Broome Is New YRC President

Bud Broome was elected President of the UNC Young Republican Club for 1962-63 at its last meeting for this academic year held Tuesday night. Also elected were: Win Sargent, First Vice-President; Clement Lucas, Second Vice-President; Ann Daniels, Secretary-Treasurer; and Mack Armstrong, Corresponding Secretary and Editor of the Newsletter.

Outgoing President Earl Baker spoke briefly to the group, expressing his appreciation of the effective work done by the members of the club and the executive committee, which resulted in the Carolina Club's being awarded the Outstanding YR Club in North Carolina.

He also encouraged the members to work during the summer and in the fall for the election of Republican Congressman.

Broome in his acceptance speech praised the work of Baker, and called upon the members for a continued effort during the coming elections.

He said, "Our membership goal for next year is to enlist at least 400 members, to help push onward with the goal of sound government in North Carolina under the GOP banner. The tide of sentiment against 'High Tax Terry' is on our side, and we shall be victorious."

DTH Print Shop Bill Considered By SL Tonight

Bill Would Set Up Fund To Buy Press, Print Shop For Newspaper

By HARRY DeLUNG

A print shop for the Daily Tar Heel will be considered in a bill to be acted on by Student Legislature tonight. The bill was introduced by George Rosental (SP, DM I) in early spring. It would appropriate $5,000 to establish a fund for the initial payment of the press and print shop and create a committee to investigate the feasibility of the purchase.

The bill points out that the present printing arrangement, using the Chapel Hill Weekly presses, leads to increased costs and restricts the publishing of last-minute news.

The bill stipulates that before any definite action is taken to establish a print shop, new legislation will be enacted to provide additional necessary funds.

$50 Asked
Fifty dollars is asked to improve communications between legislators and their constituents in a bill sponsored by Rufus Edmisten (SP, DM VI). The bill points out the necessity of the students being aware of what their legislature is doing.

A campus travel committee would be established by a bill authored by Bill Bowerman (SP, TM IV). The committee would act as a central agency to coordinate and publicize information about travel opportunities offered to students.

An appropriation of $60.70 is asked for delegates fees for the National Student Association regional conference which met on April 28 and 29. Larry McDevitt (UP, DM VI), who introduced the bill, said that the funds would be used to replenish the President's discretionary fund which supplied the money two weeks ago. Because legislature requires a week's consideration for appropriations of $10 or more, the necessary money was not available from the usual source in time.

Arthur Hayes' (SP, DM IV) bill to establish permanent bulletin boards at strategic locations on the campus is expected to be withdrawn.

Also to be withdrawn is George Rosental's bill to provide for more equitable salaries for Daily Tar Heel personnel.

Sports Publicity Head Killed In Auto Crash

Jake Wade Column Nationally Known

By Howard Wrench

The "Carolina Caravan" came to a sudden halt yesterday afternoon. Julius Jennings Wade, better known as "Jake" to thousands of followers of UNC sports, was killed in an automobile accident around 4 o'clock.

The accident occurred at Morrisville, eight miles outside Raleigh. Wade was on his way from Chapel Hill to Raleigh.

The cause of the accident had not been determined by prestime last night, but authorities said Wade may have suffered a heart attack.

Wade, 61, had been the University's sports news director since 1946, and was considered one of the foremost sportswriters in the country. His articles have appeared in several national magazines, including the Saturday Evening Post, and Collier's.

He worked as sports editor for the Charlotte Observer from 1930 to 1946, and for newspapers in Raleigh, Greensboro and Pittsburgh, Pa.

A graduate of UNC in 1923, he served as Editor of the Daily Tar Heel and was chosen for membership in the Order of the Golden Fleece.

His varied newspaper career not only brought him fame as a sports writer but also as news reporter, particularly in his coverage of sessions of the Legislature in Raleigh.

Wade did not confine his talents to the field of writing. He was co-founder of the Golden Gloves for the two Carolinas. He was the organizer and an officer of the Charlotte Quarterback Club. He was the first president of the Carolina Amateur Athletic Union.

His "Carolina Caravan" was known to sports fans across the country. Unlike most sports publicity writers, Wade was always the first to realize the weaknesses and defects of his own teams. This in no way indicated a lack of loyalty to his alma mater and to the UNC athletic teams—instead it indicated the honesty with which he wrote.

His office and Laurel Hill Road home here were a meeting place for former University athletes as well as sports writers who came to Chapel Hill to cover athletic events.

