Poll Finds 86 Pct. Rap Goldwater's Fraternity View

An informal poll by the State and National Affairs Committee of the Freshman Class revealed 86 per cent of 103 freshman disagreed with Senator Barry Goldwater's statement that universities without fraternities are "hotbeds of Communism."

One student said, "Not any more so than colleges with fraternities. All colleges breed Communism and fraternities don't have that much effect."

The freshmen polled were chosen from 10 dormitory floors randomly selected from all the freshman dorms.

Goldwater, in an address to the National Inter-Fraternity Council meeting in Washington last year, said, in effect, that the fraternity plays a major role in the continuation of American ideals and democracy, and that universities without fraternities are breeding places of Communism.

Fourteen per cent of those polled agreed with the Senator's opinion.

One fraternity pledge said "Although the fraternity can be a good thing, just because it is not present doesn't mean that the university is more communist."

Another student said, "What's so democratic about the fraternity system? (Black-balls, race clauses, cooperative housing and eating (socialist) and other things . . ."

Religious Issue
All other questions on the poll dealt with religion.

Plans Made For Washington Trip By 33 Students

This year's annual Washington seminar for students interested in observing congress in operation and gaining first-hand information on U. S. foreign policy will be held February 8-11, the YM-YWCA announced today.

Sponsored by the Y's International Relations Committee, the Seminar's theme will be "The New Frontier and the Challenge of Africa." A chartered bus, which holds 33 students, will take the group to Washington. Applications are available at the YWCA to anyone interested in attending the seminar. Deadline for applications is January 31.

In Washington the group will have special interviews with a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and with representatives from the Ghanaian and Nigerian embassies.

Luncheon Address
Lee St. Lawrence of the Peace Corps, formerly connected with "Crossroads Africa," will address the group at a luncheon meeting, and James Reston, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, will speak to the group in his office. All meetings will be informal with students participating in the discussions.

One of the highlights of the trip will be attending a session of Congress and another the opportunity for students to visit their senators and congressmen. Nights will be free for plays and other entertainment.

Placement Service Sees Rise In Demand For College Grads

Employers' demands for college graduates is continuing to increase—even in years where there is great unemployment nationally, according to figures of the UNC Placement Service.

Director Joe M. Galloway says that the demand for personnel for the 12 month period ending on September 30, 1961, is slightly improved over the demand for the previous year.

Figures from the office show that for this period, a total of 564 persons registered with the service were placed in jobs. A total of 972 graduates had registered for employment service. Of this total, 51 entered branches of the military service; 58 remained in school; 157 did not report their intentions; and 142 chose to remain on the office's active files for future consideration.

309 With BA's
Of those persons registered with the office, 309 were alumni who graduated with a bachelor's degree before 1961; 111 were 1961

FACULTY NEWS

Fred Is Promoted; Holman Publishes

Herbert W. Fred, instructor in the Music Department and director of the UNC Band, has been promoted to assistant professor. Chancellor William B. Aycock has announced.

From 1953-56, Fred served as a graduate assistant here and Director of Bands. He joined the staff in 1956. Fred attended Northwestern University where he received B.M.E. and M.M. degrees. He received a Ph.D. degree in musicology at the University here in the summer of 1961.

NOVEL PUBLISHED
Kenan Professor C. Hugh Holman names William Gilmore Simms "The outstanding novelist of the ante-bellum South in a recently published Holman-edited edition of Simms' novel 'The Yemassee.'" Prof. Holman heads the English Department here.

F. Edgar Thomas Jr., assistant secretary of the UNC General Alumni Association, was yesterday named general manager of "The Lost Colony."

The appointment of Thomas to the top staff position of Paul Green's outdoor symphonic drama, first presented at Manteo in the summer of 1937, was authorized by the Association's board of directors at a luncheon meeting held in Raleigh.

Prior to his appointment, Thomas had been with the Alumni Association for some 10 years. In his new position to which he reports immediately on a full-time basis, Thomas succeeds J. Sib Dorton, escheats officer of the Consolidated University, who served as general manager of "The Lost Colony" for the past two seasons and currently is vice chairman of the sponsoring group's board of directors.

