

Four Professors Slated To Retire At End Of Spring

Four UNC Professors will retire at the end of the spring semester. They are Dr. John W. Lasley Jr., Dr. Milton S. Heath, Margaret Blee and Ruth Hay.

Dr. Lasley, a professor in the mathematics department, has a longer teaching career than any other member of the faculty. He entered the University in 1906 at the age of 14. Upon his graduation in 1910, he became an instructor. Later, he received an M.A. degree here and the Ph.D. degree at the University of Chicago. He is co-author of three mathematics textbooks.

UNC Wind Ensemble To Give Concert Tuesday

The UNC Symphonic Wind Ensemble conducted by Dr. Herbert W. Fred will present a concert in Hill Hall next Tuesday at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

The ensemble is comprised of a select group of 45 instrumentalists from among those enrolled in the University band program which includes the Marching Tar Heels, the Concert Band, pep bands, and the Symphonic Wind Ensemble. This group of instrumentalists which has gained a statewide reputation of excellence, has performed many contemporary works for winds, which, until these performances, had not been heard in this area. This year's program includes another such work, "Suite Francaise" by Darius Milhaud.

This work met with such success that Milhaud was later prompted to transcribe it for orchestra.

Another work of particular interest is the "William Byrd Suite" which consists of some selected pieces from the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book. These have been freely transcribed for band by the English composer Gordon Jacob. One of these pieces, "The Earle of Oxford's March," was commonly played by military bands of the 17th century. These bands of 6 to 10 were the forerunners of today's military bands.

Other works to be performed are the Suite from "Royal Fireworks Music" by Handel, Polka and Fugue from "Schwanda" by Weinberger, Pines of the Apian Way from the "The Pines of Rome" by Respighi, Sebastian Ballet by Menotti, and the overture to "Candide" by Bernstein.

Prior to his appointment as Director of Bands at the University, Dr. Fred served as director of an Air Force Band during the Second World War, Band Director at Evanston (Ill.) High School, and Director of Bands at Ball State College (Ind.). Nationally known as a composer and arranger for band, he is a member of the American Bandmasters Association and the College Band Directors National Association. Two of his recent transcriptions for concert band, "Ballet du Plaisir" by Charpentier and "Alle Kammeraden" by Teike, are due for publication in 1962.

'Scouting The Skies' New Planetarium Show

"Scouting the Skies," a program designed to depict the rewards of family participation in the study of astronomy, opened at Morehead Planetarium this week. It will run through February 12.

The demonstration also is the Planetarium's annual tribute to Boy and Girl Scouts at this season. "We want to help all youngsters and Scouts who are interested in obtaining merit badges in astronomy," Planetarium Director Anthony F. Jenzano said. "At the same time we are providing in this new program some very elementary but basic ideas that might well be used by teachers and parents and all those who are trying to help youth understand the sky."

For instance, bright stars and constellations now in view are described and named, and the astronomical concept of sizes, speeds and distances of planets is explained.

In addition, the phenomena of horizon, sunrise, sunset and circumpolar stars is detailed.

The program also highlights and reproduces the "approaching most peculiar combination of the planets which will be visible only in the Pacific Ocean on February 5.

"A total eclipse of the sun will reveal the visible planets of Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn grouped with the moon around the constellations of Capricorn and Aquarius," Mr. Jenzano explained.

"This is something that has never happened before in all the years of recorded astronomy. The accuracy and versatility of the Zeiss planetarium instrument enables us to reproduce this phenomenon." In order to encourage active family interest in astronomy, two children will be admitted free with each adult admission to every evening demonstration of "Scouting the Skies."

It will be presented also at matinees on Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., and on Sundays at 3 and 4 p.m. Shows for school groups with reservations will be given at 11 a.m., 1 and 4 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays.

N.C. State Says Danger Minimum From N.C. Snow

RALEIGH (UPI)—The heavy snowfall covering North Carolina and other parts of the nation yesterday does not increase hazards from radioactive fallout.

This was reported by a North Carolina State College scientist.

L. Thomas Caruthers, radiological safety officer at N. C. State, said he saw no reason for alarm regarding increased levels of radioactive fallout in the atmosphere as a result of the snowfall.

He reported that the college's atomic monitoring system, in fact, showed much lower levels of fallout in the atmosphere now than was the case shortly after the Russian bomb tests.

Caruthers said: "I feel that there is absolutely no reason for alarm over children playing in the snow from fear of radioactive fallout." He added, "my own three children will be playing in the snow, and I plan to join them."

Caruthers explained that the United States Public Health Service confirmed his appraisal of the current fallout status.

Film-Lecture On 'Island City' Of Berlin Presented Tuesday As Third Of Graham Memorial Travel Series

"Berlin, the Island City," the French family for several months during World War II. It was in 1952 while escorting the two children of this French family on a tour of America that he had the idea for his first film. Soon he and associate Fred Kieffer had completed the documentary "Here Is America," a picture of the United States as seen through the eyes of these two French teen-agers. Wilson and Kieffer narrated the film throughout France and free Germany on a tour sponsored by the Detroit Historical Museum.

Wilson presented a picture of a city containing forests, parks, lakes, a zoo, modern apartment dwellings, and modern shopping places. The film also contained scenes of an East Berlin parade of military might on May Day, East Berlin streets lined with rubble untouched in 16 post-war years.

Wilson has been engaged in overseas activities since living with a

Months' Preparation
Several months were spent in Berlin during the preparation of this film.

Interviews with many German families were included. "West Berliners," Wilson reported, "were eager to help when they found out we were Americans. Again and again they asked us to thank the American people for helping them."
