

Netters Smash Dartmouth, Meet Indians Again Today

The UNC tennis team methodically crushed Dartmouth yesterday, 9-0, before one of the largest crowds in several years. The surprising Tar Heels swept all but two sets as they gained revenge for two defeats handed them by Dartmouth last season.

In the singles competition, number one man Keith Stoneman set the pace for his team with a brilliant victory over Dartmouth ace Jim Biggs. Mixing a strong net game with a sweeping cross-court backhand shot, the 6-3 UNC captain easily grabbed the initial set, 6-1. Despite a game rally by Biggs, Stoneman hung on to win 9-7 in the second set and close out the match.

Coach Don Skakle's four talented sophomores successfully followed the triumph of Stoneman as they failed to drop a set in the singles. George Sokol, playing at the second position, wore down Phil Meyer with his consistent groundstrokes. Ted Hoehn, son of the Dartmouth coach, won handily over Gordon Aydelot, 6-1, 6-2. Charlie Shaffer, who hasn't played regularly in almost two years, was all over the court with a relentless net game, defeating Dave Smoyer, 6-0, 6-3.

Hampered by a sore arm, Betsy Harrison fought off a determined Doug Floren to win, 6-4, 9-7. In contrast, veteran Dave Morgan breezed to a 6-1, 6-1 victory against Doug Judah.

The doubles featured a sparkling exhibition by Stoneman and Shaffer. The two completely dominated the court with a collection of shots that brought frequent applause from the enthusiastic crowd. Biggs and Floren were the 6-2, 6-2 victims of the Tar Heel duo. In the number two doubles Hoehn and another sophomore, Sam Applegate, struggled to a three-set marathon win over Meyer and Aydelot, 6-4, 8-10, 6-2. The final match went three sets also, as lettermen Stan Cocks and Garland Carlton combined to pull out an uphill 3-6, 8-6, 6-1 triumph.

Coach Skakle commented after the match that he thought his team played well considering it was their first outing. However, "I look for some improvement as the season wears on." It will be fairly difficult, though, to improve upon the perfect 9-0 score against a Dartmouth team that is annually one of the best in the East.

The Indian netter coach was full of praise for the youthful Tar Heels, stating that "Carolina has certainly lived up to its preseason expectations. But that doesn't mean we won't be fighting hard tomorrow afternoon." The personable Dartmouth mentor added that his team came to Chapel Hill without virtually any practice, the result of a snow-filled March in Hanover, N. H.

Today the two teams will meet again to test whether Carolina is as powerful as it so convincingly demonstrated in its season's opener. The match will begin at 2:00 p.m. Both coaches hinted that there may be now pairings for the contest.

Powerful Dartmouth Defeats UNC Lacrosse Club By 22-1

By MARTY KRUMING

Dartmouth's powerful lacrosse squad lived up to coach Sal Esposito's expectations as it rolled to a 22-1 victory over an inexperienced Tar Heel unit yesterday afternoon on Navy Field.

From the opening gun the Green Wave from New Hampshire amazed the considerably large crowd with its deft ball control and aggressive style of play. Capitalizing on a swift moving attack and mid-field, Dartmouth rallied for five goals in the first period, five in the second, six in the third, and eight in the final.

Carolina's only tally of the afternoon came in the initial quarter when wing attackman Allie Tyler singled the nets unassisted. From that point on it was the Indian's ball game as they played a "cat and mouse" game around the Tar Heels' goal for four periods.

For the first two periods UNC's attack was overly cautious as it peppered the opposing cage with only ten shots. After the halftime intermission Carolina appeared ready to cut down Dartmouth's 10-1 lead. Inspired by the aggressive play of attackman Tommy Thayer and midfielder Bob Kempner, the Heels began to pinpoint their passes and concentrate on a close guarding defensive strategy. But the Indians soon returned to their first half style and the host team settled back to a long, frustrating afternoon.

Although this was the initial game for both squads, Carolina had only had the benefit of five days practice prior to yesterday. Esposito realizes that the Tar Heels have a great deal to iron out, but many aspects of the encounter were most encouraging.

UNC Wrestlers Leave For Finals

DICK BLACKMAN

Three members of the North Carolina wrestling team which finished second in the Atlantic Coast Conference to Maryland left this morning for the NCAA wrestling championships at Stillwater, Okla. Sam Barnes, wrestling coach and former Oklahoma A & M wrestler, will accompany the trio of Tar Heels on the trip.

The national championships are scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday on the Oklahoma A & M campus and such wrestling powers as Lehigh, Army, Oklahoma, and the host school will be represented.

