

Legislature Will Debate A-Test Plan Several Other Bills On Floor Tonight

Final action will be taken on several bills of importance when the Student Legislature meets tonight at 7:30.

One of these, the resolution against nuclear testing, has been pending for several weeks, and extensive debate is expected.

The resolution condemns the Soviet Union's "unilateral repudiation" of the nuclear testing ban and urges the United States government to refrain from resuming testing in the atmosphere.

Scholarship
Another bill that will be up for consideration tonight will be one to appropriate $600 for a scholarship for a Cuban refugee student. A bill to provide effective legislative review of presidential appointments is scheduled for consideration as well as a bill to clarify the succession to the office of President, in the event of his inability to fulfill his duties.

A bill to allot $150 for the Honor System Commission will be considered during the session. This money would be used to have three more copies of the Honor System film made for use during the Commission's tour of high schools this spring.

George Rosenthal, chairman of the Judicial Committee, said that there was a strong possibility that the bill on redistricting which has been in the Judicial Committee may come on the floor tonight also. This bill would provide new and more equal zoning of the legislative and judicial districts.

There will also be consideration of a bill providing for the election of four of the five delegates to the National Student Congress of the National Student Association, the other two delegates, the president and vice-president of the student body will be automatic delegates.

Junior Class Picks Dr. Boyd As Its Teacher-Of-The-Month

Dr. Bernard Boyd has been selected as the Junior Class Teacher-of-the-Month for February. The James A. Gray Professor of Biblical Literature is the first to receive the award. The selection was announced by Junior Class President Richard Vinroot and Jeff Guller, chairman heading the project.

Dr. Boyd is recognized principally for his course on "The Origins of the Bible," known as Religion 28. To thousands of Carolina students Dr.

Boyd has imparted an interpretation of the Bible that is easy to grasp and meaningful within the context of our modern times. His teachings provide a fresh approach to the subject matter that transcends mere religious dogma. Essentially, he has treated the course as objectively as possible, without deference to any particular theological views.

"It is this honest objectivism, combined with a delightful, sometimes shocking sense of humor that has earned him the praise and respect of so many students. To establish a point clearly, Dr. Boyd will not hesitate to refer to Biblical wearing apparel as London Fogs and Weejuns."

From English To Theology
Born in Mount Pleasant, South Carolina, 52 years ago, the professor attended Presbyterian College (A.B.) and received a Master's degree in English at Princeton University. Originally he aspired to teach English in college but changed his mind and went to the Theological Seminary at Princeton. His formal education was terminated with his Th.D. at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia.

A highlight of Dr. Boyd's interesting career was his service as a chaplain in World War II. From 1943 to 1945 he was with the U.S. Marines in the Pacific Area and was the recipient of a Purple Heart during the Okinawa campaign.

Before coming to Carolina, Dr. Boyd taught at both Presbyterian (1938-1946) and Davidson College (1947-1950) as Professor of Bible. He has been at UNC ever since, assuming the position of Chairman of the Department of Religion just two years later, which he held until 1959.

Dr. Boyd's talents have not been limited to the confines of the Carolina campus. He is in continual demand as a theologian and speaker throughout the country. A few years ago he filmed a Biblical series for use on national educational television, and three of his courses have appeared on WUNC-TV. The University has previously singled out his excellence by selecting him for a Tanner Award for Distinction in College Teaching.

UP Will Revamp Party Convention

The University Party moved to amend its by-laws through a basic change in convention procedure in a meeting Tuesday night.

The party unanimously passed a resolution which would set up the spring nominating convention on a system basically oriented around national convention processes. Each dorm, fraternity, or sorority having a minimum of five UP members would be allowed a five-member delegation with each member possessing a vote. For every additional UP member the institution would be allotted an extra delegate.

Each residence would be required to file a list of UP members with the sergeant-at-arms 24 hours before the convention so that the size of its delegation could be computed. In addition, each delegation would be required to have a minimum of five delegates on the floor at all times to keep voting privileges. "In this way, block voting and constant movement on the convention floor would be eliminated," said Inman Allen, party member and leader in the move for amendment.

Bill Criswell, party chairman and originator of the idea for the new procedure, said, "Many dorm students have refrained from attending UP conventions because they felt they didn't have a chance... the responsibility for a smooth democratic convention shall lie on the shoulders of the delegates."

In other action the party heard that $150 each had been given to the Freshman class, the Sophomore class, and the Carolina Symposium.

The first three meetings of the symposium are being devoted to antibiotic drugs. The remaining three sessions will concern various pharmaceuticals used in the treatment of cardiovascular (heart) diseases.

The meetings will continue through March 4. The speakers for next week, Wednesday, Feb. 21, are Drs. Cromartie and Spitznagel and Dr. John H. Schwab, associate professor of bacteriology.

Complaints About Long Are Aired In SP Meet

Bob Maddry New Orientation Head

Bob Maddry has been appointed Chairman of the Campus Orientation Committee, Student Body President Bill Harris announced yesterday.

