

Germans To Rock Today

Four Groups
To Stomp
In Concert

The Isley Brothers will be the feature attraction at the first "rock-and-roll" Germans, which kicks off at 3 p.m. in Memorial Hall. The Isleys, who are famous for their hit "twist" record, "Shout," will bring their own band. Ronald, Rudolph, and O'Kelly, the three brothers who comprise the group, have been singing in public since before they were old enough to go to school. They started in their home town of Cincinnati when Ronald, the lead singer, was only three. For this tender-age appearance, Ronald won a $25 war bond.

Ernie K. Doe, Lee Dorsey, and the Five Royales will make up the other three acts of the all rock-and-roll show which will last until five. Lee Dorsey, of "Ya, Ya" fame; Doe and the Five Royales will also bring their own bands. The concert, sponsored by the German Club, will start a week-end of parties on fraternity row.

Publications Board To Ask For Handbook Allocation

The UNC Publications Board voted Friday to again submit a budget request for printing The Carolina Handbook to Student Legislature.

The decision was made despite administrative plans to publish an official Undergraduate Bulletin which would outline some information previously carried by the Carolina Handbook.

Necessary Aid
Publications Board Chairman Bill Townsend said the majority of the board members felt the Handbook was a necessary aid to the freshman orientation program.

In a previous Board meeting, Student Body President Bill Harris told members he felt the Undergraduate Bulletin would not carry a sufficient amount of information concerning student government and the honor system.

Harris said that the Bulletin would carry a brief outline covering these topics, but would lack the depth provided by the handbook.

Supplement
He said he felt the two publications would supplement each other.

Tunnel Of Love Is Free Flick

"Tunnel of Love" starring Doris Day, Richard Widmark, and Gig Young will be tonight's free flick presentation. Directed by Gene Kelly and based on the Broadway play by Peter De Vries and Joseph Fields, "Tunnel of Love" is "a bedtime story for adults" dealing with marital and extramarital behavior in the New York suburb.

Showings will be at 7:30 and 9:30 in Carroll Hall and only students with ID cards will be admitted.

Purefoy Players Now Casting

The Purefoy Players are now casting for two one-act plays to be produced early in April at the Community Church. The Players have chosen Lady Gregory's Hyacinth Halvey for the April production, with the other play yet to be decided.

The group is open to new members. No previous acting experience is required. Parts in both plays for men and women are still open. Anyone interested in trying out for either of these plays is invited to attend the next meeting of the Players on Wednesday at the Community Church, Purefoy Road, at 8:00 p.m., or may telephone Mrs. Henderson at 942-1127.

rather than conflict or overlap. The Bulletin will emphasize academics, Harris said, while the Handbook traditionally places emphasis on student government and student life at Carolina.

An editor will be chosen for the Handbook pending legislative action on the Board's budget request, according to Townsend.

He said the Board will probably combine the Carolina Handbook and the Carolina Women's Handbook,

ITT Branch
May Be Seized

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brazil is on the verge of seizing the $16-million subsidiary of the U. S. International Telephone and Telephone and Telegraph Company in Rio Grande De Sul state, it was learned here Friday.

Informed diplomatic sources said that state Gov. Leonel Brizola, a brother-in-law of President Joao Goulart, would announce the takeover momentarily. In addition, he said in a statement, "we will certainly take a good hard look at the school districts that got impacted areas money." The study was ordered by Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., of the parent labor and education committee.

YRC Head Addresses YAF Meet

"The way to work for conservative principles is through political action within the two-party system," UNC Young Republican Club President Earl Baker told a Young Americans for Freedom meeting Thursday night.

Baker told the group of about 30 campus conservatives that it must accept the existence of two parties that consist of coalitions and recalled that James Madison had predicted this alignment in the Federalist Papers.

He stated that the Republican Party was the conservative's real home and argued that one "cannot support a Democrat and ultimately support conservatism."

