Million Dollar Donor Wants To Bar Reds From Berkeley

(Note: Following are news items from leading college newspapers from across the country, as received at the DTH office. This column is run every Sunday.)

$ MILLION FOR 'NO REDS'

BERKELEY, Calif.—An Oakland real estate man has promised to bequeath a $1 million student loan fund to the University of California if it will bar all "communist speakers" from its campuses.

Fred Reed, 82, said, "I want to see the University's red-blooded students organized against communism."

Since 1944 the University has had a policy forbidding members of the U.S. Communist Party from speaking on campus. But Reed says he intends to investigate to make sure the rule is being observed, if his offer is accepted.

CAR BAN RESCINDED

NORMAN, Okla.—The University of Oklahoma board of regents voted this week to rescind the no-car rule for freshmen passed the week before.

Only five members of the board had been present at the previous meeting and a majority of the board voted to reconsider the proposal and defeated it.

A regents committee had recommended that freshmen be forbidden to have cars.

STIFFER LIBRARY FINES

MADISON, Wis.—A drastic rise in library fines will go into effect at the University of Wisconsin at the beginning of its spring semester.

There is to be a 10 cents daily fine on all overdue two-week books.

The current fine is 2 cents a day. In addition, if a request is submitted for a two-week book that is out, but not overdue, the library will send a notice to the holder of the book specifying the date when that book must be returned. If it is not returned by the requested date, a fine of $1 a day will be imposed.

The rise in fines will also include a charge of $1 an hour for all overdue reserved books, with the penalty going up to $2 an hour for reserved books kept overdue on Saturdays and Sundays.

DUKE PROPOSAL DOWNED

DURHAM, N. C.—The campus-wide student government proposal passed in November by men's student government of Duke University was killed last week when the women's organization defeated it.

No votes were cast for the plan, which would bring together graduate and undergraduate representatives to deliberate on problems involving the student body as a whole.

The women's group said ad hoc committees would be preferable to a full-time set-up. Few problems are shared jointly by the men's and women's campuses, said the group.

PAID SG PRESIDENT?

NORMAN, Okla.—A student constitutional amendment for paying the student body president $40 per week was introduced in the University of Oklahoma student senate last week.

The proposal must go through a 7-week period of consideration and pass the senate by a two-thirds vote to become part of the constitution.

APARTMENT PERMISSION URGED

MADISON, Wis.—Senior women under 21 at the University of Wisconsin should be allowed to live in apartments with parental permission and approval of the Dean of Women, the women's student government urged last week.

The women's group voted down a motion that junior women should also be allowed to room off campus.

BIG BROTHER

BALTIMORE, Md.—George Orwell's novel "1984" was selected as the Book-of-the-Month for January at Morgan State College, scene of recent "sit-in" and "freedom ride" activity.

Professor's Wife Receives Injury In Car Accident

Mrs. James W. Dimmick, wife of a UNC Modern Civilization professor, suffered a fractured vertebrae Thursday evening when the car her husband was driving overturned on ice-covered Mann's Chapel Road.

She is reported in fair condition in Memorial Hospital. Dimmick reported he was on the way home when "something, I guess it could have been the ice, threw the car over the side of the road." He was not seriously injured.

Another professor, John P. Dreher, philosophy department, received no injuries when his sedan Volkswagen overturned on icy Highway 54 Thursday morning. He was alone.

Dreher had a safety belt in his car while Dimmick did not. "But we will from now on," he said. Dimmick said his late model automobile was probably damaged beyond market value.

Campus Briefs

Murray McRae of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in Ottawa will speak on "Some Methods in Investigating Economic Time Series" at the Statistics Colloquium to be held at 4 p.m. next Monday in room 265 Phillips. The public is cordially and humbly invited.

The YW-YMCA Catholic Orphanage Commission's trip to the Raleigh Orphanage will leave Y-Court at 2 p.m. today. All who are interested are asked to be present. The Commission will return by 6 p.m.

Students interested in applying for the Goettinsen scholarship are reminded to pick up their applications at any of these locations: Y-Court, German Department, or the circulation desk in the library.

"The Christian and Social Welfare" will be the topic of Dr. Keith-Lucas' seminar to be held at 5:45 Sunday evening in the Brinkley Church House, 507 E. Franklin St.

The UNC Student Wives will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. on the second floor of GM for an end of the Fall Semester Party. Featured will be bridge, entertainment by members of the club, plus twist and limbo lessons.