He gave an annual party for returning baseball players, held this year within the past two weeks, which attracted men who had played a ball side by side with Ruth, Cobb, and Gehrig.

Pete Ivey, Director of the University of North Carolina News Bureau, said, "Jake was generous to a fault, his hospitality knew no bounds, and his supply of cigars was endless."

Some of his articles best remembered by his readers include those on Carolina-Duke football games, "Dawn Patrol" and "I had a 16" golf columns, intimate little pieces that had nothing to do with sports.

Born on August 13, 1901, he was the son of James Jennings Wade and Sarah Maggie Wade.

He is survived by his wife, the former Hamlin Landis of Charlotte.

and their three children: two sons, Julius Jennings Wade, Jr. and Hamlin Wade; and one daughter, Mrs. James Roberts, of Chapel Hill, the former Carrie Maie Wade.

The Yackety Yack of 1923 said the following:

"Julius Jennings Wade, Dunn, N. C., Freshman Baseball Squad; Secretary-Treasurer, Class (2); Assistant Manager, Varsity Basketball; Associate Editor Tar Heel; Managing Editor, Editor in Chief of Tar Heel; Tar Baby Board; Founder and Editor of Carolina Boll Weevil; Varsity Football Squad; German Club; Shieks; Amphoterthen; Gingham; Golden Fleece; Pan-Hellenic Council."

It said further: "A gentleman by instinct, an athlete by hope, and a genius by nature—this is Julius Jennings Wade. This name, 'J. J. Wade' has appeared at the end of many literary productions and editorials for the past four years, but to everyone who has straggled about the campus he has been known as just 'Jake'."

"Jake has been engaged in several college activities and has attained a place of leadership in them all. It can justly be said he is one of our leaders. As a writer of considerable ability he will undoubtedly succeed in his chosen profession of journalism, which he aspires to make a stepping stone to even greater literary achievement."

Students Are Interviewed For IUS Meet

Rhodes Scholar Dennis Schaal was on campus Tuesday and Wednesday interviewing students who wish to attend Helsinki Youth Festival July 28-August 6 in Finland.

The Festival is being sponsored by the Communist-dominated International Union of Students, one of the two major international student groups.

Schaal, a graduate of Notre Dame, said "People who come to the Festival want to talk about politics, and we should be able to present our side of the picture." He feels American participation should not be suppressed.

The American delegation to the Festival is to be sponsored by donations from individuals and several organizations. Schaal said these are not Communist-supported organizations. "In fact," he said, "we are striving to encourage students of varied political backgrounds to attend."

This year's Festival is the seventh and the first to be held outside the Iron Curtain countries. The last Festival was held in Vienna several years ago and was attended by American students and teachers, including at least one person from UNC.

Student groups in neutral Finland have protested holding the Festival in Helsinki.

JFK Says Better Than 'Jaw-Jaw'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy said Wednesday the United States intends to continue its Berlin talks with Russia—even though they may fail—because it is better to "jaw-jaw than war-war."

Citing Sir Winston Churchill's famous phrase on the need for diplomatic discussions, the President said that every effort must be made to resolve the dangerous Berlin situation.

"We shall continue to jaw, jaw," he said, "and see if we can produce a useful result. 'We may fail, but in my opinion, the effort is worth it when we are dealing with such dangerous matters, and when we have seen the history of this century, when statesmen, leaders and others have brought about failure, and brought about war as a result.'"

Di-Phi Fireworks Explode Over Interracial Marriage

Parliamentary fireworks exploded in Di-Phi Hall Tuesday night as the society passed a resolution condemning state laws against interracial marriage and calling on the state legislature to abolish these laws.

In an often-heated five-hour session the debating society, oldest of its kind in the country, also set up a committee to study its constitution and inducted eleven new members.

The resolution condemning state laws against interracial marriage was introduced by Representative Bill Dowell of New Jersey. Before passage, the resolution was amended to the effect that "The society takes no position on the desirability of such so-called mixed marriages."

Speakers in favor of the resolution dominated debate with charges that the state law, a part of the North Carolina state constitution, denied individuals "a basic right—the right to choose one's mate as he sees fit."

Speakers against the resolution cited "detrimental effects" of mixed marriages on the children from such a union and claimed that the law was supported by a majority of the state's population.

Copies of the resolution, as amended, will be sent to Gov. Terry Sanford, all members of the state legislature, and several state and national newspapers. The resolution passed both in the vote of

NINE UP FOR APPROVAL

Legislature To Consider Committee Chairman Appointments This Evening

By BILL HOBBS

Student legislature's Ways and Means Committee Tuesday night recommended legislative approval of President Inman Allen's nine proposed student government committee chairmen. The legislature will vote on the appointments in its session tonight.

