64 News Photos On Exhibition In Howell Hall

Sixty-four news photographers' pictures, chosen as "Pictures of the Year," are currently on exhibition at the School of Journalism in room 201, Howell Hall. The exhibit includes six pictures by George Honeycutt of the Charlotte News, who was chosen "News-paper Photographer of the Year." Other North Carolina news photographers having winning news photographs in the exhibit are: Don Sturkey, Charlotte Observer, with three pictures; Jeep Hunter of the Charlotte News with one picture; Don Hunter of the Charlotte News, one picture; and David C. Nance, Charlotte News, one picture. The 19th annual "Pictures of the Year" contest was sponsored by the National Newspaper Photographers Association, the World Book Encyclopedia, and the University of Missouri School of Journalism. The pictures will be kept in Howell Hall permanently.

Mitchener May Fill Council Vacancy

John A. Mitchener was appointed to fill a vacant seat on the Men's Honor Council yesterday by Inman Allen. The appointment went before the Student Legislature for approval late last night.

His appointment comes as a result of the resignation of one of the newly elected members.

Mitchener has served on the Honor Council for one year and he has served as chairman on several IDC committees. He was also vice president of the IDC Executive Council, is a member of the Society of Janus and has a 4-point average.

Other appointments which went before the Student Legislature for approval last night were: Jim Reston, chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee; Polly Hastings, chairman of the Elections Board; Bob Harwell, chairman of the Student Audit Board; Gerald Thornton, chairman of the Consolidated University Student Council; Fred Wedler, chairman of the International Students Board; Phil Smith, chairman of the Student Entertainment Board; Chuck Oberdorfer, chairman of the Student Credit Commission; and Margaret Goddard, chairman of the Library Committee.

Rebels Win New Defense Post In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — The Royal Laotian government said Thursday rebel troops supported by Chinese Communists have captured the defense post of Tha Fa and are driving loyal forces toward the Thailand border town of Ban Houei.

A communique issued by the defense ministry said Tha Fa, 20 miles from Ban Houei, fell after five hours of fighting and that the "Chinese pursuit continues" toward Ban Houei on the Mokong River.

U.N. military advisers in Laos have not confirmed the presence of Red Chinese troops although the Royal government frequently has reported their involvement in the Laotian fighting.

Foreign diplomats who visited the rebel capital of Khang Kay said the rebels are determined to keep fighting until they win control of the army and police forces in a coalition cabinet.

The government also announced that the defeated Nam Tha garrison is retreating rapidly and that Communists still are attacking Muong Nga, 35 miles north of the Royal capital of Luang Prabang, and have overwhelmed a government garrison near Pakson in southern Laos.

Both captured Nam Tha and threatened Ban Houei had formed the corner posts of a defense triangle also touching on Vientiane. Conquest of one or both threatened all of northwestern Laos.

Services Held This Morning For Sports Writer Jake Wade

Funeral services for Julius Jennings "Jake" Wade will be held this morning at 11 in the Church of the Holy Family at 200 Hayes Road in Glen Lenox. Burial services will follow immediately. Both services are open to the public and friends and admirers from all over the state are expected.

Jake Wade, former sports writer for the Charlotte Observer and most recently Sports News Director at UNC, his alma mater, died Thursday afternoon in an automobile accident between Chapel Hill and Raleigh. Whether he died as a direct result of the accident or because of a heart attack is still unknown.

Pallbearers at the funeral will be Charles Erickson, O. K. Cornwell, Jim Hickey, Walter Rabb, Dean Smith, Dale Ranson, Ernie Williamson and Richard Jamerston, all of which are on the Carolina athletic staff and friends of the late journalist.

Wade's family has requested that no flowers be sent. Instead they ask that any contributions be sent to the church.

Two Charlotte newspapermen, Julian Scheer and Bob Quincy, have donated funds to the UNC School of Journalism for a Jake Wade Scholarship.