Tau Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has elected its officers for the spring semester. Jackie Lohr was re-elected President and Fred Croom was elected Vice-President. Other officers are: Allen Hornthal, treasurer; Bill Craig, social chairman; and David Edwards, house manager.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

North Carolina traffic deaths in 1962 had killed twelve persons as of last Monday, Jan. 8. Seventeen had been killed as of that date in 1961.

ECONOMICS SEMINAR

Donald W. Taylor, Yale University psychology professor, will speak on "Problem Solving and Decision Making" at a UNC seminar in economics and business at 4 p.m. this Wednesday in the faculty seminar room on the third floor of Carroll Hall.

Three Speakers To Discuss Problems Of Race Relations

Attorney McKissick In UNC Symposium

A panel discussion on race relations and problems will be the afternoon program of the Carolina Symposium scheduled to begin on April 1. This panel will be one of several to be held on various problems of current interest to students and the American public. Participating in this seminar discussion will be Floyd B. McKissick, a Negro NAACP lawyer, Jack Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond News Leader, and John McNeill Smith, chairman of the North Carolina advisory committee for the Civil Rights Commission.

World University Body Starts Here

A World University Service (WUS) campus committee is currently being formed at UNC. It will seek to inform students on WUS, which receives funds from the annual Campus Chest at Carolina.

The members of the committee will be from the local chapters of the national WUS sponsors: United States National Student Association, National Student Councils of the YMCA and YWCA, and the national Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant organizations. Other interested students are welcome, according to organizer Bill Bowerman who can be contacted between 7 and 10 p.m. at 942-3688 for more information.

Student-To-Student

The World University Service is an international mutual assistance program and is the only one which is "student-to-student." An association of university students and staff members in forty-one countries, WUS attempts to promote material, intellectual, and spiritual sharing without regard for racial, religious, or political factors.

The common objective of all projects and activities are listed in the WUS "Program of Action 1961-62" as to help meet the basic needs of universities... especially through the development of new techniques of corporate endeavor; to promote the sharing of knowledge and experience in seeking solutions to practical university problems; and to foster the development of international understanding and cooperation between the university communities of all nations.

Editor Since 1949

Before his position as editor, Kilpatrick worked on the Capitol staff of The News Leader covering the Governor's office, the General Assembly, and the State. He became editor in 1949.

Former Editor of The Daily Tar Heel

A former editor of The Daily Tar Heel, McNeill Smith graduated from UNC in 1937. While at Chapel Hill, he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and Phi Beta Kappa, and was tapped into the Order of the Grail Hungarian student refugees on scholarships in American colleges in 1936. It is now building student dormitories in earthquake-struck Concepcion, Chile.

WUS also sponsors projects which are self-help, with the area involved contributing toward the goal. Projects for next year include establishing cooperative cafeterias, dormitories, and book and printing shops in Southeast Asia, developing a student health service in Sudan, and establishing a hostel at Florida College in Greece.

The United States is the biggest contributor to the WUS program, with a planned $1,879,230 of the 1961-1962 (two year) $4,638,076 total budget.

McKissick, who is married and has four children, brought suit North Carolina College and UNC. Brought Suit McKissick, who is married and has four children, brought suit against the University and gained admittance in 1951. He was counsel in the suit entitled "Frazier vs. U.N.C.," in which suit admittance was gained for Negroes to attend the Undergraduate School. On behalf of his daughter, he filed suit against the Durham Board of Education to gain admission to the Durham High School. He presently has one child in an integrated school.

The recipient of a "Man of Year Award" in Durham for 1959 and 1960, he has been engaged in his own law practice there since 1952 and has become well known locally and nationally in the field of Civil Rights. He has participated in the sit-in action in the South and in the picketing of Chapel Hill theaters.

"Smut Peddlers"

Kilpatrick, the editor of The News Leader has recently received publicity for his book "The Smut Peddlers," a history of obscenity censorship, published by Doubleday in 1960.

He is also author of "The Sovereign States" and co-editor of "The Lasting South."

Born in Oklahoma City, he received a degree of Bachelor of Journalism from the University of Missouri. From the same University, in 1953, he received honors for his distinguished work in Journalism because of a two-year editorial campaign for the release from prison of a Negro lifer who had been convicted of murder.

Editor Since 1949

Before his position as editor, Kilpatrick worked on the Capitol staff of The News Leader covering the Governor's office, the General Assembly, and the State. He became editor in 1949.

The Student Party will hold a meeting Tuesday night at 8 in Roomland Parker I-II, GM.

The Program Committee, under the chairmanship of Bill Straughn, will present the first in a series of phases of Student Government activities.

All persons, whether party affiliated or not, were invited to attend by Party Chairman Jimmy Weeks.

