Two Dishwashers Scuffle In Lenoir

The Lenoir Hall kitchen was the scene of a brief scuffle early Wednesday night between two colored dishwashers. They "started out horseplaying," according to Manager George Prillaman. One of them struck the other on the forehead but he only received a slight cut. Several of the kitchen employees broke up the scuffle immediately after it started.

Which Steeple Is Taller, Methodist Or Presbyterian?

Within the last few days, there has been quite a bit of activity going on in the lot next to Kemp's which has attracted a lot of attention.

Construction workers have placed, with the help of a large crane, the new steeple on top of the new Presbyterian Church.

Sidewalk superintendents began at first to glance at the new steeple, and then they would glance down Franklin Street at the steeple atop the Methodist Church.

The spectators commented on which they thought was taller. Upon being asked, one of the construction workers said the Presbyterian steeple was actually higher from the ground level—"In fact, the Presbyterian's steeple is 20 feet higher than the Methodist's."

But upon asking Mr. J. S. Bennett of the Methodist Church and Mr. Tom Rose of the Presbyterian Church, it was found that the Methodist steeple is higher by 147 to 138 feet.

'The Rack' Free Flick

Paul Newman, Wendell Corey, Walter Pidgeon, Edmond O'Brien and Anne Francis head the cast of "THE RACK," tonight's Free Flick. Based on a television play by Rod Sterling, "THE RACK" tells of the return of a decorated U. S. war hero from two-and-a-half years in a Korean prison camp and his subsequent court-martial for treason.

Based on actual instances of American prisoners who did collaborate with the Communists, this drama examines the thesis that nobody is blameless for his actions when forced past his breaking point.

Showings will be at 7:30 and 9:30 in Carroll Hall and only students with ID cards will be admitted.

Kennedy Alters Policy On USSR Says Reston

By LLOYD LITTLE

President Kennedy has changed the tendency in Washington to act much like Pavlov's dogs, James Reston said yesterday in Howell Hall.

"When Khrushchev rang the bell in Moscow, Lincoln White and the State department would salivate," he said.

"The Cuban revolution had a profound effect on the US—Khrushchev took the invasion as a sign of weakness in Kennedy and tried to rough him up."

Kennedy has brought the intellectual to the American political scene, Reston said, much as Eisenhower had brought the businessman, each assuming that it was best for the country.

"What Kennedy has decided in the cold war is that the dialogue between Washington and Moscow was getting out of hand."

Last Symposium Meet

In the last informal meeting of the Symposium, Reston spoke briefly and answered questions before about 20 students in Howell Hall auditorium.

Reston said the situation in Africa is not what the Communists had expected to happen after the end of the war. "They had assumed that 'inner-contradictions' of the capitalist system would collapse when the old empires began to fall."

"The remnants of the empires didn't go to the Eastern camp and Western Europe did not fall."

Internally, Kennedy hasn't done at all what he implied during the election. He has played it cool and cozy—we have a number of domestic problems at a time when we are struggling to get a new tax bill, enter the common market, and set up new trade bills."

Later Reston answered a number of questions from the audience. Among them:

Will Kennedy run in 1964?
"Yes, unless he gets into very deep trouble in South Viet Nam, I wouldn't advise you to run against him."

Are labor unions gaining power and what can be done about them?
"Yes, they are gaining too much power—the question is how to curb them. I have not seen presidential power used in a more dental power used in a more
