Wolfpack Shocks Carolina's Tar Heels, 7-6

Post-Game Scuffle Sends UNC Senior To Hospital

By Tar Heel Staff

A post-game scuffle between UNC and N.C. State students over possession of the goalposts put a 23-year-old UNC senior in Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Ronald A. Randle, UNC student from Havelock, was one of two students thrown over a two-and-a-half foot high wire fence by a pair of Chapel Hill policemen who intervened in the fracas.

About five minutes after State won the 7-6 game, a small group of State students came over to the Carolina side of Kenan Stadium with a section of the goalpost to taunt Carolina students. A group of UNC students, of which Randle was a member, came forward and took the pipe sections away from the State group.

When a fight broke out between the two forces, Chapel Hill patrolman Howard Pendergraph and detective George Penny tried to stop it. According to a police report, one of the policemen was trying to separate two brawlers when Randle approached him from behind, as if to slug him in the back of the neck. He was then seized and placed on the other side of the fence, police said.

Police Chief Charles Blake said that the police had acted only to separate the brawlers, and not to injure any of them. Blake said that Randle had sustained his bloody nose in the fighting, and not as a result of being thrown over the fence.

The Chief also said that Randle was held in the hospital not because of his injury, but because he was in "a very intoxicated condition."

In reply to police questioning, Randle said that the score of the game was seven to nothing (it was 7-6) and that he had left the stadium before the game was over.

Randle's fraternity brother gave the following account:

"There was a ruckus on the Carolina side and Randle and I ran over to see what was going on. When we got there, the policeman took somebody and threw him over the fence. Randle and I were there and as far as I know, nothing happened between him and the police. But they picked him up and threw him over. He never regained consciousness. As far as I know he landed on his head. I blamed the police for throwing him over the fence and they got around at me."

The police said that when Randle was placed over the fence, he landed on his feet, stumbled forward, and fell. They said his fall was probably due to his intoxication.

1st Southern Meet In Slav Study Set

The first annual meeting of the Southern Conference on Slave Studies will be held October 5 and 6 here and at Duke University.

Organizers of this first conference are: UNC Professors Clifford M. Foust, Department of History; Robert A. Rupen, Department of Political Science; and James H. Blackman, Department of Economics; Jordan Kurland of Woman's College; Kermit E. McKenzie of Emory University and Warren Lerner Bronislas de Leval Jerzierski, and John S. Curtiss, of Duke University. Prof. Curtiss serves as chairman of the Temporary Organization Committee.

Arpad von Lazar, a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Political Science, will represent the University as one of the eight speakers at conference sessions. Von Lazar will speak on "Decompression in Totalitarian Control: Problems of Stability in the Communist Bloc" at a panel on "Politics and Economics in the Soviet World," which meets Saturday, Oct. 6, at 9 a.m. in the Faculty Seminar Room in Carroll Hall on the UNC campus.

Vladimir G. Trembl of Franklin and Marshall College will discuss "The 1959 Input-Output Study as an Aspect of Soviet Planometries" at this session.

A featured guest speaker of the conference is Gerold T. Robinson, Seth Low Professor Emeritus of the Russian Institute, Columbia University. Prof. Robinson will give the banquet address Friday, Oct. 5, in the Old Trinity Room on the Duke campus.

Law School Freshmen Hear Avery

An address by Mr. Isaac T. Avery of Statesville, President of the North Carolina Bar Association, highlighted the final orientation program for Freshman students in the UNC Law School Friday night in the Manning Hall courtroom.

Mr. Avery's talk about the practical aspects and responsibilities of being a lawyer followed Dean Brandis' formal introduction of the entire law school faculty to the students. A reception for students sponsored by the Law Wives Association, followed in the Law Library.

Charles Katzenstein, vice-president of the Law Association, served as master of ceremonies for the speaking program which was conducted by the law student orientation committee.

Meeting Space At Graham Memorial

All groups desiring meeting space in Graham Memorial this year must reapply as soon as possible. There will be no carry-over reservations from last year.

Carolina Quarterly

The Carolina Quarterly will hold an organizational meeting for all interested students at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Roland Parker 3 on the second floor of Graham Memorial. Editor Louis Borne said some top positions are still open and enthusiasm, rather than experience, is the prime requisite. The Carolina Quarterly is the University's oldest literary magazine.

Lutheran Student Association

The Lutheran Student Association will hold its first meeting tonight at 6 p.m. in the church basement. The program will concern an introduction to the LSA.

UNC Professor's Book Published

While Dr. A. P. Hudson, Kenon Professor of English and Folklore at UNC, was tape-recording the old-fashioned "Christian Harmony" singing in Dutch Cove last week, the University of Georgia Press published his latest book, "Folklore Keeps the Past Alive."

