Steel Inquest Still On Subpoenas Are Ordered Against 12 Companies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Subpoenas were ordered Saturday against 12 big steel companies by a Senate subcommittee which pressed its antitrust investigation despite the industry's pelt melt retreat from a $6-a-ton price increase.

U.S. marshals were set to serve the subpoenas which demand that the firms produce cost records for the Senate anti-monopoly group headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

The action was clear evidence that the threat of both congressional and Justice Department action still hung over "big steel" even though the industry surrendered to President Kennedy in the struggle over the price hike.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Friday after the steel companies rescinded the price rise that a federal grand jury inquiry in New York into possible anti-trust violations would proceed.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), announced Saturday that he would introduce legislation Monday aimed at breaking up the bigger steel companies and giving the government a check-rein on future price increase moves.

He proposed that steel price hikes be made subject to the 80-day "cooling off" procedure which the President can invoke under the Taft-Hartley labor-management law. Gore also advocated reorganization of a national consumers advisory board.

The Tennessee said capitulation of the steel industry underscored the need for new legislation. "They moved up in concert and caved in in concert," Gore said. "This is all the more reason there should be an orderly, systematic way to provide for an informed public opinion."

IN LAW SCHOOL MOCK TRIAL

Judge Gwynn Rules Mistrial

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

Superior Court Judge Allen H. Gwynn ruled a "mistrial" Friday night when a student jury was unable to get past the first issue of the three-issue "Evans vs. Brown" lawsuit case in the UNC Law School's annual mock trial in Manning Hall.

The proceedings, attended by over 300 persons, involved charges brought to court by Miss Barbara "Bevan" Evans against varsity basketball player Larry Brown.

The plaintiff, a varsity cheerleader, had alleged that Brown negligently drove his car into a tree on the way back to Chapel Hill from a dinner-dance date in Durham, thereby being responsible for "severe and permanent" injuries that Miss Evans incurred in the accident. She has claimed damages in the amount of $150,000.

Denies Negligence

Brown had denied any negligence on his part and had maintained that the contributory negligence of Miss Evans was the proximate cause of her injuries, in that it was her conduct toward him which caused him to lose control of the car.

The three issues of Brown's negligence, Miss Evans' contributory negligence and damages were hashed and rehearsed by Thomas Starnes (Miss Evans' attorney), La Fontaine Odum (Counsel for Mr. Brown) and their respective staffs.

Mr. Starnes called to the stand four witnesses on behalf of Miss Evans. State Trooper E. R. Kirby, Dr. Barry Haywood, a surgeon at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, Miss Lynn Clark, the plaintiff's roommate and Miss Evans, herself, all supported the latter's story.

Miss Evans, her honey-blond hair in a pony tail and covered by a dark veil which also partially hid the ugly scars on her face, stated that her relationship with Brown had always been "platonic," but that on the particular night of April 7, he had seemed very "pensive and serious."

Coed 'Surprised'

The once-beautiful coed, dressed in a light grey suit, added that she was very surprised when Brown grabbed her arm, pulled her to him and kissed her passionately while still attempting to maneuver the car.

Defense Counsel Odum produced as his chief witness, Dr. John Taylor—a second surgeon at the hospital, John Flournoy and Lindsay Raiford—two eyewitnesses who, on the date with Brown and Miss Evans, were sitting in the back seat of the car, and Brown.

Brown, a 16-point-per-game guard on the Carolina basketball team, testified that Miss Evans had continually played with his ear while "pecking" him on the cheek, which made it considerably hard for him

Film Society Sets 'Guernica' Monday

The short "Guernica," and a special feature, "Alexander Novsky," will be presented Monday at 8 p.m. in Carroll Hall by the UNC-Chapel Hill Film Society. The program will be the society's last before spring vacation.

"Guernica," is a French film recreation of artist Pablo Picasso's murals. Directed by Alain Resnais, it is considered a milestone in art film experiments, according to Miss Maggie Dent of the film society. Resnais also directed the award-winning "Hiroshima, Mon Amour."

Sergei Eisenstein directs the Russian feature "Alexander Novsky." The film depicts the invasion of the Baltic provinces by Crusaders in 1242. Novsky is victorious in the Battle of the Ice. Time magazine said of the film, "Like no battle ever recorded before on celluloid . . . for visual splendor it has never topped."

Miss Dent also announced that subscriptions for the remainder of the society's presentations for the year were available at $1.50 per person. The group plans three more presentations this year.

LEAVE IT TO JEROME

While romping through the arboretum like a leprechaun recently, past Yack Editor Jerry Stokes lost his glasses. Although Stokes admits to having dropped glasses before, his vision was usually impaired before the accident, not after, as in this most recent case. Anyone finding the missing specs please contact the DTH office, 942-2138, or drop by the information desk, GM.

