CLARK AFB. The Philippines (UPI)—The U. S. Air Force Tuesday began reducing the size of its search for clues to an American airliner that disappeared over the Pacific five days ago.

Officials here sent out 18 search planes and said fewer will fly Wednesday unless some trace of the plane is found. Approximately 200,000 square miles of ocean have been covered.

The four-engine Flying Tiger Constellation carrying 107 persons was on a 1,500-mile flight from Guam to the Philippines when it disappeared Thursday night in good flying weather and without sending out a single distress call that was heard.

Aboard were 93 U. S. Army Rangers en route to Communist-threatened South Viet Nam, 11 American civilian crew members and 3 Vietnamese military specialists.

The joint search coordinating center on Guam said the USS Cayuga County recovered a possible clue to the disappearance when it picked up a piece of aluminum tubing.

The tubing had been floating 65 miles southwest of the area where a freighter sighted a flash in the sky the night the Constellation vanished. A Lockheed aircraft representative said it had not yet been determined if the tubing was part of the plane.

Search planes from here continued to spot driftwood and other debris and one of them reported what could have been a piece of luggage floating in the water. However, the report failed to lift the feeling of futility here.

White House Denies Nixon Statement That JFK Was Briefed On Invasion

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House Tuesday denied former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's statement that President Kennedy was told during the 1960 election campaign of U. S. plans to support an invasion of Cuba.

Nixon charged in his new book, "Six Crises," that Kennedy endangered U. S. security when he came out publicly on Oct. 20 for U. S. intervention in Cuba and aid to anti-Castro forces. Nixon said Kennedy previously had been briefed by the Central Intelligence Agency on plans for the Cuban invasion.

In challenging Nixon's version—
Airlines Lost $34 Million Last Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's major airlines wound up last year with net losses of more than $34 million, industry figures for 1961 revealed Tuesday. The red ink total was $4 million higher than the Air Transport Association ATA estimated last December. At the time, ATA set the airlines' net loss for the year at about $30 million based on complete financial returns for the first nine months.

Four carriers — Trans World, Eastern, National and Northeast — were responsible for the entire deficit. The seven other trunk airlines reported modest profits, but not a single one achieved the 10.5 percent return on investment which the Civil Aeronautics Board CAB has deemed reasonable.

ATA also reported that the airlines dropped another $5.7 million in January of this year, about $1.7 million more than the net losses suffered in January, 1961.

obviously with the President's approval — the White House suggested that his account was "apparently based on a misunderstanding." It said Kennedy was not informed about the proposed invasion until a month after he had spoken out — and after he had been elected.

Issues Statement
"The President does not believe that intelligence briefings are a proper subject of public debate," Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said, "but in the light of the account in Mr. Nixon's book it is necessary to say that the then Sen. Kennedy was not told before the election of 1960 of the training of troops outside of Cuba or of any plans for supporting an invasion of Cuba."

"Sen. Kennedy received two briefings from Mr. Allen Dulles of the CIA, the first on July 23, 1960, and the second on Sept. 19, 1960. The two briefings covered an overall review of the world situation, during which Cuba was mentioned."
"But Sen. Kennedy was first informed of the operation to which Mr. Nixon refers in a briefing by Allen Dulles and Richard Bissell, the CIA deputy director for operations given in Palm Beach, Fla., on Nov. 18, 1960."

Salinger had prepared his statement in anticipation of news inquiries submitted to him at his mid-day briefing. The press secretary said the President had read certain sections of Nixon's book but not the entire volume. As far as he knew, Salinger added, no advance copy was sent to the White House although he obtained one from a friend.

Nixon wrote in his book that Kennedy's Oct. 20 call for U. S. intervention in Cuba enraged him because he thought his opponent was using information obtained in a CIA briefing for political advantage. He said it was the only time he got angry at Kennedy during the campaign.

Nixon wrote that he had been advocating inside the Eisenhower administration that anti-Castro forces be armed, but could not say so publicly.

Jackie Says Farewell To Indian People

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, radiant in a gown of deep red and snowy white, presided over a farewell-to-India dinner Tuesday night in the jewel-like new American embassy.

The First Lady sat alone for a time on a staircase leading up from a pool with Premier Jawaharlal Nehru in animated conversation. The two have got along famously during Mrs. Kennedy's 10-day visit.

Wednesday, Jackie flies to Pakistan. She goes first to Lahore where Kipling's "Kim" once played in the streets and where the gardens of Shalimar delight the eye.

Mrs. Kennedy was winding up her 10-day stay in India with a flourish.

On her departure from the pink city of Jaipur Tuesday morning, she gave a rose to a gallant Maharaja when the 53-year-old prince surprised her with a quick kiss on the cheek. The Maharana looked on in smiling approval.

Touch Of Vegas
The formal banquet Tuesday night was in a setting of almost make-believe beauty, albeit with a touch of Las Vegas more than ancient India. The embassy is a two-story structure of glass, marble and white stones. In the court yard, fountains shot up toward a full moon.

As Jackie arrived at the embassy, four Indian Kumaris—girls in their teens—stepped forward and performed for her the Hindu "arti," a fire ceremony in which they prayed to God to bestow on her a long, prosperous and happy married life.

They carried silver plates filled with flowers, colored powders and cotton soaked in butter oil which they set afire.

Israel territory.
The historic sea area has become a focal point of Arab-Israeli friction since the Israel government announced the intention to divert Jordan River waters. Israel has said it will irrigate the Negev desert.

The Israeli spokesman said the first boat returned the fire with machine guns and that the second sped to the scene from farther north.

In Baghdad, the radio broadcast a report from Damascus saying Syrian artillery shelled Israeli patrol boats "which repeated their attempt to penetrate into the waters of the demilitarized zones."

Last Friday night Israeli soldiers launched a seven-hour attack on a Syrian fortification north of Nueqel on the eastern shore of the biblical Sea of Galilee.

Both sides suffered about 30 dead and 30 wounded in the battle. Israel said later it attacked because of Syrian "acts of aggression" which included firing on Israeli patrol boats.

Observers were quoted by Israeli sources as reporting the sighting of Syrian Russian-built MIG fighters flying over the demilitarized zone.

Israeli fishermen said Syrians stole nets cast off the eastern shore near Syrian territory Monday. The Syrians also were reported fishing in waters near the northeastern shore of the sea in been editing his fraternity newspaper, which under his supervision has received national fraternity recognition.

Stepp said he made no effort to receive backing of either political party. He charged that "a man elected on a party ticket can not be fair to the other party. Above all, the TAR HEEL has got to become fair and honest," he added.

Stepp said that the idea of co-editors "would only confuse the paper and its staff. Every day an executive decision must be made at the office and only one man can make those decisions. If student government wanted a co-editor system, they would not establish the office of editor. One job needs only one man," he added.

Stepp charges Clotfelter and Wrye with trying to inherit the job of being editor. He asserted that they will put out almost the same paper as the Tar Heel now is.

"If the student body wants the same paper they are now reading, if they think the DTH is a good them to vote for Jim and Chuck, student newspaper, then I urge if the student body wants something better, then I want their vote," Stepp concluded.