A committee composed of the past chairman of the Orientation committee, the presidents of the IDC and IFC, the president of the Pan-Hellenic Council, the chairman of the Women's Residence Council, the chairman of the Carolina Women's Council and the president of the Student Body, acting as chairman of this group, selects the head of the orientation committee.

Orientation Counselor
Maddry has served as orientation counselor and last year was a member of the Orientation committee. He is also president of Sigma Nu social fraternity.

The new chairman will be searching for ways to shorten the length of the orientation period without losing the benefits and essentials of the plan, and a greater degree of emphasis on academics, he said.

President Harris stated, "I feel the utmost confidence in Bob, and I am sure that he will do a highly commendable job in this work."

Committee Duties
The orientation committee, the rest of which will be chosen by March 15, has as its duties, the general overseeing of the campus orientation program, the revision of the manual for orientation counselors, the choosing and training of counselors and physical arrangements during the period of orientation.

Interviews for committee members will begin in about two weeks, according to Maddry. He also requested that any ideas about orientation and how it can be improved be called in to either he or Bill Harris.

Honor System Talks Highlight Conclave

Men's Honor Council Chairman George Campbell Tuesday night aired student complaints that Asst. Dean of Student Affairs William G. Long has used "third degree" tactics in questioning defendants prior to their hearings.

Campbell referred to the charges during a report on the honor system at a Student Party meeting in Graham Memorial.

Honor system talks by Campbell and Jay Deifell, chairman of the Honor System Commission, opened a three-and-a-half hour meeting. The SP program committee had requested them to give a system presentation.

"I've been told by quite a few defendants," Campbell said, "that Dean Long gave them the 'third degree' when he talked with them prior to their hearings."

"I haven't been aware of any such practices being used," Dean Long said yesterday when asked about the charges, "but I can't prevent people saying things about me."

When asked about Campbell's making the statement at an open meeting, Dean Long stated, "I think it's a fair comment and he has every legal right to his opinion."

"I think Mr. Campbell is one of the finest chairmen we've had in a long time and I think he understands the problems we both face." Campbell said he had no personal knowledge of such action. He said he felt Long was a "fair man."

The chairman said he did not object to Long questioning persons accused of honor infractions, but could "see where questioning would hurt."

SP Urges Passage Of A-Test Note

The Student Party recommended legislative passage of a nuclear testing resolution by a 22-11 vote at its Tuesday night meeting.

The resolution is expected to come to the floor in Student Legislature Thursday night.

It calls for the U.S. government to "refrain from resuming nuclear testing in the atmosphere, so long as such a policy does not jeopardize the deterrent capabilities of the United States."

At the beginning of the SP meeting three legislative seats were filled by party election.

Kippy Carter was elected to a Dorm Men's II seat. Dave Williams to Town Men's III, and Rita Johnson to Dorm Women's I. Four other seats were left unfilled.

Jay Deifell and George Campbell spoke on the honor system and answered questions. (See story, this page.)

Dave Williams, SP vice-chairman, then introduced a resolution recommending that Student Legislature defeat the nuclear testing bill.

Opposition
Bill Harris, president of the student body, and Hank Patterson, vice-president, spoke against the Williams resolution. John Randall, Legislature parliamentarian, and Robin Britt, the legislative bill's sponsor, also spoke against the new resolution.

Bill Phillips, Rufus Edminsten and Dick Akers spoke for the Williams resolution. Supporters of the resolution claimed the nuclear bill was unconstitutional and invalid for Legislature to consider.

The SP also changed its meeting night from Tuesday to Monday, effective next meeting.

Music Workshop Is Set For Spring

The Extension Division, in conjunction with the North Carolina Symphony Society, will sponsor a workshop for interested teachers, principals, supervisors, concert chairmen and others engaged in preparing school children through-out the State for attendance at the full symphony's series of free children's concerts this spring.

The workshop will be conducted in Chapel Hill on Saturday, Feb. 24, starting at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Adeline McCall, director of the children's division of the N. C. Symphony Society, will be in charge of the seminar. She will review the music the symphony will play, give demonstrations of percussion scores and show how children can make various percussion instruments to be used in the audience participation portions of the program.

Appreciation To Be Taught
Songs the children will sing to orchestral accompaniment will be taught during the workshop sessions. Demonstrations will also be given in dance and rhythmic activities appropriate to the appreciation and understanding of the music which Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, musical director of the symphony, has programmed.

Mrs. McCall is supervisor of music in the Chapel Hill elementary schools and has served on various committees of the Music Educators National Conference. She recently held workshop seminars at the University of Indiana, Ohio State University, and at several colleges in the North Carolina area.

Previous workshops covering North Carolina Little Symphony programs for 1962 have proved especially valuable to the public school teacher and the music supervisor in the city and county school systems and to many others whose interests lie in the field of music appreciation for the elementary and high school student. Sessions were held in Morganton on October 24 and in Chapel Hill last Dec. 2. Both workshops were well attended. Last year three similar workshop seminars were attended by more than 300 educators from various parts of the State.

The North Carolina Little Symphony has already commenced its 1962 tour. The Full Symphony of some 65-70 musicians will begin its programs for school children on April 11 in Roanoke Rapids and will wind up the current season with a concert in Hickory on May 18.