Dwight Wheless, defeated SP candidate for the student body presidency, heads the list of proposed chairmen. Allen has appointed him chairman of the State Affairs committee. This committee is charged with making UNC student wishes known to the state—a role which will take on special importance next year during the General Assembly's consideration of the UNC budget.

Wheless, who was presidential assistant under past president Bill Harris, has been a long-time participant in student government activities. The committee he will head if approved by the legislature worked toward the passage of the state bond issue during the past year.

Spearman For Communications
Bob Spearman, proposed chairman of the Communications Committee, has participated in several student government fields. Last fall, he was elected president of the Freshman class in a heated election. He is presently a member of the student legislature, having won with a double endorsement in Town Men's district I.

As Attorney General, Trawick "Buzzy" Stubbs will, if approved, direct the operations of the large Attorney General's staff, charged with the responsibility for investigating Honor Code and Campus Code offenses and providing legal advice for the Honor councils and all defendants.

Stubbs Staff Member
Stubbs, a past member of the Attorney General's staff, has served on the Academic Affairs committee, the International Students Board, and as treasurer of the YMCA.

The proposed chairman for the campus Affairs Board is Bob Clawson. Clawson has been a member of the Board for the past year. He has also served as an orientation counselor and a member of the University party.

DeLung To N.S.A.
Harry DeLung, a sophomore from Atlanta, Ga., is Allen's proposed National Student Association Co-ordinator. DeLung served last month as the chairman of UNC's delegation to the spring regional assembly of the N.S.A. in Belmont, N. C. He has also been a member of the N.S.A. committee for the past year, a member of the University Entertainment Committee, and Assistant to the Editors of the Daily Tar Heel.

Honor System Commission
The Honor System Commission, which has become more active this year after attacks on the honor system, will be headed by Tony Miller, a freshman member of Beta Theta Pi social fraternity. Miller has served on the Honor System Commission this year and has been a member of the Freshman Class finance committee. Miller said he would, if approved, attempt to present the honor system to high schools across the state.

Chuck Oberdorfer, a member of the business staff of the Daily Tar Heel, is Allen's appointee as student Associate Director of the Chapel Hill Merchant's Association. In this position he would keep student government and the student body informed of actions by the merchant's association and keep the association informed of student wishes.

Oberdorfer Committees
Oberdorfer has served on the library committee, the N.S.A. committee, and the campus communications committee.

Two positions created this February, those of Assistant attorney general for the Men's Council and assistant attorney general for the Women's Council, will be filled by Archie Davis and Robin Farr. If approved tonight they will represent the attorney general in investigations and procedures for the two councils respectively.

Davis has served this year on the Attorney General's staff and as an orientation counselor. Miss Farr has been a member of the student government executive committee and will serve next year as a committee chairman for the YWCA and a member of the women's orientation committee.

The legislature will meet tonight at 7:30 on fourth floor New East to consider Allen's appointments.

UNC Student Charged With Stealing Tire

UNC student Patrick May has been charged with larceny by Chapel Hill Police on a warrant sworn out by James Bowman, 211 W. Rosemary Street.

The warrant charges May with attempted theft of a tire that was leaning against Bowman's house. At 11:20 Tuesday night police received a report from Bowman that his daughter had seen a man prowling around his house. He went out to look and saw a man running away with the tire. Bowman shouted for him to stop and then fired a shotgun blast into the air when he kept running.

At 11:50 police received a report from May that someone had shot him. The "someone" proved to be Bowman.

May was admitted to the student infirmary where Dr. Harris said he suffered no serious permanent injury.

IN CIVIL RIGHTS

Senate Rejects Cloture

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate leadership suffered a decisive defeat Wednesday in its effort to halt debate on a voting rights bill. But it immediately set in motion the machinery for a new showdown Monday.

In a swift series of developments:—The Senate rejected 53 to 43—21 votes short of the required two-thirds margin—a petition to impose cloture and bring the measure up for an immediate vote.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield asked unanimous consent to put a nine-hour limit on further debate. Southern chief strategist Sen. Richard B. Russell blocked the move by objecting.

The bipartisan leadership promptly filed a new cloture petition.

Monday's vote could tell the tale for this second civil rights bill of the year. Mansfield has indicated that if cloture is voted down on the second try he will give up the fight until 1963.
