Shearing, Joan Baez To Show

Joan Baez, folk-singer, and George Shearing, internationally famous jazz pianist, are being brought to Memorial Hall this month by the GMAB.

Both concerts are free for UNC students with ID's. Spouses will have to pay $1, while everyone else will be charged $1.50 if there is any room left at 7:45.

Miss Baez, a widely travelled 20-year-old, will appear Wednesday night at 8:00. Her music (she accompanies herself on a guitar) has been enthusiastically accepted wherever she has appeared.

She was a big hit at the 1959 Newport Folk Festival and in the winter of 1960 toured Boston, New York, and Hartford with Lester Flat and Earl Scruggs.

George Shearing is an Englishman by birth but in jazz popularity polls he has been acclaimed the number one citizen (as far as jazz pianists are concerned) in the U.S., Japan, France, Australia, Germany, and South Africa, as well as in his native England.

Shearing, who will appear in Memorial Hall on May 16, is now a naturalized citizen of the U.S. and resides with his wife and daughter in Southern California when he is not on tour with his quintet or cutting records.

Stravinsky Discussed On TV Tonite

The third program in the series "Music Now" will be presented on WUNC-TV, Channel 4, tonight.

"Music Now" deals with the most important influences and trends in twentieth century music. It seeks to acquaint viewers with the reasons the various developments took place and why the results of these developments have made great difficulties for audiences.

Host for the series is Iain Hamilton, visiting Mary Duke Biddle Professor of Music at Duke University. Mr. Hamilton is a composer from London, England. In 1951 he received the Koussevitzky Foundation Award for his "Second Symphony." He also holds the Royal Academy of Music's "Dove Prize," and the Royal Philharmonic Society's Prize.

Recently, a program of three sonatas by Iain Hamilton was presented in Carnegie Recital Hall in New York. The New York Times said, "Mr. Hamilton is clearly an accomplished composer, and his music should be given more hearing in this city than it has in the past."

Tonight's program will deal with Stravinsky. Mr. Hamilton will show how Stravinsky tackled the problem of retaining tonality in new ways in his work and how he renewed the element of form and structure by use of classical procedures in neo-classical period.

Examples of Stravinsky's work will be performed by Julia Mueller, violin, and Ruth Friedberg, piano.

Where The Boys Are

ANYONE wishing to go to the beach between now and finals, but just can't seem to find the time can now find rest and relaxation at peaceful Winston Beach (closed Sunday until noon.) Co-eds are especially welcome.

ALSO PROGRAM PLANS

New GM Officers Announced

Bob Rearden, newly selected President of Graham Memorial, announced the names of the officers and chairmen of the Activities Board for the coming year. Rearden also announced plans for an expanded GM program.

The officers and chairmen selected by Rearden and officially confirmed by the Graham Memorial Board of Directors are as follows: Dan Moore, vice-president; Cecil Collins, secretary; Don Curtis, drama chairman; John Comp-ton, Free Flick; Jack Hill, music chairman; Nelson Irvine, publicity chairman; and Bill Seldem, social chairman.

Rearden stated that the various chairmen will be holding interviews for committee members next Tuesday and Wednesday from 3:00-5:00 p.m. A sign-up sheet for interview times will be placed at the GM Information Desk.

"I would like to urge every student who is interested in any of the Union activities to come by and sign up for an interview," Rearden said. "One of our biggest weaknesses during this past year was our shortage of committee members." More information on the committees and the interviews will be in Sunday's Tar Heel.

Rearden also announced plans for the installation of a new cinema scope screen for the Free Flicks.

Further expansion plans call for a weekly combo party, a weeklong dramatic workshop, all-campus weekend, and the revival of a Sound and Fury production.

Rearden stated that regular office hours will be maintained, and that all comments, criticisms, and suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

Legislature To Consider Fraternity Council Plan For Removal Of 80 Pct. Rule

AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Dr. J. C. Lyons Dies At 61

John Coriden Lyons, 61, professor of French and Italian at the University and author of volumes on the French Renaissance died at 2 a.m. Tuesday at the N. C. Memorial Hospital, after a long illness.

Dr. Lyons was Faculty Marshall in the University for over a quarter of a century and was a former President of the Faculty Club. He wrote and lectured extensively on his specialties, 16th and 17th century French literature and 14th and 15th century Italian literature, and was editor of "Eight French Classical Plays," and co-editor of "The Life and Work of DuBartas" and author of several textbooks in French language and literature.