"Folklore Keeps the Past Alive" contains the Lamar Memorial Lectures which Dr. Hudson delivered at Mercer University, Macon, Ga., last fall. In the first lecture, Professor Hudson illustrates his theme by a study of two old songs, one remembered from his boyhood in Mississippi, the other recovered from oral tradition in Chapel Hill. In the following lecture which constitute chapters in his book, he shows how history is treated in folksongs of the South and how folksongs are woven into contemporary American poetry and fiction.

Yack Meeting

Yackety-Yack Editor Louis Legum has announced a staff organization meeting Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in Roland Parker Room 1 at Graham Memorial. Extensive plans will be discussed for the '62-'63 yearbook, and Legum encourages anyone interested in working on the Yack, no matter whether freshman or inexperienced, to attend this meeting.

Class pictures for the Yackety-Yack will be taken September 24-25 for the following students only: Seniors, third-year law students, and fourth-year medical students.

Men should wear a dark tie, coat and white shirt; girls, black sweater with pearls.

A new yearbook policy has made it mandatory that pictures be completed on schedule, and late pictures, with or without fees, cannot be guaranteed.

There will be a meeting in Second floor Y-Court Wednesday at 7:30 for the purpose of organizing the 1963 U.N. Mock Assembly. The annual fete, which draws some 60 schools from 12 states, will be held in February, according to Secretary General Hugo Spechar.

State Finds Replacement For Gabriel

North Carolina's Blues came to life late in the fourth quarter yesterday, marched 88 yards in ten plays for their only touchdown, but lost to N. C. State, 7-6, on a missed extra point kick. The Wolfpack from Raleigh had taken a 7-0 lead in the third quarter on halfback Joe Scarpati's five-yard run off left tackle. Scarpati's touchdown climaxed a 67-yard State drive which took only ten plays.

Roger Moore then kicked the extra point which decided the 52nd contest between the sister institutions.

Bob Lacey scored the touchdown which put UNC back in the contest, momentarily. The 6-3, 209-pound junior end took a 30-yard pass from Junior Edge on the two-yard line and stepped into the end zone. Lacey got behind State's defender, Scarpati, and Edge hit him with an "up-the middle" pass.

Kick Fails

But Edge's extra point attempt was wide to the left and State College had its fifth victory in seven years against Carolina.

The Consolidated University opponents battled to a scoreless tie in the first half. Carolina's first-half downfall was not taking advantage of several breaks. State was penalized 60 yards in the first half, Carolina only five but UNC's first downs number: 1 only three.

The Tar Heels won the toss and elected to receive the kick-off before Kenan Stadium's packed house of 42,000.

Ronnie Jackson, a 5-8, 165-pound sophomore halfback took the kick on the one and returned it to the 21. Roger Smith, Ken Willard and an Edge-to-Smith pass netted only five yards and the Tar Heels, favored by seven points, were forced to punt.

Edge punted for 33 yards, but the speedy Scarpati returned it 15 yards to the Carolina 43-yard line. State lost two yards in three plays, but then a quick kick by fullback Dave Houtz caught Jim Hickey's men by surprise and stuck them in their own territory for most of the half. The ball rolled dead on the UNC 14.

State took over on its own 35 late in the quarter and in ten plays, carrying over into the second stanza, had advanced to the Carolina 16—the deepest penetration by either team in the first 30 minutes.

On the first play of the quarter, signal-caller Jim Rossi—one of the two quarterbacks hoping to fill Roman Gabriel's shoes—carried seven yards to the 16. On the next play State was penalized 15 yards for clipping.

Ole Miss Fight Continues; Possible Showdown Monday

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UPI)—Legal strategists for the federal government worked against a tight deadline Saturday in their efforts to get Negro James Meredith admitted to the University of Mississippi before registration closes at 5:30 p.m. EST Monday.

Government attorneys lost one bid in a U. S. District Court at Meridian, Miss., Friday, but another vital round is scheduled here Monday before the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeals court hearing will be one of the most unusual in the court's history, an informed source told United Press International Saturday.

It will involve all nine of the court's judges sitting en banc on the bench, and oral arguments will be heard, ever in the recent history of the court have all nine judges devoted their attention to one case, and usually when the court sits en banc all cases are submitted orally.

Unusual Arrangement

The unusual arrangement, the source said, was evidence of the importance the government attaches to the hearing.

The government will ask the appeals court to return contempt judgments against Mississippi's 13-man State College Board on grounds that board members defied federal court orders in not admitting Meredith to the university last Thursday.

A similar judgment requested against the chancellor, registrar and dean of "Ole Miss" was denied by a district court at Meridian Friday on grounds that the three officials were powerless to act other than they did. The Justice Department, however, said they would include the three officials in the appeals court action.

Medgar Evers, field secretary of the NCCAP in Mississippi, said Saturday that despite the district court ruling "we feel we are winning. The fight is only half over."

LICENSE EXAM

The North Carolina State Examining Committee of Physical Therapists announces that the fall examination for licensure to practice physical therapy in North Carolina will be given in Chapel Hill on Friday, October 19th.
