

No Two-Man Debate, Says Larry Phelps

All Three Must Discuss Issues, Candidate Says

By HARRY LLOYD

Independent presidential candidate Larry Phelps said yesterday that under no circumstances would he take part in a two-man debate with SP nominee Dwight Wheelless. "Our issues must be discussed by all three candidates," Phelps explained.

Wheelless said Wednesday that he would not invite Phelps to participate in the debate held last night between him and Imman Allen, the UP nominee. Allen had stated that Phelps and his running-mate John Salter would be welcome.

"That debate is Wheelless' show," Phelps said. "He made the challenge, and not us."

Seek Same Office
Wheelless says that he didn't challenge us to a debate because he wanted to debate with Allen on something else, not specifying what. We are running for the same offices, and the purpose of a debate is to bring out differences between the candidates. He has used to do this.

"After all, Dwight Wheelless has two perfectly good reasons not to debate with us on the function of student government. First, he doesn't want to admit the importance of national and international issues, and second, he doesn't want to rock his little party boat by saying something controversial."

Phelps and Salter attacked Wheelless for making the excuse that they had not given him time to work them into the debate schedule.

"We talked to him Sunday night," Salter said. "He came to my room. Phelps and I were both there, but he had nothing to say about a debate in any form."

"The first we knew of a debate was when Wheelless' story was printed in Thursday's DTH. Phelps talked to Wheelless Thursday, and was told that in order to participate in the debate, we should have told him five days before debate so arrangements could be made."

"According to Thursday's paper, Imman Allen first heard of the debate on Tuesday."

"We definitely won't speak after Wheelless and Allen debate each other," Phelps said. "We are for total integration—and we think it should apply in every area, including political debates. Wheelless just wants the added publicity that he can get from debating twice. The issues must be discussed by all three candidates, or we won't have any part of such a discussion."

WORKMAN FIND SKULL

LONDON (UPI) — Workmen shoring up the foundations of No. 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's official residence, said Monday that they had found a human skull inside a stone coffin, the remains of a 16th century courtier executed for some forgotten misdeed. They sent it to the British Museum where officials said it once had been impaled on a spike.

College Weekend Advocated

By RICK BURNS

"The ability of the class officers to reach all members of our class for participation in class projects," was the "keynote" expressed yesterday by Roger Smith, UP candidate for President of the Senior class.

Other UP candidates are Richard Stapleton, Vice-President; Cecil Collins, Social Chairman; Anne Lobdell, Secretary and Jimmy Miller, Treasurer.

College Weekend
Smith said that one major project of the class would be a "College Weekend" to raise money "for our gift." Smith feels that by "drawing on all groups of the campus for a common goal, unity can be achieved in our class."

"I think you need unification, particular in your senior year, so that you can identify yourself with a class," he added. Before the senior year there is very little class spirit, he said.

Possible Picnic
Cecil Collins said that plans for the Senior Class weekend might include a picnic at Hogan's Lake and a talent show followed by a dance.

"It would be something for everyone to take part in," she said. "I've encountered a lot of enthusiasm on campus for both the College Weekend and the Senior Class Weekend."

On the dormitory and fraternity-sorority issue, Smith feels that cooperation in such drives as the alumni drive and participation in the other class projects would "be a greater unifying agent than efforts for the sole purpose of forcing the two groups together."

Good Ideas Around
"It goes back to how hard the officers are willing to work to get the ideas through to the students. There are a lot of good ideas floating around but it is the officers' ability to bring them in contact with the students that count."

Miss Lobdell stressed the needs for efficient records in the alumni drive. She added, "I'm interested in making sure everyone is aware of every meeting."

Asked about Richard Stapleton being in the infirmary, Smith joked, "I don't want people to get the

MEDICAL PARENTS' DAY
The University's School of Medicine will hold its annual Medical Parents' Day on Saturday, April 14.

EASTER SHOW SLATED
The Morehead Planetarium's annual Easter show, "Easter the Awakening," will open Tuesday, March 27, and continue through April 30.

OIL JOBBERS TO BE HERE
A management institute for oil jobbers will be held here at the University next month.

impression we have an unhealthy slant."

Miller added that the success of the class gift as a contribution to the University would depend on the success of the class projects.

Debate Squad Has 7-3 Mark At New York

The UNC negative debate team captured a 5-0 record in a tournament at Brooklyn College last weekend. The affirmative team had a 2-3 record.

Debate for the negative team were George Carson and Reuben Moore. On the affirmative were Kellis Parker and Charles Heatherly.

Also at the tournament were Dartmouth, Holy Cross, West Point, and 61 other schools. Officials said this was the largest tournament in the nation.

West Point was the tournament winner.

Experienced Editors Needed—Managers

"Only experienced editors can carry out the realistic recommendations made by Chuck Wrye and Jim Clotfelter for improving the Daily Tar Heel," said campaign co-managers Fran Roth and Mike Putzel yesterday.

Miss Roth is the new president of the Pan-Hellenic Council. Putzel is president of the Young Americans for Freedom and former president of Cobb dormitory.

