HARASSMENT CEASES

East Germans Call Big 3 'Air Pirates'

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German Communists Saturday denounced the Big Three Western powers as "air pirates" but Russian planes made no attempt to harass allied traffic in the corridors linking Berlin to the West. Western officials said the failure of Soviet planes to show up in the airlines across Communist East Germany meant only a temporary respite in the harassment campaign. They said they had no reason to believe the Russians had called off attempts to restrict allied air traffic.

Six times in the past nine days the Russians have demanded that western planes be barred from flying at altitudes below 7,500 feet during certain specified hours. The Russian representative at the four-power Air Safety Control Center in Berlin demanded that the corridors be "reserved" for Soviet military flights. The United States, Britain and France rejected the demand as a violation of four-power agreements and sent extra military flights through the 20-mile-wide corridors. Russian MIG jet fighters shadowed the western aircraft, both military and commercial, and performed acrobatics dangerously near them. Western officials said the Russians did not renew the demand to monopolize the corridors Saturday. But they noted that flying conditions were bad—there were heavy clouds and high winds over Germany.

Communist East Germans, meantime, claimed the western allies had no rights under the four-power agreements to fly over East German territory to Berlin. The attacks on the vital western air traffic which broke the back of the 1948-49 Soviet blockade of Berlin came in editorials in the East Berlin Berliner Zeitung and The Young World, publication of the Communist Youth Organization.

The western powers do not recognize Communist East Germany as a sovereign state and have refused any dealings with it. The attacks were centered on the flights by commercial air lines to West Berlin, 110 miles inside the Iron Curtain. The Communists contended that the four-power agreements made no provision for such traffic.

On the ground, three East German border police, in uniform and carrying their machine pistols, fled to West Berlin this morning. West Berlin police also reported that two youths swam to freedom across a border body of water and had to be treated in a West Berlin hospital for exhaustion.

67 Reported Killed In European Storm

LONDON (UPI)—The worst winter storm in 100 years cut a path of death and destruction across northern Europe Saturday from the British Isles to Russia's Baltic States. Floods and hurricane-force winds killed scores of persons and left thousands homeless in the freezing cold.

At least 67 persons were reported killed this side of the Iron Curtain. Hardest hit was West Germany, where 50 persons died and 40,000 persons were forced to flee their homes. Property damage in Britain, Holland and West Germany ran into the millions of dollars.

One death was reported in East Germany. There was no report of casualties in Poland, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia. Snowstorms, rains, high tides, strong winds and avalanches plagued other parts of Europe, from Finland in the north to Switzerland in the south. Landslides also killed 15 workers in northern Iran since Thursday.

The storm, spawned in the North Atlantic off Scandinavia early Friday, battered cities in Britain, smashed dikes in Holland, sent rivers over their banks and whipped up abnormally high tides in the North and Baltic seas. West Germany officially listed 50 dead Britain 11, Denmark 3, France 2, and Sweden 1. Untold number of persons were injured. The worst hit area was along the low lying North Sea coast, where German Army helicopters dropped food supplies to marooned survivors and plucked shivering hundreds from the rooftops of flooded homes. The Defense Ministry in Bonn reported that 11,000 members of the armed forces, including engineers units, Air Force planes and Army helicopters, were taking part in the rescue and relief operations.

Hamburg, a city of 2 million was hit hard, with the suburb of Wilhelmsburg completely isolated by flood waters. An Army helicopter plucked men, women and children off roofs in Hamburg, Germany's largest port and second largest city, where the flooding Elbe River turned many streets into raging canals. Other helicopters rescued 600 marooned, freezing residents from rooftops in the isolated town of Papenburg. Others dropped milk and butter on Wangerhoe Island, which lies off Bremerhaven in the North Sea. Two Air Force planes flew sandbags from Cellette Wittmundshaven, while nine others carried 130,000 sandbags from Frankfurt to Bremen.

Rail, road and air traffic throughout most of Northern Europe was slowed to a crawl or completely halted. Snow blanketed Sweden, Finland and Denmark and two persons died in a snowslide on Devil's Peak in the French Alps near Grenoble. Ship Signal Distress Danish and West German authorities reported receiving distress signals from several ships caught in the storm-whipped North and Baltic Seas.

YAF Marchers Stage Second Exhibition

Army Of Students Reaches 4,700

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A few student peace marchers let their tempers slip a bit Saturday and two were arrested for arguing with a policeman at a massive White House picket demonstration. The two youths arrested refused to give their names, police said. They were jailed on charges of disorderly conduct for refusing a policeman's order to keep moving—a requirement for White House picketing.

The army of college students grew to 4,700 at mid-afternoon, one of the leaders said, just before a closing rally. About 2,000 were said to be on the White House picket operation at about noon before it broke up. It was said to be the biggest picket demonstration there in at least nine years. The arrests marked the only incident during the two days of demonstrations by students advocating an end to all nuclear testing in the atmosphere—both by the United States and Russia. A "policy statement" by the students, calling themselves the council for a "Turn Toward Peace" TTP, also called for unilateral disarmament.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who was among House members and Senators visited by student delegations, said in a statement that the youths were "in reality fronting for powerful liberal and left wing organizations."

A rival youth group which favors nuclear testing and stiffer cold war policies by the United States counter-picketed the demonstrators. Members of the conservative "Young Americans for Freedom" YAF carried such signs as "A test today will keep the Commies away."

The student marchers encountered a cold shoulder at many congressional and government offices where they sought to put over their theme that the United States should begin disarming regardless of what Russia does.