Both Scheer and Quincy have sent checks to Dean Luxon of the Journalism School to start the fund from which worthy students planning a career of sports writing may be assisted and rewarded.

The Wade Scholarship will be awarded by the faculty of the Journalism School on the basis of ability and need.

JOAN BAEZ OFFSTAGE

Shy Pixie Believes True Folksinger Sings For Self

By CLYDE WILSON and JOHN SALTER

A small shy pixie of a girl haunted Memorial Hall Wednesday night with folk song ballads sung in a voice so sweet it should have hurt.

She was Joan Baez and she was just as shy and unaffected chattering in the lobby of the Carolina Inn as she was before the audience, and a little less pixie-ish.

"A folk song has to come from the person who is singing it," she said. "He has to sing for himself. If he sings just to make money it is not folk music."

Miss Baez is a purist. She sings folk songs without frills or attempts at "popularizing." The difference between commercialism and real folk music "depends on the intent of the individual," she said.

She sings without gesture or fanfare in what critics have described as "an achingly pure soprano." The songs seem to come effortlessly from her throat.

Her present chief interest is hill-billy music. "I could listen to that mountain fiddle all night," she said, mentioning Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs with whom she made her first tour.

"Earl is a wonderful man. I have seen him come home from a performance and sing for his children," she said. She named Pete Seeger, the Greenbriar boys, Bill Elliot, and Jimmy Driftwood as some of her favorites among folk singers.

Asked whether her ability to adopt perfectly the proper accent for the song she is singing comes naturally, she said, "I just listen to the music for a few minutes."

"I once sang rock 'n' roll in school—to make friends," said the Mexican-Irish girl who was born in Boston and lived in New York and California.

"I like college audiences, I guess because I can sing to people who are more nearly my age," she said. "And there are always a few older people who appreciate it." She is 21 years old.

She has been under great pressure to exploit her singing commercially she says. She only gives performances for two months in the year.

Reminded that she had been very hard to find, Miss Baez looked at her companion and smiled shyly. "We sneaked off to see the Duke campus," she confessed. "It's lovely."

We asked Miss Baez, who moves and talks with a natural grace, if she had ever had a problem with stage fright.

"Oh, yes!" she answered. "It was a nice interview," she said as we left.

Phi Beta Kappa Initiates 49 Undergraduates

Doug Fambrough With A Average Named President Of Honor Group

Forty-nine Carolina undergraduates—including a junior with a straight A average—last night were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa. Douglas McIntosh Fambrough of Chapel Hill was automatically named incumbent president of the select honor society during rites held in the Di-Phi Hall. His A average was the highest of the new members.

Frederick Hailey Croom of Maxton, who has the second highest average among the juniors, a 2.96 average under the 3-point quality point scale, was named incumbent vice president.

The size of the new membership was "just about normal," according to Dr. E. L. Mackie, the organization's faculty advisor. Thirteen of the new members are juniors who have a 3.6 quality-point average, he said. Seniors are required to have a 3.3 average.

The new junior initiates include: Frederick Randolph Anderson Jr., Rutherfordton; Daniel McMullen Armstrong, Rogersville, Tenn.; Robert Ervin Cunningham Jr., Greensboro, and Gloria DiConstanzo, Chapel Hill.

Jonathan David Fraley Jr., Lehigh; Howard Glenn Garner, Greenville; Michael James Rhodes, Greensboro; Carl Douglas Rhodes Jr., Leaksville; William Ross Sullivan, Knoxville, Tenn.; Scott Dean Ward, Zirconia, and James Alvin Yount, Claremont.

The senior class members: Ronnie Nelson Anderson, Winston-Salem; Charles Landis Bennett, Raleigh; Robert Hodges Bilbro, Greenville; Doris Alexander Blazer, Chapel Hill and Charles Steven Bolick, Wadesboro.

Betti Brown, Jackson, Miss.; Henrietta Bo Brown, Hillsboro; Sandra Leigh Bryan, Raleigh; John Hendrik Calmeyer, Chapel Hill; Johnson Burns Clinard, Winston-Salem; Alexandra Lenore Eckoldt, Maplewood, N. J., and Grover Woodrow Everett Jr., Greenville.