Pete Gilchrist, a senior from Charlotte, will compete in the 137-pound division at Stillwater. Gilchrist scored 36 points during the 1961-62 regular season to become the top point-maker in UNC wrestling history.

Dick Blackman also broke the previous school record of 30 points and finished the season with a total of 32. A junior from Whiteville, Blackman was second in the ACC finals in the 157-division.

Willis Johnson is the third Carolina grappler who will compete in the nationals.

Tar Heel Swimmers Place 6th In East

By ED DUPREE

North Carolina's swimmers captured sixth place at New Haven, Conn., last weekend in the Eastern Championships as Thompson Mann took second places in the 100- and 200-backstroke events.

Mann also anchored the 400-free style relay team to a third place finish behind Harvard and Williams. Willie Bloom, Harry Schiffman, and Bob Bilbro teamed up with Mann to set a new ACC record of 3-21.1, bettering the old conference mark of 3:23 set against UNC by N. C. State earlier this year. In a tight finish, Harvard's freestylers finished in a time of 3:20.

N. C. State's swimmers finished fourth. Princeton, Yale, and Harvard — all of the Ivy League — racked up the top three berths, and Villanova finished fifth. Maryland, the ACC champions, were well down the list of approximately 35 teams.

Mann bettered the meet records in both the 100- and 200-backstroke events, but Graef of Princeton finished ahead of him both times. The UNC sophomore star swam a 48.8 leg in the freestyle relay.

Bloom finished eighth in the 440 freestyle with a 4:43.5 timing, while Bilbro took ninth in the 100 freestyle.

Bilbro, Bryan Williams, and Howard Cone all finished in the top 20 in the 50-free style.

Frank Lea bettered the UNC record when he took ninth place in the 1500 freestyle race with a time of 19:31. Lea also swam in the 220 and 440 races. Art McGrill placed in the top 20 in each of the three races.

Linksmen Defeat Dartmouth Easily

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

North Carolina's golfers opened their 1962 dual meet season in fine style yesterday afternoon as they routed visiting Dartmouth, 42½-2½.

The contest played on the University-owned Finley Golf Course, was never in doubt as Carolina took every individual match as well as copping all best-ball competition.

Pete Green, Carolina's All-American from Franklin, Mich., downed Dartmouth's Ace Eaton, 2½-1½ in the featured match of the day.

Also competing in the first foursome were UNC's Jay Harris and the Indians' Dave McCollum. Harris and McCollum deadlocked in their individual match, 1½-1½. Carolina won in best-ball, 3-0.

Points are decided on both a match and medal play basis. A golfer scores one point for a match play win on the front nine, one point for a like win on the back nine and one point for an overall medal play victory. Thus, many half points may occur when players "halve" a nine.

In the second foursome, the Tar Heels' Abe Andes and George Murphy beat Steve Bloom and George Link by identical 3-0 scores. Carolina again took the best-ball competition, 3-0.

Senior Sam Duckett and sophomore Jerry Ayers, Harvie Hill, Sam McNairy, Tom Gardner and Mike Dore all won their matches to complete the sweep for the Ed Kenney-coached linksmen. All won by 3-0 counts except McNairy who beat Dartmouth's Dick Payne, 2½-1½.

Hill, from Plymouth, N. C. playing in the third foursome, took medalist honors for the day with a two-under-par 70.

UNC Baseball Team Starts Season Today At Florida

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

UNC's baseball team opens its 1962 season this afternoon as the Tar Heels take on the University of Florida at Gainesville in the first game of their annual southern tour.

Coach Walter Rabb's nine will follow up the opener with a second contest against Florida's Gators on Thursday and games with Vanderbilt and Georgia Southern on Friday and Saturday.

Rabb, in his sixth season as head coach, plans to start untested sophomore pitchers in most of the games, while holding out the veterans for relief chores.

Soph. Andy Billesdon, a 6-3 soph from Lothrop Village, Mich. is slated to start this afternoon for Carolina with co-captain Dave Murr in the bullpen. Junior Larry Jenkins may hurl Thursday with Spencer Willard, another sophomore, ready to go Friday.

Rabb has three lettermen returning to his infield and one to the outfield from last year's team, which compiled a 10-4 record in the ACC while finishing second to Duke.

Second baseman Paul Swing and third sacker Larry Neal—both of whom batted .300-plus last spring will hit one-two in Rabb's batting order. Sophomore shortstop Jim Speight will bat third with Durham senior Russ Hollers, the center-fielder, hitting in the cleanup position.

Following Hollers, will be first baseman Len Dellolio and right fielder Heyward Hull. Dellolio swung at a .311 clip last year.