A delegation headed by Peter Goldmark, a Harvard senior from New Canaan, Conn., gained an hour and a half audience Saturday with two top officials of the Soviet Embassy. Goldmark described the session as "extremely interesting."

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said later the students "were pretty critical of both sides." He also said they asked if a visit to the Soviet Union could be arranged by a two-man delegation of their movement to talk with Russian youths.

Male Superiority To Be Discussed By Di-Phi Senate

Are women inferior? That's what the Di-Phi will be debating Tuesday night at 7:30 in Di Hall, third floor New West. The first meeting of the Spring semester will feature a resolution by Di Senator Curtis Gans, of Haywood County, stating that men are infinitely superior to women. "The truth of this resolution is self-evident," Di-Phi President Arthur Hays commented, "but we'll debate it just for the fun of it anyway."

Gans, in his resolution, states that women are only useful for decoration and reproduction, and that most of the decoration comes from drug stores and continued reproduction seriously threatens the economic future of civilization. "Men," Gans commented, "are even partly responsible for the only claim that women have to creativity."

The Di-Phi, the oldest debating society in the country, has invited the public—especially the female public—to attend and participate in the debate. "We know women can talk," Gans said, "now we'll see if they can argue intelligently."

Algerian Cease Fire Looms; Minister Delays Paris Trip

PARIS (UPI)—Last minute hitches were reported delaying an Algerian cease-fire Saturday night but the end of the war there was so near France began moving troops into key spots in Algeria to cope with an expected uprising by European extremists.

In Paris, armed police stopped motorists on the streets and pedestrians on the streets and subway in search of members of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) which opposes an independent Algeria.

But France's Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe, who was bound locked all week in a final round of tough negotiations with rebel leaders at a secret hideout believed to be in the Jura Mountains near the Swiss border, delayed his return to Paris.

Fly to Tripoli
The rebel leaders who are negotiating with Joxe had been expected to fly soon to Tripoli, in Libya, where their National Council of the Algerian Revolution CNRA or parliament was to have met Sunday or Monday to approve the draft agreement.

GOETTINGEN
Goettingen scholarship applications are available in Y-courts. The deadline for filing is next Tuesday.

BIRDS

PI LAMB OFFICERS

SCOTLAND
"A Night in Scotland" will be presented to members of the Presbyterian Westminster Fellowship at 7 p.m. in the Presbyterian church.

But at the last moment, Rebel Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and other top Algerian rebels who will take part in the parliament session postponed their departure from Tunis.

Earlier, officials here said President Charles de Gaulle left Paris for his country home at Solomby-les-Deux - Egliques. Afterwards, he said this was not so. They said he presumably was remaining onhand for telephoned consultations with Joxe.

Government sources in Paris and rebel sources in Tunis said the last minute holdup was over the problem of guarantees for the 1,100,000 Europeans in Algeria after independence.

Balked at Demand

The rebels reportedly have balked at a French demand that the Europeans should be allowed dual nationality - Algerian nationality in Algeria and French nationality in France.

The accord would make Algeria, which France has governed for more than 140 years, an independent sovereign state before the end of the year.

With agreement near, new tensions swept Algeria where the OAS has carried out a campaign of terror that has killed near 900 persons since Jan. 1. Strikes and violence were reported from Algeria Saturday.

For Valentine Day Bedroom Murder

Attache's Secretary Held

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI)—Congo authorities Saturday arrested blonde private secretary Elizabeth Thring, 22, on a charge of "suspicion" in the Valentine Day bedroom murder of Lt. Col. Hulen D. Stogner, the assistant U. S. military attache in the Congo. Miss Thring, calm and composed, was taken to Makala Prison after three days of questioning by Congo and United Nations police officials and two U. S. Army detectives who flew in Saturday morning from U. S. Army headquarters in Wiesbaden, Germany. She would be tried by a Congolese court if the government prefers formal charges. The arrest warrant was sworn out by Congolese public prosecutor Rene Rosy. She could be held on the warrant "for at least one week" but that it could be extended indefinitely.

Shot Wednesday Night
Stogner, 39-year-old father of six children who live with his wife in El Paso, Tex., was shot fatally Wednesday night in the bedroom of his swank Park Hermise villa. He was in bed when he was shot. Miss Thring said she was sitting in a chair in the bedroom at the time.

Miss Thring, who is two inches taller than the stocky, five-foot-eight-inch blonde crewcut ex-paratrooper, was wearing a full skirted dress, dark glasses and an upswung hairdo when she was arrested at the home of U. S. Air Attache Col. Edward Dannemiller where she had been staying since the shooting. She was taken to a two-room cell in Makala Prison, guarded by Congolese matrons.

No formal charges were placed against Miss Thring who is not an employee of the U. S. Embassy but was reported to have come here from Washington as Stogner's private secretary.

Usual Life Imprisonment
Under Congolese law, which is derived from Belgian law, murder carries the death penalty. But by tradition the chief of state always commutes it to life imprisonment.

Miss Thring arrived last August, a month after Stogner, and reported for duty as his private secretary. She was with him when police said he was shot in the back of the neck by someone who apparently stood on a wall outside the villa and aimed through the bedroom window. Police said she told them she picked up Stogner's revolver after she saw he was shot. She said she saw a man who fled when he spotted the gun in her hand.

The two American detectives arriving Saturday were sent here by the Criminal Investigation Division from U. S. Army headquarters in Europe. They came to question her and two Congolese being held, Stogner's cook, Pierre Mgoyi, and his nightwatchman, Jacques Simba.

The Congolese chauffeur of Embassy Air Attache Col. Ben Matlick was released after questioning.