Thomas K. Fitzgerald, Lexington; Robert Parker Foxworth, Raleigh; David John Goode, Winston-Salem; Roderic Boyd Griffin, Roxboro; Sandra Frances Hoke, Charlotte; Stephen Edward Kesler, Kings Mountain, and Benjamin Franklin Lenhardt Jr., Greenville, S. C.

Cordelia Kay Knight Mazuy, Carrboro; Jon Michael McClister, Bristol, Tenn.; Edwin Gray Mendenhall, Sanford; Arthur Jesse Merrill Jr., Atlanta, Ga.; Glen Robert Moore, Raleigh, and Martha Ann Myers, Pfafftown.

Margaret Karen Nelson, Starkville, Miss.; George Thompson Noel III, Kannapolis; Martha Elizabeth Parker, Asheville; James Barry Pittleman, Washington, D. C.; Nicholas Dick Reppucci, Hollywood, Fla.; Robert English Sevier, Asheville, and Robert Glenn Sherer Jr.,

Dothan, Ala. James Curtis Stalker, Louisville, Ky.; Vivian Jonanne Taylor, Wilson; Virginia Page Temple, High Point, and Willis Howard Williams, Robbins. Following the initiation Dr. Harold Hotelling of the Statistics Department addressed the organization at a banquet held in Lenox Hall.

CWC-Pan-Hel To Sponsor Melon Feast

A Watermelon Cut, co-sponsored by the Carolina Women's Council and the Panhellenic Council, will be held on May 17 for all university women students.

"As far as we know this is the first event that has been held for all the women on campus, and Panhellenic felt it was time for everyone to get together," said Julie Latane, projects chairman for Panhellenic. "There will be no men allowed!" she added. "And I hope all campus women will take advantage of this unique get-together."

The Panhellenic Council is supplying the watermelons for the event which will be held from three to five on McIver lawn, or in case of rain in the Tin Can. Dress will be informal and Women's Residence Council has given permission for girls to cross campus in bermudas without a raincoat for this event.

Music and entertainment will be provided for the Cut, according to Julie. "If this event is successful and we hope it will be, we want the Watermelon Cut to become an annual project."

CWC President Shelby Purser has urged that all dormitories give their utmost support to this event. "The purpose of the project is to unite all women students on campus," said Shelby. "and CWC feels that in this way communication between those women living in dorms and those living in sorority houses should be strengthened."

Of the 1200 women students on campus, Shelby expressed a desire that at least 800 come to the Watermelon Cut and "take a good break before exams."

Student Party

There will be an important meeting of the SP in the TV room at GM Monday, April 14 at 8:00 p.m. The purpose of the meeting is to elect members of the Advisory Board. It is imperative that all members come.

Senior Alumni Officers Announced At Party Tonight

Wise Seniors Go Barefoot Today, But No Free Cuts

Seniors took advantage of their free cuts yesterday morning and attended a mass meeting in Memorial Hall to select their permanent officers.

In the afternoon the senior class was treated to a party at the Patio with Doug Clark's "The Hot Nuts" Combo supplying the entertainment. Reduced rates on beer and good "twisting" were the bill for the '62 grads.

Today will be "Barefoot Day" for seniors and the two "senior days" will be culminated at tonight's Hoenig's Cabin party. No free cuts will be allowed today.

Presiding at the class meeting was Senior Class President Ray Farris who introduced the other Senior Class officers Ward Marslander, Wade Hargrove and Kathy Fulemwidder.

Farris then introduced Bob Bilbro, chairman of the Class Gift Committee. Bilbro announced that the committee recommended a donation of approximately $600 to furnish a memorial room in the new student union. A move to accept the recommendation was made by Bill Harris and the motion was unanimously passed.

Bill Shipp then explained the function of the Alumni Association and asked that as many seniors as possible join the association for the initial fee of $1.