Go Goldwater
When asked how a conservative could support Rockefeller for president, Baker contended that the realistic approach was to work within the party to see that Goldwater is nominated.

YAF should technically remain a non-partisan group, he said, but in reality it should work with the GOP, and only support a conservative Democrat in cases where the sole alternative was a liberal Democrat.

"I was disappointed with the apparently unrealistic attitude toward politics manifested at this formative meeting of the local YAF," Baker said after the meeting.

Women's Book
The Women's Handbook has previously been sponsored by the Carolina Women's Council, but will be discontinued this year due to the administrative decision to print the Bulletin.

Townsend said the Board will pass on the proposal to combine the two handbooks at its next meeting.

Baker Agrees
"Philosophically, however, I agree with the main tenets of YAF."

After Baker's talk, the group voted to invite all members of YAF groups on campus to consolidate into one chapter chartered by the national organization. It was also decided that all chapter meetings would be open to the public. This action was taken after a member stated he had been told that conservatives would not be welcome at meetings of the New Left club.

A-Bomb Pilot Would Repeat Act

PARIS (UPI)—Brig. Gen. Charles W. Sweeney, who dropped the atomic bomb on Nagasaki killing 73,384 Japanese said Friday: "If it had to be done, I'd do it again with no doubts, but I hope it never happens."

YRC Named 'Outstanding'

At the North Carolina Young Republican Club Convention held in Greensboro, February 2-3, the UNC YRC was named the outstanding Young Republican Club in the state. This includes college, city and county clubs. The UNC club has won the award once previously since the competition started in 1953. In 1959, last year's award went to the Wake County club.

The award was announced by Marshall Bryant, state public relations chairman, at the state convention. The rotating plaque awarded to the Carolina club was presented at a special ceremony by Bill Patterson, Southeastern Region Director of college Young Republicans, to Earl Baker, president of the UNC-YRC.

In awarding the plaque, Patterson noted the fact that the club has one of the largest memberships in the state and also the high calibre of the UNC club's programs. Baker, in response, mentioned his appreciation of the hard work done by the officers and the members of the club.

He said, "Rather than accept this award as the apex of our activity, we treat it as recognition of an ever-increasing trend which will continue to grow as North Carolinians see their principles embodied in the Republican Party."

Attorney General's Staff To Be Changed

Student Legislature met Thursday night and passed a bill to provide effective review of Presidential appointments and a bill which clarified succession to the office of Student Body President.

After having received a favorable recommendation from the Judicial Committee, a bill was passed to reorganize the Attorney General's staff. This bill would revamp the individual staff members' functions and add six to eight people to the staff.

150 Dollars
Legislature appropriated 150 dollars to the Honor Commission which would be used to make three copies of the Honor System film.

Seventy-five dollars was also appropriated for transportation expenses on the 30 to 40 lecture visits planned by the Commission to North Carolina high schools in which the movie would be shown.

In other action, Tuesday March 26, was suggested as the most convenient date for the forthcoming spring elections. Definite action on this resolution was put off until next week.

To Condemn Testing
A controversial resolution condemning nuclear testing did not reach the floor for debate. The resolution condemns the Soviet Union's "unilateral repudiation" of the nuclear testing ban and urges

Tomlinson To Return

Bishop Tomlinson, temporal leader of the Theocratic party and spiritual leader of the Church of God will return to UNC on April 16.

Bishop Tomlinson ran for president on the Theocratic party ticket in 1960. When he was here last spring he crowned himself king of the University of North Carolina. He will return to re-enact the coronation of last year and bring a new message of peace. He will also introduce his plan for a "School for Kings" and explain his presidential platform.

UNC is one of a number of colleges and universities that he plans to visit this spring. He has visited several foreign countries as well as many of the most prominent American campuses, such as Harvard, Yale, and the University of the South.

He plans to be here all day and will be available to speak to any interested groups including government classes early in the day.

the United States to refrain from resuming testing in the atmosphere. It is expected to be introduced for debate next week also.