"No plan for improvement of the newspaper will succeed unless the editors have sufficient experience and working knowledge of the Tar Heel's special problems," Miss Roth and Putzel said.

Experience
Wrye was DTH asst. sports editor and reporter last spring. Former news editor Clotfelter has been asst. to the editor, night editor, columnist and reporter.

They have been endorsed by the Publications Board and the Student Party.

"It is obvious to anyone who has observed the workings of the Tar Heel for the past year that its biggest problems stem from its small staff," Miss Roth and Putzel said.

Staff Endorsement
"The present DTH staff has overwhelmingly endorsed Chuck Wrye and Jim Clotfelter as the candidates most capable of improving the staff situation and solving the newspaper's other problems," they said.

A letter endorsing the co-editor candidates appeared in the DTH last week. It was signed by 13 present and past staff members, including the editor, advertising manager, associate editor and executive news editor.

Larger Staff
Wrye and Clotfelter have proposed that a full-time copy editor be added to the news staff and that a staff recruitment program be implemented.

"One of us will always be available to work with the staff," they said.

"A competent Tar Heel administration," said Wrye and Clotfelter, "should have sufficient staff to give full facts and insight into such issues as the value and role of student government; the function of the professor as a classroom teacher or a researcher; the degree of student autonomy from the University administration; and the value of an honor system."

Bean Birds Select 22 In Rites

Pre-Dawn Chirping Marks Ceremony For Fledgings

By Lew "Grosbeak" Llewellyn
In the early morning hours today, the members of the Noble Order of the Beanbirds jumped from their nests, perched in surrounding trees and swooped down upon the greater campus to gather new fledglings into the "home nest."

The new fledglings "hatched" into the Noble Order were: Gaston "Gosstucker" Caperton, Page "Peacock" Bradham, John "Vulture" McMillan, Becky "Bobolink" Elmore, Bob "Booby" Buck, Betsy "Bluebird" Fitch, Johnny "Jungle Fowl" Corpening, Darst "Duck" Murphy, Larry "Loggerhead" Brown, Larry "Loon" McDevitt, Charlie "Cuckoo" Jonas, Sam "Solitary Sandpiper" Applegate, Diana "Turtledove" Dial, Callie "Cardinal" Frazier, Sue "Starling" Drennen, Pat "Stork" Butler, Nancy "Nutcracker" Davis, Head "Broadrump" Bender, Dershie "Downy" Bridgford, Lucy "Lark" Wood, Munny "Screech" Yates, and Douglas "Albatross" Eyre.

The initiation for the birdlets took place after the spring "diet of worms" for the old birds, and the birdlets were selected after endless hours of chirping and singing by the old birds to find members who were able to meet the bird-like qualities. These qualities are:

- (1) fly alone — even with a broken wing;
- (2) go out on a limb without falling — even when pushed;
- (3) give a worthy demonstration of the Beanbird shuffle — even when the ground is uneven and the air is on the ground;
- (4) fly with a broken leg; (5) peck — even when claws are sore and tender; (6) twitter-tweet — even with a shattered beak; (7) use their claws to cling with "dear bird life" to the limbs of wisdom, service, hope, democracy, loyalty, beauty, friendship, humor, and humility.

Dore Schary Notes Luck In Theater

By WALT HANDY

Writer, director and producer, Dore Schary told the students of UNC's drama department that they "should be prepared to take advantage of an opportunity. Getting into the theatre is hard. It is a matter of luck."

Schary has been lecturing twice each day since Monday and will remain on the campus until Saturday.

Schary advised that one who desires to become an actor must do everything he can from community theater to off-broadway. He said that he would like to see a closer tie between the commercial theater and the collegiate.

Experience Stressed
Schary emphasized the importance of experience, and hard work. He said "If you have talent you might get a chance."

What impresses him most about an aspiring young person? "The way he has applied himself; what he has done with his knowledge," was Schary's reply. "Anything that you do is a help to you."

"It is a narrow plank I walk in relation to you young people," he said, "I am trying to be realistic. The way is hard, but the rewards are worth it."

Schary is the author of "Sunrise at Campobello" and was director, co-producer of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" which is currently on tour.

Poet Randall Jarrell Is Named Winner Of '62 Gardner Prize

RANDALL JARRELL

Award Made At Ceremony In Greensboro

GREENSBORO — The O. Max Gardner Award for 1962 was won here last night by Randall Jarrell, Woman's College poet, literary critic, and teacher.

Jarrell was cited for the award at a dinner in North Spencer Dining Hall of Woman's College. The award dinner is held annually on one of the three campuses of the University.

Gov. Gardner
The Gardner Award, first presented in 1945, was established in his will by the late Governor Gardner along with a bequest of $25,000. He directed that the award citation and bequest income be presented to the member of the faculty university "who has been adjudged by the trustees as having made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race during the past year."

Governor Gardner, born 80 years ago today, regarded the consolidation of the University of North Carolina in 1932 as one of the highest achievements of his administration.