Dee Frady will play left field and bat seventh with sophomore catcher Bernie Isgett, who sat out his freshman season with a broken leg, hitting in the eighth position.

Carolina Caravan

By Jake Wade

By JAKE WADE

It's no longer any secret that the University of North Carolina plans to employ the three-platoon system in football next fall. Coach Jim Hickey and his staff are excited over the possibilities of the plan, similar to that used so successfully by L.S.U.

Carolina's two-way or starting team will be known as the Blues. The Offensive team will be called the Rams. This is the "Go" group and rams are known to do that when infuriated or inspired or both. The Defensive platoon has been tagged the Tar Heels, suggesting the stickiness of tar.

More boys get to play in a system of this kind, and there are evidences here already that this program has been a big booster to morale. The Tar Heels had a hard time getting started with off-season football on account of the weather but they are in high gear now and competition for places on the team is spirited.

WELL PLEASED—It's the talent that counts most, so a system is no better than how the lads perform. In the first full-scale scrimmage of winter practice, the Tar Heels generally performed well.

Unless our tired old eyes deceive us, Co-Captains Joe Craver and Ward Marslender are heading up a squad with much more speed than recent Carolina teams possessed. The linemen seem to move well and there are backs who can get away. Maybe some of track coach Dale Ranson's "Fleetness Running" has rubbed off on them.

Craver and Marslender are two of the best and the long range feeling is that both will rank high when all-star honors are passed out next fall. They are not the only ones, of course, and there is a strong sophomore accent on this squad. It looks like a lot of new faces will be seen in Carolina's triple-lineups. Ronny Jackson, for example, has put on some weight to take him out of the midget class and he's a lad who has the equipment to break up some ball games and the color to excite the fans. Ronny is the rising sophomore from Rocky Mount who at times was sensational for the freshmen in 1961.

ALUMNI GAME—Plans have gone out for the Alumni Varsity game on April 7 which will wind up off-season practice. Joe Davies and his Carolina Monogram Club are doing a fine job in promoting the game, proceeds from which go to the Monogram Club's Scholarship fund, used to assist deserving athletes without grants-in-aid.

More than 70 "Old Grads" have indicated they will be here. Some of course have passed the point where they can play and others will be used sparingly. But it will be good to see the old heroes back on campus and they are looking forward to the various festivities to be held in conjunction with the game.

Most of the serious play for the Alumni will be by the more recent graduates. George Barclay will coach the Alumni. At other schools where the Alumni-Varsity games are held, the Alumni have been the winners.

SPRING SPORTS—In launching UNC's spring sports program, Ed Kenney's golfers did very well in Florida, finishing second in team scoring to the great Houston team in the Florida Intercollegiate Invitational. . . . Walter Rabb's baseballers are in Florida now and by week's end should give some indication of how strong the team will be this season. . . . Incidentally, there is wide interest in the "speed up" baseball experiment which will be used in the first round of play. . . . The lacrosse club is practicing daily. . . . Spring is going to be nice in the ACC. . . . Track and tennis in this area if it ever gets here for sure.

Cincy, OSU Coaches Decline Assumptions, Point Only To Friday's Semifinal Games

By John G. Dietrich LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Ed Jucker and Fred Taylor, the two men most vitally concerned, declined to go along Tuesday with a widespread assumption that their Cincinnati and Ohio State teams will meet Saturday night in college basketball's greatest rematch.

Taylor, whose Buckeyes must be absolutely aching for another shot at the NCAA title against the same Cincinnati team that beat them out of it in overtime a year ago blandly skipped over the matter Tuesday in a conference telephone chat among coaches of the four NCAA finalists.

"We are looking no further than Wake Forest Friday night," insisted Taylor, "you can't do much at all if you don't win the first one." Ohio State and Wake Forest clash at 7:30 p.m., EST, in the eastern half of the NCAA university division finals, while Cincinnati's defending champions meet the surprising UCLA Bruins in the western half at 9:30 p.m.

The winners meet Saturday night for the NCAA championship after the losers play off the consolation game.

Even a reminder from sports writers sitting in on the call that the Buckeyes blasted Wake Forest by 22 points on the Demons' own floor last December didn't divert Taylor from the game at hand.

"We feel Wake Forest may have been too high for that game, too excited," Taylor said, "while we had just come off a tough game with Wichita and took it more or less in stride. Besides, assistant coach Frank Truitt reports that Wake Forest is improved a great deal since then. In a way this is an entirely different season."

Jucker maintained much the same line in regard to UCLA, although the Bruins failed to convince many of their own West Coast fans even while they were winning 11 of their last 12 games and the Big Five title.

"We respect John Wooden's team," Jucker insisted. "They are well coached and we will have our hands full."
