Admission Requirements Up As Applicants' Abilities Grow

By Bill Dowell

Enrollment at UNC has increased at the rate of 500 students per year for the last four years, and Chancellor William B. Aycock yesterday predicted that this trend will continue for the next several years.

Admission requirements will continue to rise in proportion to the qualifications of the applicants.

Last semester the minimum combined college board score requirement was raised to 750. Qualification is determined chiefly by the use of a predicted grade average which is based on high school class standing and college board scores.

Students who do not appear to be capable of doing work at UNC are advised to find a smaller college.

Transfer students must have at least a C average to be admitted. If a transfer student appears to be a borderline case he can be asked to take an entrance examination.

Qualified Students Admitted

Last year all qualified North Carolina men who applied to the University were admitted. All qualified North Carolina women who applied were admitted with the exception of 40 who applied too late to get space in the dormitories.

The Board of Trustees limits the number of out of state students to 15 per cent of the student body. Admittance was based on highest ability and quality among out of state applicants.

Money For Expansion

To meet the student enrollment increase the University has sunk $10,742,355 into capital improvements, new housing cafeterias and classrooms. Another $5,774,200 will be spent for buildings which are now in planning stages.

Expansion and development depends on the resources the University can get hold of. The General Assembly makes up the difference between the cost of operating the University and the amount of money supplied by tuitions and fees.

The Education bill now in Congress could benefit the University if it provides out-right grants in its finished form. As things stand the University cannot borrow money for the construction of any buildings which will not liquidate their mortgages; i.e., class rooms, laboratories, etc. These depend on gifts, grants and the General Assembly.

No Rides Seen For New Dorm Students

Transportation will not be provided by the administration for the 1,446 students who will live in the new Craig and Ehringhaus dorms next fall, Business Manager J. A. Branch said yesterday.

"The University is not in the transportation business," Branch said when asked about a proposed shuttlebus plan. It was the student's responsibility, he said, to provide transportation.

Branch pointed out that students housed in Spencer Dorm had to walk nearly as far to the library as those who will live in either Craig or Ehringhaus. "Those students who live off campus because there is not enough space are not provided transportation by the University," Branch continued.

Two Honoraries Are Selected

Nine undergraduate women and two honorary members were tapped into Carolina's highest honorary organization for women, the Order of the Valkyries, in a secret predawn ceremony Friday morning.

Recognized were Miss Betty Doyle Challen, Memphis, Tennessee; Miss Judith G. Clark, Tusculumbia, Alabama; Miss Mary Jacquelyn Day, Laurens, South Carolina; Miss Elizabeth Suzan Hayes, Chapel Hill; Miss Jean Elizabeth MacDougall, Akron, Ohio; Miss Catherine Anne Mixon, Memphis, Tennessee; Miss Pamela Ann Parker, Sylvania, Georgia; Miss Fatma Ramazanoglu, Istanbul, Turkey; Miss Elizabeth Ann Reed, Poland, Ohio; Miss Jessie C. Rehder, Chapel Hill; and Mrs. Mary Gutherie, Chapel Hill.

The Valkyries began their candle-light march at 11:29 a.m. in their customary black robes and hoods. As the march proceeded through the women's residence halls, the sound of the golden gong called forth those women who were recognized for the Valkyrie ideals of scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Additional information may be obtained from the Placement Service at 204 Gardner Hall.

Students interested in obtaining counseling jobs in summer camps should register with the Placement Service. Several camp directors will be recruiting on campus this spring.

Warning Made On Latin Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Theodore Moscoso, President Kennedy's Latin American aid chief, warned Thursday that delay in implementing the Alliance for Progress could lose initiative to extremists of the left and the right.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the National Press Club, Moscoso said, "the one error we cannot afford to make is that of waiting, of letting the initiative slip out of our grasp."

Cuban Charge Is Rejected

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly's main political committee Thursday effectively rejected Cuba's charge that the United States is planning aggression against Fidel Castro's government.

With only the 10-nation Soviet bloc supporting Cuba, the 104-nation committee rejected, 50-11 with 39 abstentions, a Communist resolution calling on the United States to end "interference" in Cuba.

Czechoslovakia and Romania, was the only measure before the committee. With resolution offered directly supporting Cuba's charge, the rejection of the measure was tantamount to outright dismissal of the complaint.