Help Jerome recover his vision.

Fleece Tapping Monday Valkyrie Sing To Follow Ceremony

Inductions into the Order of the Golden Fleece, the highest men's honorary society at the University take place Monday night at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

According to the annual custom the doors to Memorial Hall will be locked at 7 o'clock and no one will be permitted to enter or to leave until after the induction ceremonies have been concluded.

The ceremony will be followed by the traditional Valkyrie sing which will compose five divisions made up of women from the University dormitories and sororities.

The order of the Golden Fleece is the second oldest collegiate honorary society in the United States. The oldest is the Skull and Bones at Yale University.

The Fleece ceremony is traditionally symbolized by two hooded giants who wander up and down the aisles of Memorial Hall searching for those students who have "dared to rise above the average" and who have shown "exceptional character and leadership in a world that is badly lacking of both." Members of the Golden Fleece include men from the Junior and Senior classes and the faculty. A past member of some standing was Terry Sanford who was inducted into the order in 1941.

MIAMI (UPI) — A proud, hobbling band of 60 captured Cuban invaders—sold by Castro for $2.5 million—returned Saturday to freedom and a cheering welcome from 20,000 of their refugee countrymen.

They swore to return to their prison cells unless the ransom of all 1,179 of the captives is raised. A hush fell over the joyously-tearful crowd as the big four-engine plane that brought the prisoners from Havana rolled up to the unloading zone and the doors were opened.

The captives, some on crutches, some with arms and legs missing saluted smartly as they appeared in the doorway of the plane, then limped down the steep steps and for 75 yards along a roped-off lane to waiting ambulances and limousines.

Immediately upon arrival the newly-freed captives issued a statement saying they would "consider ourselves prisoners until the last one of our companions is at liberty; the Brigade 2506 is one and indivisible."

Brigade 2506 was the unit that stormed ashore at the Bay of Pigs April 17, 1961, only to be captured three days later by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's militia.

Those returned today were the most seriously injured members of the invasion force.

Bunche On Buckley: Hogwash

Dr. Ralph Bunche, 57, is the United Nations undersecretary for special affairs. He has received many honorary degrees and awards, including Phi Beta Kappa membership, the Nobel Peace Prize and the Four Freedoms Award.

By DR. RALPH BUNCHE
(As told to Garry Blanchard
The Charlotte Observer)

While in Chapel Hill on a speaking engagement Tuesday evening, I was shown an Observer column by William F. Buckley about U.N. activities in Katanga last December. The column appeared in Monday's Observer. It's absolute hogwash.

But that isn't new for Buckley. I'd say he's an extremist, and not very careful about establishing his facts. I'm referring to that part of his column concerning a pamphlet prepared by Professor van den Haag, who belongs to a group called the American Committee for Aid to Katanga Freedom Fighters. According to Buckley, the pamphlet is lively and "most revealing," and contains "electrifying photographs." It purports to be the result of Professor Haag's "investigation" in Katanga of "the behavior of the United Nations Armed Forces there, and the political circumstances surrounding the armed action against Katanga . . . last December."

I don't doubt that a good many readers will be influenced by what Buckley says. But the pamphlet is erroneous from beginning to end. And the way it's written, one has to conclude it's deliberately distorted.

Certainly Haag went to Elizabethville for three or four days. But he saw and talked with no one on the U.N. side, so he wasn't trying to get a full picture.

His trip was no investigation. It was made by a man who went out with his mind made up about the conclusions he would reach, a man who made no effort to get a balanced, truthful picture.

Consider the pictures in the pamphlet. None of them is documented. There's nothing to establish that the U.N. had anything to do with the atrocities which Haag's photographs purport to show that U.N. forces wantonly committed.

As for a "U.N. war on Katanga," I guess the best authority on that is Moise Tshombe himself. He has praised the U.N. for the protection and security it's guaranteeing him now, in Leopoldville, in his negotiations with Premier Adoula.

There isn't any U.N. war on Katanga now, nor has there been one. The only time the U.N. had to fight against Katanga was when their troops were led by mercenaries, well-paid professional killers, like those in the Secret Army Organization in Algeria right now. The people of Katanga never fought the U.N.

What the U.N. tried to do in Katanga was to get rid of the 500 mercenaries there. We managed to eliminate some of them, but there are still about 250 of them in the province.

Why does Buckley write like he does? I don't know. I've never tried to figure out the motives of extremists who engage in propaganda. But from what I've seen of his writing, it's clear he doesn't know much about the U.N. I'd invite him over but I gather his mind's made up.

Why does he think as he does? I don't know. Maybe he hasn't caught up with this century yet. Some young men are born old.