Jarrell, a Tennessean, has been at Woman's College since 1947 and holds the rank of professor of English. He is the author of eight books, has won many distinguished literary prizes and has served as Consultant in Poetry in English at the Library of Congress.

National Book Award
During the past year his newest book, "The Woman at the Washington Zoo," won the National Book Award in Poetry, a prize given by American publishers for the best volume of poems published in the current year.

Last June Bard College conferred on Jarrell the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

The Jarrell citation was read by Mrs. George Wilson, Fayetteville, for the trustees award committee. Mrs. Gardner was among the special guests attending the dinner.

Dinner Address
The dinner address was made by Dr. O. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Minnesota. President William Friday of UNC presided. Music was by the Woman's College Chamber Music Players. The entire program was televised by WUNC-TV.

Aside from his versatile literary productivity Professor Jarrell has been one of Woman's College's most popular and stimulating teachers. It was pointed out tonight, his course in narrative, for freshmen, has the highest enrollment of any elective course in the WC English Department.

A number of his students have attained literary distinction, including the winning of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry.

Award Brochure
The Award Brochure distributed tonight cited the following concerning the award winner: "Randall Jarrell is a poet, and he is a teacher. More important, he is a poet teacher. Once at a press conference in New York he was asked whether it was good for a poet to teach. Mr. Jarrell answered, 'I'm crazy about teaching myself. . . If I were a rich man, I would pay money to teach.'"

Born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1914, Jarrell did undergraduate and graduate studies at Vanderbilt, between 1931 and 1939. He was at various times before coming to Woman's College literary editor of The Nation, a celestial navigation tower operator in the U. S. Air Force, and an instructor in English at Kenyon, the University of Texas, and Sarah Lawrence College.

Published Poems
His published poems include volumes entitled "Blood for Strangers," "Little Friend, Little Friend," "Losses," "Selected Poems," and "The Seven-League Crutches." Another volume contains a series of critical essays, "Poetry and the Age." He is also the author of a novel, "Pictures from an Institution."

Jarrell has completed the manuscript for his ninth book, "A Sad Heart at the Supermarket." He also has edited and written an introduction to an edition of Rudyard Kipling short stories, and he is now completing a translation of Goethe's "Faust."

Irish Wit, Words Subject Of Address

Professor Vivian Mercier, Associate Professor of English at City College, New York City, will speak to the English Club at 7:30 tonight in the Faculty Lounge of Carroll Hall. His subject will be "Irish Wit and Word Play."

The talk will range from Gaelic literature of the early Middle Ages down to Joyce's "Finnegan's Wake," and will include on the way Swift, Swift's friend Rev. Thomas Sheridan, and John Philpot Curran. It will also contain some reflections upon the "Irish Bull": "An Irish Bull," said Sir John Mahony, "is a male animal that is always pregnant."

Dr. Mercier was born and raised in Ireland, did his doctoral work at Trinity College, Dublin, and taught in Ireland until he came to the United States shortly after World War II. He has taught here at Bennington College, Columbia University, and City College, New York; he was visiting lecturer at the University of California at Berkeley, 1960-61.

His articles dealing with the comic tradition appear in leading

English, Irish, and American publications. His book, THE IRISH COMIC TRADITION, is currently being published by the Oxford University Press.

Flick Is Show By Kaufman

Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Jimmy Durante, Monty Woolley and Billy Burke star in tonight's Free Flick presentation, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

A sophisticated, irascible, world-famous lecturer attends a dull dinner party in a small town, slips on an icy walk, and is forced to remain as a guest for weeks. From a wheelchair he completely dominates the household, attempting to mold the family to his taste and convenience.

Based on the Broadway play by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," will be shown in Carroll Hall at 7:30 and 9:30.

DU Pledges Are Winners

Delta Upsilon won the Stanley Sturm Award for the Outstanding Pledge Class of 1962 for the second consecutive year at the annual Greek Week Convocation in Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

The award is given on the basis of scholarship, total points in Greek Week field day, and work day points in Greek carnival and extra-curricular activities.

Individual Awards
Individual awards were given to Sigma Alpha Epsilon for first place in the carnival, Alpha Tau Omega for first place in scholarship and Delta Upsilon and Sigma Alpha Epsilon for joint first place in the field day events.

Wednesday night's convocation was the ending of the week that was developed to replace the "hell week" that was prevalent among fraternities some years ago.

IFC-Sponsored
Greek Week is sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, directed by Charlie Battle, for the purpose of creating better interfraternity relations and for deciding on the outstanding pledge class each year.

Dean of Student Affairs Charles Henderson spoke to the assemblage of the 24 fraternity pledge classes and told the neophytes that a challenge was "in store for the new initiates of Carolina fraternities."

Following Dean Henderson's talk, Brooks Emory, Treasurer of the IFC and Co-chairman with Battle, presented the awards to the respective groups. The climax of the meeting was the announcement of the Best Pledge Class trophy.

Jeff Pickett, president of the Delta Upsilon pledge class, accepted the award on behalf of the fraternity. It was the second consecutive year that Delta Upsilon had won the award.