Debate on a bill that would appropriate $600 for a scholarship for a Cuban refugee student was also postponed.

Hank Patterson, Vice-President of the Student Body and Speaker of the House, called a special meeting of the Legislature for next Monday at 6:45 for the purpose of considering a bill for reapportionment and re-districting of the voting districts of the student body. According to the Vice-President, the special session is necessary in order that a decision be reached on redistricting as soon as possible. "This way both parties will have ample time to make the necessary nominations and prepare a campaign before spring elections," said Patterson.

Playmakers To Present 3 One-Acts

Three one-act plays given by the Carolina Playmakers last night, will be again presented tonight at 7:30 in the Playmaker's Theater. Admission is free.

The plays are written and directed by members of the Dramatic Arts Department.

The first play, "Look Down from the Mountain" involves a young girl in a Colorado mountain town who wants to escape. The play was written by Wesley Van Tassel.

The second play, "The Hands of Ciascune" is by Wallace Johnston, who also directs the production of "Look Down from the Mountain."

The third play is "The Facade" by Larry Randolph. Larry Warner directs "The Hands of Ciascune," and Gail Place directs "The Facade."

Costumes for all three productions are handled by Rhoda Blanton, Bobby Brunton and Hannah Bell. Fred Lubs and Rosemary McAfey handled lighting. Nell Star is property director. Ann Fitzgibbons is in charge of sound and Ray Smith is house manager. Sandy Moffet is the General Stage Manager.

Message Will Go To Carolina

The Citizen's Committee for Open Movies voted Thursday night to ask Carolina theater officials for complete integration of the theater by March 1 and decided to resume picketing if the request was not honored.

The decision to resume picketing was not conveyed to the theater officials.

St. Joseph's
Meeting in St. Joseph's Church, the integration group voted separately to request integration in a letter to Carolina manager E. Carrington Smith and to picket the theater if the letter produced no results. Both decisions passed by large majorities.

The letter to Smith noted that the Carolina now admits Negroes who are UNC students, elementary school children, or guests of white patrons. Members of the committee expressed the opinion that integration is virtually complete under these conditions and should now be made an official policy.

Smith, contacted yesterday afternoon, said he had not yet received the committee's letter but understood the nature of the request. He had "no comment" on the request.

"Good Experience"
The committee's letter said that the Varsity had had "good experience" since it adopted a policy of complete integration. The committee also said it felt the Carolina had had enough time for a gradual process of integration. A spokesman for the Citizen's Committee's executive body said the group did not wish to use the decision to picket as a "threat" to the theater. The decision was passed at Thursday's meeting so that the committee would have an already established plan of action if the theater was not integrated by March 1.

Blackman Addresses New Left

By BILL DOWELL
Dr. James Blackman, professor of economics at UNC, outlined the meeting of the 22nd Party Congress of the Communist Party at the New Left Club Thursday evening.

According to Dr. Blackman the principal goal of the Congress was to revamp the "numbers game," i.e., the race to catch up with the United States in production and living standards. The Congress under the guiding hand of Khrushchev set down a twenty-year plan starting at 1960 and ending in 1980.

Increased 250 Per Cent
According to the plan, the national income would be increased to 250% of what it is now, by 1970. By 1980, it would be 500%. Industrial production would go up 260% by 1970 and 650% by 1980; heavy industry would go up to 700% by 1980. The congress scheduled the real income per worker to rise 350%. Agricultural production would go up 250% by 1970, and 350% by 1980.

Dr. Blackman stressed that this was a general statement and could not be taken wholly at face value. "It is neither wholly fabricated nor completely based on fact and valid."

Industry Best Chance
Industrial goals seem to give the best chances for success. To meet the goals set by the Congress, industry would have to increase 10 per cent per year. This increase is not too far off what the Soviet Union has been doing in past years. Income would have to increase by 10% per year in the 60's and by at least 7% per year in the 70's. According to reports compiled by Abraham Birchson, proposed by (Continued on Page 3)