During the off-season months of "The Lost Colony" Mr. Thomas will live in Chapel Hill where he will be engaged in planning and promoting attendance for the drama. Until he moves to Manteo in May his office headquarters will be in the University News Bureau in Bynum Hall.

Chancellor William B. Aycock, a member of the board of directors of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, served as chairman of the committee to recommend a successor to Dorton.

Native of Wadesboro and 1937 Carolina graduate, Thomas returned to Chapel Hill in 1951 after five years in New York City during which time he was engaged in public relations and personnel management.

During World War II he served in the Army Air Forces as a public relations officer in England and the United States.

Following graduation from the University with an A.B. degree in Education he taught history and adult evening classes for five years at Greensboro Senior High School. Active in local and state professional affairs, he served as president of the Yemassee Indians.

International Student Program Organized Here

A sub-committee of the International Students Board is now organizing a "College Ambassador" program here.

This program will provide for one or more UNC students to be chosen to join in a group of ten which will travel to one of thirty countries in Latin America, Eastern or Western Europe, the Middle East, Africa, or Asia during the summer of 1962.

Each "ambassador" will spend the first month as the "son" or "daughter" of a family in the country visited. During the second month, the U. S. Experiment group will play host to selected family members on an informal trip throughout the country. The concluding four days will be spent in a major city.

Scholarships Sought
The International Students Board is trying to interest fraternities, sororities, civic, church, service, and other campus organizations in providing a "scholarship" for a young man or woman to join an outbound group. The guidance of the program will be handled by an executive committee consisting of one member from each organization contributing $25 or more.

Nancy Butler, chairman of the sub-committee, said, "We want to stress that the success of the program depends on wide participation among campus groups. We've sent letters to many of the organizations and are now awaiting replies."

Tickets On Sale For Film Society Spring Members

Tickets for the UNC-Chapel Hill Film Society's spring series will go on sale in the YM-YWCA lobby this Tuesday.

The eight-program series of shorts and features, held in Carroll Hall on Monday nights from February 5 to May 14, includes such rarities as Luis Bunuel's and Salvador Dali's "Le Chien Andalou," which was a sensation in art circles in the twenties and banned in theatres; "Double Whoopee," a Laurel and Hardy farce which introduced Jean Harlow to the screen; the original version of "Beau Geste," with Ronald Colman, William Powell, Alice Joyce and Neil Hamilton, among others; Fritz Lang's famed "M," starring Peter Lorre, the first German sound film, and Dovzhenko's poetic "Earth," a widely-acclaimed film on the controversial Russian farm collectives.

Experimental
On its February 19th program the Society will present a special group of experimental films made in various countries. The English "Coming Shortly" is a satire on movie theatre trailers. The American "Sunlight" is by the first Negro experimental director, and the Argentinian "Symphony in No B Flat" disconcertingly explores some rather "unexpected" effects of radio-active fallout. Other experiments to be shown are "Go Slow on the Brighton," "Halleluaias," "Mothers Day," and "Private Life of a Cat."

New Biography
A new filmed biography of the great Russian director, Sergei Eisenstein, will be shown in April as will Eisenstein's epic sound classic on the invasion of the Baltic provinces by the Crusaders in 1242. "Alexander Nevsky," Prokofiev composed a special score for "Nevsky," which has battle scenes not equalled in any other film and which Time magazine described "perfection in visual splendor and excitement."

"Le Chien Andalou" and Yves Allegret's "The Proud and the Beautiful," starring Michele Morgan and Gerard Philippe, open the film series on February 5. Excerpts from Swedish cinema classics and Jean Benoit-Lévy's "La Maternelle" will close it on May 14.

Complete programs will be available from those selling memberships in the Y lobby or from the society's sponsoring committee: Walter Spearman, Tom and Mary Patterson, Tom and Betsy Davis, Anne Queen, Robert Hilliard, Ross Scroggs, Elmer Oettinger, Phillips Russell, Robert Johnson, Folly Brady, Maggie Dent, John Albott, John Schorrenberg and Beth Odom, and from the following student committees: Diane Bedell, Nancy Barr, Bruce Cooper, Tam Leffer, Charles Weil, Neil Clark, Charles Heatherly and John Safco.