Correction

UP Chairman Bill Criswell said yesterday that the announcement of the party's convention procedures was incorrect and should have read: Each dorm, fraternity, or sorority having a minimum of five UP members would be allowed a five-member delegation with each member possessing a vote. For every 10 additional UP members the institution would be allotted an extra delegate.

The story printed Tuesday concerning parking tickets and the town traffic budget is incorrect.

The income from the traffic tickets goes into the general fund of the town of Chapel Hill and not into the police or traffic budget.

The police budget is separate from the general budget of Chapel Hill and consequently the figure of 1/4 of the police budget was incorrect.

THE CHAPEL OF THE CROSS

Where Did Chapel Hill Receive Its Name?

By Chuck Mooney

Where did Chapel Hill get its name?

From the Episcopal Church—the Chapel of the Cross—according to Dr. Archibald Henderson.

"Before the American Revolution there was a chapel connected with the Church of England, in St. Matthew's Parrish, Orange County," he said.

It stood beside the road that ran from Petersboro, Va., to Pittsboro, about where the Carolina Inn is today.

It was called New Hope Chapel and the hill it stood on was called New Hope Chapel Hill. When the village was laid out in 1793, it was called Chapel Hill.

Church Was Pioneer

The Episcopal Church was one of the pioneer forces in North Carolina, according to Dr. Kemp P. Battle in his "History of the University of North Carolina." James Hogg, a Scots Episcopalian who dealt in real estate, was one of the commissioners who decided on UNC's location. He is chiefly responsible for the choice of Chapel Hill, Dr. Henderson said.

The first parson of St. Matthew's Parrish was Rev. George Micklejohn—born in Scotland, a graduate of Cambridge and a chaplain under Frederick the Great.

He came to Orange County in 1767 and soon got mixed up in pre-revolution politics and the Revolution itself.

Tory Helped Rebel

Parson Micklejohn, a Tory, bailed Thomas Person—soon-to-be a Revolutionary general—out of jail after he was arrested during a small political disturbance. Governor Tryon was planning to search Person's home and Person heard about it.

"Why, sir," Person told Micklejohn, "there is enough evidence among my papers to hang me a dozen times."

Person secretly borrowed a horse and rode to his home and back—60 miles—at night. When Gov. Tryon couldn't find any evidence, he asked Rev. Micklejohn if Person had gone anywhere the night before.

"I supped and breakfasted with him," the Reverend said.

Tory Exile

Rev. Micklejohn himself was captured by the Colonial forces at Moore's Creek and convicted as a Tory by the Halifax Congress in 1776. He spent the Revolutionary War exiled from Orange County near Albemarle.

After his parole at the War's end, he returned to Orange County and injected his adventurous personality into church work.

Parson Micklejohn recruited parishioners wherever he could.

"Why don't you come hear me preach?" he asked a farmer.

"Well, sir," the farmer replied, "I work so hard all week that I like to rest on Sunday."

"You ought to come to church. I'll give you a drink of whiskey if you'll come tomorrow," the Parson urged, getting out his personal bottle.

The farmer immediately joined the congregation.

Parson Micklejohn was later suggested for first President of UNC. He died in Virginia in 1818—more than 100 years old.

Reorganization in 1824

After its lively beginning St. Matthew's Parrish declined until Rev. William Mercer Green reorganized it in 1824. Under his guidance, the present church was built in 1848. The East wing was added in 1925.

It is located on East Franklin Street beside the Planetarium parking lot. Thomas U. Walter, a Philadelphia church builder, designed the Gothic building. The older part—next to the parking lot—is made of bricks fashioned in Chapel Hill in a kiln specially built by Rev. Green.

One of the first pipe organs in North Carolina was given to the Chapel by Miss Mary R. Smith in 1880. It is still working in the present church.

Present Activities

Today the Church is active in campus life, sponsoring the Canterbury Club, discussion groups in contemporary subjects, a study group on Aspects of the Christian Faith and conferences with other Episcopalian students.

During Exams it provided study rooms and coffee to students. A student library of both texts and fiction books is being built up.

A chaplain and an assistant supervise student activities and advise students on their problems.

The church choir is made up mostly of students. Students also work on money-making projects for foreign missions.

Reds Buzz U. S. Planes

BERLIN (UPI) — Harrassing Soviet jet fighters flew within 20 feet of a U. S. transport plane and shadowed others in the Berlin air corridors Thursday.

Authoritative sources said the Soviet MIGs created hazards "worse than buzzing" by performing acrobatics dangerously close to Western planes in the vital air corridors.