UNC Graduate Exhibiting Art Works In Harry's And Other Local Stores

A 23-year-old UNC graduate has returned to Chapel Hill after seven years bringing exhibitions of her art work to Harry's, Kemp's and Eastgate Beauty Shop.

Miss Betty Bell, born in Punxsutawney, Pa., presently has eight paintings displayed in Harry's Grill sporting such titles as "Introspection," "Communication," "Fear" and "Cocktail Party."

Tail with dark brown hair, Miss Bell says she gets "inspiration" for her oil and water color paintings from oriental literature, philosophy and art.

For instance, explained Miss Bell, the painting, "Introspection," portrays a man looking so much into his inner world that his view of the outside world is completely obscured. Done in oil, the painting is for sale at $45.

Graduate Work

Following graduate study at New York University and Yale, she entered several contests, winning first prize in the 10th annual art contest at Penn State in 1953 and two first prizes in 1954 at the N.C. State Fair. That same year she also held a one-woman show at Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C.

Another painting is "Cocktail Party," on sale for $35. Miss Bell painted this at Yale and it, she explained, represents her impressions of "an objective wallflower at a cocktail party." Also in oil, it is painted in scraffito design, that is, scratching through one layer of paint into the second.

Forum Gallery

In 1955, Miss Bell was invited as one of nine young artists from NCU at a forum gallery of the Gibbs Gallery in Charleston, S. C. She was art supervisor of the Thomasville City Schools in 1957 and taught at Durham Junior High school in 1959.

Group To Consider Integration At WF

The Wake Forest Board of Trustees voted unanimously Friday to refer the question of admitting undergraduate Negroes at Wake Forest to its race relations committee, headed by L. Y. Ballentine, secretary of agriculture.

This is the first action taken on the integration question since the Baptist State Convention called on Baptist colleges to "move as quickly as possible" toward dropping racial bars.

No other Baptist school in this state has Negroes in its undergraduate body although Mars Hill matriculated one Negro girl earlier this year. She is no longer in the school.

No Negroes have been admitted to Wake Forest although Negro

A CORRECTION

Thursday's Tar Heel printed that Edward Miller of 123 Daniels Road broke his arm in front of Murphey Hall. This was not true. Actually Edward Smith of 704 North Columbia Road broke his arm. The Daily Tar Heel regrets this mistake.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

By United Press International

Adoula Orders Gizenga's Arrest

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—Informed diplomatic sources said Saturday Central Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula had ordered the arrest of his defiant Communist-leaning vice Premier Antoine Gizenga. Adoula denied the report.

Gizenga has defied a parliamentary order to return here from Stanleyville to answer charges of "secessionist activities." There have been demands that he be fired from the Cabinet, arrested, and put on trial.

Acting U.N. Secretary General Thant issued an order in New York today to U.N. troops in the Congo to restore law and order in Stanleyville and "avert civil war there."

U.S. Rejects Cuban "Coexistence"

WASHINGTON—The United States rejected Saturday a Brazilian proposal that the nations of the Western Hemisphere consider adopting a code of co-existence with Cuba.

A State Department spokesman pointed out that the members of the Organization of American States OAS are bound by its charter and the treaty of Rio de Janeiro to carry on "continued and positive resistance to any totalitarian ideology."

Press officer Francis W. Tully Jr. said the United States would "naturally" give the proposal, made by Brazilian Foreign Minister Francisco Santiago Dantas, "carefully study." But he made it clear the United States was opposed.

'No Signs Of Ease' On Berlin

WASHINGTON—The United States informed its principal allies Saturday that the Soviet Union still shows no signs of easing or dropping its harsh Berlin demands.

The State Department said, however, that it intends to continue the Moscow talks in an attempt to find some tension-easing arrangement which would lessen the danger of war by miscalculation.

Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, met for almost an hour with the representatives here of Britain, France, and West Germany. He gave them a summary of the Berlin talk in Moscow Friday between U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

OAS Orders Food Hoarding

ALGIERS, Algeria—Housewives obeying an order by the Secret Army Organization OAS to hoard two months supply of food stripped OAS stores Saturday as the Algeria crisis apparently neared a decisive point.

An explosion followed by shots shook OAS's Jewish quarter shortly before noon. One Jew was wounded and within minutes hundreds of persons were out on the streets demonstrating. There also was violence in Algiers, Bone and Constantine.

Despite the presence in OAS of French Defense Minister Pierre Messmer on a flying security visit, many stores reported bare shelves by midday. Wholesalers supplying the food stores also ran out.