Since 1923 when he first came to Chapel Hill, J. C. Lyons was a popular and gregarious member of the faculty and respected by

Money Bills Also Pending SL Approval

A resolution supporting the Interfraternity Council's plan for improving fraternity scholarship and the withdrawal of the 80% rule will be considered tonight by Student Legislature.

The resolution, introduced last week by Bob Jones, points out that the 80% rule, which provides that any house that does not have at least 80% of its members making a 2.0 average for two consecutive semesters loses rushing privileges, places the resulting financial burden primarily on those who made their grades.

Legislative approval will also be asked for a communication from the men's and women's honor councils which states the existing penalties. This is the first time that the penalties have been submitted for legislative approval.

An appropriation of $100 to be used to improve communication between legislators and their constituents will be asked in a bill introduced last week by Rufus Edmisten. The suggested use of the funds is for mimeographed communications from each legislator to be sent to his constituents.

George Rosenthal's bill to amend the 1962-63 budget by providing for a more equitable distribution of Daily Tar Heel salaries will be acted on tonight. Also to be considered is a bill to establish a campus travel committee which would coordinate and centralize travel programs offered by various student groups.

LAST LECTURE

John M. Schnorrberg, assistant professor of art, will deliver the Spring Last Lecture tonight at 8 in Carroll Hall. He will use slides to illustrate his subject, "The Last Enemy."

JFK's College Aid Program Clears Congressional Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's college aid program Wednesday cleared a congressional hurdle that had stymied it for three months.

The House Rules Committee voted 8-6 to let negotiations start with the Senate on a compromise higher education bill. This raised new hope among school aid backers for approval of some part of the President's education program this year.

At the same time, the committee voted 9-5 to defer action on a motion to send to the House floor a 10-year, $900 million bill to build new medical schools and provide federal loans to medical students.

This vote represented a turnaround as nine Democrats voted to defer action and five Republicans sought to push the bill.

Demos Unwilling

The Democrats apparently were unwilling to have two big-money bills, covering the same general subject, before the House at the same time. It was believed they would try to call up the medical school bill later.

The rules committee had held up a House-Senate conference on widely-differing versions of the college aid legislation since early February. It cleared the way to draft a compromise only after conservatives got assurances they would not be faced with an "all or nothing" choice on a much bigger bill than the House originally passed.

The school aid forces have been trying to set up a conference the Senate passed a $2.7 billion college construction and scholarship bill Feb. 6. On Jan. 30 the house approved a $1.5 billion bill calling for college construction only.

Noted Editor To Appear In Doubleheader

Two public appearances will be made here this weekend by Pulitzer Prize winning editor Lenoir Chambers of Norfolk, Va.

He will address the "Friends of the Library" Friday night, May 4, and the N. C. Conference of Editorial Writers on Saturday morning, May 5.

His topic at the annual library dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Carolina Inn is "The Pleasures of Authorship."

He recently completed a 2-volume work on the life of Stonewall Jackson.

For the editorial writers, Chambers will take part in a panel discussion on "Who Reads the Editorial Page?"

A long-time editor of the Virginian-Pilot in Norfolk, Va., Mr. Chambers retired last year. He has received an honorary degree from the University and was Commencement speaker last year. He is a native of Charlotte, a graduate of the University, once was director of the University News Bureau and a professor of journalism at Chapel Hill.

THE AMPHOTEROSEN Society inducted thirteen new members in an annual ceremony held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. Bill Whichard, Janus, and Dennis Rash, Recorder, were revealed as officers for the past year. The Society is the second oldest honorary society on campus, founded in 1912 by the late J. G. DeRoula, a UNC history professor. Originally a discussion and debating group, its function is now chiefly honorary.

Thirteen men are admitted each year on the basis of excellence in forensics and oratory. New initiates are the following: Hugh Ingram, Daniel McMullen, Armstrong III, Timothy Brooks Burnett, George Worth Campbell Jr., Allen Thompson Cronenberg Jr., Walter Estes Dellinger III, Henry Newton Patterson Jr., Peter Anthony Thompson, Dwight Wheless, Joe Oppenheimer, William Franklin Farrell, John Jay Dieffell Jr., John Curville Randall.