Membership tickets are $4.00 each or $7.00 per couple. High School students may join for $3.00.

Sukarno Fleet Repelled By Dutch New Guineans

2 Torpedo Boats Apparently Lost Troops Mobilized

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (UPI) — The Dutch Navy said it intercepted an Indonesian invasion fleet off the coast of Dutch New Guinea Monday and sent it fleeing after a naval battle in which the Dutch destroyed two Indonesian motor torpedo boats.

Captain R. M. Elbers, official Dutch naval spokesman here, said a third motor torpedo boat was "seen fleeing with the rest of the invasion fleet after the brief engagement off the Southern coast of West New Guinea."

"It looks as if we frustrated an Indonesian invasion attempt," he said.

In the Hague, a defense ministry spokesman would not comment when asked if the clash meant a state of war existed between Hol-

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appealed to both the Netherlands and Indonesia Monday for peaceful settlement of their New Guinea dispute lest an outbreak of war bring harm to all the world.

He said the United States was "extremely anxious that a peaceful accommodation be reached in this matter" and had used its influence toward that end.

Exhibition From U. Of Minnesota Now At Ackland

The current exhibition at the Ackland Art Center is "A University Collects: Minnesota." There are 46 works by 30 artists selected from the extensive collection of the University Gallery, University of Minnesota.

Among the unusually attractive works presented are an ink and water color by Lyonel Feininger, a Kathie Kollwitz drawing, a water color by the great American water colorist, John Marin, and five works by the American Expressionist, Marsden Hartley. George Grosz, known for his socially oriented satire, is represented with a water color and gouache. Among the other internationally known artists whose work can be seen in this exhibition at the Center are Lovis Corinth, Max Pechstein, and David Smith.

The exhibition presents a brief summary of the development of American art from the late 19th century to the abstract expressionism of the late 1940's and 1950's.

The peculiar interest of this exhibition for the University is the fact that it represents the taste and selection of a sister institution engaged in forming a teaching collection similar to that of the Ackland Art Center. Many American colleges and universities are today improving the quality of their instruction in the arts by acquiring original works of art of high quality.

The exhibition was selected from the more than 2,000 items in the permanent collection of the University of Minnesota Gallery which includes examples of painting, graphic art, drawing, sculpture and various crafts with American art predominating, but also including the work of European artists of the 19th and 20th centuries.

Infirmary

land and Indonesia. He did say that all information leaving his office was under full security clem "as in wartime."

In Washington U. S. officials expressed concern that Indonesian pressed concern that Indonesian war as a face-saving gesture.

Sukarno, who has mobilized his nation and amassed 48,000 troops in the South Celebes for an invasion attempt, met with his war captain in Jakarta.

Reports filtering through heavy Indonesian censorship indicated the Indonesians maybe had sent a flotilla of destroyers to the North Celebes.

There were unconfirmed reports that some fighting had already taken place on the New Guinea mainland between Dutch troops and Indonesian infiltrators, but Dutch sources denied them.

It was not immediately known how many vessels took part in the battle. Captain Elbers said some of the Indonesian vessels were big enough to carry 60 men each—possibly part of the "thousand small boats" Sukarno said he would send against New Guinea.

Film On Students To Be Shown On Local Television

The 14th Congress of the National student association widely covered in the press as a clash between liberals and conservatives, will be the focal point for a discussion on David Brinkley's Journal on increasing student activity and political awareness.

Film excerpts from the Congress, held at the University of Wisconsin, Aug. 20-30, 1961, will be shown over WSJS-TV (channel 12, from Winston-Salem) and WECT-TV (channel 6, from Wilmington) on Wednesday at 10:30 p.m.

The NBC affiliate in Raleigh, WRAL, will not carry the show, and the programming department of WUNC-TV says there is little chance they will be able to acquire a tape of the show at a later date.

The film is to begin with excerpts from speeches by U. S. Senators Barry Goldwater and John Tower in which they claim that there is a trend toward conservatism among American college students. The show then moves to the National Student Association Congress itself to cover student leaders in action.

The show will concentrate on the development of one resolution over which there was a debate between liberals and conservatives,
