire $61.5 million bond issue November 7, and despite Governor Terry Sanford's announcement Monday that he would not request a special session of the Legislature to consider another bond election, the University will be able to go ahead with some of its capital improvement projects.

If the original bond issue had been passed by the voters the University here would have gotten $6,072,000 for a variety of capital improvements.

Most of these improvements have now been abandoned for the time being. Some, however, have not.

University business manager J. A. Branch said yesterday that the University's heating plant facilities would be expanded as planned.

"We would have had $1,380,200 for additions to the heating plant," he said. "Half of that would have been self-liquidating. Since there are buildings already under construction or in planning, we've got to heat those buildings—Craigie & Ehringhaus Dormitories, and the new Botany building. So we're going to go ahead and borrow the full amount and pay it all off with earnings, self-liquidating."

"The renovation of Cobb Dormitory for women involves simple modifications in the bathrooms, providing hostess's quarters, and enlarging the social rooms."

Mr. Branch said that the cost of the renovation had been estimated at $50,000; that funds from HHFA loans could only be used for built-in equipment; that subsequent bids for the renovation had been lower than the $50,000 estimate; and that subsequently enough money would be available to do the renovation work.

He said an architect was working on plans for the renovation now, that bids would be taken by late spring, that a contractor would begin work as soon as the present residents of Cobb moved out at the end of the spring semester, and that the building would be ready for women students by next fall.

In the original bond issue, $730,000 would have been included for construction of a cafeteria and service building near the two new men's dormitories.

This money is now not available, but Mr. Branch said that the cafeteria would still be provided by taking over the ground floor of one wing of Ehringhaus Dormitory and installing a kitchen.

Art Auction Slated At State

A State Art Student Prepares Work For The Auction

Art work by faculty and students of N. C. State College will be auctioned at "reasonable" prices next Monday at the College Union in Raleigh.

The auction, scheduled at 8 p.m. is an annual affair designed to raise funds for the Student Publication of the State School of Design. About one hundred works, including paintings, drawings, prints, sketches, lithographs, woodcuts and sculpture, have been selected by the faculty for auction.

A spokesman for the Student Publication said, "We hope that through this auction we can bring the community and the artist in closer contact. We feel that awareness of the North Carolina artist is necessary for the continuation of art in North Carolina."

The works to be sold will be on display Sunday afternoon in the College Union at State.
