

Heard Heads Study Group

publican party has almost always had more funds available than the Democrats have had."

Bi-partisan Campaigns
One of the committee's major recommendations was the encouragement of private organizations to sponsor bi-partisan political fund raising activities.

As one example of this type of bi-partisan fund raising, Heard cited the plan of the Aero Jet Corp. in California during the 1958 and 1960 campaigns.

That corporation, he said, with the cooperation of the union, sponsored a fund raising drive in which the employees could keep their contributions secret.

19 Out Of 25 Gave
Candidates from both parties were allowed to speak during out-of-working hours and the corporation invited registrars to come to the plants (which is legal under California law).

"Out of 25,000 employees," Heard said, "19,000 contributed an average of $3.20 apiece, for a total of $60,000."

Heard believes this sort of drive will work wherever both the corporation and the union are assured that employees will be able to give freely, without pressure from either side.

Other Findings
Other major recommendations of the committee were:

1. Tax deductions for small contributors.
2. The elimination of Federal ceilings on expenditures and the establishment of an effective system of reporting campaign expenses.
3. The continued equal enforcement of prohibitions on direct contributions by corporations and labor unions.

"Some people feel that enforcement of this prohibition has not been strict enough on unions," Heard commented, "but the only indictments for violating of this statute have been against unions. It all depends on one's viewpoint."

Report Favorably Received
The recommendations of Heard's committee have received widespread bi-partisan support so far, and President Kennedy stated in his news conference that he would recommend legislation based on the committee's findings.

"Passage of legislation during this session of Congress," Heard stated, "will probably depend on what the President recommends, and when he submits it."

"The fact that our report was unanimous, and that it was a bi-partisan committee," he concluded, "should give our recommendations a good deal of weight."

TUESDAY CONCERT

University Chorus To Present 'Elijah'

The University Chorus, under the direction of Wilton Mason, will perform Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" in Hill Music Hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

For this concert the University Chorus will be joined by soloists Nell Wiseman and Martha Teachey, soprano, Virginia Johnson, contralto, Robert Williamson, tenor, and Bert Adams, baritone, who will be heard in the title role of the prophet Elijah. All of these singers and oratorios performed in this region and are well known to the musical public.

The "Elijah" is considered by musicians to be an ideal model of the dramatic oratorio. Alfred Einstein, the historian of the romantic era which produced the work, speaks of it as being a work of "the greatest stylistic purity, of the highest nobility, of the loftiest spirituality."

It served as a model for the English oratorio of the 19th century and its popularity has continued to the present day. It holds a firm place in the affections of public and performers, second only to Handel's "Messiah."

James Holmes, a graduate student in the music department, will be the organist for the performance. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

JACK LEMMON

'Cowboy' Film Stars Lemmon Ford, Donlevy

"Cowboy," starring Glenn Ford, Jack Lemmon, Anna Kashfi, and Brian Donlevy, will be tonight's Free Flick presentation. The West as it really was—the life-choking dust on the trails, the lashing brutality of the cowboy and his savage practical jokes, the authenticity, excitement and greatness that is the epic of the real American cowboy—have been brought to life in this technicolor production.

This is the real-life story of Frank Harris, young adventurer and would-be cowboy who bluffs a tough cow man into taking him on a cattle drive along the trail to Mexico and back. Outstanding performances by Glenn Ford as the hard-bitten rancher and Jack Lemmon as the tenderfoot make this picture giant-sized entertainment.

Showings will be in Carroll Hall at 7:30 and 9:30 and only students with ID cards will be admitted.

English Club Slates Poet Hardison

O. B. Hardison, Jr., poet and associate professor of English here, will read and discuss his own poetry Friday at 8 p.m. at the meeting of the English Club in the Carroll Hall lounge.

Dr. Hardison was one of three poets whose work was included in the 1959 volume published by Scribner's, "Poets of Today." His poems have appeared in a number of literary quarterlies and magazines, the latest contributions being to "Epos" and "Southern Poetry Today," edited by Guy Owen.

He is also editor of the just-published book "Modern Continental Literary Criticism," an Appleton-Century-Crofts publication. He joined the UNC faculty in 1957 and has a Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

McGuire at Newman Club
Former UNC basketball coach Frank McGuire will speak to the Newman Club Sunday night following a supper at 5:30 in the basement of St. Thomas More Church.

Women's Residence Council
Women's Residence Council will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Grail Room. All dorm presidents and sorority house members are required to attend.
